PART 73—RADIO BROADCAST SERVICES

Subpart G—Emergency Action Notification System and the Emergency Broadcast System

In the matter of amendment of Subpart G of Part 73 of the Commission's rules and regulations—Emergency Broadcast System (EBS):

1. The Commission has before it for consideration the amendment of Subpart G of Part 73 of the Commission's rules and regulations governing the operation of the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS).

2. The National Industry Advisory Committee (NIAC) has forwarded the first revision of the Basic Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) plan to the Commission for approval. The revision incorporates into the Plan the provisions of a Presidential Memorandum of December 21, 1966 to his Armed Forces Aide directing that in the event an enemy attack has been detected, the White House Communications Agency (WHCA) shall be authorized to activate the EBS and the Office of Civil Defense (OCD) shall be authorized to follow with the dissemination of appropriate warning messages. Since the EBS may possibly be activated where no enemy attack has been detected, the revision provides for the broadcast of an Emergency Action Notification message either with or without an OCD attack warning message.

3. The present Basic EBS Plan provides for activation of the EBS during a "war, threat of war, state of public peril or disaster, or other national emergency." The first revision changes the above-quoted language to provide for activation during a "grave national crisis or war."

4. Additionally, the revision provides national level guidelines for the development of Detailed State EBS Operational Plans; incorporates the concept of assigning operational designations (primary, alternate, primary relay, or alternate relay) to specific National Defense Emergency Authorization (NDEA) stations; and effects numerous editorial changes which serve to clarify the meaning and objectives of the Basic EBS Plan. The revised EBS Plan has been approved by the Commission.

5. There is a need to amend Subpart G of Part 73 of the rules and regulations to reflect those changes in the Emergency Action Notification System and the Emergency Broadcast System which have been effected in the first revision of the Basic EBS Plan.

6. Since the prompt amendment of Subpart G of Part 73 of the rules and regulations is necessary for purposes of national defense, compliance with the notice, public procedure, and effective date requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 would be contrary to the public interest.

7. The authority for the rules adopted herein is contained in sections 1, 4(i), and 303(r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and Executive Order 11092;

It is ordered, That effective August 4, 1967, Subpart G of Part 73 of the Commission's rules and regulations is amended as set forth in the Appendix below.

(Secs. 1, 4, 303, 48 Stat., as amended, 1064, 1066, 1082; 47 U.S.C. 151, 154, 303, and E.O. 11092 of Feb. 26, 1963)

Adopted: June 28, 1967.

Released: July 6, 1967.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,[1]

Subpart G—Emergency Action Notification System and the Emergency Broadcast System

SCOPE AND OBJECTIVES

§ 73.901 Scope of subpart.

This subpart provides for an Emergency Action Notification System for all licensees and regulated services of the Federal Communications Commission and the general public, and for an Emergency Broadcast System (EBS). This subpart applies to all broadcast stations governed by this part within any State, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the possessions of the United States, but not those stations located in the Canal Zone.

[1] Commissioner Johnson absent.

§ 73.902 Objectives of subpart.

The objectives of this subpart are to provide an expeditious means for the dissemination of an Emergency Action Notification (with or without an Attack Warning) to licensees and regulated services of the Federal Communications Commission and to the general public during conditions of a grave National crisis or war and to provide for an Emergency Broadcast System (EBS), which would be activated upon release of an Emergency Action Notification by direction of the President of the United States. The Emergency Broadcast System provides for controlled operation of broadcast stations subject to this part, on a voluntary organized basis, to provide the President and the Federal Government, as well as State and local governments, with an expeditious means of communicating with the general public during an Emergency Action Condition.

DEFINITIONS

§ 73.905 Emergency Action Notification System and the Emergency Broadcast System Implementation System.

The system by which all licensees and regulated services of the Federal Communications Commission, and the general public, are notified (with or without an Attack Warning) of the existence of an Emergency Action Condition resulting from a grave national crisis or war. The Emergency Action Notification System and the Emergency Broadcast System Implementation System consist only of the following approved facilities, systems, and arrangements:

(a) First Method. From the President of the United States via the White House Communications Agency to the Associated Press (AP) and United Press International (UPI); thence via automatic selective switching and teletype Emergency Action Notification to all standard, FM, and television broadcast and other stations subscribing to the AP and UPI Radio Wire Teletype Networks.

(b) Second Method. From the President of the United States via the White House Communications Agency to specified control points of the nationwide commercial Radio and Television Broadcast Networks, the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and other specified points via a dedicated teletypewriter network; thence to all affiliates via any available internal commercial radio and television network alerting facilities.

(c) Third Method. Off-the-air monitoring of specified standard, FM, and television broadcast stations by standard, FM, and television broadcast stations and other licensees and regulated services for receipt of the Emergency Action Notification. All broadcast licensees are required to install, maintain, and operate radio receiving equipment for receipt of the Emergency Action Notification.

(d) Fourth Method. Off-the-air monitoring of standard, FM, and television broadcast stations by the general public who are listening or viewing or whose radio or television receivers are equipped for actuation by the Attention Signal to receive the Emergency Action Notification.

§ 73.906 Attention signal.

The signaling arrangement transmitted by all standard, FM, and television broadcast stations for the purpose of actuating muted standard, FM, and television receivers.

§ 73.907 Emergency Action Notification.

The Emergency Action Notification is the notice (with or without an Attack Warning) to all licensees and regulated services of the Federal Communications Commission and to the general public of the existence of an Emergency Action Condition. The Emergency Action Notification is released upon direction of the President of the United States and is disseminated only via the Emergency Action Notification System.

§ 73.908 Emergency Action Condition.

The Emergency Action Condition is the period of time between the transmission of an Emergency Action Notification and the transmission of the Emergency Action Condition Termination.

§ 73.909 Emergency Action Condition Termination.

The Emergency Action Condition Termination is the notice to all licensees and regulated services of the Federal Communications Commission and to the general public of the termination of an Emergency Action Condition. The Emergency Action Condition Termination is released upon direction of the President of the United States and is disseminated only via the Emergency Action Notification System.

§ 73.910 Emergency Broadcast System (EBS).

The Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) is a system of facilities and personnel of nongovernment broadcast stations and other authorized facilities licensed or regulated by the Federal Communications Commission, including approved and authorized integral facilities or systems, arrangements, procedures, and interconnecting facilities, which have been authorized by the Commission to operate in a controlled manner during a grave national crisis or war.

§ 73.911 Basic Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Plan.

The Basic Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Plan is a plan containing, among other things, approved basic concepts and designated national-level systems, arrangements, procedures, and interconnecting facilities to satisfy the White House Statement of Requirements for Presidential Messages and National Programing and News. Provision is made therein for the development, designation, and approval of facilities, mutually compatible operational arrangements, procedures, and interconnecting facilities to satisfy the Department of Defense (Office of Civil Defense) statement of requirements for the dissemination of emergency information and instructions by Regional, State, and Operational Area (Local) authorities in addition to Presidential Messages and National Programing and News, as set forth above.

§ 73.912 NIAC Order.

A NIAC Order is a service order previously filed with the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., providing for approved arrangements for program origination reconfiguration of the major commercial Radio and Television (aural) Broadcast Networks (except UPI Audio) voluntarily participating in the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS). Broadcast networks presently participating are American Broadcasting Co. (ABC), Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS), Mutual Broadcasting System (MBS), National Broadcasting Co. (NBC), Intermountain Network (IMN), and the United Press International Audio (UPI). Any NIAC Order must meet White House requirements and may be activated only when requested by the White House Communications Agency in accordance with approved established procedures.

§ 73.913 National Defense Emergency Authorization (NDEA).

A National Defense Emergency Authorization (NDEA) is an authorization issued by the Federal Communications Commission only to the licensees of broadcast stations subject to the provisions of this part to permit controlled operation of such stations, as well as associated auxiliary broadcast stations subject to Part 74 of this chapter, on a voluntary organized basis during an Emergency Action Condition, consistent with the provisions of this subpart and the Basic Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Plan, including the annexes and supplements to that plan. A broadcast station licensee will be issued a National Defense Emergency Authorization only in accordance with the Criteria for Eligibility set forth in the Basic Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Plan, which will remain valid concurrently with the term of the broadcast station license, so long as the station licensee continues to comply with the Criteria for Eligibility.

§ 73.914 Primary Station National Defense Emergency Authorization (NDEA).

A Primary Station National Defense Emergency Authorization is the authorization issued to one or more broadcast station licensees in an Operational Area assigning such licensees the responsibility for broadcasting a common emergency program for the initial period of, or for the duration of, an Emergency Action Condition. Broadcasts by such stations are intended for direct public reception in an Operational Area, as specified in an approved Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plan.

§ 73.915 Alternate Station National Defense Emergency Authorization (NDEA).

An Alternate Station National Defense Emergency Authorization is the authorization issued to one or more broadcast licensees in an Operational Area assigning such licensees as specified alternates. An Alternate station will assume broadcasting responsibility in accordance with the Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plan.

§ 73.916 Primary Relay National Defense Emergency Authorization (NDEA).

A Primary Relay National Defense Emergency Authorization is the authorization issued to one or more broadcast licensees in an Operational Area assigning such licensees the function of emergency program distribution on relay service of emergency programing to stations holding Primary or Alternate Station National Defense Emergency Authorizations, in accordance with an approved Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plan. A Relay station will not generally broadcast emergency program material intended for direct public reception.

§ 73.917 Alternate Relay National Defense Emergency Authorization (NDEA).

An Alternate Relay National Defense Emergency Authorization is the authorization issued to one or more broadcast licensees in an Operational Area assigning such licensees as specified alternates to stations holding Primary Relay National Defense Emergency Authorizations. In the event a Primary Relay station is unable to assume its initial operational functions, or discontinues such operation for any reason, an Alternate Relay station will assume those operational functions, in accordance with the "alternate" designations (1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, etc.) contained in an approved Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plan.

§ 73.918 Non-NDEA Station.

A Non-NDEA Station is a broadcast station which is not voluntarily participating in the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) and does not hold a National Defense Emergency Authorization. Such stations are required to discontinue operations for the duration of an Emergency Action Condition.

§ 73.919 Detailed Regional Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plan.

A detailed Regional Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plan is a plan providing for a regional emergency programing origination capability at the Federal Regional Center in coordination with the State Industry Advisory Committees and integrated into the Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plans within the Federal Region as a coordinated Regional/State operation. Such a plan shall be in conformity with the provisions of this subpart and the Basic Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Plan and shall be considered a supplement thereto.

§ 73.920 Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plan.

A detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plan is a plan containing the designation of facilities approved detailed mutually compatible operational arrangements, procedures, instructions, and interconnecting facilities to satisfy the requirements of the President and the Federal Government, as well as State and Operational Area (Local) authorities for communicating with the general public during an Emergency Action Condition. Such a plan includes approved and authorized detailed emergency operational communications facilities, systems, procedures, and interconnecting systems. It shall be in conformity with the provisions of this subpart and the Basic Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Plan and shall be considered a supplement thereto.

§ 73.921 Operational Area.

An Operational Area is a geographical area which may encompass a number of contiguous communities, as mutually determined by the State Industry Advisory Committee and State authorities, and as delineated in the approved Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plan.

§ 73.922 Common Program Control Broadcast Station.

A Common Program Control Broadcast Station is a Primary NDEA broadcast station in each Operational Area assigned the responsibility for coordinating the operations for the broadcasting of the common program for the Operational Area. In the event a Common Program Control Broadcast Station is unable for any reason to carry out this responsibility, other Primary and Alternate broadcast stations in the Operational Area will be assigned as the Common Program Control Broadcast Station in progressive order, as set forth in the approved Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plan.

EMERGENCY ACTIONS

§ 73.931 Notification of Emergency Action Condition.

(a) Authority for release of the Emergency Action Notification rests solely with the President of the United States. This authority has not been delegated, except as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) Under the President's responsibility to activate the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS), he has directed that in the event an enemy attack has been detected, the White House Communications Agency shall be authorized to activate the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) and the Office of Civil Defense shall be authorized to follow with the dissemination of appropriate warning messages.

(c) The Emergency Action Notification will be released by direction of the President and will be disseminated only via the Four Methods of the Emergency Action Notification System in one of the following two forms:

(1) The Emergency Action Notification only without Attack Warning Message.

(2) The Emergency Action Notification with Attack Warning Message.

§ 73.932 Emergency Action Notification Procedures.

All broadcast stations are to be furnished complete instructions on color coded cards (yellow, white, red, blue). Each card specifies the procedure to be followed (Texts of these cards are included in Annex V of the EBS Plan). Immediately upon receipt of an Emergency Action Notification (yellow card), all standard, commercial FM, and noncommercial educational FM broadcast stations with a transmitter output of over 10 watts, and television broadcast stations, including all such stations operating under equipment or program test authority, will proceed as set forth in paragraph (a) or (b) of this section, as applicable:

(a) Receipt of the Emergency Action Notification without Attack Warning:

(1) Discontinue normal program and follow the detailed transmission procedures set forth on the White Card entitled "Broadcast Message" EAN-1. This White Card has been furnished to all licensed broadcast stations for posting in all studios and broadcast operating positions.

(2) Upon completion of these detailed transmission procedures, all licensed broadcast stations which do not hold a National Defense Emergency Authorization (NDEA) shall discontinue operation for the duration of the Emergency Action Condition.

(b) Receipt of the Emergency Action Notification with Attack Warning:

(1) Discontinue normal program and follow the detailed transmission procedures set forth on the Red Card entitled "Broadcast Message" EAN-2. This Red Card has been furnished to all licensed broadcast stations for posting in all studios and broadcast operating positions.

(2) Upon completion of these detailed transmission procedures, all licensed broadcast stations which do not hold a National Defense Emergency Authorization (NDEA) shall discontinue operation for the duration of the Emergency Action Condition.

(c) A station which normally broadcasts a substantial part of its programing in a language other than English may broadcast the required announcements as well as EBS programing, in such foreign language sequentially with the broadcast in English, provided such station has been authorized to do so as part of an approved Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plan.

(d) Noncommercial educational FM broadcast stations with a transmitter power output of 10 watts or less will, upon receipt of an Emergency Action Notification, interrupt the program in progress and broadcast the appropriate Emergency Action Notification Message as provided in paragraph (a) of this section, but without the transmission of the Attention Signal. Such stations will then discontinue operation and maintain radio silence in accordance with the Basic Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Plan.

(e) International broadcast stations will cease broadcasting immediately upon receipt of an Emergency Action Notification and will maintain radio silence in accordance with the Basic Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Plan.

§ 73.933 Radio monitoring requirement.

(a) In order to ensure the effectiveness of the Third Method Emergency Action Notification System, all broadcast station licensees must install and operate during their hours of broadcast operation equipment capable of receiving Emergency Action Notifications or Terminations transmitted by other radio broadcast stations. This equipment must be maintained in operative condition, including arrangements for human listening watch or automatic alarm devices, and shall have its termination at each transmitter control point. However, where more than one broadcast transmitter is controlled from a common point by the same operator, only one set of equipment is required at that point.

(b) The off-the-air monitoring assignment of each standard, FM, and television broadcast station is specified in the Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plan. Particular attention should be paid to avoiding "closed loops" in monitoring assignments.

(c) Prior to commencing routine operation or originating any emissions under program test, equipment test, experimental, or other authorizations or for any other purpose, licensees or permitees shall first ascertain whether an Emergency Action Condition exists and, if so, shall operate only in accordance with the Basic Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Plan and Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Plan.

§ 73.934 Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) operation during an Emergency Action Condition.

Following completion of the procedures set forth in § 73.932, and upon receipt of emergency programming, authorized participating broadcast stations will immediately begin operations in accordance with the approved Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plan, as follows:

(a) Primary NDEA stations within an Operational Area will, upon cue from the Common Program Control Broadcast Station, begin broadcast of a common program consisting of either Presidential Messages, State programing, Operational Area (local) programing, National programing and news, or Regional programing in the order or priority indicated, consistent with the provisions of the Basic Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Plan and the Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plan.

(b) Alternate NDEA Stations within an Operational Area will stand by in a state of operational readiness to begin operation to broadcast a common program upon cue from a Primary or Alternate NDEA station which is discontinuing operation for any reason, or has discontinued operation with no advance notice, consistent with the provisions of the Basic Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Plan and the Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plan.

(c) Primary Relay NDEA Stations will begin emergency program relay and distribution service in accordance with the provisions of the Basic Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Plan and the Detailed Regional and State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plans.

(d) Alternate Relay NDEA Stations will stand by in a state of operational readiness to begin emergency program relay and distribution service upon cue from a Primary Relay or Alternate Relay NDEA station which is discontinuing operation for any reason, or has discontinued operation with no advance notice, consistent with the provisions of the Basic Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Plan and the Detailed Regional and State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plans.

(e) Broadcast stations which do not hold a National Defense Emergency Authorization (NDEA) are not authorized to operate in the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS). Such stations shall discontinue operation and remove their carriers from the air after completion of the Emergency Action Notification Procedures set forth in § 73.932.

(f) Stations in the International Broadcast Service operating under the jurisdiction of the Federal Communications Commission may under certain conditions be issued a NDEA by the Federal Communications Commission with concurrence of the Director, Office of Emergency Planning, and will transmit only Federal Government broadcasts or communications. The station's carrier must be removed from the air during periods of no broadcast or communications transmissions.

(g) No station shall broadcast its call letters during an Emergency Action Condition. Only State and Operational Area identifications shall be given.

(h) All stations operating and identified with a particular Operational Area will broadcast a common program.

(i) Stations are exempted from keeping operating or maintenance logs during an Emergency Action Condition. Program logs should be maintained where possible.

(j) Broadcast stations are specifically exempt from complying with § 73.57 (pertaining to maintenance of operating power) while operating under their National Defense Emergency Authorization.

§ 73.935 Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) programing priorities.

(a) Program priorities for the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) are as follows:

Priority One—Presidential Messages.
Priority Two—State Programing.
Priority Three—Operational Area (Local) Programing.
Priority Four—National Programing and News and Regional Programing.

(b) The Common Program Control Broadcast Station is responsible for coordinating the operations of the participating stations in the Operational Area in the broadcast of a common program for the Operational Area in accordance with the program priorities set forth in paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) All authorized participating stations that remain on the air in accordance with the Basic Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Plan and the Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plan must carry Presidential Messages "live" at time of tranmission.

(d) The nationwide commercial Radio and Television (aural) Broadcast Network program distribution facilities shall be reserved exclusively for the distribution of Presidential Messages (Priority One) and National Programing and News (Priority Four). National Programing and News which is not broadcast at the time of original transmission shall be recorded locally by the Common Program Control Broadcast Station for broadcast at the earliest opportunity consistent with Operational Area requirements.

(e) Regional Programing (Priority Four), which utilizes the approved interconnecting distribution facilities for State Programing, as provided in the Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plans within the Federal Region, is an integrated and coordinated Regional/State operation. If not broadcast at the time of original tranmission, Regional/State Programing shall be recorded at the Common Program Control Broadcast Station in each Operational Area for broadcast at the earliest opportunity.

§ 73.940 Termination of Emergency Action Condition.

Upon receipt of an Emergency Action Condition Termination, all stations operating in the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) will broadcast the following Termination Message twice:

This concludes operations under the Emergency Broadcast System. All broadcast stations may now resume normal broadcast operation.

Unlimited time stations operating in the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) will transmit the Termination Message twice, and then resume normal operation. Daytime Only and Limited Time broadcast stations operating in the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) shall also broadcast the Termination Message twice, then operate in accordance with their regular authorization.

PARTICIPATION

§ 73.950 Participation in the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS).

(a) Any licensee desiring to participate voluntarily in the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) must prepare in narrative form an application directed to the establishment of eligibility based upon the criteria set forth in the Basic Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Plan. The application should be mailed to the appropriate FCC Regional Liaison Officer for processing. The Federal Communications Commission may then issue a National Defense Emergency Authorization to the licensee authorizing participation in the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) consistent with the provisions of the approved Detailed Regional and State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plans.

(b) Any station participating in the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) may withdraw from participation by giving 30 days written notice and by submitting its National Defense Emergency Authorization to the Federal Communications Commission through the appropriate FCC Regional Liaison Officer for cancellation.

(c) Any station that is denied participation in the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) for any reason may appeal to the Federal Communications Commission for review.

TESTS

§ 73.961 Tests of the Emergency Action Notification System.

Tests of the Emergency Action Notification System will be made at regular intervals with appropriate entries in the station operating log, as follows:

(a) Test transmissions using the First Method of the Emergency Action Notification System utilizing the facilities of the Associated Press (AP) and United Press International (UPI) Radio Wire Teletype Networks will be conducted twice each week. These tests will be conducted on Saturday at 9:30 a.m., e.s.t., and on Sunday at 8:30 p.m., e.s.t. The Blue Card, identified as First Method EAN Tests, which has been furnished to all standard, FM, and television broadcast stations, sets forth details of these test transmissions.

(b) Test transmissions using the Second Method of the Emergency Action Notification System via dedicated teletype network between the White House Communications Agency, specified control points of the nationwide commercial Radio and Television Broadcast Networks, the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and other specified points will be conducted once each week at a selected time in accordance with the test procedures set forth in the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Standing Operating Procedures (EBS SOP–3). Testing of the internal alerting facilities of the nationwide commercial Broadcast Networks is not necessary since these facilities are utilized in day-to-day operations.

(c) Test transmissions of the Third Method of the Emergency Action Notification System will be conducted by standard, FM, and television broadcast stations once each week on an unscheduled basis between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and local sunset. Noncommercial educational FM broadcast stations with a transmitter output of 10 watts or less are not required to conduct these tests. The Blue Card, identified as Third Method EAN Tests, which has been furnished to all standard, FM, and television broadcast stations, sets forth details of these test transmissions.

§ 73.962 Tests of Approved Interconnecting Systems and Facilities.

Tests of approved interconnecting systems and facilities voluntarily participating in the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) will be conducted, as set forth below. Appropriate entries shall be made in the station operating log.

(a) National program distribution interconnecting systems and facilities (the total NIAC Order No. 1 program distribution facilities) will be tested on a scheduled basis. This test consists of a closed circuit transmission from 12:40 to 12:50 p.m., Washington, D.C. time on the first Wednesday of each month except when such a Wednesday is a national holiday, then the test is conducted on the following Thursday. Due to varying program scheduling of the commercial Radio Broadcast Networks involved, the individual network facilities shall remain as separate entities for these tests. The audio networks associated with the video networks of ABC–TV, CBS–TV, or NBC–TV shall not be utilized nor are the Telephone Companies authorized to add any of the unaffiliated stations participating in the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS). The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. is authorized to interconnect the facilities of the Intermountain (IMN) Radio Network to any one of the nationwide commercial Radio Broadcast Networks for the duration of these closed circuit tests, then remove such interconnections. Periodic tests of program distribution facilities for other NIAC Orders (No. 2 through No. 63) may be conducted as desired and will be based on thoroughly coordinated arrangements between all parties involved.

(b) Tests of regional program distribution interconnecting systems and facilities will be conducted periodically on a closed circuit basis as a coordinated Regional/State operation and as provided in approved Detailed Regional and State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plans.

(c) Tests of State program distribution interconnecting systems and facilities should be conducted on a day-to-day basis as periodic broadcast operations such as State Weather Networks, or State Association of Broadcasters Networks. Letters granting rebroadcast authority shall be exchanged between all participating licensees in accordance with the provisions of section 325(a) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and Part 73 of this chapter.

(d) Operational Area common program distribution interconnecting systems, facilities, and procedures shall be tested on a closed circuit basis to insure emergency readiness of such interconnecting facilities in accordance with approved Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plans.

WEATHER WARNINGS

§ 73.971 Emergency Weather Warnings.

Upon receipt of notification from the U.S. Weather Bureau of an Emergency Weather Warning of a condition of immediate danger to life and property, all standard, commercial, FM, and television broadcast stations may, at their option, during authorized hours of operation only, transmit the Emergency Action Notification Attention Signal as follows:

(a) Cut the transmitter carrier for 5 seconds. (Sound carrier only for TV stations.)

(b) Return carrier to the air for 5 seconds.

(c) Cut transmitter carrier for 5 seconds. (Sound carrier only for TV stations.)

(d) Return carrier to the air.

(e) Broadcast 1,000-cycle steady-state tone for 15 seconds; then, proceed to broadcast the text of the Emergency Weather Warning issued by the U.S. Weather Bureau, as provided in §§ 73.90 and 73.296, respectively. Nothing in this section shall be construed as permitting a standard broadcast station licensed to operate daytime only or limited time to operate during unauthorized hours.

NETWORK CONNECTION

§ 73.981 Participation by Telephone Companies.

(a) Telephone Companies which have facilities available in place may, without charge, connect an unaffiliated broadcast station to commercial networks operated by ABC, CBS, MBS, NBC, or IMN for the duration of an Emergency Action Condition: Provided, That:

(1) The station is authorized by the Federal Communications Commission to participate in the Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) under § 73.950, and is required by an approved Detailed State Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Operational Plan to carry Presidential or National Programing and News.

(2) The station has in service a local channel from the station studio or transmitter directly to the nearest telephone company Principal Central Office (toll test).

(b) During an Emergency Action Condition and for testing the arrangements for the origination of Presidential Messages and National Programing and News as provided for in NIAC Orders No. 1 through No. 63, telephone companies which have facilities in place may, without charge, connect an originating source associated with an appropriate NIAC Order Number from the nearest Telephone Company Exchange to a selected Toll Test Center, thence to the authorized commercial Radio and Television (aural) Broadcast Networks: Provided:

(1) That the originating source has in service a telephone company local channel from the originating point to the nearest Telephone Company Exchange.

(2) That a NIAC Order covering this service is requested by the White House Communications Agency in accordance with the provisions of the Basic Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) Plan.

(c) Upon issuance of the Emergency Action Condition Termination, or completion of tests as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, such telephone companies shall disconnect the unaffiliated broadcast stations and the authorized origination source and then restore the Broadcast Networks to their original configuration as individual entities.

(d) Closed circuit tests of technical program origination and distribution channels associated with NIAC Order No. 1 will be conducted as provided in § 73.962(a). These tests are in conformance with the provisions of this section.

(e) Closed circuit tests of technical program origination and distribution channels associated with NIAC Orders No. 2 through No. 63 will be conducted when considered desirable and when advance coordinated arrangements and voluntary agreement is accomplished among the White House Communications Agency, the nationwide commercial Radio Broadcast Networks, and the AT&T. These tests are in conformance with the provisions of this section.

(f) Every such carrier rendering any such free service shall make and file, in duplicate, with the Federal Communications Commission, on or before the 31st day of July and on or before the 31st day of January in each year, reports covering the periods of 6 months ending on the 30th day of June and the 31st day of December, respectively, next prior to said dates. These reports shall show the call letters and locations of the broadcast stations to which free service was rendered pursuant to this rule and the charges in dollars which would have accrued to the carrier for such service rendered if charges therefor had been collected at the published tariff rates.

Title 12—BANKS AND BANKING

Chapter III—Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

SUBCHAPTER B—REGULATIONS AND STATEMENTS OF GENERAL POLICY

PART 328—ADVERTISEMENT OF MEMBERSHIP

Effective August 1, 1967, Part 328 of the rules and regulations of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (12 CFR Part 328) is amended to read as follows:

Sec.
328.0 Scope.
328.1 Mandatory requirements with regard to the official sign and its display.
328.2 Mandatory requirements with regard to the official advertising statement and manner of use.

AUTHORITY: The provisions of this Part 328 issued under sec. 9, 64 Stat. 881; 12 U.S.C. 1819. Interpret or apply sec. 18, 64 Stat. 891; 12 U.S.C. 1828.

§ 328.0 Scope.

The regulation contained in this part prescribes the requirements with regard to the official sign insured banks must display and the requirements with regard to the official advertising statement insured banks must include in their advertisements. It also prescribes an approved short title which insured banks may use at their option. It imposes no limitations on other proper advertising of insurance of deposits by insured banks and does not apply to advertisements published in foreign countries by insured banks which maintain offices in such foreign countries in which offices the deposits are not insured.

§ 328.1 Mandatory requirements with regard to the official sign and its display.

(a) Insured banks to display official sign. Each insured bank shall continuously display an official sign as hereinafter prescribed at each station or window where insured deposits are usually and normally received in its principal place of business and in all its branches: Provided, That no bank becoming an insured bank shall be required to display such official sign until twenty-one (21) days after its first day of operation as an insured bank. The official sign may be displayed by any insured bank prior to the date display is required. Additional signs in other sizes, colors, or materials, incorporating the basic design of the official sign, may be displayed in other locations within an insured bank.

(b) Official sign. The official sign referred to in paragraph (a) of this section shall be of the following design:

The "symbol" of the Corporation shall be that portion of the official sign represented by the letters and the Corporation seal contained upon the sign.

(1) Any insured bank may procure official signs from the Corporation. Variations in size, color, and materials in the official sign, as described in the "Official Catalog of Insured Bank Signs"—No. ED1, may be procured at no charge from the Corporation by insured banks for official use. The Corporation shall furnish to banks an order blank for use in procuring the official signs. Any bank which promptly, after receipt of the order blank, fills it in, executes it, and properly directs and forwards it to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Washington, D.C. 20429, shall not be deemed to have violated this regulation on account of not displaying an official sign, or signs, unless the bank shall omit to display such official sign or signs after receipt thereof.

(2) Official signs reflecting variations in color and materials and additional signs reflecting variations in size, color, and materials may be procured by insured banks from commercial suppliers.

(c) Receipt of deposits at same teller's station or window as noninsured bank or institution. An insured bank is forbidden to receive deposits at any teller's station or window where any noninsured bank or institution receives deposits or similar liabilities.

(d) Required changes in official sign. The Corporation may require any insured bank, upon at least 30 days' written notice, to change the wording of its official signs in a manner deemed necessary for the protection of depositors or others.

§ 328.2 Mandatory requirements with regard to the official advertising statement and manner of use.

(a) Insured banks to include official advertising statement in all advertisements except as provided in paragraph (c) of this section. Each insured bank shall include the official advertising statement, prescribed in paragraph (b) of this section, in all of its advertisements except as provided in paragraph (c) of this section.

(1) An insured bank is not required to include the official advertising statement in its advertisements until thirty (30) days after its first day of operation as an insured bank.

(2) In cases where the Board of Directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation shall find the application to be meritorious, that there has been no neglect or willful violation in the observance of this section and that undue hardship will result by reason of its requirements, the Board of Directors may grant a temporary exemption from its provision to a particular bank upon its written application setting forth the facts. For the procedure to be followed in making such application see § 303.8 of this chapter.

(3) In cases where advertising copy not including the official advertising statement is on hand on the date the requirements of this section become operative, the insured bank may cause the official advertising statement to be included by use of a rubber stamp or otherwise.

(b) Official advertising statement. The official advertising statement shall be in substance as follows: "Member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation". The word "the" or the words "of the" may be omitted. The words "This bank is a" or the words "This institution is a" or the name of the insured bank followed by the words "is a" may be added before the word "member". The short title "Member of FDIC" or "Member FDIC" or a reproduction of the "symbol" may be used by insured banks at their option as the official advertising statement. The official advertising statement shall be of such size and print to be clearly legible. Where it is desired to use the "symbol" of the Corporation as the official advertising statement, and the "symbol" must be reduced to such proportions that the small lines of type and the Corporation seal therein are indistinct and illegible, the Corporation seal in the letter C and the two lines of small type may be blocked out or dropped.

(c) Types of advertisements which do not require the official advertising statement. The following is an enumeration of the types of advertisements which need not include the official advertising statement:

(1) Statements of condition and reports of condition of an insured bank which are required to be published by State or Federal law;

(2) Bank supplies such as stationery (except when used for circular letters), envelopes, deposit slips, checks, drafts, signature cards, deposit passbooks, certificates of deposit, etc.;

(3) Signs or plates in the banking office or attached to the building or buildings in which the banking offices are located;

(4) Listings in directories;

(5) Advertisements not setting forth the name of the insured bank;

(6) Display advertisements in bank directory, provided the name of the bank is listed on any page in the directory with a symbol or other descriptive matter indicating it is a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation;

(7) Joint or group advertisements of banking services where the names of insured banks and noninsured banks or institutions are listed and form a part of such advertisements;

(8) Advertisements by radio which do not exceed thirty (30) seconds in time;

(9) Advertisements by television, other than display advertisements, which do not exceed thirty (30) seconds in time;

(10) Advertisements which are of the type or character making it impractical to include thereon the official advertising statement including, but not limited to, promotional items such as calendars, matchbooks, pens, pencils, and key chains;

(11) Advertisements which contain a statement to the effect that the bank is a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, or that the bank is insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, or that its deposits or depositors are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation to the maximum of $15,000 for each depositor;

(12) Advertisements relating to the making of loans by the bank or loan services;

(13) Advertisements relating to safekeeping box business or services;

(14) Advertisements relating to trust business or trust department services;

(15) Advertisements relating to real estate business or services;

(16) Advertisements relating to armored car services;

(17) Advertisements relating to service charges or analysis charges;

(18) Advertisements relating to securities business or securities department services;

(19) Advertisements relating to travel department business, including traveler's checks on which the bank issuing or causing to be issued the advertisement is not primarily liable;

(20) Advertisements relating to savings bank life insurance.

(d) Outstanding billboard advertisements. Where an insured bank has billboard advertisements outstanding which are required to include the official advertising statement and has direct control of such advertisements either by possession or under the terms of a contract, it shall, as soon as it can consistent with its contractual obligations, cause the official advertising statement to be included therein.

(e) Official advertising statement in non-English language. The non-English equivalent of the official advertising statement may be used in any advertisement: Provided, That the translation has had the prior written approval of the Corporation.

The purpose of amended Part 328 is to include the new official sign and to restate the mandatory requirements with regard to its display and the use of the official advertising statement.

In view of the recent increase in deposit insurance coverage from $10,000 to $15,000 for each depositor, a new official sign has been adopted by the Corporation for use by insured banks. As was formerly the case, the official sign must be displayed at each station or window where deposits are received. However, the use of a substitute sign, in lieu of the official sign, will not be permitted.

The official advertising statement has been broadened to include the short title "Member FDIC" and reproductions of the official sign and to permit their use by insured banks, at their option, as the official advertising statement. Promotional items which are of the type or character making it impractical to include thereon the official advertising statement are included in advertisements which are exempted from the requirements as to the official advertising statement.

In adopting these amendments to the Corporation's rules and regulations, the Board of Directors has found that (1) for good cause shown prior publication of notice of proposed rule making in the FEDERAL REGISTER and public participation in the making of rules under the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553) and Part 302 of the Corporation's rules and regulations (12 CFR 302.1–302.7) is not required with respect to the adoption of these amendments and such publication is impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest, and (2) that a delay of not less than 30 days in the effective date of said amendments after their publication is not required by the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553) and Part 302 of the Corporation's rules and regulations (12 CFR 302.1–302.7), since the amendments impose no substantial additional duties or burdens upon the public and are therefore excepted from the 30-day prior publication before the effective date requirement of the Administrative Procedure Act.

The Area or Regional Board of Survey shall establish a case file containing all documents related to the claim and the incident out of which it arose. The file shall also contain the Board's findings of fact, conclusions, and recommendations, and the legal opinion of the Area or Regional Counsel. The file shall be forwarded to the Chairman of the Washington Board of Survey after the Area or Regional Board of Survey has performed its function.

(b) The Washington Board of Survey shall review the case and submit its recommendations in a report to the Survey Officer. A representative of the Office of General Counsel, normally the nonvoting member of the Washington Board of Survey, shall review the submitted legal opinions regarding the liability of the United States under applicable State law governing negligence and related matters and, in the event of disagreement, shall render a separate legal opinion to the Washington Board of Survey. The report and legal opinion, if any, shall be prepared in an original and five copies and shall be attached to the case file.

(e) If the Survey Officer disapproves the recommendations of the Washington Board of Survey that the claim be paid, the case file shall be forwarded immediately to the Administrator or his designee for final action. If the Administrator or his designee concurs with the Survey Officer, this shall constitute a final agency denial of the claim and appropriate notice shall be given the claimant as provided in § 114.110 of this part. If the Administrator or his designee disagrees with the Survey Officer, Standard Forms 1145 and 1145A shall be prepared and forwarded to the claimant as provided for in paragraph (c) of this section. After the claimant has signed and returned them, the Administrator or his designee shall sign them.

(f) If the Area or Regional Board of Survey or the Washington Board of Survey recommends that the claim not be paid, the claim shall nevertheless be processed to final action by the Administrator or his designee through all the appropriate stages outlined in the preceding paragraphs of this section.

§ 114.107 Limitations on authority.

(a) An award, compromise, or settlement of a claim in excess of $25,000 filed under this part shall not be effected without prior written approval of the U.S. Attorney General or his designee. For purposes of this paragraph, a principal claim and any derivative or subrogated claim shall be treated as a single claim.

(b) An administrative claim may be adjusted, determined, compromised, or settled under the Federal Tort Claims Act only after consultation with the Department of Justice when, in the opinion of the nonvoting member of the Washington Board of Survey and with the concurrence of the General Counsel:

(1) A new precedent or a new point of law is involved; or

(2) A question of policy is or may be involved; or

(3) The United States is or may be entitled to indemnity or contribution from a third party and the Administration is unable to adjust the third party claim; or

(4) The compromise of a particular claim, as a practical matter, will or may control the disposition of a related claim in which the amount to be paid may exceed $25,000.

(c) An administrative claim may be adjusted, determined, compromised, or settled by the Administration under the Federal Tort Claims Act only after consultation with the Department of Justice when the Administration is informed or is otherwise aware that the United States or an employee, agent, or cost-plus contractor of the United States is involved in litigation based on a claim arising out of the same incident or transaction.

§ 114.108 Referral to Department of Justice.

When Department of Justice approval or consultation is required under § 114.107, or the advice of the Department of Justice is otherwise to be requested, the referral or request shall be sent to the Assistant Attorney General, Civil Division, Department of Justice, in writing and shall contain (a) a short and concise statement of the facts and of the reasons for the referral or request, (b) copies of relevant portions of the Administration's claim file, and (c) a statement of the recommendations or views of the Administration. Such referrals may be made any time after the presentment of a claim to the Administration, and shall be transmitted by the General Counsel or his designee.

The Administration may request any other Federal agency to conduct a physical examination of a claimant and provide a report of the physical examination. Where reimbursement for such services is authorized or required by statute or regulation, the Administration may reimburse any Federal agency which conditions its compliance with the Administration's request upon such reimbursement.

§ 114.110 Final denial of claim.

Final denial of an administrative claim shall be in writing and sent to the claimant, his attorney, or legal representative by certified or registered mail. The notification of final denial may include a statement of the reasons for the denial and shall include a statement that, if the claimant is dissatisfied with the agency action, he may file a suit in an appropriate U.S. District Court not later than 6 months after the date of mailing of the notification.

§ 114.111 Action on approved claim.

(a) Payment of a claim approved under this part is contingent upon the claimant's or his duly authorized agent's or legal representative's executing the requisite copies of Standard Form 95, Standard Form 1145, and Standard Form 1145A. When a claimant is represented by an attorney, the voucher shall designate both the claimant and his attorney as payees. The check shall be delivered to the attorney, whose address shall appear on Standard Form 1145, voucher for payment of a claim under the Federal Tort Claims Act.

(b) Acceptance by the claimant, his agent, or legal representative, of any award, compromise, or settlement made pursuant to the Federal Tort Claims Act shall be final and conclusive on the claimant, his agent or legal representative and any other person on whose behalf or for whose benefit the claim has been presented, and shall constitute a complete release of any claim against the United States and against any employee of the Government whose act or omission gave rise to the claim, by reason of the same subject matter.

Effective date: June 29, 1967.

Administrator.

Interested persons were afforded an opportunity to participate in the proposed rule making through the submission of comments. The only comment received was from the Air Transport Association, and they interposed no objection.

1. In § 71.171 (32 F.R. 2071) the North Bend, Oreg., control zone is amended to read:

PART 71—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS, CONTROLLED AIRSPACE, AND REPORTING POINTS

Alteration of Control Zone and Transition Area

The purpose of this amendment to Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is to alter the Albuquerque, N. Mex., control zone and transition area by deleting the controlled airspace which is based on the Albuquerque RBN. This action is necessary since the Albuquerque, N. Mex., RBN has been decommissioned, the facility converted to an SABH aid, and the instrument approach procedure based on the Albuquerque RBN has been canceled.

Since this amendment is less restrictive in nature, and lessens the burden on the public, notice and public procedures hereon are unnecessary and the amendment may be made effective immediately.

In consideration of the foregoing, Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended, effective immediately, as hereinafter set forth.

In § 71.171 (32 F.R. 2072) the Albuquerque, N. Mex. (Albuquerque Sunport Airport/Kirtland AFB) control zone is amended by deleting "• • • within 2 miles each side of the 188° bearing from the Albuquerque RBN extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 7 miles south of the RBN; • • •."

In § 71.181 (32 F.R. 2149) the Albuquerque, N. Mex., transition area is amended by deleting "• • • within 2 miles each side of the 188° bearing from the Albuquerque RBN, extending from the 14-mile radius area to 12 miles south of the RBN; • • •."

(Sec. 307(a), Federal Aviation Act of 1958; 49 U.S.C. 1348)

Issued in Fort Worth, Tex., on June 30, 1967.

PART 71—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS, CONTROLLED AIRSPACE, AND REPORTING POINTS

Alteration of Transition Area

On page 6579 of the FEDERAL REGISTER for April 28, 1967, the Federal Aviation Administration published a proposed rule which would alter the Akron, Ohio, 700-foot transition area.

Interested parties were given 30 days after publication in which to submit written data or views. No objections to the proposed regulations have been received.

In view of the foregoing, the proposed rule is adopted effective 0001 e.s.t., August 17, 1967.

(Sec. 307(a), Federal Aviation Act of 1958; 72 Stat. 749; 49 U.S.C. 1348)

Issued in Jamaica, N.Y., on June 19, 1967.

WAYNE HENDERSHOT,
Acting Director, Eastern Region.

1. Amend § 71.181 of Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations so as to alter the Akron, Ohio, 700-foot floor transition area by adding the description of the 700-foot-floor transition area following the phrase "extending from the Akron-Canton OM to 12 miles south of the OM;" the following:

within a 5-mile radius of the Andrew W. Paton of Kent State University Airport, Kent, Ohio (41°09'06" N., 81°26'06" W.); within 2 miles each side of the Akron VORTAC 285° radial, extending from the Andrew W. Paton of Kent State University Airport 5-mile radius area to the VORTAC; within 2 miles each side of the Akron RBN 344° and 164° bearings, extending from the Andrew W. Paton of Kent State University Airport 5-mile radius area to 8 miles south of the RBN.

[Airspace Docket No. 67-SW-40]

PART 71—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS, CONTROLLED AIRSPACE, AND REPORTING POINTS

Alteration of Transition Area

The purpose of this amendment to Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is to alter the Corpus Christi, Tex., transition area.

The Corpus Christi, Tex., transition area is described in section 71.181 (32 F.R. 2173). A portion of the 700-foot transition area is described as "• • • within 2 miles each side of the Corpus Christi RBN 048° bearing, extending from the International Airport 6-mile radius area to 8 miles northeast of the RBN."

The Corpus Christi RBN is scheduled for relocation and is no longer operational. It is therefore necessary to amend the Corpus Christi, Tex., transition area by deleting the controlled airspace which was based on the RBN.

Since this amendment lessens the burden on the public, notice and public precedure hereon are unnecessary.

In consideration of the foregoing, Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended, effective immediately, as hereinafter set forth.

In § 71.181 (32 F.R. 2173) the Corpus Christi, Tex., transition area is amended by deleting "• • • within 2 miles each side of the Corpus Christi RBN 048° bearing, extending from the International Airport 6-mile radius area to 8 miles northeast of the RBN • • •."

PART 71—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS, CONTROLLED AIRSPACE, AND REPORTING POINTS

Designation of Control Zone; Alteration

On February 18, 1967, F.R. Doc. 67-1872, effective March 2, 1967, was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (32 F.R. 3049), amending Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations by altering the effective times of designation of the Charlotte Amalie, Saint Thomas, V.I. (Harry S. Truman Airport), control zone.

In the above document, the last sentence of the description of the control zone read as follows: "The effective date and time will thereafter be continuously published in the Airman's Information Manual."

Information concerning Puerto Rico, Swan Island, and Virgin Islands will be dropped from the Airman's Information Manual and published in the International Flight Information Manual and the International Notams publication. Therefore, it will be necessary to amend the last sentence in the description of the above control zone.

Since this amendment is editorial in nature, notice and public procedure thereon are unnecessary.

In consideration of the foregoing, effective immediately, F.R. Doc. 67-1872 is amended as follows:

The last sentence in the description of the Charlotte Amalie, Saint Thomas, V.I. (Harry S. Truman Airport), control zone is deleted and "The effective date and time will thereafter be continuously published in the FAA publication International Notams." is substituted therefor.

Since this action involves, in part, airspace outside the United States, the Administrator has consulted with the Secretary of State and the Secretary of Defense in accordance with the provisions of Executive Order 10854.

(Secs. 307(a), 1110, Federal Aviation Act of 1958, 49 U.S.C. 1348 and 1510; Executive Order 10854, 24 F.R. 9565)

On April 28, 1967, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (32 F.R. 6582) stating that the Federal Aviation Administration was considering an amendment to Part 73 of the Federal Aviation Regulations that would increase the time of designation of Restricted Area R-2516, Offshore of California.

Interested persons were afforded an opportunity to participate in the proposed rule making through the submission of comments. One comment was received which interposed no objection.

In consideration of the foregoing, Part 73 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended, effective 0001 e.s.t., August 17, 1967, as hereinafter set forth.

AUTHORITY: The provisions of this Part 200 issued under sec. 2, 31 Stat. 1450, as amended; 15 U.S.C. 277. Interprets or applies sec. 7, 70 Stat. 959; 15 U.S.C. 275a.

§ 200.100 Statutory functions.

(a) The National Bureau of Standards has been assigned the following functions (15 U.S.C. 271-278e):

(1) The custody, maintenance, and development of the national standards of measurement, and the provision of means and methods for making measurements consistent with those standards, including the comparison of standards used in scientific investigations, engineering, manufacturing, commerce, and educational institutions with the standards adopted or recognized by the Government.

(2) The determination of physical constants and properties of materials when such data are of great importance to scientific or manufacturing interests and are not to be obtained of sufficient accuracy elsewhere.

(3) The development of methods for testing materials, mechanisms, and structures, and the testing of materials, supplies, and equipment, including items purchased for use of Government departments and independent establishments.

(4) Cooperation with other governmental agencies and with private organizations in the establishment of standard practices, incorporated in codes and specifications.

(5) Advisory service to Government agencies on scientific and technical problems.

(6) Invention and development of devices to serve special needs of the Government.

(b) The calibration and testing activities of the Bureau stem from the functions in paragraph (a) (1) and (3) of this section. These activities are assigned primarily to the NBS Institute for Basic Standards. Its program provides the central basis within the United States for a complete and consistent system of physical measurement; coordinates that system and the measurement system of other nations; and furnishes essential services leading to accurate and uniform physical measurements throughout the Nation's scientific community, industry, and commerce.

(c) The provision of standard reference materials for sale to the public is assigned to the Office of Standard Reference Materials of the NBS Institute for Materials Research. It evaluates the requirements of science and industry for carefully characterized reference materials, stimulates the Bureau's efforts to develop methods for production of needed reference materials and directs their production and distribution. The items available under this program are listed in Subchapter B of this chapter.

(d) The provision of technical services to facilitate technical innovation and industrial use of the results of modern science and technology is assigned to the NBS Institute for Applied Technology. The principal elements of the Institute are (1) a Textiles and Apparel Technology Center furnishing specialized technical services to that industry; (2) technical divisions which provide services in technology of more general applicability; (3) the Clearinghouse for Federal Scientific and Technical Information which promotes widest effective use by the scientific community, industry, and commerce of current information in all fields of industrial technology; and (4) a Center for Computer Sciences and Technology which conducts research and provides technical services designed to improve cost effectiveness in the conduct of agency programs through the use of computers and related techniques.

§ 200.101 Measurement research.

(a) The NBS Institute for Basic Standards carries out the Bureau's function in developing an adequate national system of physical measurement, and in providing related calibration services. Its staff continually reviews the advances in science and the trends in technology, examines the measurement potentialities of newly discovered physical phenomena, and uses these to devise and improve standards, measuring devices, and measurement techniques. As new requirements appear, there are continual shifts of program emphasis to meet the most urgent needs for the measurement of additional quantities, extended ranges, or improved accuracies.

(b) The basic research and development activities of the Bureau are primarily funded by direct appropriations, and are aimed at meeting broad general needs. When necessary, the Bureau also undertakes investigations or developments to meet some specialized physical measurement problem of another government agency, industrial group, or manufacturing firm, using funds supplied by that organization.

§ 200.102 Standards for measurement.

(a) (1) An international treaty, the Metric Convention, was signed by 18 countries in 1875. In 1893 the United States established prototype No. 27 of the international meter bar and prototype No. 20 of the international kilogram as U.S. Prototype Standards for length and mass. Representatives of many of the 80 nations now adhering to this treaty meet periodically, in the General Conference of Weights and Measures, to consider detailed proposals concerning international standards for physical measurement. The 11th Conference (1960) redefined the meter in terms of wavelengths of krypton 86 light, and agreed to adopt six units to serve as a practical base for an International System of Units (abbreviated SI from the French, Système International)—kilogram, meter, second, degree Kelvin, ampere, and candela. These are arbitrarily chosen but precisely defined magnitudes of six quantities of the physical world—mass, length, time, temperature, electric current, and luminous intensity, respectively—which are assigned unitary value in the International System. The units of the English System—pound, inch, second, degree Fahrenheit, etc.—and of other systems of units are related to the SI units by agreed-upon conversion factors. Consistent units for all other physical quantities needed by science and technology can be derived from, and their numerical values are fixed by, these SI units.

(2) The SI units for the six quantities are defined as follows:

(i) In terms of a prototype object:

(a) Mass. The kilogram is the mass of a platinum-iridium cylinder preserved at the International Bureau of Weights and Measures of Sèvres, France. Prototype No. 20 is kept at NBS; equivalent prototypes are kept by other countries.

(ii) In terms of natural phenomena:

(a) Length. The meter is the length of exactly 1,650,763.73 wavelengths of radiation in vacuum corresponding to the unperturbed transition between the levels $2p_{10}$ and $5d_5$ of the atom of krypton 86, the orange-red line.

(b) Time interval. The second was long defined as 1/86400 of the time required for an average complete rotation of the earth on its axis with respect to the sun. This led to the universal time scale (UT). Because of the slight slowing of the earth's average rotation rate (from 5 to 6 ms per year, each year), and other larger random fluctuations, the universal second thus defined is not a constant. The 11th Conference (1960) ratified the following definition: "the second is the fraction 1/31,556,925.9747 of the tropical year for January 0, 1900 at 12 o'clock ephemeris time." The 12th Conference (1964) authorized the designation of an atomic standard of frequency to be used temporarily for the physical measurement of time. The standard designated is "the transition between the hyperfine levels F=4, M=0, and F=3, M=0 of the ground state $2_{s,s}$ of the cesium 133 atom not perturbed by external fields, and the value 9,192,631,770 hertz is assigned to the frequency of this transition." Experimental evidence indicates that the two alternative definitions of the second are consistent within expected uncertainties.

(c) Temperature. The degree Kelvin is 1/273.16 of the thermodynamic temperature range between the triple point of water and absolute zero.

(d) Electric current. The ampere is that constant current which if maintained in two straight parallel conductors of infinite length, of negligible circular sections, and placed 1 meter apart in a vacuum, would produce between these conductors a force equal to 2×10^{-7} newton per meter of length.

(e) Luminous intensity. The candela is the luminous intensity of 1/60 of 1 square centimeter of projected area of a blackbody radiator at the temperature of freezing platinum.

(b) (1) Although the six base units, and others derived from them, are exactly defined, their practical use requires a realization through the development of accurate measurement standards. Measurement standards may be based on physical phenomena, specimen objects, signal sources, or reference instruments. Extensive theoretical studies and laboratory experiments are involved in their selection, design, construction, and operation.

(2) It will be noted that a kilogram mass standard can be calibrated only through a series of comparisons, starting from the International Prototype. The units for the other five base quantities, and all quantities derived from them, are in principle independently realizable in many laboratories. In practice, however, inevitable minor differences among instruments, environments, and operators are bound to introduce small discrepancies. Periodic comparison of standards and the resolution of these discrepancies is required for compatibility among domestic standards laboratories, as well as internationally.

(3) Within the United States, NBS consults with the major industrial and governmental standards laboratories, and cooperates with the Department of Defense and the National Conference of Standards Laboratories in conducting measurement agreement comparisons. Periodic intercomparisons of Bureau standards with those of other countries are made through the International Bureau of Weights and Measures, through international scientific organizations, or by direct arrangement. The operations of the International Bureau are supervised by the General Conference of Weights and Measures, to which U.S. delegates are appointed by the Department of State.

(4) Frequency and time comparisons within the United States are made between the National Bureau of Standards, the U.S. Naval Observatory, and manufacturers of frequency standards. The data from worldwide astronomical observations and from standards laboratories in many countries are coordinated by the International Bureau of the Hour, which announces recommended approximations for the rate difference between atomic and universal time, as well as for epoch adjustments.

§ 200.103 Types of calibration and test services.

(a) The Bureau has developed instrumentation and techniques for realizing standards for the six base units of the International System of Units, as agreed upon by the General Conference of Weights and Measures. Reference standards have been established not only for these six base units, but also for many derived quantities and their multiples and submultiples. Such reference standards, or equivalent working standards, are used to calibrate laboratory and plant standards for other organizations. Accuracy is maintained by stability checks, by comparison with the standards of other national and international laboratories, and by the exploration of alternative technique as a means of reducing possible systematic error.

(b) Calibrations for many types of instruments and ranges of physical quantities are described in the itemized schedules of this Subchapter. (See also NBS Miscellaneous Publication 250,[1] "Calibration and Test Services of the National Bureau of Standards.") Charges for many services are based upon established fees, while charges for some services are billed on the basis of actual costs incurred. (See subsequent Parts of this Subchapter for description of service items and schedule of fees.) Changes in services and fees are published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Such changes are announced also in supplements to Miscellaneous Publication 250 and in the monthly NBS Technical News Bulletin.[1]

(c) Consideration will always be given to requests involving unusual physical quantities, upper or lower extremes of range, higher levels of accuracy, fast response speeds, short durations, broader ranges of associated parameters, or special environmental conditions. Such inquiries should describe as clearly as possible the measurement desired and the scientific or economic basis for the requirement to be satisfied.

(d) The Bureau's principal emphasis is on those calibrations and other tests requiring such accuracy as can be obtained only by direct comparison with its reference standards. However, in order to maintain efficient utilization of specialized equipment and skilled personnel, NBS will at times undertake upon request to calibrate devices requiring lesser accuracy but suitable for working standards in plant or laboratory.

(e) Other services which may be obtainable include:

(1) Tests of measuring instruments to determine compliance with specifications or claims, when the evaluation is critical in national scientific or technical operations, and when suitable facilities are not available elsewhere.

(2) Referee tests in important cases when clients are unable to agree upon the method of measurement, the results of tests, or the interpretation of these results, but have agreed in advance in writing to accept and abide by the findings of the Bureau.

(f) In general, measurement services are not provided for organizations or individuals in foreign countries.

(g) The Bureau reserves the right to decline any request for services if the work would interfere with other activities deemed by the Director to be of greater importance.

§ 200.104 Consulting and advisory services.

(a) In areas of its special competence, the Bureau offers consulting and advisory services on physical or mathematical problems related to measurement, e.g., unusual or extreme conditions, methods of statistical control of the measurement process automated acquisition of laboratory data, and data reduction and analysis by computer. The Bureau at its discretion may make appropriate charges for rendering such services; the charges would be based upon actual costs.

(b) To enhance the competence of standards laboratory personnel, the Bureau conducts annually several group seminars on the precision measurement of specific types of physical quantities, offering the opportunity of laboratory observation and informal discussion. A 2-week summer course in electromagnetic measurements and standards is conducted biennially by the NBS Radio Standards Laboratory.

(c) Suggestions will be offered on measurement techniques and on other sources of assistance on calibration or measurement problems when the Bureau's own equipment and personnel are unable to undertake the work. The National Conference of Standards Laboratories issues a Directory of Standards Laboratories in the United States (obtainable from NCSL Secretariat, c/o National Bureau of Standards, Washington, D.C. 20234.) Others are listed in the ASTM Directory of Testing Laboratories, Commercial and Institutional. (Directory available from the American Society for Testing and Materials, 1916 Race Street, Philadelphia, Pa. 19103.) Similar listings appear in buyer's guides for commerical products and in technical journals concerned with physical measurement.

§ 200.105 Standard reference materials.

Often the performance of a device or structure can be evaluated at the user's laboratory by comparing its response to unknown values with its response to a standardized specimen or a material of certified composition, properties, or purity. Several types of such specimens are listed in Part 202 of this Subchapter. (See also NBS Miscellaneous Publication 250.[1]) Carefully characterized materials are listed in Part 230 of Subchapter B of Chapter II, Title 15 of the Code of Federal Regulations. (See also Miscellaneous Publication 260,[2] "Standard Reference Materials".) The Office of Standard Reference Materials in the NBS Institute for Materials Research administers a program to provide all types of well-characterized materials that are needed to calibrate a measurement system or to produce scientific data that can be readily referred to a common base.

§ 200.106 Critically evaluated data.

Data on the physical properties of the thousands of well-defined substances which are commercially available need to be compiled and evaluated to be useful for reference in engineering design. The Office of Standard Reference Data in the NBS Institute for Basic Standards provides two-way communication with a number of governmental and nongovernmental data centers throughout the country. Its compilation and dissemination activities cover seven technical areas—nuclear data, atomic and molecular data, solid state data, thermodynamic and transport data, chemical kinetics, colloid and surface properties, and mechanical properties. Monthly accounts of progress appear in the National Standard Reference Data System News (available upon request from the Office of Standard Reference Data) and in the Technical News Bulletin.[1]

(a) The monthly NBS Technical News Bulletin[1] announces changes in services and fees, as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The Bulletin also describes recent results of Bureau staff work, lists currently issued publications, and carries sections giving up-to-date detailed information on standards and calibrations, standard reference materials, and the National Standard Reference Data System. A 6-year index to publications by Bureau authors will be found in a Supplement[1] to Miscellaneous Publication 240, Publications of the National Bureau of Standards, for July 1, 1960, to June 30, 1966. The index covers Monographs,[1] Technical Notes,[1] and all papers appearing either in the NBS Journal of Research[1] or in outside technical journals.

(b) Unclassified research and development reports from all Government agencies and their contractors are listed in a semimonthly Government-wide Index available from the NBS Clearinghouse for Federal Scientific and Technical Information, Springfield, Va. 22151. Publication series available from the Clearinghouse include Report Abstracts, Fast Announcement Service, Package Reviews, and Technical Translations.

(a) The Radio Standards Laboratory of NBS broadcasts various types of standard frequency and time signals from four radio stations: WWV, WWVH, WWVL, and WWVB. (NBS Miscellaneous Publication 236,[1] "NBS Standard Frequency and Time Services", contains information concerning the broadcasts of various types of such signals from these four stations.) WWVH is located at Maui, Hawaii. WWV, WWVL, and WWVB are located at Fort Collins, Colo. (WWV was relocated in December 1966, from Greenbelt, Md.) Notices of precisions, accuracies, and adjustments in NBS clocks and radio emissions are published regularly in the FEDERAL REGISTER. (Such notices are published also in the Time and Frequency Service Bulletin which is available from the Radio Standards Laboratory on request.)

(b) Broadcasts from WWV are at nominal frequencies of 2.5, 5, 10, 15, 20, and 25 MHz, and from WWVH at 2.5, 5, 10, 15 MHz; the carrier frequencies and time pulse rates emitted by both are offset from nominal values in accordance with the Universal Time Coordinated (UTC) system. The frequency is offset by -300 parts in 10^{10}, and the time pulses occur at intervals slightly longer than 1 second. As recommended by the International Bureau of the Hour, the phase of the time pulses is occasionally adjusted to approximate UT2 within about 100 ms. The UT2 scale is a partly smoothed version of Universal Time (UT), as determined by astronomical observations and with annual and semiannual fluctuations removed. WWV and WWVH also provide standard musical pitch at 440 hertz, weather forecasts, and geophysical alerts. WWV broadcasts Universal Time—seconds, minutes, hours, and days of the year—in the code format of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. For more precise determination of UT2, both WWV and WWVH broadcast in International Morse Code appropriate corrections based on astronomical data from the U.S. Naval Observatory, Washington, D.C.

(c) At WWVL, the modes of broadcast of the carrier and the timing signals are also in conformity with the UTC system.

(d) Station WWVB broadcasts on the standard radio frequency of 60 KHz without offset, emitting time marker pulses exactly 1 second apart, as determined by the NBS cesium clock. The phase of these pulses is reset every few months by 0.2-s adjustments, as recommended by the International Bureau of the Hour, in order to approximate UT2 within about 0.1 s. This is a coordinated system known as Stepped Atomic Time (SAT).

(e) The U.S. Naval Observatory also broadcasts standard UTC time and time interval (frequency), using both astronomical and atomic data. It coordinates a number of Navy and Coast Guard stations around the globe, and also monitors the NBS broadcasts. Both USNO and NBS monitor broadcasts from selected laboratories in foreign countries, and issue periodic comparisons of reference signals.

§ 200.109 Request procedure.

(a) A formal purchase order for the calibration or test should be sent prior to or at the time of shipment. This should provide clear identification of the instrument or standard being submitted, and give instructions for billing. If a client wishes to minimize the time during which his equipment is out of service, he can usually arrange to delay shipment until the test is scheduled to start. Requests from Federal agencies, or from State agencies, for calibrations or tests on material to be used on private or Federal contract work, should be accompanied either by purchase order or by letter or document authorizing the cost of the test to be billed to the agency.

(b) Acceptance of purchase orders does not imply acceptance of any provisions set forth in the order contrary to the policy, practice, or regulations of the National Bureau of Standards or the U.S. Government. (A statement to the effect that the National Bureau of Standards is an agency of the U.S. Government should satisfy other Government agencies with regard to compliance with Government regulations and Executive orders.)

(c) A test number will be assigned by the Bureau to each item (instrument or group of similar instruments or standards) when accepted for test. This test number should be referred to in all subsequent communications. If the apparatus submitted has been previously calibrated by the Bureau, reference should be made to the test number previously assigned, so that a continuing record of stability history can be established.

(d) Inquiries related to electrical standards in the radio frequency region (above 30 kHz, Part 201, §§ 201.701 through 201.950 of this subchapter), and on all frequency and time standards should be directed to:

Coordinator, Calibration Services, Radio Standards Laboratory, National Bureau of Standards, Boulder, Colo. 80302.

(e) Inquiries for measurement services listed in this subchapter, other than those noted in paragraph (d) of this section, should be directed to:

Test Administration Unit, National Bureau of Standards, Washington, D.C. 20234.

§ 200.110 Shipping, insurance, and risk of loss.

(a) Shipment of material to the Bureau for calibration or other test should be made only after the client has accepted the estimate of cost and the tentative scheduling.

Coordinator, Calibration Services, Radio Standards Laboratory, National Bureau of Standards, Boulder, Colo. 80302.

If apparatus for high frequency is also to be given incidental low-frequency calibration, this may be done at Boulder, Colo., but if a complete range of low-frequency tests are needed, the instrument should be sent to:

National Bureau of Standards, Route 70S and Quince Orchard Road, Gaithersburg, Md.

(c) The calibrations listed in this subchapter, other than those noted in paragraph (b) of this section, are performed in the Bureau's laboratories at either Gaithersburg, Md., or Washington, D.C. For shipments which are heavy (in excess of 100 lbs.) or bulky (a combined girth in excess of 27 cu. ft.), request a shipping address from:

Test Administration Unit, National Bureau of Standards, Washington, D.C. 20234.

Items other than heavy or bulky shipments that are sent by common carrier, should be addressed to:

National Bureau of Standards, Route 70S and Quince Orchard Road, Gaithersburg, Md.

(d) Equipment sent to the Bureau must be properly packed to minimize likelihood of damage in shipment and handling. Suggestions on packing and shipping are made in some sections of the fee schedule. In every case, the client should consider the nature of the equipment, pack it accordingly, and clearly label shipments containing fragile instruments or materials, such as glass and the like. The use of "security express" should be considered in shipping delicate instruments.

(e) To minimize damage during shipment resulting from inadequate packing, the use of strong reusable containers is recommended. As an aid in preventing loss of such containers, the client's name should be legibly and permanently marked on the outside. In order to prolong the container's use, the notation Reusable Container, Do Not Destroy should be marked on the outside.

(f) Shipping and insurance coverage instructions, in order to be followed, must be clearly and legibly shown on the purchase order for the calibration or test. As the Bureau will not pay shipping or insurance charges and add this cost to the billing invoice, return shipment, when no shipping or insurance instructions are furnished, will be made by common carrier collect, but uninsured.

(g) When a test number has been assigned prior to shipment to the Bureau, this number should be clearly marked on the shipping container. When a test number has not been assigned, an invoice, copy of the purchase order, or letter should be enclosed in the shipment to insure proper identification. The original purchase order should be forwarded as appropriate to:

Coordinator, Calibration Services, Radio Standards Laboratory, National Bureau of Standards, Boulder, Colo. 80302.

(h) NBS will not be responsible for the risk of loss or damage to any item in shipping to or from the Bureau. Any arrangements for insurance covering this risk must be made by the client. Return shipment will be made by the Bureau as indicated in paragraph (f) of this section. The purchase order should always show the value of the equipment, and if transit insurance is carried by the client, this fact should be stated.

(i) The risk of loss or damage in handling or testing of any item by NBS must be assumed by the client, except when it is determined by the Bureau that such loss or damage was occasioned solely by the negligence of Bureau personnel.

§ 200.111 Identification and operability of devices submitted.

(a) Since the data provided by the Bureau's report is specific to the individual item or piece of apparatus tested, it is essential that this piece be identified uniquely by an appropriate number or symbol. In most cases, the manufacturer's name and serial numbers are used. When such a number is lacking, an alternative identifying mark should be provided. If none is found, the Bureau may apply an appropriate one, usually the Bureau's Test Number, for which an additional charge may be made.

(b) All apparatus submitted for calibration and test must be in good operating condition. Repairs and adjustments should be attended to by the client prior to shipment. Apparatus not in good condition cannot be tested, nor can the Bureau undertake the repair or adjustment of any equipment, except by special arrangement. If it is evident that equipment has been abused or has not received proper care, a test ordinarily will not be conducted. If defects are found at the Bureau after a test has begun, this fact will be reported, the test may be terminated, and a report issued summarizing such information as has been found, and a fee charged in accordance with the amount of work done.

§ 200.112 Priority and time of completion.

(a) Except for emergency Government work, calibrations and other tests are in general undertaken in the order in which requests are received.

(b) The date at which a test will be completed depends on a number of factors, such as the condition of submitted equipment, setup time, duration of test run, limitations on available personnel, occasional large backlogs of work, and grouping of tests of similar devices to lessen costs. Sometimes repetitive runs are needed to determine reliability of results, or peculiar behavior is noted, requiring unusually careful investigation. The Bureau will cooperate with a client to minimize the out-of-use time for his equipment, and will upon request inform him of a probable starting date and give notice of unexpected delays in completion of the work. Estimates of completion dates are therefore provisional.

§ 200.113 Witnessing of operations.

The Bureau welcomes scientists and engineers who may wish to visit its laboratories and discuss its methods. However, visitors ordinarily will not be permitted to witness the actual carrying out of highly precise measurements because their presence introduces distraction that may lead to errors or delays. This policy may be waived in those cases where the visitor can be of service in setting up apparatus of a new or unusual nature, in the case of referee tests, or in other cases in which the legal validity of the result may require the presence of duly authorized witnesses.

Results of calibrations and other tests are issued as reports entitled, "National Bureau of Standards Report of Calibration," "National Bureau of Standards Report of Test," or "National Bureau of Standards Report of Analysis," as appropriate. The report form used carries no special significance. Whenever formal certification is required by law, or to meet special conditions adjudged by the National Bureau of Standards to warrant it, a letter will be provided certifying that the particular item was received and calibrated or tested, and identifying the report containing the results.

§ 200.115 Use of results.

(a) The NBS report of calibration or test contains data which pertain only to the particular device or specimen calibrated or tested. There is no implication that other items of the same lot or type will show comparable results. However, on the basis of tests on a sample of instruments or objects drawn from a lot of nominally identical items, in accordance with an approved sampling procedure, the Bureau may declare that the entire lot does or does not meet stated requirements for acceptance.

(b) The results given in the NBS report are limited to the condition of the equipment at the time of calibration or test. Clients should not assume that comparable performance will be sustained unless suitable precautions are taken in handling and use.

(c) The National Bureau of Standards does not "approve," "recommend," or "endorse" any proprietary product or material, either as a single item or as a class or group. Results reported by the Bureau shall not be used in advertising or sales promotion, or to indicate explicit or implicit endorsement of the product or material by the Bureau.

(a) In accordance with 15 U.S.C. 271–278e, fees are charged for all calibrations and tests made by the National Bureau of Standards.

(b) This fee schedule is published subject to the above-mentioned basic act which authorizes the Secretary of Commerce, from time to time, to make regulations regarding the payment of fees, the limits of tolerance on standards submitted for verification, and related matters.

§ 200.117 Billing charges.

The minimum billing charge for any test request accepted by the Bureau is $10, unless otherwise indicated in a particular fee schedule. If apparatus is returned without testing, a minimum charge of $10 may be made to cover handling. Fees for tests include the cost of preparation of an original report. Additional copies ordinarily are not issued to other than the recipient of the original, and are not issued unless the client has shown a technical need for them. Copies of reports requested subsequent to the date of tests will be supplied at cost, with a minimum charge of $5. All checks should be made payable to NBS, Department of Commerce.

Title 21—FOOD AND DRUGS

Chapter I—Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

SUBCHAPTER A—GENERAL

PART 8—COLOR ADDITIVES

Subpart D—Listing of Color Additives for Food Use Exempt From Certification

CORN ENDOSPERM OIL; LISTING FOR FOOD USE; EXEMPTION FROM CERTIFICATION

In the matter of establishing a regulation listing and exempting from certification the color additive corn endosperm oil for use in chicken feed:

An order in the above-identified matter was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of March 30, 1967 (32 F.R. 5324). The original petitioner, Corn Products Co., 717 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022, subsequently submitted data showing that the color additive produced by good manufacturing practice cannot reasonably meet the 50 parts per million specification for isopropyl alcohol and has requested that the specification be changed to 100 parts per million. The Commissioner of Food and Drugs finds that such a change is necessary and will not adversely affect the public health.

Therefore, pursuant to the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 706(b), (c)(2), (d), 74 Stat. 399–403; 21 U.S.C. 376(b), (c)(2), (d)) and under the authority delegated to the Commissioner by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare (21 CFR 2.120): It is ordered, That § 8.322 (b) (32 F.R. 5324) be amended by changing the item reading "Isopropyl alcohol, not more than 50 parts per million" to read "Isopropyl alcohol, not more than 100 parts per million."

No other response was received to the order of March 30, 1967; therefore, aside from the amendment herein ordered, § 8.322 became effective May 29, 1967.

Any person who will be adversely affected by the foregoing order may at any time within 30 days from the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER file with the Hearing Clerk, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Room 5440, 330 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20201, written objections thereto. Objections shall show wherein the person filing will be adversely affected by the order and specify with particularity the provisions of the order deemed objectionable and the grounds for the objections. If a hearing is requested, the objections must state the issues for the hearing, and such objections must be supported by grounds legally sufficient to justify the relief sought. Objections may be accompanied by a memorandum or brief in support thereof. All documents shall be filed in six copies.

Effective date. This order shall become effective 60 days from the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, except as to any provisions that may be stayed by the filing of proper objections. Notice of the filing of objections or lack thereof will be announced by publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 706(c), (c)(2), (d), 74 Stat. 399–403; 21 U.S.C. 376(b), (c)(2), (d))

Dated: June 30, 1967.

WINTON B. RANKIN,
Deputy Commissioner of Food and Drugs.

SUBCHAPTER C—DRUGS

PART 141e—BACITRACIN AND BACITRACIN-CONTAINING DRUGS; TESTS AND METHODS OF ASSAY

PART 146e—CERTIFICATION OF BACITRACIN AND BACITRACIN-CONTAINING DRUGS

Antibiotic Troches

No comments were received in response to the notice published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of February 2, 1967 (32 F.R. 1184), proposing the issuance of new regulations to provide for the certification of certain antibiotic troches (identified herein). It is concluded that the proposed regulations should be issued as set forth below.

Therefore, pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 507, 59 Stat. 463, as amended; 21 U.S.C. 357) and delegated by him to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs (21 CFR 2.120), Parts 141e and 146e are amended by adding thereto new sections, as follows:

§ 141e.436 Bacitracin-neomycin sulfate-tyrothricin troches; zinc bacitracin-neomycin sulfate-tyrothricin troches.

(a) Potency—(1) Bacitracin content. Dissolve 5 troches in sufficient 1.0 percent phosphate buffer, pH 6.0, to give a concentration of 10 units of bacitracin per milliliter (estimated), or if they contain zinc bacitracin dissolve 5 troches in sufficient 0.01*N* HCl to give a concentration of 10 units of bacitracin per milliliter (estimated), and proceed as directed in § 141e.401(a)(1) except § 141e.401(a)(1)(i). In lieu of the directions in § 141e.401(a)(1)(i), prepare the standard as follows: Prepare the stock solution as directed in § 141e.401(a)(1)(i), except that the dilutions for assay are prepared to contain the same ratio of 0.01*N* HCl to 1 percent phosphate buffer, pH 6.0, as the sample under test. The content of bacitracin is satisfactory if it is not less than 90 percent and not more than 125 percent of the number of units of bacitracin that it is represented to contain.

(2) Neomycin content. Proceed as directed in § 148l.1(b)(1) of this chapter, except prepare the sample for assay as follows: Dissolve a representative number of troches in 0.1*M* potassium phosphate buffer, pH 8.0, to make a stock solution of convenient concentration. Make estimated dilutions to the reference concentration with 0.1*M* potassium phosphate buffer, pH 8.0. The content of neomycin is satisfactory if it is not less than 90 percent and not more than 125 percent of the number of milligrams of neomycin that it is represented to contain.

(3) Tyrothricin content. Proceed as directed in § 148r.1(b)(1) of this chapter, except prepare the sample for assay as follows: Dissolve a representative number of troches in 20 milliliters of distilled water. Further dilute in 95 percent alcohol to give a stock solution of convenient concentration. Make proper estimated dilutions with 95 percent alcohol to the prescribed reference concentration. The content of tyrothricin is satisfactory if it is not less than 90 percent and not more than 125 percent of the number of milligrams of tyrothricin that it is represented to contain.

(b) Moisture. Proceed as directed in § 141a.5(a) of this chapter.

(a) Standards of identity, strength, quality, and purity. Bacitracin-neomycin sulfate-tyrothricin troches and zinc bacitracin-neomycin sulfate-tyrothricin troches are troches composed of bacitracin or zinc bacitracin, neomycin sulfate, and tyrothricin, with one or more suitable and harmless diluents, binders, lubricants, colorings, and flavorings, and with or without benzocaine. Each troche contains 50 units of bacitracin or zinc bacitracin, 3.5 milligrams of neomycin, 1.0 milligram of tyrothricin, and, if it contains benzocaine, 5.0 milligrams thereof. The moisture content is not more than 5.0 percent. The bacitracin used conforms to the standards prescribed by § 146e.401(a) (1), (3), (5), (6), and (7). The zinc bacitracin used conforms to the standards prescribed by § 146e.418(a). The neomycin sulfate used conforms to the standards prescribed by § 148i.1(a)(1) (i), (iv), (v), (vi), and (vii) of this chapter. The tyrothricin used conforms to the standards prescribed by § 148r.1(a).(1) of this chapter. Each other substance used, if its name is recognized in the U.S.P. or N.F., conforms to the standards prescribed therefor by such official compendium.

(b) Packaging. Unless each troche is enclosed in foil or plastic film and such enclosure is a tight container as defined by the U.S.P., except the provision that it shall be capable of tight reclosure, the immediate container shall be a tight container as so defined. The immediate container may also contain a desiccant separated from the troches by a plug of cotton or other like material. The composition of the immediate container, or foil or film enclosure, shall be such as will not cause any change in the strength, quality, or purity of the contents beyond any limit therefor in applicable standards, except that minor changes so caused which are normal and unavoidable in good packaging, storage, and distribution practice shall be disregarded.

(c) Labeling. In addition to the labeling requirements prescribed by § 1.106 (b) of this chapter (regulations issued under sec. 502(f) of the act), each package shall bear on its label or labeling, as hereinafter indicated, the following:

(1) On the outside wrapper or container and the immediate container, the statement "Expiration date ----------" the blank being filled in with the date that is 12 months after the month during which the batch was certified, except that the blank may be filled in with the date that is 18, 24, 30, 36, 42, 48, 54, or 60 months after the month during which the batch was certified if the person who requests certification has submitted to the Commissioner results of tests and assays showing that after having been stored for such period of time such drug as prepared by him complies with the standards prescribed therefor by paragraph (a) of this section.

(b) On the circular or other labeling within or attached to the package, information to the effect that the drug is for use only following tonsillectomy as an aid in preventing local infection and secondary hemorrhage due to local infection.

(d) Requests for certification; samples. In addition to the requirements of § 146.2 of this chapter, each such request shall contain:

(1) Results of tests and assays on:

(i) The bacitracin or zinc bacitracin used in making the batch: Potency, moisture, toxicity, pH, and ash content, except that if it is zinc bacitracin, zinc content in lieu of ash content.

(ii) The neomycin sulfate used in making the batch: Potency, toxicity, moisture, pH, and identity.

(iii) The tyrothricin used in making the batch: Potency, moisture, and identity.

(iv) The batch for bacitracin content, neomycin content, tyrothricin content, and moisture.

(2) Samples required:

(i) The bacitracin or zinc bacitracin used in making the batch: 10 packages, each containing approximately 500 milligrams.

(ii) The neomycin sulfate used in making the batch: 10 packages, each containing approximately 300 milligrams.

(iii) The tyrothricin used in making the batch: 5 packages, each containing approximately 300 milligrams.

(iv) The batch: A minimum of 30 troches.

(v) In case of an initial request for certification, each other ingredient used in making the batch: 1 package of each containing approximately 5 grams.

(e) Fees. The fee for the services rendered with respect to each batch under the regulations in this section shall be:

(1) $1.25 for each troche submitted in accordance with paragraph (d)(2)(iv) of this section; $4 for each package in the samples submitted in accordance with paragraph (d)(2)(i), (ii), (iii), and (v) of this section.

(2) If the Commissioner considers that investigations, other than examination of such troches and packages are necessary to determine whether or not such batch complies with the requirements of § 146.3 of this chapter for the issuance of a certificate, the cost of such investigations.

Effective date. This order shall be effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

CUSTOMS AUTOMATED ACCOUNTING SYSTEM

Suspension of Effective Date

The date(s) for implementing the automated accounting system in each of the following regions as published in Treasury Decision 67-33 (32 F.R. 492) and amended by Treasury Decision 67-71 (32 F.R. 3741), is temporarily suspended. The effective date of the regulations implementing the automated accounting system in these regions will be announced by publication of a notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Region No.	Headquarters
V	New Orleans, La.
VI	Houston, Tex.
VII	Los Angeles, Calif.
VIII	San Francisco, Calif.
IX	Chicago, Ill.
II	New York, N.Y.

Attention is again called to the fact that, although courtesy notices of liquidation will be issued as soon as possible after the system is implemented, the posting of the bulletin notice of liquidation provided for in § 16.2 of the Customs Regulations will continue to constitute full compliance with the requirement for giving notice of liquidation under section 505, Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1505).

The importer number is essential to proper association of transactions with the importer of record and must be on file to afford timely recording and reporting of information by the Data Center under the automated accounting system. Brokers and importers are requested, therefore, to comply with § 24.5 of the Customs Regulations which became effective February 1, 1967, upon issuance of T.D. 67-33, dated January 9, 1967, and file their identification numbers (Customs Form 5106), even though the customs region in which they are doing business is not scheduled for automation until a later date.

Commissioner of Customs.

Title 31—MONEY AND FINANCE: TREASURY

Chapter II—Fiscal Service, Department of the Treasury

SUBCHAPTER A—BUREAU OF ACCOUNTS

PART 205—WITHDRAWAL OF CASH FROM THE TREASURY FOR ADVANCES UNDER FEDERAL PROGRAMS

Subchapter A, Chapter II of Title 31 of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended by a new part, designated Part 205 (also appearing as Treasury Department Circular 1075 (Revised), dated Feb. 13, 1967) reading as follows:

Sec.
205.1 Purpose.
205.2 Scope of regulations.
205.3 General policy.
205.4 Letter-of-credit method of financing advances.
205.5 Implementing instructions.

AUTHORITY: The provisions of this Part 205 are issued under R.S. 161, as amended; 5 U.S.C. 301.

§ 205.1 Purpose.

This part is issued in recognition of the facts that Federal programs which involve cash advances to organizations outside the Federal Government constitute a significant portion of the Federal Budget and that timing of advance payments has a substantial impact on the Treasury, including the level of the public debt and financing costs. The purpose of this part is to preclude withdrawals from the Treasury any sooner than necessary to finance the operations of recipients of advances.

§ 205.2 Scope of regulations.

The regulations in this part cover disbursement practices for all advances under Federal grant or other programs, including advances to a State and local government, educational institution, international organization, and any other public and private organization, hereinafter referred to as "recipient organization". Coverage is intended to be so broad as to apply to any program requiring advance Federal payments to finance the recipient organization's activities in carrying out that program, whether by contract, grant, contribution, or other form of agreement. Programs involving either administrative budget or trust funds are covered. Programs for which disbursements are made, or will be made, as reimbursements for work performed or which require delivery or performance before payment are not covered by this part.

§ 205.3 General policy.

Advances shall be limited to the minimum amounts possible. Advances shall be timed to be in accord with the actual cash requirements of the recipient organization in carrying out the purpose of the approved program or project. For relatively small operations (where the aggregate annual amount of advances is under $250,000) the amount of cash advances in the hands of the recipient organization shall not at any time exceed 1 month's needs and the agency authorizing the advance shall be guided accordingly. For larger operations the amount of cash advances in the hands of the recipient organization shall be as close to daily needs as administratively feasible. In general, the larger the annual amount of advances to any recipient organization, the more frequent specific cash advances shall be.

§ 205.4 Letter-of-credit method of financing advances.

(a) Applicability. Whenever the purpose of this part cannot be fully accomplished by making advances by check under regular disbursement procedure, the letter-of-credit method shall be considered. Letters of credit provide recipient organizations with the means of obtaining funds promptly from the Treasury, from time to time, as close to actual daily needs as administratively feasible, under approved Federal programs. Alternative methods of making advances may be approved by the Treasury if equally advantageous in meeting the purpose of this part.

(b) Limitations. The letter-of-credit method shall not apply unless (1) the Federal department or agency has, or expects to have, a continuing relationship of at least 1 year with a recipient organization, and (2) the annual amount of advances will be at least $250,000. Documents drawing on letters of credit ordinarily will not be in amounts less than $10,000 or more than $1 million, but in no case more than $5 million unless so stated on the letter of credit.

(c) Execution. Each letter of credit (Standard Form 1193) shall be executed by an authorized certifying officer of the department or agency concerned and the provisions of this part shall be considered as part of the conditions therein.

(d) Drawdowns. Recipient organizations shall draw on letters of credit by issuing a payment voucher, Standard Form 218. Each payment voucher, bearing the signature and, if required, the countersignature of the individuals so authorized by the recipient organization, shall be forwarded through the commercial bank in which the recipient organization has its account to the appropriate Federal Reserve Bank or branch, where the payment voucher will be reviewed for compliance herewith and the payment charged to the general account of the Treasurer of the United States. The amount of each payment voucher paid by a Federal Reserve Bank or branch to a designated commercial bank for credit to the account of the recipient organization shall constitute payment to the recipient organization by the United States.

(e) Signature cards. The Federal department or agency, before issuing a letter of credit, shall secure from the recipient organization a signature card, Standard Form 1194, bearing (1) the names and signatures of the individuals authorized to sign and, if required, countersign payment vouchers, and (2) the signature of an official of the recipient organization who has authority to designate the individuals so authorized. The signature card shall be signed by an authorized certifying officer of the Federal department or agency evidencing that agency's approval of the signatures. The Federal department or agency concerned is responsible for determining that the official of the recipient organization whose signature appears in accord with subparagraph (2) of this paragraph is duly authorized to designate the individuals indicated in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph. If deemed necessary in fulfilling such responsibility, the Federal department or agency may also secure from the recipient organization a designation, authenticated by its governing body (or by the officer duly authorized in the case of a public agency) of the official or officials of the recipient organization, together with specimens of their signatures, who are authorized to designate the individuals to sign payment vouchers.

(f) Disposition. Letters of credit, together with related signature cards, shall be transmitted to the Bureau of Accounts, Department of the Treasury, Washington, D.C. 20226, for transmittal to the appropriate Federal Reserve Bank or branch and a copy of the letter of credit shall be furnished to the recipient organization. A recipient organization shall not submit, and a Federal Reserve Bank or branch shall not charge the account of the Treasurer of the United States for, any payment voucher which exceeds the balance of the letter or credit remaining available, or which does not contain the signature and, if required, countersignature of the individuals authorized to sign the payment voucher.

§ 205.5 Implementing instructions and forms.

(a) Procedural requirements under this part will be promulgated by the Commissioner of Accounts in the "Treasury Fiscal Requirements Manual for Guidance of Departments and Agencies."

(b) Agency procedures to accomplish the objective of this part will be submitted to the Commissioner of Accounts, Bureau of Accounts, for approval in behalf of the Fiscal Assistant Secretary.

(c) The forms required by this part will be furnished to recipient organizations by the Federal grantor agency.

Effective date. This addition to Subchapter A is effective immediately.

Dated: July 5, 1967.

[SEAL] JOHN K. CARLOCK,
Fiscal Assistant Secretary.

MILK IN THE SOUTHERN ILLINOIS, CENTRAL ILLINOIS, ST. LOUIS, MO., AND OZARKS MARKETING AREAS

Decision on Proposed Amendments to Tentative Marketing Agreements and to Orders

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held at St. Louis, Mo., on March 2, 1967, pursuant to notice thereof issued on February 23, 1967 (32 F.R. 3298).

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof, the Deputy Administrator, Regulatory Programs, on June 2, 1967 (32 F.R. 8176; F.R. Doc. 67–6357) filed with the Hearing Clerk, U.S. Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision containing notice of the opportunity to file written exceptions thereto.

The material issues, findings and conclusions, rulings, and general findings of the recommended decision (32 F.R. 8176; F.R. Doc. 67–6357) are hereby approved and adopted and are set forth in full herein subject to the following modifications:

Under Findings and Conclusions two sentences are added at the end of the second paragraph and a sentence is added at the end of the 14th paragraph.

The material issue on the record of the hearing relates to the seasonal production incentive plan in each of the four markets.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on the material issue are based on evidence presented at the hearing and the record thereof.

Seasonal production incentive plan. The "Louisville" plan for seasonal payments to milk producers in these four markets should be modified to set aside 15 cents per hundredweight of producer milk during each of the months of March and July and 25 cents per hundredweight during each of the months of April, May, and June. The payment of this money to producers during the fall months should be modified also by adding the month of September to the months of October, November, and December as the period in which the payments are made. The rate of payment of this money in the September–December period should be 20 percent in each of the months of September and December and 30 percent in each of the months of October and November. These changes should be made effective beginning with March 1968. In addition, the period for set aside this year should be continued through August at the existing rate of 10 cents per hundredweight. The month of September 1967 should be added as a "pay-back" month. The payments back to producers in 1967 should be made at the rate of one-fourth of the total withheld for each of the months of September through December.

A Louisville plan for seasonal adjustment of payments to producers has been effective in the St. Louis, Mo., Ozarks, and Suburban St. Louis (now Southern Illinois) orders for several years. A similar Louisville plan was made a part of the Central Illinois order issued to be effective January 1, 1967. The purpose of these plans is to provide incentive for producers in each of these markets to achieve a more even production of milk throughout the year.

The present orders provide for retaining in the producer-settlement fund 10 cents per hundredweight of producer milk delivered during the months of April through July. This money is distributed to producers during the following months of October through December, one-third of the total in each month. During each of the months of October, November, and December in each of the three orders where the plan has been operative, the inclusion of this money in the uniform prices to producers during the fall months has contributed approximately 14 cents per hundredweight to the level of price.

This seasonal variation in returns to producers has been in addition to that resulting from seasonal changes in Class I price differentials. Prior to amendment of the orders May 1, 1967, seasonal Class I differentials were provided as follows: At the annual average for each respective order in the months of December, January, February, and July; 20 cents per hundredweight higher in the months of August through November; and 20 cents lower than the annual average in other months.[1]

The seven cooperative associations, which represent a majority of the producers in each of the four markets here considered, asked that the Louisville plans of the respective orders be modified as described above if the seasonal Class I differentials were changed to a single annual differential. The proponent cooperative associations were of the opinion that with the seasonal changes in Class I price differentials eliminated it would be necessary to provide other means to encourage producers to avoid undue seasonal changes in production.

For the March–July period, under the proposal, the average of the monthly rates of deduction would be 21 cents per hundredweight. Money set aside at this rate during these 5 months, and subsequent payment in the 4-month fall period, would produce a seasonal variation in the St. Louis market blend price estimated at close to 50 cents per hundredweight. Additional seasonal changes in per hundredweight returns would result from normal changes in class utilization.

The proposed plan would produce similar seasonal changes in returns to producers in each of the four markets. The total effect would be not greatly different from the changes previously resulting from the combination of the existing Louisville plans at a lesser rate of deduction and the additional effect of the seasonal changes in Class I differentials.

The problem that the seasonal production incentive plan is intended to correct is the tendency towards large seasonal changes in production which aggravate the problems of handling reserve milk in some months and the converse problem of providing an adequate supply during other times of the year. Production per farm tends to be higher in spring months than in the fall.

In the St. Louis market during 1966, production per farm during the proposed set-aside months (March through July) was 109 percent of the production per farm during the subsequent fall months of September through December. In the Ozarks market the corresponding percentage was approximately 111 percent.

The problem of seasonal changes in production, however, is greater than would be represented by these average production per farm data for these groups of months. This is because the average obscures the extremes of variation from spring to fall seasons. In the St. Louis market, for instance, the production per farm at the highest level was in May, which was 122 percent of the production per farm in October. Similarly, in the Ozarks market, production per farm in May was 129 percent of production per farm in October.

In the Southern Illinois market, based on data prior to expansion of the marketing area January 1, 1967, production per farm in June 1966 was 117 percent of the production per farm in September.[2] While similar data are not available for the Central Illinois market, inasmuch as it became effective January 1, 1967, it would be expected because of the similarity of production conditions that the problem of seasonal variation in production per farm would be about the same as in the other three markets.

[1] Official notice is taken of amendments to these orders effective May 1, 1967 (32 F.R. 6606), providing for a single Class I differential in each order equal to the annual average of the prior seasonal differentials.

[2] Official notice is taken of data published by the market administrator for Order No. 32.

The position of the proponent cooperative associations was that seasonal changes in production would continue to be a problem which could become more severe unless the orders were amended to provide seasonal changes in producer returns comparable to those under prior pricing plans. With the removal of seasonal changes in Class I differentials, the cooperatives felt that a larger seasonal change in producer returns should be provided under the Louisville plan.

The proposed modification would begin Louisville plan deductions in March, which was the month of the hearing. The proposed higher rates of deduction were contingent, however, on adoption of proposed amendments to eliminate seasonal Class I price differentials, which were effectuated May 1, 1967. The proponent witness indicated that under this condition the higher rates of set aside should be made effective beginning in March 1968, and that the present deduction of 10 cents per hundredweight should be continued through August this year. In their exceptions proponents stated that their proposal would include September in the fall payment months beginning in 1967 rather than in 1968 as provided in the recommended decision.

The rates of deduction and payment proposed by the cooperative associations for these four markets will result in an effective and proper method of encouraging a more even seasonal rate of production. The varying rates of deduction during the March–July period are designed to apply the highest rates in the months of greatest seasonal surplus, namely April through June. The lesser rates of deduction would apply in March and July when production is normally higher than the annual average, although not as high as in April, May, and June.

Similarly, the fall payments would be highest in October and November when production normally is seasonally lowest. The lesser rate of payment would apply in September and December when production normally is higher than in October and November but less than the annual average. It is appropriate that the payment months of 1967 include September as requested by the association. Proponents' exceptions pointed out that this month represents the beginning of seasonal decrease in production and seasonal increase in Class I sales. Such conditions would be as applicable this year as in subsequent years. However, the 1967 fall payments should be divided pro rata among the four months (September through December) in view of the lesser amount of funds involved than provided for subsequent years.

The purpose of discouraging extreme seasonal changes in production is in the interest of orderly marketing of milk in these markets. The proposed modifications of the seasonal production incentive plans in these four orders are adopted.

Three handlers who operate plants in one or the other of the Southern Illinois or Central Illinois order areas stated that they approved the principle of the Louisville plan as a method of encouraging a more level production throughout the year. The same handlers objected, however, to the proposed increase in the rate of set aside at this time under the Central Illinois and Southern Illinois orders. They feared that the increased rates of set aside during the spring and summer months and payment during fall months would result in seasonal misalignment of prices to producers compared with markets to the north in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa. It was also argued that handlers would need to pay premiums in whichever market the uniform prices were lower due to the proposed seasonal changes. Otherwise, it was argued, dairy farmers would tend to shift between markets to get a higher price.

If the arguments of these handlers have validity, the same arguments would apply to the producer price relationships between St. Louis and Southern Illinois, and between Southern Illinois and Central Illinois if the proposed higher rates were made effective only in Southern Illinois. In effect, therefore, the arguments seem to preclude modification of the Louisville plans of these orders unless similar seasonal pricing to dairy farmers were simultaneously made effective in all markets which are in close geographic relationship.

It is concluded that the reasons given by the handlers in objection to the proposed changes should not prevent the adoption of changes to be effective beginning March 1968. During the intervening period there will be opportunity for parties in adjoining markets to propose appropriate changes in seasonal variation of returns to their producers. The issuance of a recommended decision at this time on this record will serve to inform interested parties in other markets as to the changes to be made in the four markets considered here. Furthermore, whether or not comparable changes are made in adjoining markets, it would not be expected that the difference in payment plans would result in serious disruption of milk supplies. Some seasonal variation in returns to producers normally occurs in any market due to changes in class utilization. Thus all markets in the area will to a degree have similar periods of seasonally higher and seasonally lower prices.

The Louisville plan of distributing returns to producers does not affect handlers' costs under the order or change the total amount of money received by all producers for a year's milk production. For the individual producer, however, the plan may change the amount of money he receives for his year's production of milk. The plan would tend to increase, or on the other hand, decrease, the returns to an individual dairy farmer depending on whether the seasonal variation in his production was less or more, respectively, than the market average. It is only by providing that the individual dairy farmer's returns will be so affected that the plan can achieve its purpose of rectifying extreme seasonal changes in milk production. In these markets producers as represented by their cooperative associations desire that their money be paid to them in the manner proposed.

A cooperative association whose members supply certain Ozarks order handlers requested that if such handlers are exempted from the Ozarks order regulation due to a change in the marketing area between the periods of set aside and payment under the Louisville plan, then the proportionate amount of money deducted for member milk should be in some manner returned to such members.

The question of marketing area change is a consideration in records of other hearings on the Ozarks and St. Louis orders pursuant to notice issued January 24, 1967 (32 F.R. 1042) and the Ozarks and Fort Smith orders pursuant to notice issued October 11, 1966 (31 F.R. 13395). Decisions on those records are pending. It would not be possible to anticipate on this record what modifications of the marketing area might be made or what importance these or other changes based on the other records would have in relation to the Louisville plan. The problem raised by the cooperative therefore cannot be resolved on this record.

[1] This order shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders have been met.

The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of each of the aforesaid orders and the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein. The following findings are hereby made with respect to each of the aforesaid orders.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order regulating the handling of milk in the above designated marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The parity prices of milk, as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order as hereby amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial or commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

[7 CFR Part 1128]

[Docket No. AO 238-A20]

MILK IN CENTRAL WEST TEXAS MARKETING AREA

Decision on Proposed Amendments to Tentative Marketing Agreement and to Order

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held at Abilene, Tex., on February 9, 1967, pursuant to notice thereof issued on January 31, 1967 (32 F.R. 2382).

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof, the Deputy Administrator, Regulatory Programs on March 27, 1967 (32 F.R. 5371; F.R. Doc. 67-3500) filed with the Hearing Clerk, U.S. Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision containing notice of the opportunity to file written exceptions thereto.

The material issues, findings and conclusions, rulings, and general findings of the recommended decision (32 F.R. 5371; F.R. Doc. 67-3500) are hereby approved and adopted and are set forth in full herein subject to the following modifications:

Under issue No. 1, paragraphs 1, 10, 11, and 13 are revised, a new paragraph is inserted immediately following paragraph 13, paragraph 14 is revised, paragraphs 15, 16, 17, 18, and 19 are deleted and six new paragraphs are substituted therefor.

The material issues on the record of the hearing relate to:

1. Revision of Class I price and location adjustments.

2. Emergency action on Issue 1.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on the material issues are based on evidence presented at the hearing and the record thereof:

1. Revision of Class I price and location adjustments. The Class I and uniform prices for milk received at plants within 70 miles of Midland, Tex., should be reduced by 15 cents. No action should be taken at this time to change Class I prices at other locations.

The Central West Texas Class I price is presently 25 cents over the North Texas Class I price at Abilene and San Angelo plants and 40 cents over North Texas at a Midland plant. The announced Class I price is subject to minus location adjustments so that the price for milk delivered to a plant in the eastern portion of the marketing area that is nearer to the North Texas marketing area is reduced by 20 cents to a level 5 cents more than the North Texas Class I price. The same adjustments apply to the producer uniform prices. While the Central West Texas marketing area includes 32 cities and towns located in 22 counties in Texas, processing plants regulated under the order are operated only at the cities of Abilene, San Angelo, and Midland. A supply plant operated by the cooperative association is located at Dublin.

The cooperative association representing all but one of the Central West Texas producers and a handler operating pool distributing plants at Midland and Abilene proposed elimination of the 15-cent increase in the Class I price at Midland over the price effective at Abilene. A handler operating a pool distributing plant at Abilene proposed a general reduction of 15 cents per hundredweight in the Class I price at all plant locations.

The handler who operates two pool plants, one at Midland and the other at Abilene, also operates a plant at Lubbock that is a pool plant under the Lubbock-Plainview order. This handler contended that the Midland area Class I price is excessive in relation to prices to competing distributors regulated by this order at certain locations and in relation to prices under nearby Federal orders. He testified that a shift in the area of supply of producer milk for the Midland plant from the eastern portion of the marketing area to west Texas and New Mexico has removed justification for a 15-cent higher level in the Class I prices at that location. The cooperative joined in the proposal, primarily because it feared that the Midland plant would be closed and the distribution area now served by the plant would be served either by other order plants or from the Abilene plant of this handler. In either case the cooperative association felt it could not provide producers supplying the Midland plant a market with returns equal to those they now have.

The handler proposing a general 15-cent reduction in the Class I price level opposed elimination of the 15-cent differential at Midland. He distributes milk in the Midland section of the marketing area from his Abilene plant. He contends that a Midland price at the Abilene level would give his Midland competitor a competitive advantage equal to the transportation cost on the milk he moves the 143 miles between the two cities. He contended that at present price levels distribution in other parts of the marketing area by plants regulated by the Red River Valley, Lubbock-Plainview, North Texas, and Oklahoma Metropolitan orders could displace producer milk from Class I uses.

A handler operating plants regulated under the Red River Valley and North Texas orders that distribute milk in the Central West Texas area offered at the hearing a modified proposal to set the Abilene Class I price at 17 cents over that of North Texas and the price at Midland 13 cents higher than the Abilene price. In his brief, however, he abandoned this proposal in favor of no change in present order provisions.

Producer receipts and Class I use at Central West Texas regulated plants have been maintained at a relatively steady level for the past 2 years. This market is one of relatively high Class I utilization of producer receipts. For the past 4 years Class I use of producer milk has ranged from 85 to 90 percent. In 1965, 85 percent of producer milk was used in Class I, down from the 90 percent utilization in 1963 and 1964, but such use increased to 88 percent of producer receipts in 1966.

Generally the local supply of producer milk has been sufficient at present Class I prices to supply the fluid milk needs of handlers regulated by the Central West Texas order. There has been no occasion in the recent past to procure bulk milk from alternative sources for the needs of these plants. However, regular distribution in this marketing area is made by plants regulated under nearby orders. Such other order plant distribution of milk has not increased in the past 2 years but has been maintained relatively steady. Regular route distribution is made by handlers in this area from the North Texas, San Antonio, Red River Valley, Oklahoma Metropolitan, Rio Grande Valley, and Lubbock-Plainview markets.

The principal source of milk supply for local plants is from approximately 300 producers with farms located in counties containing parts of the marketing area or counties adjacent thereto. Some of these producers delivering milk directly to Central West Texas plants are located in New Mexico and in Texas counties located in the marketing area of the Red River Valley or North Texas orders.

There are regular and continuing Class I sales of fluid milk to consumers in the marketing area from plants regulated under nearby orders and by producer-handlers. Such sales by these other plants have ranged from 28 percent of the total marketing area Class I distribution to 32 percent in the last 7 years. In 1966, distribution from plants other than regulated plants amounted to 45 million pounds or 29 percent of total Class I distribution in the marketing area. This is a decline from 32 percent in 1964 and 31 percent in 1965.

The Lubbock-Plainview and Red River Valley orders are the principal orders under which it claimed that milk may be distributed in the Central West Texas area at a competitive advantage over milk priced by the Central West Texas order. To a lesser extent it is claimed that North Texas handlers have competitive advantage, particularly in the eastern portion of the area to which Central West Texas handlers move milk eastward.

The Lubbock-Plainview price is 30 cents less than the Central West Texas price at Midland and 15 cents less than that at Abilene. Lubbock is 117 miles from Midland. At a rate of 1.5 cents per hundredweight per 10 miles, Lubbock-Plainview milk could be delivered to Midland at 12 cents less than the Central West Texas price at Midland. Lubbock-Plainview milk is distributed in the Midland-Odessa section of the Central West Texas area. More important, it is at Lubbock that the Midland handler has a plant from which he could serve the sales now served by the Midland plant.

Red River Valley milk is distributed in the Midland-Odessa area from a plant in Wichita Falls. In 1966, the Midland price exceeded the Wichita Falls price by 16 cents per hundredweight in addition to the transportation cost. While Red River Valley milk has in the past also been distributed in the Abilene portion of the Central West Texas area, such sales are presently being served from the North Texas plant of this handler. The Red River Valley milk could have been delivered to Abilene in 1966 at an average of about 22 cents per hundredweight less than the Central West Texas Class I price.

About 4 cents of these differences in prices was due to the action of separate supply-demand adjustors affecting the Class I prices. Official notice is taken that a hearing has been held at which proposals were offered to establish a common supply-demand adjustor for all Oklahoma and Texas orders which would remove supply-demand adjustor differences between these markets. If these supply-demand adjustor disparities had been removed in 1966, milk from both the Red River Valley and Lubbock-Plainview markets could have been delivered to Midland at 12 cents less than the Central West Texas price at that location.

While Central West Texas handlers and producers are not currently losing Class I sales to other markets, there is clearly potential for such loss in the current price alignment with such orders. The potential loss is greatest with respect to sales of the Midland plant since the operator of this plant also operates an other order plant which could serve the Midland sales area. The imminent threat to loss of Class I sales to other markets is with respect to the sales served by the Midland plant.

The recommended decision proposed that prices be reduced by 10 cents at plants located in the Abilene area and by 5 cents in the San Angelo area. After a review of the record, it is concluded that no change should be made in prices applicable at these plant locations at this time. Strong exceptions were filed to the recommended decision which proposed reduction of prices at pool plants at locations other than at Midland. Exceptors pointed out that only at the Midland plant location is there any immediate need for price adjustment.

Review of the record evidence in light of the exceptions filed indicates there is less need at this time for price adjustments at plants located in the Abilene and San Angelo areas than at the Midland plant. The Midland handler could serve the local distribution area from his Lubbock-Plainview plant and such Class I sales would be lost to producers in this market.

Handlers with plants at Abilene could start serving the fluid milk sales in this marketing area from their plants under other orders. There is no indication on the record that they intend to do so at this time. The current alignment of prices at the Abilene area plants and the prices at plants of such handlers under other orders would indicate little or no price advantage could accrue to handlers if sales were shifted to other order plants. The Central West Texas handlers with plants at Abilene and San Angelo do not operate Red River Valley plants under which some price advantage might be found.

While handlers under the Red River Valley order can deliver milk to Abilene for less than the Central West Texas prices at Abilene and San Angelo, no Red River Valley handler is currently making sales in the city of Abilene or in other cities close to Abilene. Except for the sales in the Midland-Odessa area noted above, Red River Valley handlers were shown to have sales in only seven of the 32 cities of the marketing area. These seven cities are small cities in the general area nearest to Wichita Falls, where these handlers' plants are located. Even in these cities their sales exceed 10 percent of the total in only two cities, for which it was claimed their sales were 17 and 20 percent, respectively, of total sales. One handler regulated by the San Antonio order, but whose plant is located in the Red River Valley marketing area, distributes more generally over the Central West Texas area, but was not shown to have over 10 percent of total sales in any city. In Abilene this percentage was 2 percent.

While there is potential danger of loss of Abilene sales to Red River Valley milk, there is no present showing of such loss nor danger that it will become substantial in the immediate future. Should such losses occur, an amendatory hearing could be called to examine the need for further price alignment.

Accordingly, it is concluded that action on this record should be limited to removal of the plus 15-cent location adjustment at plants located within 70 miles of Midland, Tex.

2. Emergency action on Issue 1. The Midland handler and the cooperative association urged that emergency suspension action be taken and that a recommended decision on Issue 1 with respect to the Midland price be omitted. Other handlers objected to taking emergency action contending that this is a problem that has existed for a long time and there is no urgency in the matter which would require deviation from normal amendatory procedures.

In view of the expressed opposition to the emergency suspension or elimination of a recommended decision and because testimony on the record indicates no imminence of disorderly marketing conditions in the area, emergency action is denied.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs and proposed findings and conclusions were filed on behalf of certain interested parties. These briefs, proposed findings and conclusions and the evidence in the record were considered in making the findings and conclusions set forth above. To the extent that the suggested findings and conclusions filed by interested parties are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions set forth herein, the request to make such findings or reach such conclusions are denied for the reasons previously stated in this decision.

General findings. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) The tentative marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The tentative marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Rulings on exceptions. In arriving at the findings and conclusions, and the regulatory provisions of this decision, each of the exceptions received was carefully and fully considered in conjunction with the record evidence pertaining thereto. To the extent that the findings and conclusions, and the regulatory provisions of this decision are at variance with any of the exceptions, such exceptions are hereby overruled for the reasons previously stated in this decision.

Marketing agreement and order. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled, respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Central West Texas Marketing Area", and "Order Amending the Order Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Central West Texas Marketing Area", which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order as hereby proposed to be amended by the attached order which will be published with this decision.

Determination of representative period. The month of April 1967 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance of the attached order, as amended and as hereby proposed to be amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Central West Texas marketing area, is approved or favored by producers, as defined under the terms of the order, as amended and as hereby proposed to be amended, and who, during such representative period, were engaged in the production of milk for sale within the aforesaid marketing area.

Signed at Washington, D.C., on July 5, 1967.

GEORGE L. MEHREN,
Assistant Secretary.

Order[1] Amending the Order Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Central West Texas Marketing Area

§ 1128.0 Findings and determinations.

The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order regulating the handling of milk in the Central West Texas marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The parity prices of milk, as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order as hereby amended are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial or commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

ORDER RELATIVE TO HANDLING

It is therefore ordered, That on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the Central West Texas marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended and as hereby amended, as follows:

[1] This order shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders have been met.

§ 1128.53 [Amended]

1. Section 1128.53(a) is revoked and paragraphs (b), (c), and (d) are redesignated (a), (b), and (c), respectively.

2. Section 1128.91 (a) is revised to read as follows:

§ 1128.91 Location adjustments to producers.

(a) In making payments to producers pursuant to § 1128.90, the uniform price for all milk computed pursuant to § 1128.72 for milk received from producers at an approved plant shall be adjusted at the rates set forth in § 1128.53, applicable at the location of such plant.

c. To provide that any mixture of one type of straight whisky be designated as "straight (appropriate type) whisky" instead of "a blend of straight (appropriate type) whiskies."

d. To provide that any mixture of different types of straight whiskies be designated as "straight whisky" instead of "a blend of straight whiskies."

c. To provide that all domestically produced whiskies must be aged a minimum of 2 years before bottling.

d. To provide that regulatory changes in respect to the labeling of any whisky or other distilled spirits shall not apply to products produced before the date of the publication of the new regulations in final form; nor to products produced after said date if bottled in less than 6 years from the date of publication.

6. Petitioner: Joseph E. Seagram & Sons, Inc., 375 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022.

Petition: a. To amend the standards of identity with respect to distilled spirits distilled at or above 190° proof from a fermented mash of grain to provide that such distilled spirits, when stored in reused cooperage for not less than 2 years, be designated "grain spirits" in lieu of "neutral spirits" with the required statement as to the commodity from which distilled.

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amending §§ 71.171 and 71.181 of Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations so as to alter the Cincinnati, Ohio, control zone and 700-foot floor transition area.

A new NDB (ADF) instrument approach procedure has been authorized for Cincinnati Municipal (Lunken Field) Airport, Cincinnati, Ohio, and will require airspace protection for aircraft executing the approach and departure procedures.

1. Amend § 71.171 of Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations so as to delete the description of the Cincinnati, Ohio, control zone and insert in lieu thereof the following:

CINCINNATI, OHIO

Within a 5-mile radius of the center, 39°06'14'' N., 84°25'18'' W., of Cincinnati Municipal (Lunken Field) Airport, Cincinnati, Ohio; within 2 miles each side of the Cincinnati Municipal ILS localizer north course extending from the 5-mile radius zone to the Madeira, Ohio, RBN and within 2 miles each side of a 227° bearing from the Lunken RBN extending from the 5-mile radius zone to the RBN.

2. Amend § 71.181 of Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations so as to delete in the 700-foot floor Cincinnati, Ohio, transition area the phrase "Within an 8-mile radius" and insert in lieu thereof "Within a 9-mile radius"; further delete the period at the end of the paragraph and add "; within 2 miles each side of a 044° bearing from the Lunken RBN extending from the 9-mile radius area to 8 miles northeast of the RBN and within 2 miles each side of a 040° bearing from the Lunken RBN extending from the 9-mile radius area to 12 miles northeast of the RBN."

[Airspace Docket No. 67-AL-5]

CONTROL ZONE AND TRANSITION AREA

Proposed Designation

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amendments to Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations that would designate a control zone and transition area at Point Barrow, Alaska, as follows:

1. The Point Barrow, Alaska, control zone would be within a 5-mile radius of the Point Barrow AFS Airport, Point Barrow, Alaska (latitude 71°20'18'' N., longitude 156°38'00'' W.); within 2 miles each side of the 041° True (015° M) bearing from the Point Barrow radio beacon (PBA), extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 8 miles northeast of the RBN; within 2 miles each side of the 171° True (145° M) bearing from the Point Barrow RBN (PBA), extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 8 miles south of the RBN; within a 5-mile radius of the Wiley Post-Will Rogers Memorial Airport, Barrow, Alaska (latitude 71°17'05'' N., longitude 156°46'05'' W.); within 2 miles each side of the 226° True (200° M) bearing from the Point Barrow, Alaska RBN (BRW), extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 8 miles southwest of the RBN; and within 2 miles each side of the 286° True (240° M) bearing from the Point Barrow RBN (BRW), extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 8 miles west of the RBN. This control zone would be effective during the specific dates and times established in advance by a Notice to Airmen. The effective date and time would thereafter be continuously published in the Alaska Airman's Guide and Chart Supplement.

2. The Point Barrow, Alaska, transition area would be designated as that airspace extending upward from 700 feet above the surface within a 17-mile radius of latitude 71°18'00'' N., longitude 156° 43'00'' W. This transition area would be effective during the specific dates and times established in advance by a Notice to Airmen. The effective date and time would thereafter be continuously published in the Alaska Airman's Guide and Chart Supplement.

The proposed control zone and transition area would provide controlled airspace for aircraft executing holding patterns, and instrument approach and departure procedures for the airports concerned.

Considerably more than 200 annual instrument approach procedures have been conducted in the Point Barrow area for a number of years. The continuing volume of instrument operations in this area of notably poor weather conditions dictates the need for the proposed control zone and transition area.

Minimum facilities necessary to support the proposed control zone, transition area and a public instrument approach procedure for the Point Barrow area are planned in the near future. Special instrument approach procedures using a private radio beacon to both airports, are authorized for a scheduled air carrier.

A part-time Flight Service Station is expected to be operational at Barrow, Alaska, in the near future. Initially, the hours of operation will be from 0800 to 1800, local time, daily. However, after it has been in operation for a sufficient period of time, a determination will be made concerning the hours of operation required to meet the public need. The time of weather observations, point-to-point communications to Fairbanks, Alaska, air route traffic control center, and air/ground communications capability will coincide with the hours of operation of the Flight Service Station.

As parts of these proposals relate to navigable airspace outside the United States, this notice is submitted in consonance with the ICAO International Standards and Recommended Practices.

Applicability of International Standards and Recommended Practices, by the Air Traffic Service, FAA, in areas outside domestic airspace of the United States is governed by Article 21 and Annex 11 to the Convention on International Civil Aviation (ICAO), which pertains to the establishment of air navigation facilities and services necessary to promoting the safe, orderly, and expeditious flow of civil air traffic. Its purpose is to insure that civil flying on international air routes is carried out under uniform conditions designed to improve the safety and efficiency of air operations.

The International Standards and Recommended Practices in Annex 11 apply in those parts of the airspace under the jurisdiction of a contracting state, derived from ICAO, wherein air traffic services are provided and also whenever a contracting state accepts the responsibility of providing air traffic services over high seas or in airspace of undetermined sovereignty. A contracting state accepting such responsibility may apply the International Standards and Recommended Practices to civil aircraft in a manner consistent with that adopted for airspace under its domestic jurisdiction.

In accordance with Article 3 of the Convention on International Civil Aviation, Chicago, 1944, state aircraft are exempt from the provisions of Annex 11 and its Standards and Recommended Practices. As a contracting state, the United States agreed by Article 3(d) that its state aircraft will be operated in international airspace with due regard for the safety of civil aircraft.

Since this action involves, in part, the designation of navigable airspace outside the United States, the Administrator has consulted with the Secretary of State and Secretary of Defense in accordance with the provisions of Executive Order 10854.

Interested persons may participate in the proposed rule making by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should identify the airspace docket number and be submitted in triplicate to the Director, Alaskan Region, Attention: Chief, Air Traffic Division, Federal Aviation Administration, 632 Sixth Avenue, Anchorage 99501. All communications received within 30 days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendments. The proposals contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

An official docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Federal Aviation Administration, Office of the General Counsel, Attention: Rules Docket, 800 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20590. An informal docket also will be available for examination at the Office of the Regional Air Traffic Division Chief.

These amendments are proposed under the authority of sections 307(a) and 1110 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1348, 1510) and Executive Order 10854 (24 F.R. 9565).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 3, 1967.

Acting Chief, Airspace and Air Traffic Rules Division.

Communications should identify the airspace docket number and be submitted in triplicate to the Director, Southwest Region, Attention: Chief, Air Traffic Division, Federal Aviation Administration, Post Office Box 1689, Fort Worth, Tex. 76101. All communications received within 45 days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendments. The proposals contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

An official docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Federal Aviation Administration, Office of the General Counsel, Attention: Rules Docket, 800 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20590. An informal docket also will be available for examination at the office of the Regional Air Traffic Division Chief.

FEDERAL AIRWAYS

Supplemental Proposed Alteration

On March 1, 1967, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (32 F.R. 3403) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency was considering amendments to Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations that would realign V-1 from Cape Charles, Va., via the INT of Cape Charles 013° and Salisbury, Md., 206° True radials; to Salisbury; that would designate a segment of V-139 from Norfolk, Va., via Cape Charles; to Snow Hill, Md., including a west alternate from Norfolk to Snow Hill via INT of Norfolk 360° and Snow Hill 226° True radials; and that would revoke the segment of V-194 from Norfolk to INT of Norfolk 031° and Cape Charles 213° True radials. Floors of 1,200 feet above the surface were proposed for these airway segments. These actions were proposed to simplify air traffic control procedures and flight planning in the Norfolk area.

Subsequent to publication of the notice, it was determined that the Snow Hill 226° True radial would not support a Federal airway. Accordingly, the proposals published in the notice are hereby cancelled and in lieu thereof, consideration is given to the following airway alignments that would serve the same purpose.

1. Redesignate the segment of V-194 from Norfolk via the intersection of Norfolk 001° T (008° Mag.) and Harcum, Va., 072° T (079° Mag.) radials; to the intersection of Harcum 072° and Snow Hill 211° True radials.

2. Realign V-1 from Cape Charles via the intersection of Cape Charles 009° T (016° Mag.) and Salisbury 206° T (214° Mag.) radials; to Salisbury.

Interested persons may participate in the proposed rule making by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should identify the airspace docket number and be submitted in triplicate to the Director, Eastern Region, Attention: Chief, Air Traffic Division, Federal Aviation Administration, Federal Building, John F. Kennedy International Airport, Jamaica, N.Y. 11430. All communications received within 45 days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

An official docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Federal Aviation Administration, Office of the General Counsel, Attention: Rules Docket, 800 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20590. An informal docket will be available for examination at the office of the Regional Air Traffic Division Chief.

These amendments are proposed under the authority of section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1348).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 3, 1967.

T. MCCORMACK,
Acting Chief, Airspace and Air Traffic Rules Division.

ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION

[10 CFR Part 50]

LICENSING OF PRODUCTION AND UTILIZATION FACILITIES

General Design Criteria for Nuclear Power Plant Construction Permits

The Atomic Energy Commission has under consideration an amendment to its regulation, 10 CFR Part 50, "Licensing of Production and Utilization Facilities," which would add an Appendix A, "General Design Criteria for Nuclear Power Plant Construction Permits."[1] The purpose of the proposed amendment would be to provide guidance to applicants in developing the principal design criteria to be included in applications for Commission construction permits. These General Design Criteria would not add any new requirements, but are intended to describe more clearly present Commission requirements to assist applicants in preparing applications.

The proposed amendment would complement other proposed amendments to Part 50 which were published for public comment in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 16, 1966 (31 F.R. 10891).

The proposed amendments to Part 50 reflect a recommendation made by a seven-member Regulatory Review Panel, appointed by the Commission to study: (1) The programs and procedures for the licensing and regulation of reactors and (2) the decision-making process in the Commission's regulatory program. The Panel's report recommended the development, particularly at the construction permit stage of a licensing proceeding, of design criteria for nuclear power plants. Work on the development of such criteria had been in process at the time of the Panel's study.

As a result, preliminary proposed criteria for the design of nuclear power plants were discussed with the Commission's Advisory Committee on Reactor Safeguards and were informally distributed for public comment in Commission Press Release H-252 dated November 22, 1965. In developing the proposed criteria set forth in the proposed amendments to Part 50, the Commission has taken into consideration comments and suggestions from the Advisory Committee on Reactor Safeguards, from members of industry, and from the public.

Section 50.34, paragraph (b), as published for comment in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 16, 1966, would require that each application for a construction permit include a preliminary safety analysis report. The minimum information to be included in this preliminary safety analysis report is (1) a description and safety assessment of the site, (2) a summary description of the facility, (3) a preliminary design of the facility, (4) a preliminary safety analysis and evaluation of the facility, (5) an identification of subjects expected to be technical specifications, and (6) a preliminary plan for the organization, training, and operation. The following information is specified for inclusion as part of the preliminary design of the facility:

(i) The principal design criteria for the facility;

(ii) The design bases and the relation of the design bases to the principal design criteria;

(iii) Information relative to materials of construction, general arrangement and approximate dimensions, sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that the final design will conform to the design bases with adequate margin for safety;

The "General Design Criteria for Nuclear Power Plant Construction Permits" proposed to be included as Appendix A to this part are intended to aid the applicant in development item (i) above, the principal design criteria. All criteria established by an applicant and accepted by the Commission would be incorporated by reference in the construction permit. In considering the issuance of an operating license under the regulations, the Commission would assure that the criteria had been met in the detailed design and construction of the facility or that changes in such criteria have been justified.

Section 50.34 as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 16, 1966, would be further amended by adding to Part 50 a new Appendix A containing the General Design Criteria applicable to the construction of nuclear power plants and by a specific reference to this Appendix in § 50.34, paragraph (b).

The Commission expects that the provisions of the proposed amendments relating to General Design Criteria for Nuclear Power Plant Construction Permits will be useful as interim guidance until such time as the Commission takes further action on them.

Pursuant to the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, and the Administrative Procedure Act of 1946, as amended, notice is hereby given that adoption of the following amendments to 10 CFR Part 50 is contemplated. All interested persons who desire to submit written comments or suggestions in connection with the proposed amendments should send them to the Secretary, U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, Washington, D.C. 20545, within 60 days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Comments received after that period will be considered if it is practicable to do so, but assurance of consideration cannot be given except as to comments filed within the period specified. Copies of comments may be examined in the Commission's Public Document Room at 1717 H Street NW., Washington, D.C.

1. Section 50.34(b)(3)(i) of 10 CFR Part 50 is amended to read as follows:

§ 50.34 Contents of applications; technical information safety analysis report.[2]

* * * * *

(b) Each application for a construction permit shall include a preliminary safety analysis report. The report shall cover all pertinent subjects specified in paragraph (a) of this section as fully as available information permits. The minimum information to be included shall consist of the following:

* * * * *

(3) The preliminary design of the facility, including:

(i) The principal design criteria for the facility. Appendix A, "General Design Criteria for Nuclear Power Plant Construction Permits," provides guidance for establishing the principal design criteria for nuclear power plants.

* * * * *

2. A new Appendix A is added to read as follows:

[1] Inasmuch as the Commission has under consideration other amendments to 10 CFR Part 50 (31 F.R. 10891), the amendment proposed herein would be a further revision to Part 50 previously published for comment in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

[2] Inasmuch as the Commission has under consideration other amendments to § 50.34 (31 F.R. 10891), the amendment proposed herein would be a further revision of § 50.34 (b)(3)(i) previously published for comment in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Introduction. Every applicant for a construction permit is required by the provisions of § 50.34 to include the principal design criteria for the proposed facility in the application. These General Design Criteria are intended to be used as guidance in establishing the principal design criteria for a nuclear power plant. The General Design Criteria reflect the predominating experience with water power reactors as designed and located to date, but their applicability is not limited to these reactors. They are considered generally applicable to all power reactors.

Under the Commission's regulations, an applicant must provide assurance that its principal design criteria encompass all those facility design features required in the interest of public health and safety. There may be some power reactor cases for which fulfillment of some of the General Design Criteria may not be necessary or appropriate. There will be other cases in which these criteria are insufficient, and additional criteria must be identified and satisfied by the design in the interest of public safety. It is expected that additional criteria will be needed particularly for unusual sites and environmental conditions, and for new and advanced types of reactors. Within this context, the General Design Criteria should be used as a reference allowing additions or deletions as an individual case may warrant. Departures from the General Design Criteria should be justified.

The criteria are designated as "General Design Criteria for Nuclear Power Plant Construction Permits" to emphasize the key role they assume at this stage of the licensing process. The criteria have been categorized as Category A or Category B. Experience has shown that more definitive information is needed at the construction permit stage for the items listed in Category A than for those in Category B.

I. OVERALL PLANT REQUIREMENTS

Criterion 1—Quality Standards (Category A). Those systems and components of reactor facilities which are essential to the prevention of accidents which could affect the public health and safety or to mitigation of their consequences shall be identified and then designed, fabricated, and erected to quality standards that reflect the importance of the safety function to be performed. Where generally recognized codes or standards on design, materials, fabrication, and inspection are used, they shall be identified. Where adherence to such codes or standards does not suffice to assure a quality product in keeping with the safety function, they shall be supplemented or modified as necessary. Quality assurance programs, test procedures, and inspection acceptance levels to be used shall be identified. A showing of sufficiency and applicability of codes, standards, quality assurance programs, test procedures, and inspection acceptance levels used is required.

Criterion 2—Performance Standards (Category A). Those systems and components of reactor facilities which are essential to the prevention of accidents which could affect the public health and safety or to mitigation of their consequences shall be designed, fabricated, and erected to performance standards that will enable the facility to withstand, without loss of the capability to protect the public, the additional forces that might be imposed by natural phenomena such as earthquakes, tornadoes, flooding conditions, winds, ice, and other local site effects. The design bases so established shall reflect: (a) Appropriate consideration of the most severe of these natural phenomena that have been recorded for the site and the surrounding area and (b) an appropriate margin for withstanding forces greater than those recorded to reflect uncertainties about the historical data and their suitability as a basis for design.

Criterion 3—Fire Protection (Category A). The reactor facility shall be designed (1) to minimize the probability of events such as fires and explosions and (2) to minimize the potential effects of such events to safety. Noncombustible and fire resistant materials shall be used whenever practical throughout the facility, particularly in areas containing critical portions of the facility such as containment, control room, and components of engineered safety features.

Criterion 4—Sharing of Systems (Category A). Reactor facilities shall not share systems or components unless it is shown safety is not impaired by the sharing.

Criterion 5—Records Requirements (Category A). Records of the design, fabrication, and construction of essential components of the plant shall be maintained by the reactor operator or under its control throughout the life of the reactor.

II. PROTECTION BY MULTIPLE FISSION PRODUCT BARRIERS

Criterion 6—Reactor Core Design (Category A). The reactor core shall be designed to function throughout its design lifetime, without exceeding acceptable fuel damage limits which have been stipulated and justified. The core design, together with reliable process and decay heat removal systems, shall provide for this capability under all expected conditions of normal operation with appropriate margins for uncertainties and for transient situations which can be anticipated, including the effects of the loss of power to recirculation pumps, tripping out of a turbine generator set, isolation of the reactor from its primary heat sink, and loss of all offsite power.

Criterion 7—Suppression of Power Oscillations (Category B). The core design, together with reliable controls, shall ensure that power oscillations which could cause damage in excess of acceptable fuel damage limits are not possible or can be readily suppressed.

Criterion 3—Overall Power Coefficient (Category B). The reactor shall be designed so that the overall power coefficient in the power operating range shall not be positive.

Criterion 4—Reactor Coolant Pressure Boundary (Category A). The reactor coolant pressure boundary shall be designed and constructed so as to have an exceedingly low probability of gross rupture or significant leakage throughout its design lifetime.

Criterion 16—Containment (Category A). Containment shall be provided. The containment structure shall be designed to sustain the initial effects of gross equipment failures, such as a large coolant boundary break, without loss of required integrity and, together with other engineered safety features as may be necessary, to retain for as long as the situation requires the functional capability to protect the public.

III. Nuclear and Radiation Controls

Criterion 11—Control Room (Category B). The facility shall be provided with a control room from which actions to maintain safe operational status of the plant can be controlled. Adequate radiation protection shall be provided to permit access, even under accident conditions, to equipment in the control room or other areas as necessary to shut down and maintain safe control of the facility without radiation exposures of personnel in excess of 10 CFR 20 limits. It shall be possible to shut the reactor down and maintain it in a safe condition if access to the control room is lost due to fire or other cause.

Criterion 12—Instrumentation and Control Systems (Category B). Instrumentation and controls shall be provided as required to monitor and maintain variables within prescribed operating ranges.

Criterion 13—Fission Process Monitors and Controls (Category B). Means shall be provided for monitoring and maintaining control over the fission process throughout core life and for all conditions that can reasonably be anticipated to cause variations in reactivity of the core, such as indication of position of control rods and concentration of soluble reactivity control poisons.

Criterion 14—Core Protection Systems (Category B). Core protection systems, together with associated equipment, shall be designed to act automatically to prevent or to suppress conditions that could result in exceeding acceptable fuel damage limits.

Criterion 15—Engineered Safety Features Protection Systems (Category B). Protection systems shall be provided for sensing accident situations and initiating the operation of necessary engineered safety features.

Criterion 16—Monitoring Reactor Coolant Pressure Boundary (Category B). Means shall be provided for monitoring the reactor coolant pressure boundary to detect leakage.

Criterion 17—Monitoring Radioactivity Releases (Category B). Means shall be provided for monitoring the containment atmosphere, the facility effluent discharge paths, and the facility environs for radioactivity that could be released from normal operations, from anticipated transients, and from accident conditions.

Criterion 18—Monitoring Fuel and Waste Storage (Category B). Monitoring and alarm instrumentation shall be provided for fuel and waste storage and handling areas for conditions that might contribute to loss of continuity in decay heat removal and to radiation exposures.

IV. Reliability and Testability of Protection Systems

Criterion 19—Protection Systems Reliability (Category B). Protection systems shall be designed for high functional reliability and in-service testability commensurate with the safety functions to be performed.

Criterion 20—Protection Systems Redundancy and Independence (Category B). Redundancy and independence designed into protection systems shall be sufficient to assure that no single failure or removal from service of any component or channel of a system will result in loss of the protection function. The redundancy provided shall include, as a minimum, two channels of protection for each protection function to be served. Different principles shall be used where necessary to achieve true independence of redundant instrumentation components.

Criterion 21—Single Failure Definition (Category B). Multiple failures resulting from a single event shall be treated as a single failure.

Criterion 22—Separation of Protection and Control Instrumentation Systems (Category B). Protection systems shall be separated from control instrumentation systems to the extent that failure or removal from service of any control instrumentation system component or channel, or of those common to control instrumentation and protection circuitry, leaves intact a system satisfying all requirements for the protection channels.

Criterion 23—Protection Against Multiple Disability for Protection Systems (Category B). The effects of adverse conditions to which redundant channels or protection systems might be exposed in common, either under normal conditions or those of an accident, shall not result in loss of the protection function.

Criterion 24—Emergency Power for Protection Systems (Category B). In the event of loss of all offsite power, sufficient alternate sources of power shall be provided to permit the required functioning of the protection systems.

Criterion 25—Demonstration of Functional Operability of Protection Systems (Category B). Means shall be included for testing protection systems while the reactor is in operation to demonstrate that no failure or loss of redundancy has occurred.

Criterion 26—Protection Systems Fail-Safe Design (Category B). The protection systems shall be designed to fail into a safe state or into a state established as tolerable on a defined basis if conditions such as disconnection of the system, loss of energy (e.g., electric power, instrument air), or adverse environments (e.g., extreme heat or cold, fire, steam, or water) are experienced.

V. Reactivity Control

Criterion 27—Redundancy of Reactivity Control (Category A). At least two independent reactivity control systems, preferably of different principles, shall be provided.

Criterion 28—Reactivity Hot Shutdown Capability (Category A). At least two of the reactivity control systems provided shall independently be capable of making and holding the core subcritical from any hot standby or hot operating condition, including those resulting from power changes, sufficiently fast to prevent exceeding acceptable fuel damage limits.

Criterion 29—Reactivity Shutdown Capability (Category A). At least one of the reactivity control systems provided shall be capable of making the core subcritical under any condition (including anticipated operational transients) sufficiently fast to prevent exceeding acceptable fuel damage limits. Shutdown margins greater than the maximum worth of the most effective control rod when fully withdrawn shall be provided.

Criterion 30—Reactivity Holddown Capability (Category B). At least one of the reactivity control systems provided shall be capable of making and holding the core subcritical under any conditions with appropriate margins for contingencies.

Criterion 31—Reactivity Control Systems Malfunction (Category B). The reactivity control systems shall be capable of sustaining any single malfunction, such as, unplanned continuous withdrawal (not ejection) of a control rod, without causing a reactivity transient which could result in exceeding acceptable fuel damage limits.

Criterion 32—Maximum Reactivity Worth of Control Rods (Category A). Limits, which include considerable margin, shall be placed on the maximum reactivity worth of control rods or elements and on rates at which reactivity can be increased to ensure that the potential effects of a sudden or large change of reactivity cannot (a) rupture the reactor coolant pressure boundary or (b) disrupt the core, its support structures, or other vessel internals sufficiently to impair the effectiveness of emergency core cooling.

VI. Reactor Coolant Pressure Boundary

Criterion 33—Reactor Coolant Pressure Boundary Capability (Category A). The reactor coolant pressure boundary shall be capable of accommodating without rupture, and with only limited allowance for energy absorption through plastic deformation, the static and dynamic loads imposed on any boundary component as a result of any inadvertent and sudden release of energy to the coolant. As a design reference, this sudden release shall be taken as that which would result from a sudden reactivity insertion such as rod ejection (unless prevented by positive mechanical means), rod dropout, or cold water addition.

Criterion 34—Reactor Coolant Pressure Boundary Rapid Propagation Failure Prevention (Category A). The reactor coolant pressure boundary shall be designed to minimize the probability of rapidly propagating type failures. Consideration shall be given (a) to the notch-toughness properties of materials extending to the upper shelf of the Charpy transition curve, (b) to the state of stress of materials under static and transient loadings, (c) to the quality control specified for materials and component fabrication to limit flaw sizes, and (d) to the provisions for control over service temperature and irradiation effects which may require operational restrictions.

Criterion 35—Reactor Coolant Pressure Boundary Brittle Fracture Prevention (Category A). Under conditions where reactor coolant pressure boundary system components constructed of ferritic materials may be subjected to potential loadings, such as a reactivity-induced loading, service temperatures shall be at least 120° F. above the nil ductility transition (NDT) temperature of the component material if the resulting energy release is expected to be absorbed by plastic deformation or 60° F. above the NDT temperature of the component material if the resulting energy release is expected to be absorbed within the elastic strain energy range.

Criterion 36—Reactor Coolant Pressure Boundary Surveillance (Category A). Reactor coolant pressure boundary components shall have provisions for inspection, testing, and surveillance by appropriate means to assess the structural and leaktight integrity of the boundary components during their service lifetime. For the reactor vessel, a material surveillance program conforming with ASTM–E–185–66 shall be provided.

Criterion 37—Engineered Safety Features Basis for Design (Category A). Engineered safety features shall be provided in the facility to back up the safety provided by the core design, the reactor coolant pressure boundary, and their protection systems. As a minimum, such engineered safety features shall be designed to cope with any size reactor coolant pressure boundary break up to and including the circumferential rupture of any pipe in that boundary assuming unobstructed discharge from both ends.

Criterion 38—Reliability and Testability of Engineered Safety Features (Category A). All engineered safety features shall be designed to provide high functional reliability and ready testability. In determining the suitability of a facility for a proposed site, the degree of reliance upon and acceptance of the inherent and engineered safety afforded by the systems, including engineered safety features, will be influenced by the known and the demonstrated performance capability and reliability of the systems, and by the extent to which the operability of such systems can be tested and inspected where appropriate during the life of the plant.

Criterion 39—Emergency Power for Engineered Safety Features (Category A). Alternate power systems shall be provided and designed with adequate independency, redundancy, capacity, and testability to permit the functioning required of the engineered safety features. As a minimum, the onsite power system and the offsite power system shall each, independently, provide this capacity assuming a failure of a single active component in each power system.

Criterion 40—Missile Protection (Category A). Protection for engineered safety features shall be provided against dynamic effects and missiles that might result from plant equipment failures.

Criterion 41—Engineered Safety Features Performance Capability (Category A). As a minimum, each engineered safety feature shall provide this required safety function assuming a failure of a single active component.

Criterion 42—Engineered Safety Features Components Capability (Category A). Engineered safety features shall be designed so that the capability of each component and system to perform its required function is not impaired by the effects of a loss-of-coolant accident.

Criterion 43—Accident Aggravation Prevention (Category A). Engineered safety features shall be designed so that any action of the engineered safety features which might accentuate the adverse after-effects of the loss of normal cooling is avoided.

Criterion 44—Emergency Core Cooling Systems Capability (Category A). At least two emergency core cooling systems, preferably of different design principles, each with a capability for accomplishing abundant emergency core cooling, shall be provided. Each emergency core cooling system and the core shall be designed to prevent fuel and clad damage that would interfere with the emergency core cooling function and to limit the clad metal-water reaction to negligible amounts for all sizes of breaks in the reactor coolant pressure boundary, including the double-ended rupture of the largest pipe. The performance of each emergency core cooling system shall be evaluated conservatively in each area of uncertainty. The systems shall not share active components and shall not share other features or components unless it can be demonstrated that (a) the capability of the shared feature or component to perform its required function can be readily ascertained during reactor operation, (b) failure of the shared feature or components does not initiate a loss-of-coolant accident, and (c) capability of the shared feature or component to perform its required function is not impaired by the effects of a loss-of-coolant accident and is not lost during the entire period this function is required following the accident.

Criterion 45—Inspection of Emergency Core Cooling Systems (Category A). Design provisions shall be made to facilitate physical inspection of all critical parts of the emergency core cooling systems, including reactor vessel internals and water injection nozzles.

Criterion 46—Testing of Emergency Core Cooling Systems Components (Category A). Design provisions shall be made so that active components of the emergency core cooling systems, such as pumps and valves, can be tested periodically for operability and required functional performance.

Criterion 47—Testing of Emergency Core Cooling Systems (Category A). A capability shall be provided to test periodically the delivery capability of the emergency core cooling systems at a location as close to the core as is practical.

Criterion 48—Testing of Operational Sequence of Emergency Core Cooling Systems (Category A). A capability shall be provided to test under conditions as close to design as practical the full operational sequence that would bring the emergency core cooling systems into action, including the transfer to alternate power sources.

Criterion 49—Containment Design Basis (Category A). The containment structure, including access openings and penetrations, and any necessary containment heat removal systems shall be designed so that the containment structure can accommodate without exceeding the design leakage rate the pressures and temperatures resulting from the largest credible energy release following a loss-of-coolant accident, including a considerable margin for effects from metal-water or other chemical reactions that could occur as a consequence of failure of emergency core cooling systems.

Criterion 50—NDT Requirement for Containment Material (Category A). Principal load carrying components of ferritic materials exposed to the external environment shall be selected so that their temperatures under normal operating and testing conditions are not less than 30° F. above nil ductility transition (NDT) temperature.

Criterion 51—Reactor Coolant Pressure Boundary Outside Containment (Category A). If part of the reactor coolant pressure boundary is outside the containment, appropriate features as necessary shall be provided to protect the health and safety of the public in case of an accidental rupture in that part. Determination of the appropriateness of features such as isolation valves and additional containment shall include consideration of the environmental and population conditions surrounding the site.

Criterion 52—Containment Heat Removal Systems (Category A). Where active heat removal systems are needed under accident conditions to prevent exceeding containment design pressure, at least two systems, preferably of different principles, each with full capacity, shall be provided.

Criterion 53—Containment Isolation Valves (Category A). Penetrations that require closure for the containment function shall be protected by redundant valving and associated apparatus.

Criterion 54—Containment Leakage Rate Testing (Category A). Containment shall be designed so that an integrated leakage rate testing can be conducted at design pressure after completion and installation of all penetrations and the leakage rate measured over a sufficient period of time to verify its conformance with required performance.

Criterion 55—Containment Periodic Leakage Rate Testing (Category A). The containment shall be designed so that integrated leakage rate testing can be done periodically at design pressure during plant lifetime.

Criterion 56—Provisions for Testing of Penetrations (Category A). Provisions shall be made for testing penetrations which have resilient seals or expansion bellows to permit leak tightness to be demonstrated at design pressure at any time.

Criterion 57—Provisions for Testing of Isolation Valves (Category A). Capability shall be provided for testing functional operability of valves and associated apparatus essential to the containment function for establishing that no failure has occurred and for determining that valve leakage does not exceed acceptable limits.

Criterion 58—Inspection of Containment Pressure-Reducing Systems (Category A). Design provisions shall be made to facilitate the periodic physical inspection of all important components of the containment pressure-reducing systems, such as, pumps, valves, spray nozzles, torus, and sumps.

Criterion 59—Testing of Containment Pressure-Reducing Systems Components (Category A). The containment pressure-reducing systems shall be designed so that active components, such as pumps and valves, can be tested periodically for operability and required functional performance.

Criterion 60—Testing of Containment Spray Systems (Category A). A capability shall be provided to test periodically the delivery capability of the containment spray system at a position as close to the spray nozzles as is practical.

Criterion 61—Testing of Operational Sequence of Containment Pressure-Reducing Systems (Category A). A capability shall be provided to test under conditions as close to the design as practical the full operational sequence that would bring the containment pressure-reducing systems into action, including the transfer to alternate power sources.

Criterion 62—Inspection of Air Cleanup Systems (Category A). Design provisions shall be made to facilitate physical inspection of all critical parts of containment air cleanup systems, such as, ducts, filters, fans, and dampers.

A capability shall be provided for in situ periodic testing and surveillance of the air cleanup systems to ensure (a) filter bypass paths have not developed and (b) filter and trapping materials have not deteriorated beyond acceptable limits.

Criterion 65—Testing of Operational Sequence of Air Cleanup Systems (Category A). A capability shall be provided to test under conditions as close to design as practical the full operational sequence that would bring the air cleanup systems into action, including the transfer to alternate power sources and the design air flow delivery capability.

VIII. Fuel and Waste Storage Systems

Criterion 66—Prevention of Fuel Storage Criticality (Category B). Criticality in new and spent fuel storage shall be prevented by physical systems or processes. Such means as geometrically safe configurations shall be emphasized over procedural controls.

Criterion 67—Fuel and Waste Storage Decay Heat (Category B). Reliable decay heat removal systems shall be designed to prevent damage to the fuel in storage facilities that could result in radioactivity release to plant operating areas or the public environs.

Criterion 68—Fuel and Waste Storage Radiation Shielding (Category B). Shielding for radiation protection shall be provided in the design of spent fuel and waste storage facilities as required to meet the requirements of 10 CFR 20.

Criterion 69—Protection Against Radioactivity Release From Spent Fuel and Waste Storage (Category B). Containment of fuel and waste storage shall be provided if accidents could lead to release of undue amounts of radioactivity to the public environs.

IX. PLANT EFFLUENTS

Criterion 70—Control of Releases of Radioactivity to the Environment (Category B). The facility design shall include those means necessary to maintain control over the plant radioactive effluents, whether gaseous, liquid, or solid. Appropriate holdup capacity shall be provided for retention of gaseous, liquid, or solid effluents, particularly where unfavorable environmental conditions can be expected to require operational limitations upon the release of radioactive effluents to the environment. In all cases, the design for radioactivity control shall be justified (a) on the basis of 10 CFR 20 requirements for normal operations and for any transient situation that might reasonably be anticipated to occur and (b) on the basis of 10 CFR 100 dosage level guidelines for potential reactor accidents of exceedingly low probability of occurrence except that reduction of the recommended dosage levels may be required where high population densities or very large cities can be affected by the radioactive effluents.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service

DOMESTIC BEET SUGAR PRODUCING AREA

1968-Crop Proportionate Shares; Notice of Hearing

Notice is hereby given that the Secretary of Agriculture, acting pursuant to the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended, will conduct a public hearing to receive the views and recommendations of interested persons on the need for establishing proportionate shares (farm acreage allotments) for the 1968 crop of sugar beets in the Domestic Beet Sugar Area.

In accordance with the provisions of paragraph (1), subsection (b) of section 302 of the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1132(b)), the Secretary must determine for each crop year whether the production of sugar from any crop of sugar beets will, in the absence of proportionate shares, be greater than the quantity needed to enable the area to meet its quota and provide a normal carryover inventory, as estimated by the Secretary for such area for the calendar year during which the larger part of the sugar from such crop normally would be marketed. Such determination may be made only after due notice and opportunity for an informal public hearing.

The hearing on this matter will be conducted in Room 15018 on the 15th Floor of the Federal Building, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, Calif., beginning at 10 a.m., on July 18, 1967.

Proportionate shares are not in effect for the 1967 crop of sugar beets. Latest industry estimates indicate that about 2,861,000 short tons, raw value, sugar will be produced from the 1966 crop from about 1,230,000 planted acres. According to beet sugar company figures, about 1,207,101 acres have been or will be planted to 1967-crop sugar beets.

Views and recommendations on the need for establishing proportionate shares may be presented orally at the hearing, preferably supported in writing by an original and two copies of the oral statement. Views and recommendations may also be submitted in writing (original and two copies) at the hearing or they may be mailed to the Director, Sugar Policy Staff, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, postmarked not later than August 8, 1967.

Oral and written views proposing that proportionate shares be established for the 1968 crop should include recommendations as to the level of the national sugar beet acreage requirement and as to the details of a program. [Docket No. RI67-469]

KERR-McGEE CORP.

Order Providing for Hearing on and Suspension of Proposed Change in Rate, and Allowing Rate Change To Become Effective Subject to Refund

JUNE 29, 1967.

Respondent named herein has filed a proposed change in rate and charge of a currently effective rate schedule for the sale of natural gas under Commission jurisdiction, as set forth in Appendix A below.

The proposed changed rate and charge may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds:

It is in the public interest and consistent with the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing regarding the lawfulness of the proposed change, and that the supplement herein be suspended and its use be deferred as ordered below.

The Commission orders:

(A) Under the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15, the regulations pertaining thereto (18 CFR Ch. I), and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a public hearing shall be held concerning the lawfulness of the proposed change.

(B) Pending hearing and decision thereon, the rate supplement herein is suspended and its use deferred until date shown in the "Date Suspended Until" column, and thereafter until made effective as prescribed by the Natural Gas Act: Provided, however, That the supplement to the rate schedule filed by Respondent shall become effective subject to refund on the date and in the manner herein prescribed if within 20 days from the date of the issuance of this order Respondent shall execute and file under its above-designated docket number with the Secretary of the Commission its agreement and undertaking to comply with the refunding and reporting procedure required by the Natural Gas Act and § 154.102 of the regulations thereunder, accompanied by a certificate showing service of a copy thereof upon the purchaser under the rate schedule involved. Unless Respondent is advised to the contrary within 15 days after the filing of its agreement and undertaking, such agreement and undertaking shall be deemed to have been accepted.

(C) Until otherwise ordered by the Commission, neither the suspended supplement, nor the rate schedule sought to be altered, shall be changed until disposition of this proceeding or expiration of the suspension period.

(D) Notices of intervention or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37(f)) on or before August 16, 1967.

By the Commission.

[1] Basic contract dated after Sept. 28, 1960, the date of issuance of General Policy Statement No. 61-1.
[2] The stated effective date is the first day after expiration of the statutory notice.
[3] The suspension period is limited to 1 day.
[4] Periodic rate increase.
[5] Pressure base is 14.65 p.s.i.a.
[6] Subject to proportionate upward and downward B.t.u. adjustment for gas containing more or less than 1,000 B.t.u.'s per cubic foot. Present B.t.u. content of gas is 955.7 B.t.u.'s per cubic foot.

Kerr-McGee Corp. (Kerr-McGee) requests that its proposed rate increase be permitted to become effective, without suspension, as of April 1, 1967, the contractually provided effective date. Good cause has not been shown for waiving the 30-day notice requirement provided in section 4(d) of the Natural Gas Act to permit an earlier effective date for Kerr-McGee's rate filing and such request is denied. Kerr-McGee's proposed rate increase is suspended for the reason set forth below.

The contract related to the rate filing of Kerr-McGee was executed subsequent to September 28, 1960, the date of issuance of the Commission's statement of general policy No. 61-1, as amended, and the proposed increased rate of 17.0 cents per Mcf exceeds the area increased rate ceiling for the Panhandle Area but does not exceed the initial service ceiling of 17.0 cents per Mcf established for the area involved. We believe, in this situation, Kerr-McGee's proposed rate filing should be suspended for 1 day from July 13, 1967, the date of expiration of the statutory notice.

The Respondents named herein have filed proposed increased rates and charges of currently effective rate schedules for sales of natural gas under Commission jurisdiction, as set forth in Appendix A below.

[1] Does not consolidate for hearing or dispose of the several matters herein.

The proposed changed rates and charges may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is in the public interest and consistent with the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon hearings regarding the lawfulness of the proposed changes, and that the supplements herein be suspended and their use be deferred as ordered below.

The Commission orders:

(A) Under the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15, the regulations pertaining thereto (18 CFR Ch. I), and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, public hearings shall be held concerning the lawfulness of the proposed changes.

(B) Pending hearings and decisions thereon, the rate supplements herein are suspended and their use deferred until date shown in the "Date Suspended Until" column, and thereafter until made effective as prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Until otherwise ordered by the Commission, neither the suspended supplements, nor the rate schedules sought to be altered, shall be changed until disposition of these proceedings or expiration of the suspension period.

(D) Notices of intervention or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37(f)) on or before August 15, 1967.

UNION GAS SYSTEM, INC., AND CITIES SERVICE GAS CO.

Notice of Application

JULY 3, 1967.

Take notice that on June 27, 1967, Union Gas System, Inc. (Applicant), Post Office Box 247, Independence, Kans. 67301, filed in Docket No. CP67-384 an application pursuant to section 7(a) of the Natural Gas Act for an order of the Commission directing Cities Service Gas Co. (Respondent) to establish physical connection of its transportation facilities with the facilities proposed to be constructed by Applicant and to sell and deliver to Applicant volumes of natural gas for resale and distribution in the community of Hillsdale, Miami County, Kans., and environs, all as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Applicant proposes to construct and operate a municipal natural gas distribution system in the community of Hillsdale and Applicant proposes to construct and operate, together with Respondent, approximately 1.8 miles of 3-inch lateral line facilities extending northward from a point of interconnection with Respondent's 20-inch transmission line to a connection at Hillsdale, serving four rural customers along said lateral. Applicant estimates the third year peak daily and peak annual natural gas requirements at 169 Mcf and 12,825 Mcf, respectively.

Applicant estimates the total cost of its proposed construction at approximately $42,343, said cost to be financed from funds on hand.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before July 31, 1967.

[Temp. Reg. E-9]

PROPERTY MANAGEMENT

Revised Replacement Standards for Furniture and Office Machines

To heads of Federal agencies:

1. Purpose. This regulation revises the replacement standards for furniture (office, household, and quarters, and institutional) and typewriters, and establishes standards for other office machines (manual and electric) in consonance with the objectives of the President, set forth in his memorandum of September 16, 1966, to heads of departments and agencies on cost reduction in procurement, supply, and property management.

2. Effective date. This regulation is effective June 30, 1967.

3. Expiration date. This regulation expires June 30, 1968, unless sooner revised or superseded. Prior to this expiration date, this regulation shall be codified, as appropriate, in the permanent regulations of GSA appearing in Title 41, CFR, Public Contracts and Property Management. Comments concerning the effect or impact of this regulation on agency operations or programs should be submitted to General Services Administration, Federal Supply Service, Office of Supply Management, Washington, D.C. 20405, no later than January 31, 1968, for consideration and possible incorporation into the permanent regulation.

4. General. Existing replacement standards have been reexamined in the light of the objectives in the President's memorandum with a view to extending the useful life of such equipment and thus avoiding new procurement. This can be realized through the use of servicing facilities provided substantially through GSA sources. The revised standards are designed to assure that repair or rehabilitation of existing furniture or office machines is effected to an optimum degree and that agencies assume a "make-do" attitude.

5. Applicability. The provisions of this regulation apply to all executive agencies. Other agencies are encouraged to use these standards so that maximum benefits may be realized.

6. Furniture replacement standard. Furniture shall not be replaced unless the estimated cost of repair or rehabilitation (based on GSA terms contracts), including any transportation expense, exceeds at least 75 percent of the cost of a new item of the same type and class (based on prices as shown in the current edition of the GSA Stock Catalog, applicable Federal Supply Schedules, or the lowest available market price). An exception is authorized in those unusual situations when rehabilitation of the furniture at 75 percent of the cost of a new item would not extend its useful life for a period compatible with the cost of rehabilitation, as determined by the agency head or his designee.

7. Office machines replacement standard. Replacement of office machines shall be in accordance with the standards prescribed in a and b, below. The acquisition cost of comparable machines may be obtained from applicable Federal Supply Schedules with due consideration given to prices obtainable when the quantities involved exceed the maximum order limitation. In such instances, price information, unless available within the agency, may be obtained from the contracting office indicated in the Schedule. Estimated repair or overhaul costs shall be obtained from contractors providing service under GSA term contracts where provided or at the lowest rate available from other sources. Cost obtained shall include transportation costs.

a. Electrically operated office machines (typewriters, adding machines, comptometers, and desk calculators, excluding the electronic type) under 12 years of age or manually operated office machines under 15 years of age shall not be replaced unless:

(1) The estimated one-time repair or overhaul cost of a machine under 8 years of age exceed 50 percent of the replacement cost for a comparable new model, without regard to trade-in or sale value; or

(2) The estimated one-time repair or overhaul cost of a machine 8 years of age and over exceeds 25 percent of the replacement cost for a comparable new model, without regard to trade-in or sale value.

b. Notwithstanding the limitations prescribed in a, above, office machines may be replaced under the following conditions provided a written justification supporting such replacement is approved by the agency head or an authorized designee and is retained in the agency files:

(1) In those cases where there is a continuing history of breakdowns with corresponding loss of productivity through downtime. Judgments in these cases should be based upon personal knowledge of the machine operator or supervisor, and by repair records; or

(2) When office machines lack essential features required in the performance of a particular task which is continuing in nature and other suitable machines are not readily available. However, this condition shall not be used to support replacement of typewriters.

8. Other issuances affected. The replacement standards for typewriters in FPMR 101–25.403 and the replacement standards for furniture in FPMR 101–25.404 are superseded.

Dated: July 3, 1967.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[812-2182]

AMERICAN & FOREIGN POWER CO., INC.

Notice of Filing of Application Exempting Transactions Between Affiliated Persons

JULY 5, 1967.

Notice is hereby given that American & Foreign Power Co., Inc. ("Foreign Power"), 2 Rector Street, New York, N.Y., a Maine corporation, a registered closed-end nondiversified investment company, and a majority-owned subsidiary of Electric Bond and Share Co., has filed an application pursuant to section 17(b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act") for an order exempting from the provisions of section 17(a) of the Act the proposed purchase from Amercon Enterprises, Ltd. ("Amercon"), a wholly owned subsidiary of Foreign Power, by Aluminum Company of America ("Alcoa"), of all of Amercon's holdings of common stock of Aluminio, S.A. de C.V. ("Aluminio"). All interested persons are referred to the application, which is on file with the Commission, for a full statement of the representations therein, which are summarized below.

The proposed transaction. Amercon and Alcoa have entered into an agreement under which it is proposed that Alcoa will purchase Amercon's entire stock holdings, consisting of 14 percent of the common stock of Aluminio, 52,500 shares, for $35 per share or a total price of $1,837,500 plus any cash dividends accrued and unpaid at the closing date. Each share of common stock carries a coupon which will entitle Alcoa to a common stock dividend of two-thirds of a share per share.

Aluminio, a Mexican corporation which operates an aluminum smelter in Veracruz, Mexico, was formed by Amercon, Alcoa and Intercontinental S.A., a Mexican corporation, pursuant to agreements of September 25 and October 6, 1961. As part of this arrangement Amercon obtained the 52,500 shares which are the subject of this application at a cost equivalent to $420,000 or $8 per share and subordinate debentures in total principal amount of $3,150,000. As of the date of the application $1,925,000 principal amount of such debentures remained outstanding. As of December 31, 1966, Aluminio had consolidated assets of $16.9 million, outstanding long-term debt of $4.8 million (excluding current maturities), preferred stock with a total par value equivalent to $3.8 million, and common stock equity equivalent to $5.9 million.

Aluminio is an affiliated person of Foreign Power by virtue of Foreign Power's ownership of all of the capital stock of Amercon and Amercon's ownership of 14 percent of the common stock of Aluminio. Alcoa is an affiliated person of Aluminio by virtue of its ownership of 131,250 shares or 35 percent of the common stock of Aluminio. Alcoa also owns 368,750 shares (77.8 percent) of the preferred (nonvoting) stock of Aluminio.

Upon consummation of the proposed transaction, Alcoa will own 49 percent of the common stock of Aluminio, Intercontinental, S.A., will own 35 percent and other Mexican nationals will own 16 percent. Amercon will still own the $1,925,000 principal amount of Aluminio subordinate debentures which the application states it is presently negotiating to sell to a third party. However, this is not part of the transaction for which an exemption is sought.

Commission jurisdiction. Section 17(a), as here pertinent, makes unlawful the purchase by Alcoa, an affiliated person of an affiliated person (Aluminio) of a registered investment company (Foreign Power), of any securities from Amercon (a company controlled by such registered investment company). The Commission may, upon application pursuant to section 17(b), grant an order exempting a transaction if it finds that the terms of the proposed transaction, including the consideration to be paid or received, are reasonable and fair and do not involve over-reaching on the part of any person concerned, that the proposed transaction is consistent with the policy of the registered investment company concerned, as recited in its registration statement and reports filed under the Act, and is consistent with the general purposes of the Act.

Supporting statements. The application states that Aluminio's plant has a finished product capacity of 30,000 metric tons per year which is now completely absorbed by the Mexican and export markets; that the management of Aluminio has proposed doubling plant capacity, which expansion project it has been estimated will cost $13 million over a period ending in 1972 and that Amercon deemed it desirable to terminate its stock investment in Aluminio in view of the fact that Aluminio's contemplated expansion program which was to be financed by retained earnings made it extremely likely that Aluminio would continue reinvesting earnings rather than paying dividends.

The application also states that discussions were held with underwriting firms in Mexico and elsewhere with a view to the sale of Amercon's stock interest and a firm offer to purchase the shares at a price equal to $30 per share was made by a Mexican firm. Both Intercontinental, S.A., and Alcoa have the right of first refusal in respect to any contemplated sale of Amercon's Aluminio stock. After advising them that it was considering such a sale, Amercon, with the knowledge of Intercontinental, S.A., entered into direct negotiations with Alcoa which resulted in agreement upon a price of $35 per share. Intercontinental, S.A., advised Foreign Power that it did not wish to purchase any of these shares.

The application further states that it appeared to Amercon that the proposed transaction would be advantageous to it as the sale of stock could be effected without delay and at the same time the transaction should be advantageous to Alcoa, because it will permit Alcoa to strengthen its position in Aluminio.

The Series A–1 common stock of Aluminio which is identical to Amercon's stock, except that it is held by Mexican nationals only, is traded on the Mexico City Stock Exchange, and between January 1, 1967, and June 2, 1967, 11 transactions involving 1,300 shares were recorded, the low being $31.20 per share and the high $32 per share. From declaration on April 27, 1967, until June 2, 1967, there were no reported transactions in the stock dividend shares on a "when issued" basis and no reported transactions in the coupon attached to the certificates for the outstanding common stock, against the delivery of which coupon, certificates for the dividend shares will be issued.

In addition, the application states that there is no affiliation or other relationship between Electric Bond and Share Co., Foreign Power and Amercon on the one hand and Alcoa on the other, except by reason of the respective holdings of the stock of Aluminio by Amesson and Alcoa and that the price and terms of sale are the result of negotiations at arm's-length between Amercon and Alcoa, and that each party, by virtue of its ownership position in Aluminio, has had an equal opportunity to evaluate Aluminio and reach its own conclusions concerning the value of the shares of common stock of Aluminio which are proposed to be transferred.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than July 26, 1967, at 5:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on the matter accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for such request and the issues of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission shall order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549. A copy of such request shall be served personally or by mail (airmail if the person being served is located more than 500 miles from the point of mailing) upon applicant at the address stated above. Proof of such service (by affidavit or in case of an attorney at law by certificate) shall be filed contemporaneously with the request. At any time after said date, as provided by Rule 0–5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the Act, an order disposing of the application herein may be issued by the Commission upon the basis of the information stated in said application, unless an order for hearing upon said application shall be issued upon request or upon the Commission's own motion. Persons who request advice as to whether a hearing is ordered will receive notice of further developments in this matter, including the date of the hearing (if ordered) and any postponements thereof.

For the Commission (pursuant to delegated authority).

Secretary.

Chapter XIV—Commodity Credit Corporation, Department of Agriculture

SUBCHAPTER B—LOANS, PURCHASES, AND OTHER OPERATIONS

[Amdt. 1]

PART 1464—TOBACCO

Subpart—Tobacco Loan Program

The regulations issued by Commodity Credit Corporation, published in 31 F.R. 9679, with respect to the tobacco price support loan program are herein amended as follows:

1. In § 1464.1756 paragraph (d) (1) (iv) is amended to change the time during which price support will be available on untied tobacco in flue-cured tobacco belts other than the Georgia-Florida belt. The amended subdivision reads as follows:

(d) • • •

(1) • • •

(iv) In the case of flue-cured tobacco, price support will be available on flue-cured tobacco markets in the Georgia-Florida Belt only if such tobacco is in untied form. During the first 95 hours of scheduled selling time for each flue-cured tobacco belt, other than the Georgia-Florida Belt, price support will be available on eligible tobacco of all grades of tied and untied tobacco. Beginning with the 96th hour of scheduled selling time for each such belt, price support will be available only on eligible tobacco offered for sale in tied form.

2. Section 1464.1762 is amended to clarify the condition for issuance of marketing cards which render a producer ineligible for price support. The amended section reads as follows:

§ 1464.1762 Eligible producer.

(a) All producers of Puerto Rican tobacco are eligible producers, since Puerto Rican tobacco is not under U.S. marketing quotas. Any producer of another kind of tobacco is an eligible producer if, under the applicable regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture with respect to tobacco marketing quotas for the applicable marketing year, a marketing card has been issued for his farm which, (1) if for flue-cured tobacco, does not bear the words "No Price Support," and (2) if for other than flue-cured tobacco, is designated a "Within Quota" marketing card. In general, the marketing quota regulations provide for the issuance of marketing cards designated "Within Quota" or not marked "No Price Support" where the tobacco acreage harvested for each kind of tobacco produced on the farm is not in excess of the applicable acreage allotment established under the marketing quota program for the farm. However, a "Within Quota" marketing card is not issued or a marketing card is marked "No Price Support" where (1) the farm operator fails to comply with provisions of Part 718 of this chapter with respect to disposition of excess acreage or certification of acreage or (2) tobacco is produced on land owned by the Federal Government in violation of the provisions of a lease restricting the production of tobacco.

(b) Marketing quota cards issued pursuant to the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, when utilized for the purpose of obtaining price support under this subpart, are submitted, and the data in support thereof is reported, under the Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, and under the Commodity Credit Corporation Charter Act, as amended, and may be utilized as CCC deems necessary or desirable for the conduct of the price support program.

(Sec. 4, 62 Stat. 1070, as amended, sec. 5, 62 Stat. 1072, secs. 101, 106, 401, 403, 63 Stat. 1051, as amended, 1054, sec. 125, 70 Stat. 198, 74 Stat. 6; 7 U.S.C. 1441, 1445, 1421, 1423, 7 U.S.C. 1813, 15 U.S.C. 714b, 714c)

Effective date: Date of filing with Office of Federal Register.

Signed at Washington, D.C., on July 6, 1967.

H. D. GODFREY,
Executive Vice President,
Commodity Credit Corporation.

SUBCHAPTER F—AIR TRAFFIC AND GENERAL OPERATING RULES

[Reg. Docket No. 8262; Amdt. 95-156]

PART 95—IFR ALTITUDES

Miscellaneous Changes

The purpose of this amendment to Part 95 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is to make changes in the IFR altitudes at which all aircraft shall be flown over a specified route or portion thereof. These altitudes, when used in conjunction with the current changeover points for the routes or portions thereof, also assure navigational coverage that is adequate and free of frequency interference for that route or portion thereof.

As a situation exists which demands immediate action in the interest of safety, I find that compliance with the notice and procedure provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act is impracticable and that good cause exists for making this amendment effective within less than 30 days from publication.

In consideration of the foregoing and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 5662), Part 95 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended, effective August 17, 1967, as follows:

SUBCHAPTER E—FELLOWSHIPS AND RESEARCH ASSOCIATES

PART 256—RESEARCH ASSOCIATE PROGRAM

Chapter II of Title 15 of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended by changing the title of Subchapter E and by adding a new Part 256, Research Associate Program.

The title of Subchapter E is changed from "Fellowships" to "Fellowships and Research Associates".

A new Part 256, Research Associate Program, is added as follows:

Sec.
256.1 Introduction.
256.2 The Research Associate Program.
256.3 Procedure.
256.4 Qualifications.
256.5 Duration of projects.
256.6 Information concerning the Research Associate Program.

AUTHORITY: Joint Resolution of April 13, 1892 (27 Stat. 395) and Act of March 3, 1901 (31 Stat. 1039; 20 U.S.C. 91).

§ 256.1 Introduction.

This Part states policies and procedures concerning the Research Associate Program at the National Bureau of Standards. In the exercise of its functions as a major scientific agency of the Federal Government, the National Bureau of Standards may make its facilities available to persons other than Bureau employees to work with NBS scientists and engineers in collaborative research aimed at furthering the Nation's scientific, industrial, and economic growth. Such cooperative programs may be sponsored by professional, technical, or industrial organizations or associations. Such participants, when so sponsored, are designated "Research Associates".

§ 256.2 The Research Associate Program.

The Bureau provides its facilities, scientific competence, and technical supervision for defined scientific or technical research by a Research Associate when such research is complementary to and compatible with scientific or technical research being performed or to be undertaken by NBS under its statutory mission and authority. The Sponsors pay the salaries of their Research Associates and Sponsor-furnished technical assistants and secretaries of the Research Associates, if any, their travel costs, and other related expenses. Additionally, Sponsors reimburse NBS for the cost of research equipment, services, or materials obtained for the Research Associate. Beginning in the third year of continued sponsorship, Sponsors also reimburse the Bureau for other costs such as, supervision and administrative expenses at a rate comparable to the cost experienced for NBS employees for similar services.

§ 256.3 Procedure.

Arrangements for collaborative research by NBS with a Research Associate generally begin through discussions or correspondence between NBS scientists and representatives of potential sponsoring companies, trade associations or professional organizations. These preliminary steps are followed by the consummation of a Memorandum of Agreement which is signed by NBS, the sponsoring organization and the Research Associate. The agreement sets out the respective responsibilities and obligations of all parties.

§ 256.4 Qualifications.

Each candidate selected to serve as a Research Associate must be determined to be scientifically qualified by the Sponsor and by the NBS, and found by NBS to be of good moral character and to possess suitable personal qualities.

§ 256.5 Duration of projects.

The work of a Research Associate is generally conducted on a full-time basis. Typically, Research Associates are in residence at NBS for 6 to 18 months; longer-term programs may be carried on by a succession of Research Associates. Agreements provide for cancellation by any of the parties.

§ 256.6 Information concerning the Research Associate Program.

Information concerning the Research Associate Program may be obtained from the Office of Industrial Services, National Bureau of Standards, Washington, D.C. 20234.

Effective date: This amendment is effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Dated: June 27, 1967.

§ 73.43 Absentee ballots.

The absentee ballots shall remain in the locked box in the post office, Pawhuska, Okla., until 8 a.m. on the day of election at which time the supervisor or assistant supervisor of the election board, accompanied by the Superintendent of the Osage Agency or his designated representatives, shall receive the locked box from the post office and shall personally transport the locked box to the polling site where it shall be delivered immediately to the supervisor or assistant supervisor of the election board. The supervisor or the assistant supervisor in the presence of at least two judges shall unlock the locked box containing the absentee ballots and shall then determine whether the person whose name is signed to the statement is a qualified voter of the Osage Tribe and check said voter off the poll list before opening the outer envelope. After it has been determined which of the absentee ballots have been cast by duly qualified electors, the supervisor in the presence of the election board shall cause the valid ballots in the sealed inner envelopes to be placed in the ballot box.

§ 73.43 Canvass of election returns.

(a) Immediately after the polls are closed at 8 p.m., the counting of the ballots shall commence. The supervisor and not less than two judges shall remain continuously in the room until the ballots are finally counted. One or more judges shall act as official counters and two or more clerks shall record the value of each vote and shall comprise a vote tallying team. The vote shall be recorded on two tally sheets by each team of judges and clerks under the name of each candidate for whom the voter designated his choice. The count shall continue until all votes have been recorded. The duties of the remaining officials of the election board will be to assist in conducting the election. After the vote of each ballot is recorded, the ballot shall be pierced by needle and string and after the ballots have been so counted, the ends of the string shall be tied together. After all other ballots have been counted, the sealed inner envelopes containing the absentee ballots shall be opened and all ballots found to be valid shall be counted and treated in the same manner as other valid ballots. All ballots and mutilated ballots; registration lists of voters, both absentee and those appearing at the poll; all tally sheets; and all other election materials shall be placed in the ballot box which shall be locked. The supervisor shall then deliver the locked ballot box and keys to same to the Superintendent, Osage Agency, and the box shall be retained in a safe place until opened by order of the supervisor or election board in the event a contest is filed. If no contest is filed, the ballots shall be destroyed 180 days after the election. No information concerning voting shall be posted or made public information until after 8 p.m.

(b) Should any ballot be marked for more than one principal chief or assistant chief or for more than eight councilmen, only that section of the ballot wherein the error was made shall be declared void and the remaining section or sections shall be counted in the same manner as other ballots. Absentee ballots shall be declared void when items other than the ballot are enclosed in the inner envelope, the voter fails to sign the statement appearing on the outer envelope or fails to have his signature witnessed by two witnesses, and for failure to seal the inner envelope or enclose the inner envelope in the outer envelope. Votes cast for individuals whose names are not printed on the official ballot shall not be counted.

§ 73.44 Statement of supervisor.

Following the election a statement is to be prepared by the supervisor pertaining to the conduct of the election and certifying to the correct tabulation of the votes for each candidate. The statement shall also set forth the names of the elected candidates and the office to which each was elected. The statement shall be duly acknowledged before an officer qualified to administer oaths and delivered to the Superintendent of the Osage Agency.

§ 73.47 Contesting elections.

Any unsuccessful candidate may before noon on Monday next following the tribal election file with the supervisor a challenge to the correctness of the vote cast for the office for which he was a candidate, which challenge must be accompanied by a deposit of $500. The election board or the supervisor shall order a recount and proceed with same as provided in this part. If the recount results in the contestant being elected, the deposit shall be refunded; otherwise, the deposit shall be used to defray all expenses of said recount and any balance not so used shall be returned to the contestant.

Title 41—PUBLIC CONTRACTS AND PROPERTY MANAGEMENT

Chapter 101—Federal Property Management Regulations

SUBCHAPTER H—UTILIZATION AND DISPOSAL

PART 101–43—UTILIZATION OF PERSONAL PROPERTY

Subpart 101–43.3—Utilization of Excess

MACHINE MATCHING REQUIREMENTS AGAINST AVAILABILITIES

This amendments provides an improved method by which General Services Administration regional offices cross-match agency requirements against reported excess personal property.

Subpart 101–43.3 is amended by revising § 101–43.315–2 as follows:

§ 101–43.315–2 Information of availability.

There are several methods of obtaining reliable information regarding the availability of excess property, among which are:

(a) Personal contact with GSA or the holding installation;

(b) Review of excess property catalogs and bulletins circularized by GSA;

(c) Examination and inspection of reports and samples of excess property assembled for this purpose in GSA regional offices; and

(d) Submission of current and future requirements for excess personal property to the appropriate GSA regional office, using GSA Form 1539, Request for Excess Personal Property. Section 101–43.4904 illustrates GSA Form 1539, and § 101–43.4904–1 furnishes instructions for its acquisition and use. Property utilization specialists in GSA regional offices continually review completed forms in an effort to match agency needs with property becoming available for transfer. In addition, a mechanized method of cross matching agency requirements against reported excess property is used, keyed to the 11-digit Federal Stock Number (FSN) furnished by reporting agencies on Standard Form 120, Report of Excess Personal Property, and by requesting agencies on GSA Form 1539. A bank of requirements is maintained, recorded by agency, and identified by the applicable Federal Item Identification Number (FIIN) (the last seven digits of the Federal Stock Number). As excess property is reported, availability is matched against requirements on a direct FIIN to FIIN basis. It is important that wherever possible the 11-digit FSN be shown for each item requested. GSA will assist, to the limit of its ability, in obtaining FSNs in order that agency requirements may be incorporated into the mechanized matching system. If substitute items are acceptable, these should be furnished at the same time and identified by the 11-digit FSN. Agencies having electrical accounting machine punchcard capability may elect to use this method of submitting requirements; in such cases instructions for submission of requirements can be obtained from the Property Management and Disposal Service, Personal Property Division, at the nearest GSA regional office. Agencies may also submit requirements in the form of a list of needed property. A purge date of approximately 180 days generally will be established for items submitted to the requirements bank. Unless agencies provide instructions to the contrary, requirements will be removed from the bank at the end of the 180-day period. Agencies should notify GSA when requirements on file with GSA are no longer needed, so that the file will continue to be current. Items of excess property for which needs are registered normally will not be offered in GSA Excess Property Catalogs and Bulletins; it will be to the advantage of all agencies that their interest in obtaining excess property items be made known immediately. GSA can thus offer available excess to them for transfer.

[26 CFR Part 1]

PREPAID DUES INCOME OF CERTAIN MEMBERSHIP ORGANIZATIONS

Notice of Proposed Rule Making

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946, that the regulations set forth in tentative form below are proposed to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury or his delegate. Prior to the final adoption of such regulations, consideration will be given to any comments or suggestions pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing, in duplicate, to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T, Washington, D.C. 20224, within the period of 30 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Any person submitting written comments or suggestions who desires an opportunity to comment orally at a public hearing on these proposed regulations should submit his request, in writing, to the Commissioner within the 30-day period. In such case, a public hearing will be held and notice of the time, place, and date will be published in a subsequent issue of the FEDERAL REGISTER. The proposed regulations are to be issued under the authority contained in section 7805 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (68A Stat. 917; 26 U.S.C. 7805).

[SEAL] SHELDON S. COHEN,
Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The following regulations relating to prepaid dues income of certain membership organizations, effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1960, are hereby prescribed under section 456 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as added by Public Law 87-109 (75 Stat. 222):

§ 1.456 Statutory provisions; prepaid dues income of certain membership organizations.

SEC. 456. Prepaid dues income of certain membership organizations.—(a) Year in which included. Prepaid dues income to which this section applies shall be included in gross income for the taxable years during which the liability described in subsection (c)(2) exists.

(b) Where taxpayer's liability ceases. In the case of any prepaid dues income to which this section applies—

(1) If the liability described in subsection (c)(2) ends, then so much of such income as was not includible in gross income under subsection (a) for preceding taxable years shall be included in gross income for the taxable year in which the liability ends.

(2) If the taxpayer ceases to exist, then so much of such income as was not includible in gross income under subsection (a) for preceding taxable years shall be included in gross income for the taxable year in which such cessation of existence occurs.

(c) Prepaid dues income to which this section applies.—(1) Election of benefits. This section shall apply to prepaid dues income if and only if the taxpayer makes an election under this section with respect to the trade or business in connection with which such income is received. The election shall be made in such manner as the Secretary or his delegate may by regulations prescribe. No election may be made with respect to a trade or business if in computing taxable income the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting is used with respect to such trade or business.

(2) Scope of election. An election made under this section shall apply to all prepaid dues income received in connection with the trade or business with respect to which the taxpayer has made the election; except that the taxpayer may, to the extent permitted under regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate, include in gross income for the taxable year of receipt the entire amount of any prepaid dues income if the liability from which it arose is to end within 12 months after the date of receipt. Except as provided in subsection (d), an election made under this section shall not apply to any prepaid dues income received before the first taxable year for which the election is made.

(3) When election may be made.—(A) With consent. A taxpayer may, with the consent of the Secretary or his delegate, make an election under this section at any time.

(B) Without consent. A taxpayer may, without the consent of the Secretary or his delegate, make an election under this section for its first taxable year (i) which begins after December 31, 1960, and (ii) in which it receives prepaid dues income in the trade or business. Such election shall be made not later than the time prescribed by law for filing the return for the taxable year (including extensions thereof) with respect to which such election is made.

(4) Period to which election applies. An election under this section shall be effective for the taxable year with respect to which it is first made and for all subsequent taxable years, unless the taxpayer secures the consent of the Secretary or his delegate to the revocation of such election. For purposes of this title, the computation of taxable income under an election made under this section shall be treated as a method of accounting.

(d) Transitional rule.—(1) Amount includible in gross income for election years. If a taxpayer makes an election under this section with respect to prepaid dues income, such taxpayer shall include in gross income, for such taxable year to which such election applies, not only that portion of prepaid dues income received in such year otherwise includible in gross income for such year under this section, but shall also include in gross income for such year an additional amount equal to the amount of prepaid dues income received in the 3 taxable years preceding the first taxable year to which such election applies which would have been included in gross income in the taxable year had the election been effective 3 years earlier.

(2) Deductions of amounts included in income more than once. A taxpayer who makes an election with respect to prepaid dues income, and who includes in gross income for any taxable year to which the election applies an additional amount computed under paragraph (1), shall be permitted to deduct, for such taxable year and for each of the 4 succeeding taxable years, an amount equal to one-fifth of such additional amount, but only to the extent that such additional amount was also included in the taxpayer's gross income during any of the 3 taxable years preceding the first taxable year to which such election applies.

(e) Definitions. For purposes of this section—

(1) Prepaid dues income. The term "prepaid dues income" means any amount (includible in gross income) which is received by a membership organization in connection with, and is directly attributable to, a liability to render services or make available membership privileges over a period of time which extends beyond the close of the taxable year in which such amount is received.

(2) Liability. The term "liability" means a liability to render services or make available membership privileges over a period of time which does not exceed 36 months, which liability shall be deemed to exist ratably over the period of time that such services are required to be rendered, or that such membership privileges are required to be made available.

(3) Membership organization. The term "membership organization" means a corporation, association, federation, or other organization—

(A) Organized without capital stock of any kind, and

(B) No part of the net earnings of which is distributable to any member.

(4) Receipt of prepaid dues income. Prepaid dues income shall be treated as received during the taxable year for which it is includible in gross income under section 451 (without regard to this section).

(Sec. 456 as added by the Act of July 26, 1961 (Public Law 87-109, 75 Stat. 222))

§ 1.456-1 Treatment of prepaid dues income.

Effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1960, a taxpayer which is a membership organization (as described in par. (c) of § 1.456-5) and which receives prepaid dues income as described in par. (a) of § 1.456-5 in connection with its trade or business of rendering services or making available membership privileges may elect under section 456 to include such income in gross income ratably over the taxable years during which its liability (as described in par. (b) of § 1.456-5) to render such services or extend such privileges exists, if such liability does not extend over a period of time in excess of 36 months. If the taxpayer does not elect to treat prepaid dues income under section 456, or if such income may not be reported under section 456, as for example, where the income relates to a liability to render services or make available membership privileges which extends beyond 36 months, then such income is includible in gross income for the taxable year in which it is received (as described in par. (d) of § 1.456–5).

§ 1.456–2 Scope of election under section 456.

(a) An election made under section 456 and § 1.456–6, shall be applicable to all prepaid dues income received in connection with the trade or business for which the election is made. However, the taxpayer may further elect to include in gross income for the taxable year of receipt the entire amount of any prepaid dues income attributable to a liability extending beyond the close of the taxable year but ending within 12 months after the date of receipt, hereinafter referred to as the "within 12 months" election.

(b) If the taxpayer is engaged in more than one trade or business in connection with which prepaid dues income is received, a separate election may be made under section 456 with respect to each such trade or business. In addition, a taxpayer may make a separate "within 12 months" election for each separate trade or business for which it has made an election under section 456.

(c) A section 456 election and a "within 12 months" election shall be binding for the first taxable year for which the election is made and for all subsequent taxable years, unless the taxpayer secures the consent of the Commissioner to the revocation of either election. In order to secure the Commissioner's consent to the revocation of the section 456 election or the "within 12 months" election, an application must be filed with the Commissioner in accordance with section 446(e) and the regulations thereunder. However, an application for consent to revoke the section 456 election or the "within 12 months" election in the case of all taxable years which end before the date of publication of the regulations under section 456 in the FEDERAL REGISTER as a Treasury decision, must be filed within 90 days after the date of such publication. For purposes of Subtitle A of the Code, the computation of taxable income under an election made under section 456 or under the "within 12 months" election shall be treated as a method of accounting. For adjustments required by changes in method of accounting, see section 481 and the regulations thereunder.

(d) Except as provided in section 456 (d) and § 1.456–7, an election made under section 456 shall not apply to any prepaid dues income received before the first taxable year to which the election applies. For example, Corporation X, a membership organization which files its income tax returns on a calendar year basis, customarily sells 3-year memberships, payable in advance. In 1961 it received $160,000 of prepaid dues income for 3-year memberships beginning during 1961, and in 1962 it received $185,000 of prepaid dues income for 3-year memberships beginning on January 1, 1962. In March 1962 it elected, with the consent of the Commissioner, to report its prepaid dues income under the provisions of section 456 for the year 1962 and subsequent taxable years. The $160,000 received in 1961 from prepaid dues must be included in gross income in full in that year, and except as provided in section 456(d) and § 1.456–7, no part of such income shall be allocated to the taxable years 1962, 1963, and 1964 during which X was under a liability to make available its membership privileges. The $185,000 received in 1962 from prepaid dues income shall be allocated to the years 1962, 1963, and 1964.

(e) No election may be made under section 456 with respect to a trade or business if, in computing taxable income, the cash receipts and disbursements method (or a hybrid thereof) of accounting is used with respect to such trade or business, unless the combination of the section 456 election and the taxpayer's hybrid method of accounting does not result in a material distortion of income.

§ 1.456–3 Method of allocation.

(a) Prepaid dues income for which an election has been made under section 456 shall be included in gross income over the period of time during which the liability to render services or make available membership privileges exists. The liability to render the services or make available the membership privileges shall be deemed to exist ratably over the period of time such services are required to be rendered, or such membership privileges are required to be made available. Thus, the prepaid dues income shall be included in gross income ratably over the period of the membership contract. For example, Corporation X, a membership organization, which files its income tax returns on a calendar year basis, elects, for its taxable year beginning January 1, 1961, to report its prepaid dues income in accordance with the provisions of section 456. On March 31, 1961, it sells a 2-year membership for $48 payable in advance, the membership to extend from May 1, 1961, to April 30, 1963. X shall include in its gross income for the taxable year 1961 $\frac{3}{24}$ of the $48, or $16, and for the taxable year 1962 $\frac{12}{24}$ of the $48, or $24, and for the taxable year 1963 $\frac{9}{24}$ of the $48, or $8.

(b) For purposes of determining the period or periods over which the liability of the taxpayer exists, and for purposes of allocating prepaid dues income to such periods, the taxpayer may aggregate similar transactions during the taxable year in any reasonable manner, provided the method of aggregation and allocation is consistently followed.

§ 1.456–4 Cessation of liability or existence.

(a) If a taxpayer has elected to apply the provisions of section 456 to a trade or business in connection with which prepaid dues income is received, and if the taxpayer's liability to render services or make available membership privileges ends for any reason, as for example, because of the cancellation of a membership then so much of the prepaid dues income attributable to such liability as was not includible in the taxpayer's gross income under section 456 for preceding taxable years shall be included in gross income for the taxable year in which such liability ends. This paragraph shall not apply to amounts includible in gross income under § 1.456–7.

(b) If a taxpayer which has elected to apply the provisions of section 456 ceases to exist, then the prepaid dues income which was not includible in gross income under section 456 for preceding taxable years shall be included in the taxpayer's gross income for the taxable year in which such cessation of existence occurs. This paragraph shall not apply to amounts includible in gross income under § 1.456–7.

(c) If a taxpayer is a party to a transaction to which section 381(a) applies and the taxpayer's method of accounting with respect to prepaid dues income is used by the acquiring corporation under the provisions of section 381(c)(4), then neither the liability nor the existence of the taxpayer shall be deemed to have ended or ceased. In such cases see section 381(c)(4) and the regulations thereunder for the treatment of the portion of prepaid dues income which was not included in gross income under section 456 for preceding taxable years.

§ 1.456–5 Definitions and other rules.

(a) Prepaid dues income. (1) The term "prepaid dues income" means any amount for membership dues includible in gross income which is received by a membership organization in connection with, and is directly attributable to, a liability of the taxpayer to render services or make available membership privileges over a period of time which extends beyond the close of the taxable year in which such amount is received.

(2) For purposes of section 456, prepaid dues income does not include amounts received by a taxpayer in connection with sales of memberships on a prepaid basis where the taxpayer does not have the liability to furnish the services or make available the membership privileges. For example, where a taxpayer has a contract with several membership organizations to sell memberships in such organizations and retains a portion of the amounts received from the sale of such memberships and remits the balance to the membership organizations, the amounts retained by such taxpayer represent commissions and do not constitute prepaid dues income for purposes of section 456.

(b) Liability. The term "liability" means a liability of the taxpayer to render services or make available membership privileges over a period of time which does not exceed 36 months. Thus, if during the taxable year a taxpayer sells memberships for more than 36 months and also memberships for 36 months or less, section 456 does not apply to the income from the sale of memberships for more than 36 months. For the purpose of determining the duration of a liability, a bona fide renewal of a membership shall not be considered to be a part of the existing membership.

(c) Membership organization. (1) The term "membership organization" means a corporation, association, federation, or other similar organization meeting the following requirements:

(i) It is organized without capital stock of any kind,

(ii) Its charter, bylaws, or other written agreement or contract expressly prohibits the distribution of any part of the net earnings directly or indirectly, in money, property, or services, to any member, and

(iii) No part of the net earnings of which is in fact distributed to any member either directly or indirectly, in money, property, or services.

(2) For purposes of this paragraph an increase in services or reduction in dues to all members shall generally not be considered distributions of net earnings.

(3) If a corporation, association, federation, or other similar organization subsequent to the time it elects to report its prepaid dues income in accordance with the provisions of section 456, (i) issues any kind of capital stock either to any member or nonmember, (ii) amends its charter, bylaws, or other written agreement or contract to permit distributions of its net earnings to any member or, (iii) in fact, distributes any part of its net earnings either in money, property, or services to any member, then immediately after such event the organization shall not be considered a membership organization within the meaning of section 456(c)(3).

(d) Receipt of prepaid dues income. For purposes of section 456, prepaid dues income shall be treated as received during the taxable year for which it is includible in gross income under section 451, relating to the general rule for taxable year of inclusion, without regard to section 456.

§ 1.456–6 Time and manner of making election.

(a) Election without consent. A taxpayer may make an election under section 456 without the consent of the Commissioner for the first taxable year beginning after December 31, 1960, in which it receives prepaid dues income in the trade or business for which such election is made. The election must be made not later than the time prescribed by law for filing the income tax return for such year (including extensions thereof). The election must be made by means of a statement attached to such return. In addition, there should be attached a copy of a typical membership contract used by the organization and a copy of its charter, bylaws, or other written agreement or contract of organization or association. The statement shall indicate that the taxpayer is electing to apply the provisions of section 456 to the trade or business, and shall contain the following information:

(1) The taxpayer's name and a description of the trade or business to which the election is to apply.

(2) The method of accounting used for prepaid dues income in the trade or business during the first taxable year for which the election is to be effective and during each of 3 preceding taxable years, and if there was a change in the method of accounting for prepaid dues income during such 3-year period, a detailed explanation of such change including the adjustments necessary to prevent duplications or omissions of income.

(3) Whether any type of deferral method for prepaid dues income has been used during any of the 3 taxable years preceding the first taxable year for which the election is effective. Where any type of such deferral method has been used during this period, an explanation of the method and a schedule showing the amounts received in each such year and the amounts deferred to each succeeding year.

(4) A schedule with appropriate explanations showing:

(i) The total amount of prepaid dues income received in the trade or business in the first taxable year for which the election is effective and the amount of such income to be included in each taxable year in accordance with the election,

(ii) The total amount, if any, of prepayments of dues received in the first taxable year for which the election is effective which are directly attributable to a liability of the taxpayer to render services or make available membership privileges over a period of time in excess of 36 months, and

(iii) The total amount, if any, of prepaid dues income received in the trade or business in—

(a) The taxable year preceding the first taxable year for which the election is effective if all memberships sold by the taxpayer are for periods of 1 year or less,

(b) Each of the 2 taxable years preceding the first taxable year for which the election is effective if any memberships are sold for periods in excess of 1 year but none are sold for periods in excess of 2 years, or

(c) Each of the 3 taxable years preceding the first taxable year for which the election is effective if any memberships are sold for periods in excess of 2 years.

In each case there shall be set forth the amount of such income which would have been includible in each taxable year had the election been effective for the years for which the information is required.

In any case in which prepaid dues income is received from more than one trade or business, the statement shall set forth separately the required information with respect to each trade or business for which the election is made. See paragraph (c) of this section for additional information required to be submitted with the statement if the taxpayer also elects to include in gross income for the taxable year of receipt the entire amount of prepaid dues income attributable to a liability which is to end within 12 months after the date of receipt.

(b) Election with consent. A taxpayer may elect with the consent of the Commissioner, to apply the provisions of section 456 to any trade or business in which it receives prepaid dues income. The request for such consent shall be in writing, signed by the taxpayer or its authorized representative, and shall be addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D.C. 20224. The request must be filed on or before the later of the following dates: (1) 90 days after the beginning of the first taxable year to which the election is to apply, or (2) 90 days after the date of publication of the regulations under section 456 in the FEDERAL REGISTER as a Treasury decision and should contain the information described in paragraph (a) of this section. See paragraph (c) of this section for additional information required to be submitted with the request if the taxpayer also elects to include in gross income for the taxable year of receipt the entire amount of prepaid dues income attributable to a liability which is to end within 12 months after the date of receipt.

(c) "Within 12 months" election. (1) The "within 12 months" election shall be made by including in the statement required by paragraph (a) of this section or the request described in paragraph (b) of this section, whichever is applicable, a declaration that the taxpayer elects to include such income in gross income in the taxable year of receipt, and the amount of such income for each taxable year to which the election is to apply which has ended prior to the time such statement or request is filed. If the taxpayer is engaged in more than one trade or business for which the election under section 456 is made, it must include, in such statement or request, a declaration for each trade or business for which it wishes to make the "within 12 months" election.

(2) If the taxpayer does not make the "within 12 months" election for a trade or business at the time it makes the election under paragraph (a) or (b) of this section, but later wishes to make such election, it must apply for permission from the Commissioner. Such application shall be made in accordance with the provisions of section 446(e) and § 1.446–(e)(3).

§ 1.456–7 Transitional rule.

(a) Under section 456(d)(1), a taxpayer making an election under section 456 shall include in its gross income for the first taxable year to which the election applies and for each of the 2 succeeding taxable years not only that portion of prepaid dues income which is includible in gross income for each such taxable year under section 456(a), but also an additional amount equal to that portion of the total prepaid dues income received in each of the 3 taxable years preceding the first taxable year to which the election applies which would have been includible in gross income for such first taxable year and such 2 succeeding taxable years had the election under section 456 been effective during such 3 preceding taxable years. In computing such additional amounts—

(1) In the case of taxpayers who did not include in gross income for the taxable year preceding the first taxable year for which the election is effective, that portion of the prepaid dues income received in such year attributable to a liability which is to end within 12 months after the date of receipt, no effect shall be given to a "within 12 months" election made under paragraph (c) of § 1.456–6, and

(2) There shall be taken into account only prepaid dues income arising from a trade or business with respect to which an election is made under section 456 and § 1.456–6.

Section 461 and the regulations thereunder shall have no application to the additional amounts includible in gross income under section 456(d) and this section, but section 461 and the regulations thereunder shall apply to prevent other amounts from being duplicated or omitted.

(b) A taxpayer who makes an election with respect to prepaid dues income, and who includes in gross income for any taxable year to which the election applies an additional amount computed under section 456(d)(1) and paragraph (a) of this section, shall be permitted under section 456(d)(2) to deduct for such taxable year and for each of the 4 succeeding taxable years an amount equal to one-fifth of such additional amount, but only to the extent that such additional amount was also included in the taxpayer's gross income for any of the 3 taxable years preceding the first taxable year to which such election applies. The taxpayer shall maintain books and records in sufficient detail to enable the district director to determine upon audit that the additional amounts were included in the taxpayer's gross income for any of the 3 taxable years preceding such first taxable year. If, however, the taxpayer ceases to exist, as described in paragraph (b) of § 1.456–4, and there is included in gross income, under such paragraph, of the year of cessation the entire portion of prepaid dues income not previously includible in gross income under section 456 for preceding taxable years (other than for amounts received prior to the first year for which an election was made), all the amounts not previously deducted under this paragraph shall be permitted as a deduction in the year of cessation of existence.

(c) The provisions of this section may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. (1) Assume that X Corporation, a membership organization qualified to make the election under section 456, elects to report its prepaid dues income in accordance with the provisions of section 456 for its taxable year ending December 31, 1961. Assume further that X Corporation receives in the middle of each taxable year $3,000 of prepaid dues income in connection with a liability to render services over a 3-year period beginning with the date of receipt. Under section 456(a), X Corporation will report income received in 1961 and subsequent years as follows:

Year of receipt	Total receipts	1961	1962	1963	1964	1965	1966	1967	1968
1961	$3,000	$500	$1,000	$1,000	$500
1962	3,000		500	1,000	1,000	$500
1963	3,000			500	1,000	1,000	$500
1964	3,000				500	1,000	1,000	$500
1965	3,000					500	1,000	1,000	$500
1966	3,000						500	1,000	1,000
1967	3,000							500	1,000
1968	3,000								500
Total reportable under section 456(a)		500	1,500	2,500	3,000	3,000	3,000	3,000	3,000

(2) Under section 456(d)(1), X Corporation must include in its gross income for the first taxable year to which the election applies and for each of the 2 succeeding taxable years, the amounts which would have been included in those years had the election been effective 3 years earlier. If the election had been effective in 1958, the following amounts received in 1958, 1959, and 1960 would have been reported in 1961 and subsequent years:

Year of receipt	Amount received	Years of including additional amounts
		1961	1962	1963
1958	$1,000	$500
1959	2,000	1,000	$500
1960	3,000	1,000	1,000	$500
Total additional amounts to be included under section 456(d)(1)		2,500	1,500	500

(3) Having included the additional amounts as required by section 456(d)(1), and assuming such amounts were actually included in gross income in the 3 taxable years preceding the first taxable year for which the election is effective, X Corporation is entitled to deduct under section 456(d)(2) in the year of inclusion and in each of the succeeding 4 years an amount equal to one-fifth of the amounts included, as follows:

Year of inclusion	Amount	Years of deduction
		1961	1962	1963	1964	1965	1966	1967
1961	$2,500	$500	$500	$500	$500	$500
1962	1,500		300	300	300	300	$300
1963	500			100	100	100	100	$100
Total amount deductible under section 456(d)(2)		500	800	900	900	900	400	100

(4) The net result of the inclusions under section 456(d)(1) and the deductions under section 456(d)(2) may be summarized as follows:

	1961	1962	1963	1964	1965	1966	1967	1968
Amount includible under section 456(a)	$500	$1,500	$2,500	$3,000	$3,000	$3,000	$3,000	$3,000
Amount includible under section 456(d)(1)	2,500	1,500	500
Total	3,000	3,000	3,000	3,000	3,000	3,000	3,000	3,000
Amount deductible under section 456(d)(2)	500	800	900	900	900	400	100
Net amount reportable under section 456	2,500	2,200	2,100	2,100	2,100	2,600	2,900	3,000

[32] The proposed rates contained in such supplements will be suspended as hereinafter ordered.

Marathon Oil Co. (Operator) et al. (Marathon), request an effective date of June 29, 1967, for their proposed supplemental contract and rate increase. Good cause has not been shown for waiving the 30-day notice requirement provided in section 4(d) of the Natural Gas Act to permit an earlier effective date for Marathon's rate filings and such request is denied.

All of the producers' proposed increased rates and charges exceed the applicable area price levels for increased rates as set forth in the Commission's statement of general policy No. 61-1, as amended (18 CFR 2.56).

The proposed changed rates and charges may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

Four of the producers herein, Sinclair Oil & Gas Co. (Operator) et al. (Sinclair); Union Oil Company of California (Union Oil); Marathon Oil Co. (Operator) et al., and Marathon Oil Co. have submitted contract amendments which provide for their proposed rate increases. We believe that it would be in the public interest to accept for filing Sinclair," Union Oil," Marathon Oil Co. (Operator) et al.," and Marathon Oil Co.'s " contract amendments to become effective July 1, 1967 (Sinclair); September 1, 1967 (Union Oil); July 9, 1967 (Marathon Oil Co. (Operator) et al., and Marathon Oil Co."

The Commission finds:

(1) Good cause has been shown for accepting for filing Sinclair, Union Oil, Marathon Oil Co. (Operator), et al., and Marathon Oil Co.'s proposed contract amendments, as set forth above, and for permitting such supplements to become effective on July 1, 1967 (Sinclair); September 1, 1967 (Union Oil); and July 9, 1967 (Marathon Oil Co. (Operator) et al., and Marathon Oil Co.).

(2) It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon hearings concerning the lawfulness of the proposed changes, and that the above-designated supplements be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Supplement Nos. 8, 9, and 10 to Sinclair's PPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 157; Supplement No. 4 to Union Oil's PPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 47; Supplement No. 10 to Marathon Oil Co. (Operator) et al., PPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 30, and Supplement No. 13 to Marathon Oil Co.'s PPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 31, are accepted for filing and permitted to become effective on July 1, 1967 (Sinclair); September 1, 1967 (Union Oil); July 9, 1967 (Marathon Oil Co. (Operator) et al., and Marathon Oil Co.

(B) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15 thereof, the Commission's Rules of practice and procedure, and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR Ch. I), public hearings shall be held upon dates to be fixed by notices from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of the proposed increased rates and charges contained in the above-designated supplements (except the supplements set forth in par. (A) above).

(C) Pending hearings and decisions thereon, the above-designated supplements are hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until the date indicated in the above "Date Suspended Until" column, and thereafter until such further time as they are made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(D) Neither the supplements hereby suspended, nor the rate schedules sought to be altered thereby, shall be changed until these proceedings have been disposed of or until the periods of suspension have expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(E) Notices of intervention or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37(f)), on or before August 15, 1967.

By the Commission.

MOBIL OIL CORP. ET AL.

Order Providing for Hearing on and Suspension of Proposed Change in Rate, and Allowing Rate Change To Become Effective Subject to Refund

June 30, 1967.

Respondent named herein has filed a proposed change in rate and charge of a currently effective rate schedule for the sale of natural gas under Commission jurisdiction, as set forth in Appendix A hereof.

The proposed changed rate and charge may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is in the public interest and consistent with the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing regarding the lawfulness of the proposed change, and that the supplement herein be suspended and its use be deferred as ordered below.

The Commission orders:

(A) Under the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15, the regulations pertaining thereto (18 CFR Ch. I), and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a public hearing shall be held concerning the lawfulness of the proposed change.

(B) Pending hearing and decision thereon, the rate supplement herein is suspended and its use deferred until date shown in the "Date Suspended Until" column, and thereafter until made effective as prescribed by the Natural Gas Act: Provided, however, That the supplement to the rate schedule filed by Respondent shall become effective subject to refund on the date and in the manner herein prescribed if within 20 days from the date of the issuance of this order Respondent shall execute and file under its above-designated docket number with the Secretary of the Commission its agreement and undertaking to comply with the refunding and reporting procedure required by the Natural Gas Act and § 154.102 of the regulations thereunder, accompanied by a certificate showing service of a copy thereof upon the purchaser under the rate schedule involved. Unless Respondent is advised to the contrary within 15 days after the filing of its agreement and undertaking, such agreement and undertaking shall be deemed to have been accepted.

(C) Until otherwise ordered by the Commission, neither the suspended supplement, nor the rate schedule sought to be altered, shall be changed until disposition of this proceeding or expiration of the suspension period.

The proposed rate increase exceeds the area increased rate ceiling of 11.0 cents per Mcf for Oklahoma "Other" Area announced in the Commission's statement of general policy No. 61-1, as amended (18 CFR 2.56). However, since Mobil's rate filing relates only to a tax reimbursement increase, we conclude that such increase should be suspended for 1 day from July 1, 1967, the proposed effective date.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Office of the Secretary

NATURAL DISASTER AND PEACETIME RADIOLOGICAL DISASTER

Notice of Responsibilities in USDA

SECTION 1—General—1. Purpose. This notice outlines the natural disaster and peacetime radiological disaster responsibilities of the Department of Agriculture and the organization for carrying them out at the National, regional, State and county levels. It indicates the central point within the Department for assembling information on disasters and for overall coordination of disaster programs. It describes the major functions assigned to USDA agencies doing related work to provide for using natural disaster experience in building capability to handle USDA defense responsibilities.

As used herein, the term "natural disaster" is any flood, drought, fire, hurricane, earthquake, storm, or other catastrophe which the President or Secretary determines is or threatens to be of sufficient severity and magnitude to warrant assistance by the Federal Government to supplement efforts and resources of State and local governments. For the purpose of these regulations, "natural disaster" includes radioactive contamination above an acceptable level resulting from any cause other than an attack upon the United States.

2. Summary of USDA natural disaster responsibilities. The Department of Agriculture has the following natural disaster program responsibilities in the affected area:

a. Providing assistance, where needed, to assure safe and adequate food;

b. Providing assistance to farmers in maintaining their livestock and repairing damaged farms;

c. Providing assistance to farmers wherever radioactive contamination affects farm operations or production;

d. Providing credit where not available from other sources for restoring farms and farm facilities and for continuing normal farming operations;

e. Controlling plant diseases and insect infestations;

f. Controlling contagious and infectious livestock diseases;

g. Performing emergency measures necessary to suppress fires on or adjacent to National forests and providing aid in suppressing other rural fires;

h. Extending credit and providing technical assistance for restoring electric and telephone service by REA-financed systems;

i. Giving technical advice on emergency protection countermeasures and rehabilitation from effects of natural disaster;

j. Providing and encouraging use of crop investment insurance against loss from the many natural hazards beyond the farmer's control.

SEC. 2—Coordination and liaison—1. National level. The Assistant to the Secretary (Defense Mobilization Planning) is responsible to the Secretary for coordinating and facilitating USDA operations of natural disaster programs. This includes maintaining liaison with executive departments and the Congress on disaster matters.

Each agency shall inform the Assistant to the Secretary of requests for its programs and of the beginning, scope, and ending of any natural disaster program which it undertakes. Within the broad general guidance and coordination provided, each agency shall continue to carry out its program responsibilities. The Assistant to the Secretary may ask the USDA National Defense Board for needed advice.

4. State and county levels. For their respective jurisdictions, each USDA State and County Defense Board shall be the central point at which information is available concerning disaster operations of all agencies of USDA.

USDA State and County Defense Board Chairmen are responsible for exchanging disaster information among USDA and other Government agencies needing it. Other USDA representatives who receive inquiries about overall USDA disaster activities in the State or county shall refer such inquiries to the State or County Board Chairman. Each USDA agency shall continue to administer natural disaster programs for which it is responsible under this notice.

In addition, all USDA natural disaster programs shall be coordinated by USDA State and County Defense Boards when:

a. Areas within their jurisdiction are declared a major disaster area by the President, or

b. The Assistant to the Secretary determines coordination is necessary because of the number of agency programs involved, or the possibility that the President may later declare the disaster to be a major one.

This coordination shall be accomplished through an exchange of information by all agency Board members, and may include special Board meetings.

The Boards will not direct agency actions but may recommend actions to any agency through its Board member. The Chairmen of the USDA State and County Defense Boards shall be the Department's overall representatives on these natural disaster matters, including serving as focal points for providing USDA disaster program information to and receiving information from other Government agencies and the public. The Assistant to the Secretary shall determine when Board coordination is no longer necessary.

Sec. 3—Assignment of responsibilities to agencies—5. Agricultural Research Service. The Agricultural Research Service (ARS) is responsible for natural disaster operations including:

a. Carrying out necessary control measures to eradicate or prevent spread of plant and animal diseases and insect pests (except forest pests);

b. Cooperating with other Government agencies with assigned responsibilities for research and programs of countermeasures to assure safety of food from contamination by dangerous amounts of radioactive material.

6. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) is responsible for natural disaster programs relating to production of crops and livestock and for necessary measures for conservation and restoration of farmland including:

a. Donating CCC-owned feed grain to provide relief for livestock in major disaster areas declared by the President under Public Law 875, 81st Congress;

b. Selling CCC-owned feed grain to livestock owners in emergency areas determined by the Secretary and in major disaster areas;

c. Authorizing grazing or haying on conservation reserve acres or other acres under supply-adjustment programs;

d. Providing emergency conservation measures to control severe wind damage of farmland or to rehabilitate farmlands damaged by wind erosion, floods, hurricanes, and other natural disasters;

e. Providing emergency wildlife feeding assistance and measures to protect farm crops from heavy concentrations of migratory waterfowl, and protecting both migratory and resident wildlife.

7. Consumer and Marketing Service. The Consumer and Marketing Service (C&MS) is responsible for natural disaster programs relating to the processing, storage, and distribution of food, including:

a. Arranging for release of foods available for direct distribution programs for use in feeding needy persons under disaster conditions;

b. Assisting, as appropriate, in obtaining freight rate reductions to facilitate the movement of necessary hay and feed supplies to areas affected by natural disasters or in the movement of livestock from such areas to other areas where adequate pasture or forage exists;

c. Carrying out programs necessary to assure purity and wholesomeness of meat and meat products, poultry and poultry products in slaughtering and processing plants subject to continuous C&MS inspection;

d. Cooperating with the Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, in programs involving removal from the market of foods contaminated by radioactivity.

8. Cooperative Extension Service. The Cooperative Extension Service (CES) is responsible for providing advice to farmers on emergency problems, including cleanup of damaged property, sanitary measures, water supply and sewage disposal, insect infestations, disaster-caused power failures, feed and water for livestock and many other problems of safety and welfare that accompany any major peacetime disaster.

9. Farmers Home Administration. The Farmers Home Administration (FHA) is responsible for making emergency loans available to farmers in areas designated by the Secretary upon his finding that a peacetime disaster has created a need for agricultural credit which cannot be met temporarily by responsible local sources. Emergency loans may be made to enable farmers to resume their normal farming operations, including the rehabilitation and repair of farm facilities, the purchase of feed for livestock, farm operating and living expenses, and for other related purposes.

The Farmers Home Administration is also responsible for recommending to the Secretary, in accordance with established procedures, the designation of disaster areas in which emergency loans may be made.

10. Federal Crop Insurance Corporation. The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC) is responsible for providing immediate service to insured farmers through indemnity payments when natural disasters destroy their crops, and for providing farmers through its insurance guarantees a risk-sharing way to strengthen their financial and credit status following natural disasters.

11. Forest Service. The Forest Service (FS) responsibilities in a natural disaster include:

a. Providing assistance to States in control of forest fires including trained overhead suppression forces, equipment, materials, and supplies required to meet the emergency;

13. Soil Conservation Service. The Soil Conservation Service (SCS) is responsible for providing technical assistance and radiological monitoring in the rehabilitation of natural disaster or radioactively contaminated agricultural lands, emergency protection against high water, arranging for the loan of heavy earth-moving equipment and assistance in transportation problems when major highways cannot be used.

Sec. 4—Program Administration—14. Agency Programs. Each agency having responsibilities under section 3 shall develop and maintain the appropriate program or programs needed to carry them out. The administrative channels and procedures used to carry out assigned defense responsibilities shall also be used to the extent feasible for natural disaster responsibilities.

15. Natural disaster requests to USDA field offices. Any USDA county or other field office employee who receives a request for natural disaster assistance shall refer it:

a. If within his agency's area of responsibility, to the agency's county, State, or National office as appropriate;

b. If outside his agency's area of responsibility, to an appropriate official of the responsible agency.

16. Liaison with other Federal agencies. The Office of the Assistant to the Secretary shall have primary responsibility for maintaining and coordinating liaison with agencies outside USDA at the national level.

17. Liaison with OEP Regional Offices. Liaison with the Regional Offices of the Office of Emergency Planning (OEP) shall be provided by the Office of the Assistant to the Secretary. The Emergency Program Coordinators shall assist the Assistant to the Secretary in this activity.

MOTOR CARRIER APPLICATIONS AND CERTAIN OTHER PROCEEDINGS

JULY 7, 1967.

The following publications are governed by Special Rule 1.247 of the Commission's rules of practice, published in the FEDERAL REGISTER issue of April 20, 1966, which became effective May 20, 1966.

The publications hereinafter set forth reflect the scope of the applications as filed by applicant, and may include descriptions, restrictions, or limitations which are not in a form acceptable to the Commission. Authority which ultimately may be granted as a result of the applications here noticed will not necessarily reflect the phraseology set forth in the application as filed, but also will eliminate any restrictions which are not acceptable to the Commission.

APPLICATIONS ASSIGNED FOR ORAL HEARING

MOTOR CARRIERS OF PROPERTY

No. MC 2770 (Sub-No. 11) (Republication), filed July 15, 1966, published FEDERAL REGISTER issues of August 29, 1966, and September 9, 1966, and republished this issue. Applicant: SANBORN'S MOTOR EXPRESS, INC., Box 312, Norway, Maine. Applicant's representative: Mary E. Kelley, 10 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass. 02108. By application filed July 15, 1966, and amended, applicant seeks a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing operation, in interstate or foreign commerce, as a common carrier by motor vehicle, over irregular routes, of the commodities set forth below, serving the ports of entry on the international boundary line between the United States and Canada at or near Houlton and Calais, Maine, in connection with the carrier's presently authorized regular-route operations in Maine, restricted to traffic moving to or from the Provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. An order of the Commission, Operating Rights Board No. 1, dated June 21, 1967, and served June 29, 1967, finds that the proposed operation more appropriately should be described as a regular-route service, and authority therefor should be granted in such terms, therefore, the present and future public convenience and necessity require operation by applicant, in foreign commerce only, as a common carrier by motor vehicle over regular routes, of general commodities (except those of unusual value, classes A and B explosives, household goods as defined by the Commission, commodities in bulk, and those requiring special equipment), (1) Between Topsfield, Maine, and the port of entry on the international boundary line between the United States and Canada located at or near Houlton, Maine: From Topsfield over U.S. Highway 1 to Houlton, thence over Maine Highway 5 to the port of entry, and return over the same routes, serving no intermediate points, and

(2) Between Topsfield, Maine, and the port of entry on the international boundary line between the United States and Canada located at or near Calais, Maine, over U.S. Highway 1, serving no intermediate points, restricted in (1) and (2) above, to the transportation of traffic moving to or from the Provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, Canada; that applicant is fit, willing, and able properly to perform such service and to conform to the requirements of the Interstate Commerce Act and the Commission's rules and regulations thereunder and that an appropriate certificate should be issued subject to the condition that the authority granted herein shall not be severable, by sale or otherwise, from the regular-route authority embraced in certificate No. MC 2770 (Sub-No. 6), dated June 4, 1964. Because it is possible that other persons, who have relied upon the notice of the application as published may have an interest in and would be prejudiced by the lack of proper notice of the authority described in the findings in this order, a notice of the authority actually granted will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER and issuance of a certificate in this proceeding will be withheld for a period of 30 days from the date of such publication, during which period any proper party in interest may file a petition to reopen or for other appropriate relief setting forth in detail the precise manner in which it has been so prejudiced.

No. MC 113362 (Sub-No. 129) (Republication), filed October 25, 1966, published FEDERAL REGISTER issue of November 10, 1966, and republished this issue. Applicant: ELLSWORTH FREIGHT LINES, INC., 220 East Broadway, Eagle Grove, Iowa. Applicant's representative: William J. Boyd, 29 South La Salle Street, Chicago, Ill. By application filed October 25, 1966, applicant seeks a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing operation, in interstate or foreign commerce, as a common carrier by motor vehicle, over irregular routes, of candy and confectionary (except commodities in bulk in tank vehicles), (1) from the plantsite and storage facilities of M & M Candies at Hackettstown, N.J., and Port Elizabeth, N.J., to Cincinnati, Ohio, and Detroit, Mich., and (2) from the plantsite and storage facilities of Tootsie Roll Industries, Inc., at or near Hoboken, N.J., to Detroit and Grand Rapids, Mich. The application was referred to Examiner Kenneth A. Jennings for hearing and the recommendation of an appropriate order thereon. Hearing was held on March 1, 1967, at Washington, D.C. A report and order of the Commission, Division 1 served May 26, 1967, which became effective June 26, 1967, finds that the present and future public convenience and necessity require operation by applicant as a common carrier by motor vehicle, in interstate or foreign commerce, over irregular routes, of candy and confectionery (except commodities in bulk, in tank vehicles).

(1) From the plantsite of M & M Candies, Division of Mars, Inc., located at or near Hackettstown, N.J., and the storage facilities of M & M Candies, Division of Mars, Inc., located at or near Elizabeth, N.J., to Cincinnati, Ohio, and Detroit, Mich., restricted to the transportation of shipments originated at said plantsite or storage facilities, and (2) from the plantsite and storage facilities of Tootsie Roll Industries, Inc., located at or near Hoboken, N.J., to Detroit and Grand Rapids, Mich., restricted to the transportation of shipments originated at said plantsite or storage facilities; and that applicant is fit, willing, and able properly to perform such service and to conform to the requirements of the Interstate Commerce Act and the Commission's rules and regulations thereunder. Because it is possible that other persons, who have relied upon the notice of the application as published, may have an interest in and would be prejudiced by the lack of proper notice of the authority described in the findings in this order, a notice of the authority actually granted will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER and issuance of a certificate in this proceeding will be withheld for a period of 30 days from the date of such publication, during which period any proper party in interest may file a petition to reopen or for other appropriate relief setting forth in detail the precise manner in which it has been so prejudiced.

No. MC 126076 (Sub-No. 8) (Republication), filed March 2, 1967, published FEDERAL REGISTER issue of March 16, 1967, and republished this issue. Applicant: PROTECTIVE SERVICE COMPANY, A CORPORATION, 725-29 South Broad Street, Philadelphia, Pa. 19147. Applicant's representative: John M. Demcisak, 1035 Land Title Building, Philadelphia, Pa. 19110. By application filed March 2, 1967, applicant seeks a permit authorizing operations, in interstate or foreign commerce, as a contract carrier by motor vehicle, over irregular routes, of business papers, reports, records, and audit and accounting media (excluding plant removal), between Allentown, Pa., and Washington, D.C., under contract with The Service Bureau Corp. An order of the Commission, Operating Rights Board No. 1, dated June 21, 1967, and served June 29, 1967, finds that operation by applicant, in interstate or foreign commerce, as a contract carrier by motor vehicle, over irregular routes, of business papers, business records, and audit and accounting media, between Allentown, Pa., on the one hand, and, on the other, Washington, D.C., under a continuing contract with The Service Bureau Corp., of New York, N.Y., will be consistent with the public interest and the national transportation policy; that applicant is fit, willing, and able properly to perform such service and to conform to the requirements of the Interstate Commerce Act and the Commission's rules and regulations thereunder. Because it is possible that other persons, who have relied upon the notice of the application as published, may have an interest in and would be prejudiced by the lack of proper notice of the authority described in the findings in this order, a notice of the authority actually granted will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER and issuance of a permit in this proceeding will be withheld for a period of 30 days from the date of such publication, during which period any proper party in interest may file a petition to reopen or for other appropriate relief setting forth in detail the precise manner in which it has been so prejudiced.

PART 725—FLUE-CURED TOBACCO

Subpart—Flue-Cured Tobacco, 1966–67 and Subsequent Marketing Years

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Basis and purpose. This amendment is issued pursuant to and in accordance with the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1281 et seq.), and is made for the purpose of amending the Flue-Cured Tobacco Allotment and Marketing Quota Regulations for the 1966–67 and Subsequent Marketing Years. The amendment (1) provides that the tobacco allotment may be reduced if the farm has insufficient cropland, (2) expands provisions for preservation of history acreage where tobacco is regarded as planted under conservation programs and conservation practices pursuant to Part 719, (3) clarifies procedure for making mathematical determinations of effective farm acreage allotments and quotas, (4) authorizes the State executive director to omit showing data for 10 percent of quota on marketing cards when issued, (5) includes the rate of penalty applicable on marketings of excess tobacco during the 1967–68 marketing year, (6) includes provisions heretofore in administrative procedure which are required to be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER pursuant to Public Law 89-487, approved July 4, 1966, and (7) makes clarifying administrative changes of a procedural nature. A table of contents embodying the changes set forth is included in the amendment.

Tobacco farmers are engaged in the preparation for and production of flue-cured tobacco for 1967 and marketings of the crop will begin soon. Hence, it is essential that this amendment be made effective at the earliest possible date. Accordingly, it is hereby found and determined that compliance with the notice, public procedure, and 30-day effective date requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 is impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and the amendment contained herein shall become effective upon date of filing this document with the Director, Office of the Federal Register.

1. Section 725.56 is amended by revising paragraph (a) to read as follows:

§ 725.56 Determination of preliminary farm acreage allotments.

(a) Farms with history acreage in base period. A preliminary farm acreage allotment shall be determined for each farm which has tobacco history acreage, as defined and explained in § 725.73 of this part, in the base period, except that no preliminary farm acreage allotment shall be established in the current year under any one of the following conditions: (1) The only tobacco history acreage credited to the farm during the entire base period is history acreage restored because the allotment was reduced for violation of the marketing quota regulations, (2) a new farm allotment was established in any prior year but was canceled for the year preceding the current year, (3) an allotment was pooled under Part 719 of this chapter but was canceled, or (4) the county committee determines that the cropland in the farm has been retired from agricultural production and was not and could not have been acquired under the right of eminent domain by the person or agency that acquired it: Provided, That this paragraph shall not preclude the determination of a preliminary farm acreage allotment for (i) an old farm that is returned to agricultural production if the allotment for the retired land was not allocated to other land contained in the farm of which the retired land was a part, or (ii) a farm for which an acreage allotment may be determined under the provisions of § 725.68.

• • • • •

2. Section 725.56 is amended to read as follows:

§ 725.56 Determination of farm acreage allotments and effective farm acreage allotments.

(a) Farm acreage allotments. The farm acreage allotment shall be determined by multiplying the current year's preliminary farm acreage allotment by the national acreage factor for the current year.

(b) Effective farm acreage allotment. The effective farm acreage allotment for the current year shall be determined by adjusting the farm acreage allotment for the current year as follows:

(1) Upward adjustment. (i) Add the farm marketing quota and the pounds undermarketed in the preceding marketing year (not to exceed 100 per centum of the preceding year farm marketing quota plus pounds leased to the farm for such year) and divide the result by the current year's farm yield.

(ii) Add to the acreage computed under subdivision (i) of this subparagraph the acreage obtained by dividing the pounds leased and transferred to the farm for the current year by the current year's farm yield for the lessee farm.

(2) Downward adjustment. The farm acreage allotment, after adjustment under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, if any, shall be adjusted downward as follows:

(i) Subtract from the farm marketing quota the pounds overmarketed in the preceding marketing year (plus additional pounds overmarketed in any prior marketing year for which a reduction in quotas has not been made) and divide the result by the current year's farm yield.

(ii) Subtract from the acreage computed under (i) of this subparagraph the (a) acreage obtained by dividing the pounds leased and transferred from the farm for the current year by the current year's farm yield for the lessor farm, (b) acreage reduced because of insufficient cropland, and (c) acreage reduced because of a violation of the marketing quota regulations.

3. Section 725.60 is amended by revising paragraph (b) to read as follows:

§ 725.60 Determination of effective farm marketing quotas.

* * * * *

(b) Downward adjustment. The farm marketing quota, after adjustment, if any, under paragraph (a) of this section shall be adjusted downward by subtracting (1) the pounds overmarketed in the preceding marketing year plus additional pounds overmarketed in any prior marketing year for which a reduction in quota has not been made, (2) the pounds reduced for violation of the tobacco marketing quota regulations for a prior year, (3) the pounds leased and transferred from the farm for the current year, and (4) the pounds computed for allotment reduction because of insufficient cropland acreage on the farm.

4. Section 725.66 is amended by adding to the end of paragraphs (a) and (b) the following:

§ 725.66 Correction of errors and adjusting inequities in acreage allotments for old farms.

(a) General. * * * The reserve acreage for adjusting allotments under this paragraph will be held at the national level. The national office will advise State offices of the amount. Correction of errors shall be made out of the reserve acreage before allotments are adjusted for inequities. Any reserve acreage used in adjusting old farm allotments for inequities shall be approved by the Deputy Administrator.

(b) Basis for adjustment. * * * The total of all adjustments in old farm allotments under this paragraph shall not exceed the acreage apportioned the county for such purpose. The sum of adjustments for farms in the county owned, operated, or controlled by the State, county and community committeemen and the county office manager, shall not be larger in relation to the sum of the preceding year's allotments for such farm than the sum of the adjustments for other farms in the county in relation to the preceding year's allotments for such farms.

* * * * *

5. Section 725.68 is amended by adding to the end of pargraph (d) the following:

§ 725.68 Allotments and yields for farms acquired under right of eminent domain.

* * * * *

(d) Release and reapportionment * * * No release and reapportionment of allotment acreage hereunder shall be the result of any private negotiations between individuals. Any acreage released shall be released to the county committee and such acreage shall be reapportioned only by the county committee.

6. Section 725.73 is amended by revising paragraphs (a), (b), and (c) to read as follows:

§ 725.73 Determining tobacco history acreages.

Tobacco history acreage shall be determined for each farm for which a tobacco farm acreage allotment has been established for the current year.

(a) Farm acreage allotment fully preserved. The farm acreage allotment is fully preserved as tobacco history acreage for the current year if:

(1) (i) In the current year or either of the two preceding years the sum of (a) the final tobacco acreage as determined under Part 718 of this chapter, (b) the acreage computed for pounds leased and transferred from the farm under lease and transfer provisions, (c) acreage reduced because of insufficient cropland acreage, (d) and the acreage regarded as planted to tobacco under the conservation programs and practices determined pursuant to Part 719 of this chapter, was as much as 75 per centum of the farm acreage allotment (after adjustment for overmarketings and reduction for violation of marketing quota regulations). If an erroneous notice of allotment is issued, the smaller of the correct or the erroneous notice shall be used to determine whether 75 percent planting provision has been met; or (ii) in the current year or either of the two preceding years the farm acreage allotment is or was in the eminent domain allotment pool; or

(2) The farm consists of federally owned land for which a restrictive lease is in effect prohibiting the production of tobacco.

(b) Computed history acreage. If the farm acreage allotment is not fully preserved as tobacco history acreage under paragraph (a) of this section, the tobacco history acreage shall be the sum of the acreage (not to exceed the farm acreage allotment) as follows:

(1) Final tobacco acreage.

(2) Acreage computed for pounds leased and transferred from the farm.

(3) Acreage reduced because of insufficient cropland acreage.

(4) Acreage regarded as planted to tobacco under the conservation programs and practices.

(c) Adjustment of tobacco history acreage for abnormal weather or disease. If the county committee determines (with the approval of a representative of the State committee) that for any year the sum of (1) the final tobacco acreage, (2) the acreage computed for pounds leased and transferred from the farm under the lease and transfer provisions, (3) acreage reduced because of insufficient cropland acreage, and (4) the acreage regarded as planted to tobacco under the conservation programs and practices is less than 75 per centum of the farm acreage allotment (after any reduction for violation of the marketing quota regulations and adjustment for overmarketings) because of abnormal weather or disease, the tobacco history acreage for such year shall be adjusted to become the smaller of (5) the farm acreage allotment, or (6) the sum of the (i) final tobacco acreage for the farm, (ii) the acreage computed for pounds leased and transferred from the farm, (iii) acreage reduced because of insufficient cropland acreage, (iv) the acreage regarded as planted to tobacco under the conservation programs and practices, and (v) if the farm operator makes a written request of the county committee not later than October 1 of the crop year involved, the additional acreage which the county committee determines (with the approval of a representative of the State committee) would have been included in the final acreage if the weather had been normal, or there had been no disease. Any adjustment in tobacco history acreages because of abnormal weather or disease shall not be considered as acreage devoted to tobacco in determining whether or not 75 percent of the farm acreage allotment is planted.

7. A new § 726.75 is added to read as follows:

§ 725.75 Reduction in farm allotment because of cropland limitation.

The allotment determined for any farm under these regulations may be reduced for the current year if the sum of the feed grain base, total allotments, and sugar proportionate shares exceeds the cropland for the farm for the current year and the farm operator requests in writing to reduce the tobacco allotment in lieu of the feed grain base: Provided, That such reduction shall not exceed the acreage by which the sum of the feed grain base, total allotments, and sugar proportionate shares exceeds the cropland for the farm: Provided further, That such reduction shall be effective for the current year only. For purposes of establishing future farm allotments, the acreage not planted under the farm allotment because of reduction under this paragraph shall be regarded as planted on the farm.

8. Section 725.87 is amended by adding two sentences to the end of paragraph (a) and changing paragraph (f) to read as follows:

§ 725.87 Issuance of marketing card.

(a) General. * * * The face of the marketing card may show the name of other interested producers. For cards issued in North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia, the card shall show the harvested acreage on the face of the card.

* * * * *

(f) Farm quota data entered on marketing card and supplemental card. (1) Any marketing card issued to market tobacco shall show when issued, in the space provided on the reverse side, (i) the pounds computed by multiplying 10 percent times the effective farm marketing quota (unless no entry is authorized by the State executive director) and (ii) the pounds computed by multiplying 110 percent times the effective farm marketing quota.

(2) Where the farm operator requests it, a supplemental marketing card bearing the same name and identification as shown on the original marketing card may be issued for a farm upon return to the county office of an original marketing card or a supplemental marketing card. The pounds computed as 10 percent of the effective farm marketing quota shall be entered in the space provided on reverse side of the marketing card (unless no entry is authorized by the State executive director) and the balance of 110 percent of quota from prior marketing card shall be shown in the first space on the card.

(3) Two or more marketing cards may be issued for a farm if the farm operator so requests in writing and specifies in writing the number of pounds to be assigned to each card. In such cases (i) each marketing card shall show 10 percent of the assigned quota in the space "10 percent of quota" (unless no entry is authorized by the State executive director), and (ii) each marketing card shall show the assigned quota in the space "110 percent of quota."

9. Section 726.88 is amended by adding a new sentence at the end of subparagraph (1) of paragraph (a) as follows:

§ 725.88 Debt stamping and replacing marketing cards.

(a) Stamping to show indebtedness. (1) * * * Issue a debt-free marketing card when the debt has been paid.

* * * * *

10. Section 725.91 is amended by revising paragraph (a) to read as follows:

§ 725.91 Identification of marketings.

(a) Identification of producer marketings. Each auction and nonauction marketing of tobacco from a farm in the current year shall be identified by a marketing card, Form MQ–76, issued for the farm. The reverse side of the marketing card shall show in pounds (1) 10 percent of quota (unless no entry is authorized by the State executive director), (2) 110 percent of quota, (3) balance of 110 percent of quota after each sale, and (4) date of sale. Also, each producer sale, auction or nonauction, shall be recorded on a uniform tobacco sale bill.

* * * * *

11. Section 725.92 is amended by adding paragraphs (d) and (e) as follows:

§ 725.92 Rate of penalty.

* * * * *

(d) Average market price. The average market price as determined by the Crop Reporting Board for the marketing years specified was:

AVERAGE MARKET PRICE

Marketing year:	Cents per pound
1966–67	66.9

(e) Rate of penalty per pound. The penalty per pound upon marketings of excess tobacco subject to marketing quotas during the marketing years specified shall be:

RATE OF PENALTY

Marketing year:	Cents per pound
1967–68	50

12. Section 725.98 is amended by adding paragraphs (k) and (l) at the end thereof to read as follows:

§ 725.98 Producers' records and reports.

* * * * *

(k) Unauthorized erasure on marketing card. Any unauthorized erasure of any information or data on a marketing card shall be considered a violation and may, subject to rebuttal, be cause for an allotment reduction and assessment of marketing quota penalty.

(l) County administrative hearings in connection with violations. Except for the failure to return a marketing card to the county office, the allotment for any farm shall not be reduced for a violation under this section until after the operator of the farm has been notified in writing by the county office manager of the time and place of a hearing to determine the nature and extent of the violation. The notice of the hearing shall request the farm operator to bring to the hearing warehouse bills (floor sheets) and other relevant supporting documents. At least two members of the county committee shall be present at the hearing. The hearing shall be held at the time and place named in the notice and any action taken on the violation shall be taken after the hearing. If the farm operator does not attend the hearing, or is not represented, the county committee may take whatever action it deems proper.

13. Section 725.99 is amended by changing the first sentence in subparagraph (2) of paragraph (a), adding item (11) to paragraph (g), and adding paragraph (h), to read as follows:

§ 725.99 Warehouseman's records and reports.

(a) Record of marketing. * * *

(3) Buyers corrections account. * * * Each warehouseman shall keep such records as will enable him to furnish a weekly report on Form MQ–71 to the ASCS State office showing the total pounds and amounts of the debits (for returned baskets, short baskets and short weights of tobacco) and the credits (for long baskets and long weights of tobacco) to the Buyers Corrections Account.

* * * * *

(g) Daily warehouse sales summary. * * *

(11) In balancing total sales (represented by marketing recorder's data for total pounds sold and identified plus pounds for suspended sales as reflected on sale bills) with computed total sales (bill-out totals, as reported by the warehouseman) the State executive director is authorized to approve reports with variances of 100 pounds or less.

(h) Report to county office of long weights and long baskets. Each warehouseman shall report to the ASCS county office or marketing recorder long weights and long baskets of producer tobacco (first sales) for which the farmer has been paid.

14. A new § 725.104a is added after § 725.104 to read as follows:

§ 725.104a Registration of warehousemen and dealers.

Any dealer or warehouseman dealing in flue-cured tobacco shall be registered with the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Such registration will be handled by the North Carolina ASCS State Office, Raleigh, N.C. Any person desiring to register as a dealer or warehouseman shall complete an "Application for Dealer Identification Card" and submit it to the State office. Warehousemen will be assigned a three-digit identification number and dealers will be assigned a four-digit identification number. Persons requesting it will be issued a dealer identification card, Form MQ–79–3.

15. Section 725.109 is amended by adding paragraph (j) to read as follows:

§ 725.109 Determination of discount varieties.

* * * * *

(j) Estimate of production. For any farm on which it has been determined discount variety tobacco is being grown, a Form MQ–92, Estimate of Production, shall be obtained. The form shall be executed jointly by a producer on the farm and a representative of the county or State committee.

Chapter IX—Consumer and Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders; Fruits, Vegetables, Nuts), Department of Agriculture

[Fear Reg. 1]

PART 917—FRESH PEARS, PLUMS, AND PEACHES GROWN IN CALIFORNIA

Minimum Standards

Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 917, as amended (7 CFR Part 917), regulating the handling of fresh pears, plums, and peaches grown in the State of California, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674), and upon the basis of the recommendations of the Pear Commodity Committee, established under the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments of pears, as hereinafter provided, will establish and maintain such minimum standards of quality and maturity and such grading and inspection requirements as will tend to effectuate such orderly marketing of pears as will be in the public interest, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, and is not for the purpose of maintaining prices to farmers above the level which it is declared to be the policy of Congress to establish under the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rulemaking procedure, and postpone the effective date of this regulation until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 553) in that, as hereinafter set forth, the time intervening between the date when information upon which this regulation is based became available and the time when this regulation must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient; a reasonable time is permitted under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective as hereinafter set forth. The recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein were promptly submitted to the Department after an open meeting of the Pear Commodity Committee on June 30, 1967, but not received until July 5 due to the holiday; such meeting was held to consider recommendations for regulation, after giving due notice of such meeting, and interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit their views at this meeting; information concerning the committee's recommendation for regulation, including the effective time recommended, has been disseminated among handlers of such pears; the provisions of the act and this regulatory program authorize minimum standards of quality and maturity, as set forth herein, during periods when the seasonal average price to growers of the particular fruit will exceed the parity level specified in section 2(1) of the act; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this regulation effective during the period hereinafter set forth and at the commencement thereof, so as not to permit unrestricted shipment hereinafter of pears, as such unrestricted shipments would not be conducive to the orderly marketing of such fruit as will be in the public interest and would not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act; and compliance with this regulation will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject thereto which cannot be completed by the effective time hereof.

(a) Order. (1) During the period July 13, 1967, through December 31, 1967, no handler shall ship any box or container of Bartlett, Max-Red, or Rosired varieties of pears unless:

(i) All such pears grade not less than U.S. No. 2;

(ii) At least 75 percent, by count, of the pears contained in any box or container grade at least U.S. No. 1, except that (a) the percentage of such pears required to grade at least U.S. No. 1 may be reduced not more than 10 percentage points below 75 percent for pears which are damaged but not seriously damaged by russeting, and (b) such pears may fail to be fairly well formed only because of short shape but shall not be seriously misshapen; and

(iii) Such pears are of a size not smaller than the size known commercially as size 180.

(2) During the effective period of this regulation no handler shall ship any box or other container of pears of any variety unless such box or other container is stamped or otherwise marked, in plain sight and in plain letters, on one outside end with the name of the variety, if known, or when the variety is not known, the words "unknown variety."

(b) Definitions. (1) Terms used in the amended marketing agreement and order shall, when used herein, have the same meaning as is given to the respective term in said amended marketing agreement and order.

(2) "Size known commercially as size 180" means a size Bartlett, Max-Red or Rosired varieties of pears that will pack a standard pear box, packed in accordance with the specifications of a standard pack, with five tiers, each tier having six rows with six pears in each row, and with the 21 smallest pears weighing not less than 5 pounds.

(3) "Standard pear box" means the container so designated in section 828.3 of the Agricultural Code of California.

(4) "U.S. No. 1," "U.S. No. 2," "fairly well formed," "seriously misshapen," and "standard pack" shall have the same meaning as when used in the U.S. Standards of Pears (Summer and Fall), 7 CFR 51.1260–51.1280.

Title 14—AERONAUTICS AND SPACE

Chapter I—Federal Aviation Administration, Department of Transportation

[Airspace Docket No. 67-CE-33]

PART 73—SPECIAL USE AIRSPACE

Alteration of Restricted Area

On April 28, 1967, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (32 F.R. 6582) stating that the Federal Aviation Administration was considering an amendment to Part 73 of the Federal Aviation Regulations that would alter the Manhattan, Kans., Restricted Area R–3602.

Interested persons were afforded an opportunity to participate in the proposed rule making through the submission of comments. Due consideration was given to all relevant matter presented.

The Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association objected to the proposal on the basis that adequate justification was not presented to support a requirement for additional restricted airspace. As stated in the NPRM, the expanded area will be used by the Army for troop training in the use of such weapons as artillery, small arms, machine guns, mortars, and rockets. The proposed additional restricted area is presently contained within controlled firing areas which are inadequate for accomplishment of the missions assigned to Fort Riley. Controlled firing areas will not support a regularly scheduled firing program since all firing operations must cease when an aircraft approaches the area.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Federal Aviation Administration has determined that the alteration of the Manhattan, Kans., restricted area, as proposed, is fully justified. Accordingly, Part 73 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended, effective 0001 e.s.t., September 14, 1967, as hereinafter set forth.

In § 73.36 (32 F.R. 2310, 5769) Restricted Area R–3602 at Manhattan, Kans., is amended as follows:

Chapter I—Federal Trade Commission

PART 15—ADMINISTRATIVE OPINIONS AND RULINGS

Agreement Among Members of Trade Association to Comply with Government Ruling

§ 15.133 Agreement among members of trade association to comply with government ruling.

(a) A trade association requested an advisory opinion as to its proposal to hold joint discussions among its members as to the proper description of the industry's product looking toward a possible agreement among all concerned to comply with the ruling of a government agency as to how the product should be labeled. The Association assured the Commission that the discussion would be for this limited purpose only and that there would be no price fixing, monopoly or other antitrust question involved.

(b) The Commission advised that there could be no objection to a discussion among the members looking toward a limited agreement to comply with this ruling on a voluntary basis. The members were further advised, however, that nothing in this opinion was to be construed as approval of any steps which might be taken by the members, acting in their private capacity, to enforce this ruling themselves as to any members who might not be inclined to agree. Such approval as was given was limited to the simple agreement in principle to comply with the ruling, with enforcement being left to the properly constituted government authorities.

Issued: July 12, 1967.

PART 15—ADMINISTRATIVE OPINIONS AND RULINGS

Proposed Lease of Patented Industrial Machine

§ 15.134 Proposed lease of patented industrial machine.

(a) A manufacturer of a patented industrial machine designed to produce a nonpatented end product requested an advisory opinion as to the legality of its proposed form of lease.

(b) The manufacturer posed two specific questions pertaining to the lease and requested an opinion as to any other phase which the Commission might feel should be covered. The first question related to the lease term and royalty provisions, which provide that the lease shall continue in effect for three years with the lessee having the right to terminate upon 90 days notice during the second and third years and that the rental shall be 2.2 percent of the gross sales of products produced on the machine by the lessee. The Commission stated that it viewed the patent grant as conveying to the patentee the right to charge whatever royalty was satisfactory to the parties, measured by whatever patented or unpatented royalty base he desired for as long a period of time as he elects, so long as there is no attempt thereby to extend the patent monopoly beyond its intended scope. Therefore, it could see no objection to three provisions as written.

(c) The second question related to the paragraph providing that the lessor will not make any sales of the equipment and will not enter into a lease agreement for such equipment with anyone else whose place of business is located within the lessee's trading area as defined in the lease. The Commission noted that this provision did not grant the licensee an exclusive territory, although it had been advised that the nature of the end product would make it difficult for anyone else to compete within that area because of the freight factor. Be that as it may, the Commission was of the opinion that the owner or holder of exclusive patent rights to make, use and sell may carve out of his grant a limited monopoly for a licensee and, therefore, it could see no objection to this provision.

(d) The Commission further noted that following discussions with the staff the manufacturer authorized deletion of one sentence in the lease for editorial purposes and that in the paragraph dealing with alterations, the manufacturer requested deletion of the sentence requiring that any alterations, improvements, or changes, which are or may be patentable, shall, upon request, be assigned to the lessor. Thus the manufacturer did not request an opinion as to the required grant-back of improvement patents incorporated in the original submittal.

(e) While the Commission did not purport to pass upon the purely contractual aspects of the lease, it did state that it had reviewed the other provisions of the lease and expressed no objections thereto from the standpoint of the laws it administers, particularly in view of the fact that it had been advised that there were other competitive machines which the lessees are free to rent or purchase and in view of the fact that there were no tie-ins requiring the purchase of auxiliary or other equipment or supplies from the lessor.

(38 Stat. 717, as amended; 15 U.S.C. 41–58)

Issued: July 12, 1967.

By direction of the Commission.

Title 29—LABOR

Chapter XIV—Equal Employment Opportunity Commission

PART 1605—GUIDELINES ON DISCRIMINATION BECAUSE OF RELIGION

Observance of the Sabbath and Other Religious Holidays

By virtue of its authority under section 713 of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C. 2000e–12(b), the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission hereby amends § 1605.1, Guidelines on Discrimination Because of Religion. This amendment becomes effective immediately and shall be applicable with respect to cases presently before or hereafter filed with the Commission. Section 1605.1 as amended shall read as follows:

§ 1605.1 Observation of the Sabbath and other religious holidays.

(a) Several complaints filed with the Commission have raised the question whether it is discrimination on account of religion to discharge or refuse to hire employes who regularly observe Friday evening and Saturday, or some other day of the week, as the Sabbath or who observe certain special religious holidays during the year and, as a consequence, do not work on such days.

(b) The Commission believes that the duty not to discriminate on religious grounds, required by section 703(a)(1) of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, includes an obligation on the part of the employer to make reasonable accommodations to the religious needs of employees and prospective employees where such accommodations can be made without undue hardship on the conduct of the employer's business. Such undue hardship, for example, may exist where the employee's needed work cannot be performed by another employee of substantially similar qualifications during the period of absence of the Sabbath observer.

(c) Because of the particularly sensitive nature of discharging or refusing to hire an employee or applicant on account of his religious beliefs, the employer has the burden of proving that an undue hardship renders the required accommodations to the religious needs of the employee unreasonable.

(d) The Commission will review each case on an individual basis in an effort to seek an equitable application of these guidelines to the variety of situations which arise due to the varied religious practices of the American people.

Signed at Washington, D.C., this 10th day of July 1967.

Chapter I—Federal Communications Commission

[Docket No. 17177; FCC 67–796]

PART 2—FREQUENCY ALLOCATIONS AND RADIO TREATY MATTERS: GENERAL RULES AND REGULATIONS

PART 87—AVIATION SERVICES

Available Frequencies

In the matter of amendment of Parts 2 and 87—Aviation Services—to reassign frequencies in the 122–123 Mc/s band to other aviation functions, RM 1033.

1. The Commission on February 8, 1967, adopted a notice of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter (FCC 67–179) which made provision for the filing of comments. The notice was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on February 15, 1967 (32 F.R. 2899). The time for filing comments and reply comments has passed.

2. The notice of proposed rule making was issued in response to a petition filed by the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA). The primary purpose of the proposal is to relieve congestion and improve air/ground communications with flight service stations (FS) by reassignment of frequencies in the 122–123 Mc/s band to other aviation functions.

3. Comments were filed by the Aeronautical Radio, Inc. (ARINC), Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association (AOPA), Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), National Business Aircraft Association (NBAA) and the National Pilots Association (NPA). A late filing was submitted by the State of Minnesota, Department of Aeronautics. It was accepted and made part of this proceeding. Reply comments were filed by FAA directed to the AOPA, NPA, and State of Minnesota comments.

4. The amendments requested by FAA and adopted herein make the frequencies in the so-called private aircraft band (122–123 Mc/s) available to aeronautical stations of the Federal Aviation Administration for communicating flight service information to private aircraft. Heretofore, this band was used by private aircraft stations for talking to FAA flight service stations with FAA responding on air traffic control (ATC) channels outside this band. The present amendment will free these ATC channels heretofore used to respond to private aircraft calls to flight service stations for ATC communications, thus, helping to relieve the present congestion in ATC without any detriment to the private aircraft stations as the 123–123 Mc/s band is not heavily used. In addition, the frequency 122.0 Mc/s is made available to air carrier aircraft for communications concerning weather information. The foregoing matters were the main portion of the rule making and were supported by all commentators. The question of utilizing 50 kc/s channels and certain suggested revisions are treated in the following paragraphs.

5. The notice raised the question of fuller utilization of the 123–123 Mc/s band by using 50 kc/s channels. This was supported by the State of Minnesota, Department of Aeronautics, and NBAA. NPA did not oppose 50 kc/s but cautioned that owners of older receivers will encounter interference. AOPA concurred with the desire to utilize 50 kc/s channels. They expressed concern about interference problems where adjacent channels were activated on the same airport that currently have either adjacent tower guard channels or adjacent FSS channels. AOPA suggested the possibility of some temporary or developmental assignments on a carefully selected basis. The FAA in its reply comments expressed a concern similar to NPA and AOPA with respect to utilization of 50 kc/s channels. FAA recommended that 50 kc/s channel usage not be considered at this time.

6. The question of utilizing 50 kc/s channels in the band 122–123 Mc/s was raised as an ancillary matter. Comments were solicited with respect to possible use of these channels. No information was received in this proceeding which could form the basis for assigning a new type of service to these 50 kc/s channels. In view of this and the concern expressed about possible interference problems, the Commission feels that utilization of the 50 kc/s channels on a regular basis should not be implemented at this time.

7. The State of Minnesota expressed a desire to establish and maintain communication transmitters on the frequencies used by FAA flight service stations. Minnesota's plan is to establish communications outlets, where none now exist, to be remotely controlled by the nearest FAA FSS. These locations would be where the FAA has found it economically or operationally impractical to install its own stations. FAA in its reply comments states that those air traffic control services not operated by the FAA are arranged in close cooperation and coordination with the Federal Communications Commission on a case-by-case basis where the services to be provided are extensions of the common air traffic control system. It takes the position that this procedure has been quite satisfactory in the past and favors seeing it continue in the same manner for FSS frequencies. Further, FAA feels that since these situations, which are expected to be relatively few, will normally require a negotiated communications agreement between the FAA and the licensee and this lends itself to case-by-case treatment rather than a rule providing for such operation.

8. The State of Minnesota proposal to utilize remote controlled operations in conjunction with flight service stations is not considered within the scope of this rule making. To provide for such an operation in the rules would appear to require the establishment of a new class of station. However, this is a matter outside of this rule making and, therefore, no provision is made for the establishment of such a service in the rules at this time.

9. As an editorial matter, Note B to §§ 87.183 and 87.401 is deleted because protection to the Government is no longer necessary on the frequency 126.18 Mc/s.

10. In view of the foregoing: It is ordered, Pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4(i) and 303 (b), (c), (g), and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, that effective August 14, 1967, Parts 2 and 87 of the Commission's rules are amended as set forth below. It is further ordered, That this proceeding is terminated.

[Docket No. 17282; FCC 67-804]

PART 73—RADIO BROADCAST SERVICES

In the matter of amendment of § 73.202, Table of Assignments, FM Broadcast Stations. (Rockmart, Ga., De Witt, Ark., Dover-Foxcroft, Maine, Lenoir City, Tenn., Horseheads, N.Y., Jeffersonville, Ind., Donelson, Tenn., Madisonville, Greenville, Russellville, and Columbia, Ky., Denver, Colo., Mount Sterling, Ky., Stephenville and Eastland, Tex., and Redding, Calif.).

1. The Commission has before it for consideration its notice of proposed rule making, issued in this proceeding on March 10, 1967 (FCC 67-313), and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on March 15, 1967 (32 F.R. 4073), proposing a number of changes in the FM Table of Assignments as advanced by interested parties and upon its own motion. In a previously issued report and order all petitions except for RM-1097 and RM-1109 were disposed of. The subject decision concerns the remaining two petitions. Except as noted, the proposals were unopposed. All population figures, unless otherwise stated, are those shown in the 1960 U.S. census. All duly filed comments and data were considered in making the following determinations.

2. RM-1097 and RM-1109, Donelson, Tenn., and Columbia, Ky. In a joint petition for rule making filed on January 19, 1967, and a Supplement filed on January 25, 1967, South Kentucky Broadcasters, licensee of Station WRUS-FM, Russellville, Ky., and William O. Barry (Joint), prospective applicants for a new FM station in Donelson, Tenn., request the assignment of Channel 266 to Russellville, Ky., and 221A to Donelson, Tenn., by making two other necessary changes in the table as follows:

City	Channel No.
	Present	Proposed
Madisonville, Ky	230, 292A	230
Greenville, Ky	266	292A
Russellville, Ky	221A	266
Donelson, Tenn		221A

3. In essence, the proposal is designed to get a first FM channel at Donelson (221A), and a wide-coverage Class C channel at Russellville instead of the present Class A (292 for 221A), by replacing 292 at Greenville with 292A, which would be moved three-fifths Madisonville, Madisonville, Ky., is a community of 13,189 persons. It has in operation a Class C FM station on Channel 230 and two AM stations, one of which is on unlimited time operation. Greenville has a population of 3,169. Station WKYP-FM operates on Class C Channel 266 with a power of 2.6 kilowatts and an antenna height of 90 feet, much less than the minimum facilities which would be required for a new Class C station. The community also has a daytime-only AM station. Russellville, with a population of 5,861, has an FM station (WRUS-FM) operating on Channel 221A. It too has a daytime-only AM station. All three communities are located in the southwestern portion of Kentucky. Donelson has a population of 17,195 and is located about 7 miles east of Nashville and in its Urbanized Area. It has no radio stations but an application is on file for a daytime-only AM station in the community.

4. Our notice invited comments on the Joint proposal and stated that, in the event it is adopted, appropriate action will have to be taken with respect to the WKYP-FM and WRUS-FM authorizations. We further stated (see footnote 3 of the notice, FCC 67-313) that since the payment of costs to WKYP-FM for the changeover contained in the agreement submitted, appeared to be larger than that usually considered to be allowed for reasonable costs incident to such changes, a justification for these costs should be filed in the forthcoming comments.

5. Comments were also invited on a conflicting proposal contained in a petition filed on February 9, 1967 (RM-1109) by Tricounty Radio Broadcasting Corp., licensee of Station WAIM(AM), Columbia, Ky., seeking the assignment of Channel 265A as a first assignment to Columbia, Ky. Columbia is a community of 2,255 persons, and is the county seat and largest community in Adair County, which has a population of 14,000. WAIM, a daytime-only AM station, is the only radio outlet in Columbia. This proposal is mutually exclusive with the Joint proposal since Channel 265A at Columbia would be less than the required separation from Channel 266, proposed for Russellville. In its comments, Joint proposes a solution to this conflict by suggesting that Channel 228A be assigned to Columbia by substituting Channel 292A for 228A at Elizabethtown, Ky. There is no application on file for Channel 228A at Elizabethtown and the proposed amendments meet the spacing requirements of the rules.

6. A third conflicting request was filed on April 10, 1967, in comments submitted by the Daily News Broadcasting Co., Inc. (Daily News), licensee of Station WKCT(AM), Bowling Green, Ky.[2] Daily News requests that Channel 265 be assigned to Bowling Green instead of Russellville, as proposed by Joint. It submits that this assignment could be made by deleting Channel 292A at Madisonville and by substituting 265A for 292 at Greenville, the other proposal by Joint; and would meet all the mileage separations at a site about 1 mile west of Bowling Green. Bowling Green has a population of 30,303 persons, and Warren County, of which it is the seat and largest community, has a population of 45,461. It has three unlimited time AM stations and one Class A FM station. In this case Joint has also suggested a means to remove the conflict by proposing that Channel 265A be assigned to Bowling Green as a second Class A assignment. This assignment would have to be used at a site about 5 miles east of the community, however, as will be discussed below, Daily News disputes the technical feasibility of the proposal for Channel 265A. As to the required change for WKYP-FM from Channel 266 to 292A, Daily News states it is willing to reimburse this station up to $5,000 for expenses incurred in the change. Finally, Channel 265 is assigned to Bowling Green and Daily News receives a construction permit on it.

7. Before going into a discussion of the contentions of the parties, it may be helpful to tabulate the communities involved in the various requests, their populations, and aural facilities. These are as follows:

Community	Population		AM stations	FM stations
	City	County
Madisonville, Ky	13,189	33,431	1 unlimited 1 daytime	1 Class C. 1 Class A (Assignment only).
Greenville, Ky	3,169	27,762	1 daytime	1 Class C.
Russellville, Ky	5,861	19,899	1 daytime	1 Class A.
Donelson, Tenn	17,195	399,746	Application for AM-daytime.
	(Since Nashville)
Columbia, Ky	2,255	14,000	1 daytime
Bowling Green, Ky	30,303	45,461	2 unlimited 1 Class IV	Do.

All of the communities except Donelson and Greenville are their respective county seats and largest communities. Thus, the Joint proposal would assign a first Class A channel to Donelson by deleting one from Madisonville, and would switch the Class C and A between Greenville and Russellville; the Columbia proposal would assign a first Class A to Columbia (as would the Joint counterproposal), and the Daily News proposal would assign a Class C to Bowling Green (Joint would make this community a Two Class A location).

8. In support of its proposal Joint states that the Greenville licensee wishes to continue with a low power facility and that the Russellville licensee wishes to utilize the proposed Class C assignment with a power of no less than 50 kilowatts. In its reply comments, Joint states that South Kentucky Broadcasters is prepared to accept a modification of its license to specify a power of 100 kw and such antenna height as the Commission deems appropriate. Also, Mr. Barry proposes to operate a station on Channel 221A at Donelson, in the event the proposal is adopted. A copy of an agreement among the licensee in Greenville and Russellville and Mr. Barry is attached, agreeing to the proposed changes and the necessary modification of licenses involved, as to a list of expected costs and the necessary equipment for the change in the WKYP-FM channel, totaling $4,625.50. It is urged that the proposed changes will result in a more effective use of Channel 266 and that it would provide the community of Donelson with a first FM assignment. Petitioners submit that all the assignments would conform to the spacing requirements of the rules. With respect to the move of Channel 266A from Russellville to Donelson, a showing is included which demonstrates that no assignments on the top three educational channels (218, 219, 220) will be precluded because of existing educational stations in the general area. Petitioners further assert that within the area in which Channel 266 is technically feasible there are only two communities of over 3,000 population in addition to Russellville and Greenville (Hopkinsville and Central City), that these have been assigned Class C channels, and that the use of Channel 266 at Russellville will provide a first 1 mv/m contour to areas not now receiving such a signal.[3] Finally, it is pointed out that Russellville is the center of a relatively large rural area and urged that this fact plus the greater efficiency of the use of Channel 266 at Russellville compared to Greenville justifies the move of this channel.

9. In support of its request for Channel 265 at Bowling Green, Daily News submits that the present estimated population of Bowling Green is 35,000, that it has only a Class A assignment, that nearby communities such as Central City, Hopkinsville, and Greenville are all smaller than Bowling Green yet have Class C assignments[4], and that section 307(b) requires a wide-area assignment to Bowling Green. Statistics are given to show that this community is an important industrial, agricultural, and educational center. Daily News makes a comparison of the expected coverage of a station on Channel 266 at Russellville and at two sites at Bowling Green. The coverage at Russellville is given as 2,320 square miles with an assumed 50 kw power and antenna height of 300 feet

[1] Concurring statement of Commissioner Cox filed as part of original document; Commissioner Wadsworth absent.

[2] Daily News also filed a petition for rule making requesting the same changes as contained in the comments on the same day but this will be considered herein as a comment and counterproposal.

[3] Also below us to use of the channel at Bowling Green.

[4] These were all in existence before the FM Table was adopted in 1963.

AAT (said to be the Russellville proposal) and that at Bowling Green is given as 6,281 or 4,333 square miles depending on the site to be used, the former with 100 kw and 300 feet AAT and the latter with 100 kw and 500 feet AAT.[4] In a reply comment Joint states that in the event Channel 266 is assigned to Russellville an application will be filed for its use proposing 100 kilowatts power and that South Kentucky Broadcasters is prepared to accept a modification of its license specifying a power of 100 kw and such antenna height above average terrain as the Commission deems appropriate. Daily News urges that the need for a Class C in Bowling Green is not weakened by the operation of the three AM stations since these have restricted nighttime coverage due to power and directional antenna limitations. Daily News takes issue with the contention of Joint that Russellville is the center of a large rural area submitting that Hopkinsville is the center of the area in question, and that Russellville is one of four communities with over 3,000 persons where Channel 266 can work since it can also work in Bowling Green. As to the need of Donelson for a Class A assignment, Daily News urges that there is no justification for the assignment for such a channel to a suburb such as this community, that Class C assignments were made to the large cities in order to cover suburban areas, and that the policy of the Commission used in AM, i.e., to treat suburbs as part of the major city for section 307(b) purposes, should also apply to FM. In reply to the proposal that Channel 252A could be assigned to Bowling Green, Daily News notes that the site would have to be located from 4 to 5 miles east of the city and urges that marginal service would be provided to several areas of Bowling Green proper and that it would not place a minimum city service signal to future areas of urbanized growth to the west of the city. It also submits that a separate site for a Class A channel may not be economically feasible and so it can make no representation that it will apply for such an operation. Daily News also questions the conclusion of Joint that the assignment of Channel 221A to Donelson will not preclude any educational assignments on the three top educational FM channels but does not supply any data to contradict the Joint engineering showing.

10. In view of the removal of the conflict between the Joint proposal and that of Tricounty (for the assignment of a first Class A to Columbia) there is no need to choose between them and we are of the view that we should assign Channel 228A to Columbia instead of 265A as requested by Tricounty. This would provide the community with its first FM assignment and its first local nighttime radio service and would thus serve the public interest. As between the Joint proposal and that of Daily News, the former would provide Russellville with a wide-coverage channel and Donelson with a first FM outlet, whereas the latter would provide Bowling Green with its first wide-coverage channel. In both cases the move of Channel 266 from Greenville, where it is utilized with very small facilities and where there is little prospect that increased facilities will be sought, would represent a more efficient use of this frequency. A good portion of the area served would be covered by either assignment. Both also require the deletion of the second assignment in Madisonville, but this community does have a Class C FM station and two AM stations, one of which is unlimited.

11. Thus, the question (a rather close one) is which of the conflicting Russellville-Donelson and Bowling Green proposals is the more meritorious. Despite Joint's claim, it does not appear that either the Russellville or Bowling Green assignment would serve substantial unserved areas. Much of the same area would receive service from either assignment since the two places are only 25 miles apart. The assignment of Channel 266 to Bowling Green, not only would preclude the assignment of the channel to Russellville, but also the assignment of a first Class A channel to Donelson, and would create a mixture of a Class A and C assignment in Bowling Green. We have tried to avoid mixing assignments in the same community in order to have as much technical parity between stations as possible. As Daily News points out, Donelson is within the Nashville urbanized area but this does not preclude it from having a local outlet, especially since it would not deprive any other community of a needed assignment. Nor do we believe that the "suburban" argument raised by Daily News is relevant to this matter since the channel involved is a Class A channel which we have designated for use by the smaller communities. While Daily News questions the showing that the assignment of Channel 221A would not preclude educational assignments on the top three channels, it does not show that Joint erred in any way. Another factor weighing in favor of Russellville is the fact that Bowling Green has three AM stations, all of which operate unlimited time, whereas Russellville has a daytime-only AM station. On balance, we are of the view that the Joint proposal is to be preferred over that of Daily News. With respect to the proposal to assign Channel 252A to Bowling Green as a second Class A assignment, we are of the view that this also would serve the public interest in spite of the problem of finding a suitable site. Daily News submits that from an assumed site, a small portion of the city would not be covered by the required 70 dbu signal, a point with which Joint takes issue. Joint submits a showing based upon the actual terrain from the site assumed by both parties which establishes that the assignment of Channel 252A is technically feasible and would provide the required signal over all of Bowling Green for maximum facilities. We are, therefore, adopting the Joint modified proposal which would shift Channel 266 from Greenville to Russellville, 221A from Russellville to Donelson, Tenn., Channel 292A from Madisonville to Elizabethtown, 228A from Elizabethtown to Columbia, and add Channel 252A to Bowling Green with the limitation on the site as discussed above. Finally, we find that the amount agreed upon by the parties for the WKYF–FM change in frequency appears reasonable.

12. Authority for the adoption of the amendments contained herein is contained in sections 4(i), 303, 307(b) and 316 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

13. In accordance with the determinations made above: It is ordered, That effective August 15, 1967, § 73.202 of the Commission's rules, the FM Table of Assignments, is amended to read, insofar as the communities named are concerned, as follows:

City	Channel No.
Kentucky:
Bowling Green	244A, 252A.
Columbia	228A.
Elizabethtown	292A.
Greenville	202A.
Madisonville	230, 266.
Russellville	221A.
Tennessee:
Donelson	221A.

14. It is further ordered, That effective August 15, 1967, the outstanding authorization of Greenville Broadcasting Co., for the operation of Station WKYF–FM on Channel 266 at Greenville, Ky., is modified, to specify operation on Channel 292A in lieu of 266 subject to the following conditions:

(a) The licensee shall submit to the Commission by August 1, 1967, the technical information normally required for the issuance of a construction permit on Channel 292A, including any changes in antenna and transmission line.

(b) The licensee may continue to operate on Channel 266 until, upon its request, the Commission authorizes interim operation on Channel 292A, following which the licensee shall submit (within 30 days) the measurement data normally required of an applicant for an FM broadcast station license.

15. It is further ordered, That, effective August 15, 1967, the outstanding authorization of South Kentucky Broadcasters, for the operation of Station WRUS–FM on Channel 221A at Russellville, Ky., is modified to specify operation on Channel 266 in lieu of 221A subject to the following conditions:

(a) The licensee shall submit to the Commission by August 1, 1967, the technical information normally required for the issuance of a construction permit on Channel 266, subject to any changes in antenna and transmission line.

(b) The licensee may continue to operate on Channel 221A until, upon its request, the Commission authorizes interim operation on Channel 266, following which the licensee shall submit (within 30 days) the measurement data normally required of an applicant for an FM broadcast station license.

(c) The licensee shall operate with 100 kilowatts ERP and 100-foot antenna height AAT on Channel 266.

16. It is further ordered, That this proceeding is terminated.

PART 73—RADIO BROADCAST SERVICES

Personal Attacks; Political Editorials

In the matter of amendment of Part 73 of the rules to provide procedures in the event of a personal attack or where a station editorializes as to political candidates.

1. On April 6, 1966, the Commission adopted a notice of proposed rule making (FCC 66-291) to provide procedures in the event of certain personal attacks and where a station editorializes as to political candidates. This notice was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of April 12, 1966 (31 F.R. 5719). Upon the request of the National Association of Broadcasters, the time for filing comments and reply comments was extended to June 20 and July 5, 1966, respectively (31 F.R. 6928, May 7, 1966).

2. Comments were timely filed by Carrol M. Barringer (WLCO), Bedford Broadcasting Corp. (WBIW), et al.,[1] Cape Fear Telecasting, Inc., Colorado Broadcasters Association, Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., Corinthian Television Corp., et al., Golden Empire Broadcasting Co., Griffin-Leake TV, Inc., Interstate Broadcasting Co., Meredith Broadcasting Co., Mutual Broadcasting System, Inc., Mission Broadcasting Co., National Association of Broadcasters, National Broadcasting Co., Inc., Storer Broadcasting Co., Triax-Vaughn Stations, Inc., WIBC, Inc., and WPSD–TV, generally in opposition to the rules. Comments favoring the rules were received from the American Civil Liberties Union,[2] Joseph M. Gladow, International Typographical Union (AFL–CIO), Lawyers' International Union of North America (AFL–CIO), National Council of the Churches of Christ, National Rifle Association of America, The Pacifica Foundation, and the United Steel Workers of America, AFL–CIO.

3. The purpose of embodying the procedural aspects of the Commission's long-adhered-to personal attack principle and political editorial policy in its rules is twofold. It will clarify and make more precise the obligations of broadcast licensees where they have aired personal attacks and editorials regarding political candidates. Further, in the event of failure to comply with these rules, the Commission will be in a position to impose appropriate forfeitures (section 503(b) of the Act) in cases of clear violations by licensees which would not warrant designating their applications for hearing at renewal time or instituting revocation proceedings but on the other hand do warrant more than a mere letter of reprimand. Of course, pursuant to section 503(b) of the Act, only the willful or repeated violation, of these rules can result in forfeiture. We stress that the personal attack principle is applicable only in the context of the discussion of a controversial issue of public importance. See paragraph 10, infra.

4. These rules will serve to effectuate important aspects of the well established Fairness Doctrine; they do not alter or add to the substance of the Doctrine.[3] As set forth in the 1949 Report of the Commission in the Matter of Editorialization by Broadcast Licensees, 13 FCC 1246 at 1249 (1949), "the development of an informed public opinion through the public dissemination of news and views concerning the vital public issues of the day" is the keystone of the Fairness Doctrine. "It is the right of the public to be informed, rather than the right of the part of the government, any broadcast licensee or any individual member of the public to broadcast his own particular views on any matter, which is the foundation stone of the American system of broadcasting." Ibid. The Fairness Doctrine as a basic delineation of a standard of public interest in broadcasting was given specific Congressional approval in the 1959 amendment of section 315(a) of the Communications Act, 73 Stat. 557, 47 U.S.C. 315(a). The personal attack principle is simply a particular aspect of the Fairness Doctrine. The principle stems from the Commission's language in the 1949 Report that "elementary considerations of fairness may dictate that time be allocated to a person or group which has been specifically attacked over the station. * * *" 13 FCC 1262. The standard of fairness similarly dictates that where a licensee editorializes for or against a candidate the appropriate spokesman for the opposing point of view in the opposed candidate's representative, or, if the licensee so chooses, the candidate himself. "These concepts, of course, do restrict the licensee's freedom to utilize his station in whatever manner he chooses but they do so in order to make possible the maintenance of radio as a medium of freedom of speech for the general public." 1949 Report, supra, 13 FCC 1250.

5. Several of the parties contend that the Fairness Doctrine and the personal attack principle are unconstitutional infringements of broadcasters' rights of free speech and free press under the First Amendment. We believe these contentions are without merit. We have discussed the constitutionality of the fairness doctrine generally in the Report on Editorialization, 12 FCC 1246–1270. "We adhere fully to that discussion, and particularly the considerations set out in paragraphs 15 and 20 of the report." Letter to John H. Norris (WGCB), 1 FCC 2d 1682, 1589 (1965). The court in reviewing the constitutionality of the personal attack principle of the Fairness Doctrine in Red Lion,[4] concluded "that there is no abrogation of the petitioners' [licensees'] free speech right. * * * I find in the Fairness Doctrine a vehicle completely legal in its origin which implements by use of modern technology the 'free and general discussion of public matters [which] seems absolutely essential for an intelligent exercise of their rights as citizens,' Grosjean v. American Public Press, supra, at 249." Red Lion, supra, at 41. As to these particular rules, we stress again that they do not prescribe in any way the presentation by a licensee of personal attacks or editorials on political candidates. They simply provide that where he chooses to make such presentations, he must take appropriate notification steps and make an offer for reasonable opportunity for responses by those vitally affected and best able to inform the public of the contrasting viewpoint. That such rules are reasonably related to the public interest is shown by consideration of the converse of the rules—namely, operation by a licensee limited to informing the public of only one side of these issues; i.e., the personal attack or the licensee's editorial.[5]

6. The addition of § 73.123 (a), (b) (and also 73.300–FM; 73.598—Educational FM; 73.678–TV of identical language) to the rules serves to codify what

[1] On July 8, 1966, Bedford Broadcasting Corp., et al., submitted, together with a motion to accept the Addendum, an Addendum to their comments, consisting of excerpts from an "Economic Analysis of Competition in the Daily Newspaper Business," prepared by Jesse Markham, Professor of Economics, Princeton University. No reason was given for the failure to submit the material in a timely fashion. The motion to accept the addendum is denied. (47 CFR 1.415(d).)

[2] The informal arguments submitted by the A.C.L.U. raised an apparent misreading of the proposed rules in that the comments state that "rule-making specifically compels personal attacks in the context of the discussion of controversial issues * * *." In fact, this is the situation apparently covered by the proposed rules.

[3] The only new requirement in these rules are the time limits discussed in paragraphs 12 and 13, infra, within which licensees must act to fulfill their substantive obligations when they have broadcast personal attacks or political editorials.

[4] Affirmed sub nom., Red Lion Broadcasting Co., Inc., v. F.C.C., Case No. 19,293, D.C. Cir. (June 15, 1967).

[5] In situations not involving a personal attack or an editorial on a political candidate, the licensee may of course exercise his good faith, reasonable judgment as to the appropriate spokesman for a contrasting point of view which the licensee determines should be presented. 1949 Report, supra, 13 FCC at 1250.

has long been the Commission's interpretation of the personal attack aspect of the Fairness Doctrine. Report on Editorialization by Broadcast Licensees, 13 FCC 1246, 1250 (1949); Clayton W. Mapoles, 23 Pike & Fischer, R.R. 586 (1962); Billings Broadcasting Co., 22 Pike & Fischer, R.R. 961 (1962). "Thus, we have repeatedly stated that when a licensee, in connection with its coverage of a controversial issue, broadcasts a personal attack on an individual or organization, it must 'transmit the text of the broadcast to the person or group attacked * * * either prior to or at the time of the broadcast, with a specific offer of his station's facilities for an adequate response.' Public Notice of July 26, 1963; Controversial Issue Programing, FCC 63-724 (emphasis supplied)." Springfield Television Broadcasting Corp., 4 Pike & Fischer, R.R. 2d 681, 685 (1965). This duty devolves upon the licensee, because other than in the case of a broadcast by political candidates, the licensee is responsible for all material broadcast over his facilities.

7. As the notice pointed out, the Commission has set forth the obligation of a licensee when a personal attack occurs during the discussion of a controversial issue of public importance, i.e., the licensee must notify the individual or group attacked of the facts, forward a tape, transcript or accurate summary of the personal attack, and extend to the individual or group attacked an offer of time for the broadcast of an adequate response. See Clayton W. Mapoles, 23 Pike & Fischer, R.R. 586 (1962); Billings Broadcasting Co., 23 Pike & Fischer, R.R. 961 (1962); Times-Mirror, 24 Pike & Fischer, R.R. 404 and 407 (1962); and Springfield Television Broadcasting Corp., 4 Pike and Fischer, R.R. 2d 681, 685 (1965); Radio De Land, Inc. (WJBS), 1 FCC 2d 935 (1965). We notified all licensees of their responsibility in this respect, by transmitting to them the July 26, 1963 Public Notice (FCC 63-724) and the 1964 Fairness Primer, supra. Despite such notification and the Commission's rulings, the procedures specified have not always been followed, even when flagrant personal attacks have occurred in the context of a program dealing with a controversial issue. It is for this reason that we now codify the procedures which licensees are required to follow in personal attack situations. These rules will in no way lessen the force and effect of the Fairness Doctrine as it obliges licensees who permit their facilities to be used for the discussion of controversial issue of public importance to afford a reasonable opportunity for the presentation of conflicting views. Nor do they detract in any manner from a licensee's duty not to "withhold from expression over his facilities relevant news or facts concerning a controversy or * * * slant or distort the presentation of such news." Report on Editorialization, supra.

8. The obligation for compliance with these rules is on each individual licensee as it is for compliance with the Fairness Doctrine generally. Capitol Broadcasting Co., 2 Pike & Fischer, R.R. 2d 1104 (1964). Where a personal attack or editorial as to a candidate on a network program is carried by the licensee, the licensee may not avoid compliance with the rules merely because the attack or editorial occurred on a network program. Of course, if the network provides appropriate notice and opportunity for response and the licensee carries such response, its obligation would be satisfied.

9. A major purpose of the rules is to clarify and make more precise the procedures which licensees are required[*] to follow in personal attack situations. The long-applied standard of what constitutes a personal attack remains unaffected by this codification:

> (T)he personal attack principle is applicable where there are statements, in connection with a controversial issue of public importance, attacking an individual's or group's integrity, character, or honesty or like personal qualities, and not when an individual or group is simply named or referred to. Applicability of the Fairness Doctrine in the Handling of Controversial Issues of Public Importance, Public Notice of July 1, 1964, footnote 6.

Thus, no matter how strong the disagreement as to views may be, the personal attack principle is not applicable (See Letter to Pennsylvania Community Antenna Television Association, Inc., 1 FCC 2d 1610); it becomes applicable only where in the context of the discussion of a controversial issue of public importance, there is an attack on an individual's or group's integrity, etc., as noted above. As stated in the notice of proposed rule making, we recognize that in some circumstances there may be uncertainty or legitimate dispute concerning some aspects of the personal attack principle, such as whether a personal attack has occurred in the context of a discussion of a controversial issue of public importance, or whether the group or person attacked is "identified" sufficiently in the context to come within the rule. The rules are not designed to answer such questions. When they arise, licensees will have to continue making good faith judgments based on all of the relevant[†] facts and the applicable Commission interpretations.[‡] As we stated in the notice of proposed rule making, the rule will not be used as a basis for sanctions against those licensees who in good faith seek to comply with the personal attack principle. We point out that in the analogous case of the equal opportunities provision of section 315, we have not employed sanctions in the situation where a licensee has a good faith, reasonable doubt as to the provision's applicability. The rules here are thus directed to situations where the licensee do not comply with the requirements of the personal attack principle as to notification and offer of time to respond, even though there can be no reasonable doubt under the facts that a personal attack has taken place (e.g., a statement in a controversial issue broadcast that a public official or other person is an embezzler or a Communist). Statements that the rules will discourage, rather than encourage, controversial programing ignore the fact that the rules do no more than restate existing substantive policy—a policy designed to encourage controversial programing by insuring that more than one viewpoint on issues of public importance are carried over licensees' facilities. See footnote 3, supra. Further we do not perceive any discouragement to controversial issue programing, except for a licensee who wished to present only one side of such programing—namely, the personal attack and not the response by the individual attacked.

10. Several of the comments in this proceeding indicate the mistaken impression that an attack on a specific person or group constitutes, itself, a controversial issue of public importance requiring the invocation of the Fairness Doctrine. This misconceives the principle, based on the right of the public to be informed as to the vital issues of the day, which requires that an attack must occur within the context of a discussion of a controversial issue of public importance in order to invoke the personal attack principle. The use of broadcast facilities for the airing of mere private disputes and attacks would raise serious public interest issues, but such issues are not the focus of the Fairness Doctrine.

11. Under the principle it has always been the duty of a licensee to forward to a person or group attacked notification of the attack and an offer of an opportunity to respond, rather than to await a request or complaint from the person attacked. The notification requirement is of the utmost importance, since our experience indicates that otherwise the person or group attacked may be unaware of the attack, and thus the public may not have a meaningful opportunity to hear the other side. Again the rule adds no new burden in this respect to the obligations of a broadcast licensee. If an unawareness of this obligation presently exists among licensees despite the Commission's language in Mapoles, Billings, Times-Mirror, Springfield Television, the public notice of July 26, 1963, and the 1964 Fairness Primer, this only highlights the need for the rule.

12. Paragraph (a) of the rule places specific procedural responsibilities on the licensee over whose facilities a personal attack has been broadcast. A licensee is required to send the attacked person or group, within a reasonable time and in no event later than 1 week after the attack, a notice of the attack which states when the attack occurred and contains an offer of a reasonable opportunity to respond. Along with the notice, he is required to send a tape, transcript or accurate summary of the attack to the attacked person or group. This time limit should be sufficient to allow a licensee to confer with counsel or with the Commission if there is doubt as to its obligation. In any event, in the doubtful situation, if the person who possibly has been attacked is notified promptly within the time limit and the licensee seeks clarification of his obligation from his counsel or the Commission, no sanctions would be imposed, because the matter is not finally resolved within the 1-week period. See paragraph 9, supra.[†] This 1 week outer time limit does not mean that such a copy should not be sent earlier or indeed, before the attack occurs, particularly where time is of the essence.

Other matters are left to the reasonable judgment of the licensee, good faith negotiations, and the Commission's interpretive rulings based on specific factual situations.[‡]

13. As we pointed out in the notice, following present policy (public notice of July 1, 1964 (Fairness Primer), FCC 64-611, 29 F.R. 10415, footnote 6) personal attacks on foreign groups or foreign public figures are excluded from coverage by the rule. Also excluded from coverage are personal attacks made by political candidates, their authorized spokesmen, or those associated with them in the campaign against other candidates, spokesmen, or persons associated with them in the campaign. The exclusion of attacks by candidates against other candidates recognizes that the "equal opportunities" provision of section 315—and not the personal attack principle—is usually applicable to this situation. The Fairness Doctrine may, of course, be applicable to particular factual situations in the political broadcast field. See, section 315(a) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 47 U.S.C. 315 (a); public notice of July 1, 1964, Applicability of the Fairness Doctrine in the Handling of Controversial Issues of Public Importance, 29 F.R. 10415 (1964).

14. Finally, subsection (c) of the rule clarifies licensee's obligations in regard to station editorials endorsing or opposing political candidates. The appropriate candidate (or candidates) must be informed of a station's editorial opposing his (or their) candidacy or supporting the candidacy of a rival, and must be offered a reasonable opportunity to respond through a spokesman of his choice including, if the licensee so agrees, himself. The language of subsection (a) has been altered from that appearing in the notice of proposed rule making (FCC 66-291) to make clear that where an editorial endorses a candidate notice and offer of an opportunity to respond must be sent to his opponent, and where an editorial opposes a candidate such notice and offer must be sent to the opposed candidate.

15. The phrase "reasonable opportunity" to respond is used here and in the personal attack subsection because such an opportunity may vary with the circumstances. In many instances a comparable opportunity in time and scheduling will be clearly appropriate; in others such as where the endorsement of a candidate is one of many and involves just a few seconds, a "reasonable opportunity" may require more than a few seconds if there is to be a meaningful response. See, Final Report of the Senate Committee on Commerce, S. Rep. No. 944, 87th Cong., second sess., Part 6, page 7. Notification shall be within 24 hours of the editorial, since time is of the essence in this area and there appears to be no reason why the licensee cannot immediately inform a candidate of an editorial. In most cases licensees will be able to give notice prior to the editorial. Indeed such prior notice is required in instances of editorials broadcast close to the election date; i.e., less than 72 hours before the day of the election. For while such last-minute editorials are not prohibited, we wish to emphasize as strongly as possible that such editorials would be patently contrary to the public interest and the personal attack principle unless the licensee insures that the appropriate candidate (or candidates) is informed of the proposed broadcast and its contents sufficiently far in advance to have a reasonable opportunity to prepare a response and to have it presented in a timely fashion. We have accordingly made this requirement explicit in a proviso to subsection (c).

16. As in the case of the personal attack subsection, the licensee may impose reasonable limitations on the reply, such as requiring the appearance of a spokesman for the candidate to avoid any section 315 "equal opportunities" cycle.[‡] The matter of scheduling responses is left to reasonable judgment and negotiation. Subsection (c) is directed only to station editorials endorsing, or opposing, political candidates. Situations containing aspects of both personal attacks and political endorsements or oppositions may arise, and in such cases rulings on the particular factual settings may be necessary. Times-Mirror, 24 Pike & Fischer, R.R. 404 and 407 (1962).

17. Authority for the rules herein adopted is contained in section 4 (i) and (j), 303(r) and 315 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

18. Accordingly, it is ordered, That the rules contained below are adopted, effective August 14, 1967.

In Part 73, §§ 73.123, 73.300, 73.598, and 73.679 all to read identically are added to read as follows:

§ 73.____ Personal attacks; political editorials.

(a) When, during the presentation of views on a controversial issue of public importance, an attack is made upon the honesty, character, integrity or like personal qualities of an identified person or group, the licensee shall, within a reasonable time and in no event later than 1 week after the attack, transmit to the person or group attacked (1) notification of the date, time and identification of the broadcast; (2) a script or tape (or an accurate summary if a script or tape is not available) of the attack; and (3) an offer of a reasonable opportunity to respond over the licensee's facilities.

(b) The provisions of paragraph (a) of this section shall be inapplicable to attacks on foreign groups or foreign public figures or where personal attacks are made by legally qualified candidates, their authorized spokesmen, or those associated with them in the campaign, on other such candidates, their authorized spokesman, or persons associated with the candidates in the campaign.

NOTE: In a specific factual situation, the fairness doctrine may be applicable in this general area of political broadcasts. See, section 315(a) of the Act (47 U.S.C. 315(a)); public notice: Applicability of the Fairness Doctrine in the Handling of Controversial Issues of Public Importance, 29 Fed. Reg. 10415.

(c) Where a licensee, in an editorial, (i) endorses or (ii) opposes a legally qualified candidate or candidates, the licensee shall, within 24 hours after the editorial, transmit to respectively (1) the other qualified candidate or candidates for the same office or (ii) the candidate opposed in the editorial (1) notification of the date and the time of the editorial; (2) a script or tape of the editorial; and (3) an offer of a reasonable opportunity for a candidate or a spokesman of the candidate to respond over the licensee's facilities: Provided, however, That where such editorials are broadcast within 72 hours prior to the day of the election, the licensee shall comply with the provisions of this subsection sufficiently far in advance of the broadcast to enable the candidate or candidates to have a rea-

[*] In appropriate cases, licensees can and should promptly consult the Commission for interpretation of our rules and policies.

[†] This would be the appropriate procedure should there arise a question of the applicability of the principle to a factual situation, such as the hypothetical one posed by the National Broadcasting Co.'s comments, of an attack made in the context of a discussion of controversial issue of public importance, which does not itself constitute such an issue. We note that in our experience thus far, the attack made in the context of the controversial issue has been germane to the issue.

[†] As we stated in the notice of proposed rule making, where a licensee determines that a personal attack has not occurred but recognizes that there may be some dispute concerning this conclusion, he should keep available for public inspection, for a reasonable period of time, a tape, transcript or summary of the broadcast in question.

[‡] Where the attack occurs on paid time, a question has arisen as to whether the response can also be required to be on paid time. We have ruled on this matter in Letter to John H. Norris (WGCB), aff'd sub nom., Red Lion Broadcasting Co., Inc. v. FCC, supra. In view of our ruling, this is a matter not covered by the rule.

[‡] Barring extraordinary circumstances, the choice of the spokesman is, of course, a matter for the candidate involved.

PART 73—RADIO BROADCAST SERVICES

Frequency Monitors

In the matter of Amendment of § 73.49 (b)(4) and (b)(5) of the Commission rules and regulations governing Standard Broadcast Stations to eliminate the requirement that all frequency monitors must be equipped with automatic temperature control chambers.

1. Subparagraphs (4) and (5) of § 73.49(b) of the Commission rules require that all frequency monitors approved for use at Standard Broadcast stations must be equipped with an automatic temperature control chamber to stabilize the oscillating frequency of the crystal and, where necessary, the associated tuned circuits. Modern technology has advanced to the point where such ovens may not always be necessary to insure the required stability of the instrument. Furthermore, frequency monitors submitted to the Commission for type approval are placed through a series of rigorous tests at the Commission's laboratory designed to reveal any unacceptable instability. Therefore, the requirements for a temperature control chamber and the associated indicating thermometers are no longer considered to be essential and may be eliminated as a prerequisite for type approval of frequency monitors.

2. Since the action taken herein is the removal of a restrictive requirement which is no longer considered to be necessary in the present state of the art, and since such action will not adversely affect the interest of any party, we find that prior rule making proceedings normally required by section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act are not necessary, and the rule amendment may and should be made effective as soon as possible.

3. Accordingly, pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4(i) and 303(e) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended: It is ordered, That, effective July 14, 1967, § 73.49(b) of the Commission rules is amended by deleting subparagraphs (4) and (5).

PART 74—EXPERIMENTAL, AUXILIARY, AND SPECIAL BROADCAST SERVICES

Foreign Television Signals

In the matter of amendment to §§ 74.1105 and 74.1107 of the Commission's rules and regulations as they relate to foreign television signals.

1. The question has recently arisen whether §§ 74.1105 and 74.1107 of the Commission's rules are applicable to foreign television signals.[1] The rationale of the Second Report and Order requires that §§ 74.1105 and 74.1107 apply to foreign television signals, and we have consistently applied § 74.1107 to foreign signals. E.g., Fetzer Cable Vision, 6 FCC 2d 845, 848–849. Consequently, we have held that § 74.1107 of the rules applies to foreign television signals. Colorcable, Inc., FCC 67-774, —— FCC 2d ——. In view of the prior administrative history of this matter and the clarifying or interpretative nature of this revision, we believe that the notice and related provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act are both inapplicable and unnecessary.[2]

2. We are therefore adding footnotes to §§ 74.1105 and 74.1107 to make clear that they apply to foreign television signals. Authority for this amendment is contained in sections 4 (i) and (j) and 303(r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

In view of the foregoing: It is ordered, Effective July 14, 1967, that §§ 74.1105 and 74.1107 of the rules and regulations are amended as set forth below.

(Secs. 4, 303, 48 Stat., as amended 1066, 1082; 47 U.S.C. 154, 303)

Adopted: July 3, 1967.

Released: July 6, 1967.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,[3]
[SEAL] BEN F. WAPLE,
Secretary.

1. In Part 74 of Chapter I of Title 47 of the Code of Federal Regulations, a footnote is added to § 74.1105, to read as follows:

§ 74.1105 Notification prior to the commencement of new service.

* * * * *

NOTE 2: As used in § 74.1105, the term "television broadcast station" includes foreign television broadcast stations.

2. In Part 74 of Chapter I of Title 47 of the Code of Federal Regulations, a footnote is added to the end of § 74.1107 to read as follows:

§ 74.1107 Requirement for showing in evidentiary hearing and Commission approval in top 100 television markets; other procedures.

* * * * *

NOTE 1: As used in § 74.1107, the term "television broadcast station" includes foreign television broadcast stations.

[F.R. Doc. 67-8079; Filed, July 12, 1967; 8:50 a.m.]

[1] It has been argued that they are not applicable because sec. 74.1107 provides that a CATV system "shall not extend the signal of a television broadcast station," and sec. 74.1101(b) defines a television broadcast station as a station "operating on a channel * * * assigned * * * by § 73.606," which provides channels for the "United States, its Territories and Possessions."

[2] As a further matter, we also point out that since carriage of foreign television signals by CATV systems in the top 100 television markets without our prior approval given pursuant to sec. 74.1107 of the rules, could disrupt our overall CATV regulatory program, observance of the notice and effective date provisions of sec. 4 would be contrary to the public interest.

[3] Commissioners Bartley, Wadsworth, and Johnson absent; Commissioner Loevinger concurring in result.

Title 49—TRANSPORTATION

Chapter I—Interstate Commerce Commission and Department of Transportation

SUBCHAPTER B—CARRIERS BY MOTOR VEHICLES

PART 292—DRIVING OF MOTOR VEHICLES

Accordingly, Title 49 CFR, § 292.10 (formerly § 192.10) be, and it is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 292.10 Railroad grade crossings; stopping required.

(a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, the driver of any motor vehicle described in subparagraphs (1) through (5) of this paragraph, before crossing at grade any track or tracks of a railroad, shall stop such vehicle within 50 feet, but not less than 15 feet from the nearest rail of such railroad, and while so stopped shall listen and look in both directions along such track for any approaching train, and shall not proceed until such precautions have been taken and until he has ascertained that the course is clear.

(5) Every cargo tank motor vehicle transporting a commodity which at the time of loading has a temperature above its flashpoint as determined by the same standard method of testing as prescribed in subparagraph (4) of this paragraph.

(6) Every cargo tank motor vehicle, whether loaded or empty, transporting any commodity under special permit in accordance with the provisions of § 173.22 of this chapter.

(b) A stop need not be made at:

(1) A streetcar crossing, or railroad tracks used exclusively for industrial switching purposes, within a business district as defined in § 290.12 of this chapter.

(2) A railroad grade crossing when a police officer or crossing flagman directs traffic to proceed.

METERED STAMPS

Inspection of Postage Meters

Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making consisting of a revision of paragraph (f)(2) in § 143.8 of Title 39, Code of Federal Regulations. The proposed revision to paragraph (f)(2) would require postage meter manufacturers to specifically determine whether any indications of tampering are noted during their required on site inspections of postage meters leased to mailers. In addition, the revision would require that meter register readings be compared with the control figure last recorded by the postal setting employee in the meter user's Form 3602-A, Daily Record of Meter Register Readings, to confirm the accuracy of registers.

Although the procedures in 39 CFR Part 143 relate to a proprietary function of the Government, it is the desire of the Postmaster General voluntarily to observe the rule making requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553) in order that patrons of the Postal Service may have an opportunity to submit written data, views, and arguments concerning the proposed revisions. Such written comments may be submitted to the Director, Classification and Special Services Division, Bureau of Operations, Post Office Department, Washington, D.C. 20260 at any time prior to the 30th day following the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Accordingly, it is proposed that paragraph (f)(2) of § 143.8 read as follows:

§ 143.8 Manufacture and distribution of postage meters.

* * * * *

(f) Maintenance * * *

(2) Inspection of Meters in use. The manufacturer must have all of his meters in service with mailers inspected at least twice annually at approximate 6-month intervals. Inspection must be sufficiently thorough to determine that each meter is clean, in proper operating condition, is recording its operations correctly and accurately, that neither the post office seal nor any seal placed by the manufacturer to prevent access to the mechanism has been removed or tampered with, and that there are no other indications of tampering. The meter register readings must be compared with the control figure last recorded by the postal setting employee in the meter user's Form 3602-A, Daily Record of Meter Register Readings, to confirm the accuracy of the registers. If the post office control figure has not been recorded, obtain such figure immediately from post office to confirm accuracy of registers.

Any irregularities found in the operation of a meter at any time or any improper usage of a meter must be reported immediately to the mailer's postmaster, and appropriate steps must be taken to have the meter discontinued.

CONTROL ZONES AND TRANSITION AREAS

Proposed Alteration

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amendments to Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations that would alter the Albany, Ga., and Tallahassee, Fla., control zones and transition areas and the Valdosta, Ga., transition area.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications pertaining to the Albany and Valdosta, Ga., portions of this docket should be submitted in triplicate to the Area Manager, Atlanta Area Office, Attention: Chief, Air Traffic Branch, Federal Aviation Administration, Post Office Box 20636, Atlanta, Ga. 30320. Communications pertaining to the Tallahassee, Fla., portion of this docket should be submitted in triplicate to the Area Manager, Miami Area Office, Attention: Chief, Air Traffic Branch, Federal Aviation Administration, Post Office Box 2014, AMF Branch, Miami, Fla. 33159. All communications received within 20 days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Administration officials may be made by contacting the Chief, Air Traffic Branch. Any data, views, or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The Albany, Ga., VOR and Tallahassee, Fla., VORTAC are scheduled for relocation to latitude 31°39'19" N., longitude 84°17'23" W. and latitude 30°33'22" N., longitude 84°22'26" W., respectively, during or following September 1967. The Albany VOR will be converted to a VORTAC in conjunction with the relocation and the VOR instrument approach procedures for the Albany and Tallahassee Municipal Airports are being revised and a VOR instrument approach procedure is proposed for the Tallahassee Commercial Airport. Additionally, the proposed realignment of associated airways and jet routes necessitated by the relocation of these navigation aids is described in Airspace Docket No. 67-SO-13. In consideration of the foregoing, it is necessary to alter the following control zones and transition areas.

The Albany, Ga. (Municipal Airport) control zone as described in § 71.171 (32 F.R. 2071 and 2708) would be redesignated as follows:

Within a 5-mile radius of the Albany Municipal Airport (latitude 31°32'09" N., longitude 84°11'36" W.); within 2 miles each side of the Albany VORTAC 148° radial, extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 1 mile SE of the VORTAC.

The Tallahassee, Fla., control zone as designated in § 71.171 (32 F.R. 2071) would be redesignated as follows:

Within a 5-mile radius of Tallahassee Municipal Airport (latitude 30°23'56" N., longitude 84°21'26" W.); within 2 miles each side of the Tallahassee VORTAC 173° radial, extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 2 miles S of the VORTAC; within 2 miles each side of the Tallahassee ILS localizer N course, extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 2 miles N of the airport.

The Albany, Ga., transition area as described in § 71.181 (32 F.R. 2148) would be redesignated as follows:

That airspace extending upward from 700 feet above the surface within a 9-mile radius of Albany Municipal Airport (latitude 31°32'09" N., longitude 84°11'36" W.); within a 10-mile radius of NAS Albany (latitude 31°36'36" N., longitude 84°05'05" W.); within 2 miles each side of the Albany VORTAC 145° radial, extending from the 9-mile radius area to the VORTAC; and that airspace extending upward from 1,200 feet above the surface bounded by a line beginning NE of Albany at the INT of the S boundary of V-70 and the arc of a 40-mile radius circle centered at NAS, Albany, thence clockwise along this arc to latitude 31°36'30" N., thence W along this latitude to the arc of a 30-mile radius circle centered at the Albany Municipal Airport, thence clockwise along this arc to a line 5 miles S of and parallel to the direct radials between the Dothan and Albany VORTACs, thence W along this line to a line extending through latitude 31°16'30" N., longitude 84°51'30" W., and latitude 31°37'30" N., longitude 84°46'00" W., thence N along this line to latitude 31°37'30" N., longitude 84°46'00" W., thence to latitude 31°41'20" N., longitude 84°56'55" W., thence to latitude 31°47'20" N., longitude 84°56'20" W., thence W along latitude 31°47'20" N., to the E boundary of V-241, thence N along this boundary to the INT of the S boundary of V-70, thence E along this boundary to point of beginning; and that airspace extending upward from 3,700 feet MSL beginning at the INT of the NE boundary of V-7 and a line extending from latitude 31°16'30" N., longitude 84°51'30" W. through latitude 31°14'38" N., longitude 85°10'45" W.; thence to latitude 31°16'30" N., longitude 84°51'30" W.; thence N along a line extending from latitude 31°16'30" N., longitude 84°51'30" W. through latitude 31°37'30" N., longitude 84°46'00" W., to the intersection of a line 5 miles S of and parallel to the direct radials between the Albany and Dothan VORTACs; thence E along this line to the arc of a 30-mile radius circle centered at the Albany Municipal Airport; thence counterclockwise along this arc to the W boundary of V-97/V-85W; thence S along this boundary to the NE boundary of V-7; thence NW along this boundary to point of beginning.

The Tallahassee, Fla., transition area as described in § 71.181 (32 F.R. 2148) would be redesignated as follows:

That airspace extending upward from 700 feet above the surface within a 10-mile radius of the Tallahassee Municipal Airport (latitude 30°23'56" N., longitude 84°21'22" W.); within a 5-mile radius of the Tallahassee Commercial Airport (latitude 30°29'09" N., longitude 84°22'36" W.); within 8 miles E and 5 miles W of the ILS localizer S course, extending from the 10-mile radius area to 13 miles S of the LOM; within 2 miles each side of the Tallahassee VORTAC 353° radial extending from the 5-mile radius area to 8 miles N of the VORTAC.

The 1,200-foot portion of this transition area will be revoked (airspace Docket No. 67-SO-58) in conjunction with these airspace actions. The controlled airspace with a floor of 1,200 feet associated with the airways in the Tallahassee area makes the 1,200-foot portion of this transition area unnecessary.

The Valdosta, Ga., transition area as described in § 71.181 (32 F.R. 2148) would be amended as follows: The portion "* * * on the W by V-35/97 * * " would be deleted and " * * on the W by V-35/159 * * *" would be substituted therefor.

Turbojet aircraft are currently using the Albany Municipal Airport, NAS Albany and the Tallahassee Municipal Airport. The proposed control zone and transition areas would provide the controlled airspace necessary for the protection of IFR aircraft operating in these terminal areas.

The official docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Southern Regional Office, Federal Aviation Administration, Room 724, 3400 Whipple Street, East Point, Ga.

These amendments are proposed under the authority of section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1348(a)).

Issued in East Point, Ga., on July 3, 1967.

JAMES G. ROGERS,
Director, Southern Region.

FEDERAL AIRWAYS, TRANSITION AREAS AND REPORTING POINTS

Proposed Revocation, Alteration, and Designation

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amendments to Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations which would realign colored Federal airways Green 8, Red 40, Red 99, and Blue 27; revoke Blue 65; revoke Rocky Point, Alaska, and Kukaklek, Alaska, transition areas; designate Big Mountain, Alaska, transition area; revoke Rocky Point, Kukaklek, and Anchor Point, Alaska, low altitude reporting points and designate Big Mountain low altitude reporting point.

As parts of these proposals relate to navigable airspace outside the United States, this notice is submitted in consonance with the ICAO International Standards and Recommended Practices.

Applicability of International Standards and Recommended Practices, by the Air Traffic Service, FAA, in areas outside domestic airspace of the United States is governed by Article 12 and Annex 11 to the Convention on International Civil Aviation (ICAO), which pertains to the establishment of air navigation facilities and services necessary to promoting the safe, orderly and expeditious flow of civil air traffic. Its purpose is to insure that civil flying on international air routes is carried out under uniform conditions designed to improve the safety and efficiency of air operations.

The International Standards and Recommended Practices in Annex 11 apply in those parts of the airspace under the jurisdiction of a contracting state, derived from ICAO, wherein air traffic services are provided and also whenever a contracting state accepts the responsibility of providing air traffic services over high seas or in airspace of undetermined sovereignty. A contracting state accepting such responsibility may apply the International Standards and Recommended Practices to civil aircraft in a manner consistent with that adopted for airspace under its domestic jurisdiction.

In accordance with Article 3 of the Convention on International Civil Aviation, Chicago, 1944, state aircraft are exempt from the provisions of Annex 11 and its Standards and Recommended Practices. As a contracting state, the United States agreed by Article 3(d) that its state aircraft will be operated in international airspace with due regard for the safety of civil aircraft.

Since this action involves, in part, the designation of navigable airspace outside the United States, the Administrator has consulted with the Secretary of State and Secretary of Defense in accordance with the provisions of Executive Order 10854.

Interested persons may participate in the proposed rule making by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should identify the airspace docket number and be submitted in triplicate to the Director, Alaskan Region, Attention: Chief, Air Traffic Division, Federal Aviation Administration, 632 Sixth Avenue, Anchorage, Alaska 99501. All communications received within 30 days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendments. The proposals contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

An official docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Federal Aviation Administration, Office of the General Counsel, Attention: Rules Docket, 800 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20590. An informal docket also will be available for examination at the Office of the Regional Air Traffic Division Chief.

The Federal Aviation Administration has under consideration the following airspace actions:

1. Realign G–8 airway segment from King Salmon, Alaska, radio range; direct Big Mountain radio beacon; direct Homer, Alaska, radio range; direct to Kenai, Alaska, radio range.

2. Realign R–40 airway segment from Kodiak, Alaska, radio range; direct Homer radio range.

3. Realign R–90 airway from Big Mountain radio beacon; direct Iliamna, Alaska, radio beacon; to the intersection of the Iliamna radio beacon 145° T (123° M) and Big Mountain radio beacon 080° T (058° M) bearings.

4. Revoke B–65 airway.

5. Realign B–27 airway segment from Kodiak radio range; via the intersection of Kodiak radio range 270° T (247° M) and the southeast course of the King Salmon radio range; direct to King Salmon radio range.

6. Designate the Big Mountain transition area as that airspace extending upward from 1,200 feet above the surface within 5 miles northwest and 7.5 miles southeast of the 049° T (027° M) and 229° T (207° M) bearings from the Big Mountain radio beacon extending from 7 miles northeast to 13 miles southwest of the radio beacon.

7. Revoke the Rocky Point and Kukaklek transition areas.

8. Designate the Big Mountain radio beacon as a low altitude reporting point.

9. Delete the Kukaklek, Rocky Point, and Anchor Point low altitude reporting points.

The proposed airway realignments would provide more direct routes between the terminal areas served. Blue 65 airway, Rocky Point and Kukaklek transition areas are proposed for revocation as they are no longer required for air traffic purposes. The proposed Big Mountain transition area would provide controlled airspace for air traffic conducting holding procedures utilizing the Big Mountain radio beacon.

These amendments are proposed under the authority of sections 307(a) and 1110 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1348, 1510) and Executive Order 10854 (24 F.R. 9565).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 6, 1967.

T. MCCORMACK,
Acting Chief, Airspace and Air Traffic Rules Division.

[14 CFR Part 91]

[Docket No. 8279; Notice 67–38]

FOREIGN CIVIL AIRCRAFT

Special Rules for VFR Flight Operations

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amending Part 91 of the Federal Aviation Regulations to delete the requirement of § 91.43(b) that no person may operate a foreign civil aircraft in the United States in VFR flight unless a VFR flight plan has been filed with an FAA communications station.

Interested persons are invited to participate in the making of the proposed rule by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should identify the regulatory docket or notice number and be submitted in duplicate to: Federal Aviation Administration, Office of the General Counsel, Attention: Rules Docket GC–24, 800 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20590. All communications received on or before September 11, 1967, will be considered by the Administrator before taking action on the proposed rule. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of the comments received. All comments submitted will be available, both before and after the closing date for comments, in the Rules Docket for examination by interested persons.

The VFR flight plan requirement for foreign civil aircraft navigation contained in § 91.43(b) and its predecessor regulation CAR § 190.23(a) was originally adopted primarily for administrative purposes to enable the FAA to keep track of foreign civil aircraft navigation within the United States.

It now appears evident that any national security purpose which the regulation may fulfill can be adequately provided for by the provisions of Part 99—Security Control of Air Traffic. As a result, there is no longer an administrative need for the section for that purpose. For the purposes of safety, the considerations in requiring a VFR flight plan to be filed by the operator of a foreign civil aircraft appear to be no different than those considerations applicable to the operation of any civil aircraft. The VFR flight plan filed by an operator of a foreign civil aircraft is handled no differently from other VFR flight plans, and the services rendered by the FAA are the same as those furnished to an operator of a U.S. registered aircraft. Therefore, it appears that the obligation for filing a VFR flight plan upon the operator of a foreign civil aircraft should be no different than upon the operator of a U.S. registered aircraft.

As pointed out by a petition for rulemaking by the Canadian Owners and Pilots Association, the mandatory requirement upon operators of foreign civil aircraft to file a VFR flight plan, often creates a hardship on those pilots who wish to fly into remote areas where it is difficult, if not impossible, to file or close a flight plan. With the proposed change this difficulty will be eliminated. Furthermore, the operator of a foreign civil aircraft who desires the services of the FAA may still obtain them by filing a VFR flight plan.

In consideration of the foregoing, it is proposed that § 91.43 be amended by deleting paragraph (b). This proposal is made under the authority of sections 307(a), 313(a), and 601 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (49 U.S.C. 1348(a), 1354(a), and 1421).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 6, 1967.

EDWARD C. HODSON,
Acting Director, Flight Standards Service.

[Docket No. 8269; Notice 67–37]

TRAVEL CLUBS

Certification and Operations

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amending Part 121 of the Federal Aviation Regulations to expressly include operations conducted by "travel clubs" with large airplanes.

Interested persons are invited to participate in the making of the proposed rule by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should identify the regulatory docket or notice number and be submitted in duplicate to: Federal Aviation Administration, Office of the General Counsel, Attention: Rules Docket GC–24, 800 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20590. All communications received on or before September 11, 1967, will be considered by the Administrator before taking action on the proposed rule. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received. All comments submitted will be available, both before and after the closing date for comments, in the Rules Docket for examinations by interested persons.

A commercial operator using large aircraft must obtain a certificate from this agency and must conduct its operations under Part 121 of the Federal Aviation Regulations. Section 1.1 of the Federal Aviation Regulations defines a commercial operator as follows:

"Commercial operator" means a person who, for compensation or hire, engages in the carriage by aircraft in air commerce, of persons or property, other than as an air carrier or foreign air carrier or under the authority of Part 375 of this Title. Where it is doubtful that an operation is for "compensation or hire", the test applied is whether the carriage by air is merely incidental to the person's other business or is, in itself, a major enterprise for profit.

During the past few years, a number of travel clubs have been formed for the purpose of providing their members with long-distance travel usually on large (over 12,500 lbs. takeoff weight) aircraft. In most cases, these clubs operate on the basis that the members share the expenses of the travel by an assessment, dues, membership fee, or similar payment to the club. As long as there is truly a sharing of expenses by the members and no profit is made from the club's operation, such an operation has not been considered to be for "compensation or hire" and it could be conducted under Part 91 of the Federal Aviation Regulations. However, if a club allows nonmembers to travel for a fee or if the club, or some other person, makes a profit, in any manner, from the operation of the aircraft, the operation is considered to be for compensation or hire. In such case, an operator using large aircraft must be certificated and operate under the commercial operator rules of Part 121. Moreover, if the operations involve interstate, overseas, or foreign air transportation (common carriage) appropriate economic authority would be required from the Civil Aeronautics Board.

From a safety standpoint, when a passenger has, in any manner, paid for his carriage aboard a large aircraft the FAA believes that the applicable safety standards should not depend on a distinction as to whether that passenger is carried for "compensation or hire" or is "sharing expenses" with other passengers. The average passenger certainly is not aware that the method by which he pays for his carriage determines the level of safety that the operator of the aircraft is required to maintain. Except for the method of payment, the typical travel club operation is in all practical respects no different from a charter flight conducted by a commercial operator, and the FAA believes that the level of safety required by Part 121 should be maintained. Therefore, the FAA proposes to apply the commercial operator certification and safety standards of Part 121 to travel clubs by amending the applicability of that Part to include the carriage of persons in a large aircraft by any person, travel club, or group, if, as a condition to qualifying for that carriage, those persons pay to that person, travel club, or group, any assessment, dues, membership fee, or other thing of value.

In consideration of the foregoing, it is proposed to amend Part 121 of the Federal Aviation Regulations by amending the applicability provisions of subparagraph (a)(5) of § 121.1 to read as follows:

§ 121.1 Applicability.

(a) • • •

(5) Each commercial operator when it engages in the carriage of persons or property in air commerce for compensation or hire with large aircraft, including the carriage of persons in a large aircraft by any person, travel club, or group, if, as a condition to qualifying for that carriage, those persons pay to that person, travel club, or group, any assessment, dues, membership fee, or other thing of value.

• • • • •

This amendment is proposed under the authority of sections 313(a), 601, and 607 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1421, and 1427).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 6, 1967.

JAMES F. RUDOLPH,
Director, Flight Standards Service.

CERAMIC GLAZED WALL TILE FROM JAPAN

Notice of Intent To Discontinue Investigation and To Make Determination That No Sales Exist Below Fair Value

JULY 3, 1967.

Information was received on December 9, 1965, that ceramic glazed wall tile imported from Japan was being sold at less than fair value within the meaning of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 160 et seq.). This information was the subject of an "Antidumping Proceeding Notice" which was published pursuant to § 14.6(d), Customs Regulations (19 CFR 14.6(d)), in the FEDERAL REGISTER of December 30, 1965, on page 16372 thereof.

On July 13, 1966, the Acting Commissioner of Customs issued a withholding of appraisement notice with respect to such merchandise, which was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER dated July 19, 1966.

Purchase price was found to be lower than adjusted home market price in a majority of the comparisons made.

Promptly after the commencement of the antidumping investigation, price revisions were made which eliminated the likelihood of sales below fair value. Assurances were given that, regardless of the determination of this case, no future sales to the United States will be made at prices which could be construed as being at less than fair value within the meaning of section 201(a) of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 160(a)). There appears to be no likelihood of a resumption of prices which prevailed before such price revision.

In view of the foregoing it appears that there are not, and are not likely to be, sales below fair value of ceramic glazed wall tile from Japan.

Unless persuasive evidence or argument to the contrary is presented within 30 days, a determination will be made that there are not, and are not likely to be, sales below fair value.

Any such evidence or argument should be addressed to the Commissioner of Customs, 2100 K Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20226, in time to be received by his office not later than 30 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

This notice is published pursuant to § 14.7(b) (2) of the Customs Regulations (19 CFR 14.7(b) (2)).

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

THIOUREA FROM WEST GERMANY

Notice of Intent To Discontinue Investigation and To Make Determination That No Sales Exist Below Fair Value

JULY 5, 1967.

Information was received on May 11, 1966, that thiourea imported from West Germany, exported by Degussa, A. G., Frankfurt/Main, West Germany, was being sold at less than fair value within the meaning of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 160 et seq.). This information was the subject of an "Antidumping Proceeding Notice" which was published pursuant to § 14.6(d), Customs Regulations (19 CFR 14.6(d)), in the FEDERAL REGISTER of June 22, 1966, on page 8641 thereof.

On February 1, 1967, the Commissioner of Customs issued a withholding of appraisement notice with respect to such merchandise, which was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER dated February 7, 1967.

Thiourea is a chemical intermediate used in the manufacture of photographic chemicals, diaso-type coatings for office machine papers, pharmaceuticals, textile chemicals and dyes, and in the synthesis of various organic chemicals.

Promptly after being notified that its prices to the United States were lower than prices to third countries, the exporter made price revisions which eliminated the likelihood of sales below fair value. Assurances were given that, regardless of the determination of this case, no future sales to the United States will be made at prices which could be construed as being at less than fair value within the meaning of section 201(a) of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 160(a)). There appears to be no likelihood of a resumption of prices which prevailed before such price revision. The complaint thereafter was withdrawn.

In view of the foregoing, it appears that there are not, and are not likely to be, sales below fair value of thiourea from West Germany, exported by Degussa, A. G. Frankfurt/Main, West Germany.

Unless persuasive evidence or argument to the contrary is presented within 30 days, a determination will be made that there are not, and are not likely to be, sales below fair value.

Any such evidence or argument should be addressed to the Commissioner of Customs, 2100 K Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20226, in time to be received by his office not later than 30 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The Atomic Energy Commission has issued, effective as of the date of issuance, Amendment No. 1, set forth below, to Facility License No. R-108 to the Dow Chemical Co., Midland, Mich. The amendment changes the amount of contained uranium-235 that the licensee may receive, possess and use from 3.0 kilograms to 3.4 kilograms.

The Commission has found that this increase in the amount of contained uranium-235 does not involve significant hazards considerations different from those previously evaluated since the amount of fuel to be loaded into the reactor is limited by the specified excess reactivity limit in the technical specifications of the license, and the licensee has adequate facilities for safe storage of this amount of material.

Within fifteen (15) days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER, the applicant may file a request for a hearing, and any person whose interest may be affected by this proceeding may file a petition for leave to intervene. Requests for a hearing and petitions to intervene shall be filed in accordance with the provisions of the Commission's "Rules of Practice," (10 CFR Part 2). If a request for a hearing or a petition for leave to intervene is filed within the time prescribed in this notice, the Commission will issue a notice of hearing or an appropriate order.

For further details with respect to this amendment, see the licensee's application for license amendment dated June 19, 1967, which is available for public inspection at the Commission's Public Document Room, 1717 H Street NW., Washington, D.C.

Dated at Bethesda, Md., this 3d day of July 1967.

DONALD J. SKOVHOLT,
Assistant Director for Reactor Operations, Division of Reactor Licensing.

[License No. R-108; Amdt. No. 1]

The Atomic Energy Commission has found that:

(1) The application for amendment complies with the requirements of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, and the Commission's regulations set forth in Title 10, Chapter 1, CFR;

(2) The receipt, possession, and use of the special nuclear material in the manner proposed in the application will not be inimical to the common defense and security, or to the health and safety of the public;

(3) Prior public notice of proposed issuance of this amendment is not required since the amendment does not involve significant hazard considerations different from those previously evaluated.

Accordingly, License No. R-108 issued to The Dow Chemical Co., is hereby amended in the following respect:

1. Paragraph 3B. is amended to read as follows:

"B. Pursuant to the Act and Title 10, CFR, Chapter 1, Part 70, "Special Nuclear Material", to receive, possess and use up to 3.4 kilograms of contained uranium-235 in connection with operation of the reactor; and"

2. This amendment is effective as of the date of issuance.

Date of Issuance: July 3, 1967.

Assistant Director for Reactor Operations, Division of Reactor Licensing.

Notice of Issuance of Facility License

No request for hearing of petition to intervene having been filed following publication of the Notice of Proposed Issuance of Facility License, the Atomic Energy Commission has issued Facility License No. R-108, effective as of the date of issuance, to The Dow Chemical Co. authorizing operation of the TRIGA Mark I type nuclear research reactor located in Midland, Mich.

The license was issued as set forth in the FEDERAL REGISTER dated June 13, 1967, 32 F.R. 8427, except that the strength of the polonium-210 beryllium neutron startup source was changed from 7 curies to 11 curies, to conform with the source received from the supplier. This change in source strength does not involve any safety considerations.

[Docket No. 17913; Order No. E-26387]

ALLEGHENY AIRLINES, INC.

Order To Show Cause

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D.C. on the 7th day of July 1967.

Application of Allegheny Airlines, Inc., under section 401 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended, for amendment of its certificate of public convenience and necessity for Route 97.

Allegheny Airlines, Inc. (Allegheny), has filed a motion seeking expedited hearing on its application, Docket 17913, which requests an amendment of its existing segment 5 to redesignate the terminal point Huntington as an intermediate point and extend the segment to the coterminal points Nashville and Memphis via the intermediate point Lexington.[1]

In support of its motion, Allegheny alleges in pertinent part that: there is a need for new and improved air service between Memphis/Nashville/Lexington and Pittsburgh/Philadelphia and the Ohio Valley points; the authority sought by Allegheny will permit that carrier to provide Nashville and Memphis with single-plane service to Lexington, Huntington, and Parkersburg, single-plane service from Lexington to Parkersburg, Pittsburgh, and Philadelphia; and needed additional service between Nashville/Memphis, and Pittsburgh/Philadelphia; first single-plane service will be provided in nine markets conveniencing 38,000 passengers annually and first competitive service in five markets conveniencing 42,000 passengers annually; grant of the authority requested will permit a reduction in subsidy of $348,000 and it is willing to accept the route on a subsidy ineligible basis. Answers supporting Allegheny's motion were filed by the Lexington-Fayette County Airport Board; the City of Philadelphia and the Greater Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce; the County of Allegheny, Pa.; the City of Memphis and the Memphis Area Chamber of Commerce; the City of Parkersburg and the Greater Parkersburg Chamber of Commerce; the City of Marietta, Ohio and the Marietta Area Chamber of Commerce; the Metropolitan Government of Nashville; and the Tri-State Airport Authority and the Greater Huntington Area Chamber of Commerce.

Piedmont filed an answer indicating that it neither supports nor opposes the motion. However, Piedmont states that it presently participates by connection in some of the traffic involved and that it has on file certain applications which if granted would enable Piedmont to provide direct service in all of the markets which Allegheny proposes to serve, except the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia markets.

We have decided to handle this matter by show cause procedure; and we tentatively find and conclude that Allegheny's certificate of public convenience and necessity for route 97 should be amended in such a manner as to extend Allegheny's segment 5 from the present terminal point Huntington to the coterminal points Nashville and Memphis via Lexington, subject to a restriction prohibiting turnaround service between Memphis and Nashville. Interested persons will be given 20 days from the date of service of this order to show cause why the tentative findings and conclusions reached herein should not be made final.

We tentatively find that the total traffic to be benefited by Allegheny's proposal will be significant. Thus, Allegheny will provide first single-plane service in nine markets and will convenience approximately 27,000 passengers according to our estimate.[2] In addition, Allegheny will provide competitive service in five markets conveniencing approximately 15,000 passengers.[3] A comparison of Allegheny's proposed schedules with existing schedules in the competitive markets demonstrates that, with the possible exception of the Lexington-Huntington market,[4] Allegheny's proposal will provide a useful public service.[5] Finally, it appears that the proposed route extension will strengthen Allegheny's segment 5 by extending that segment to Memphis, which is a stronger traffic generating point than Huntington.

In comparison to the apparent service benefits which would result from an award to Allegheny, the diversion from the services of the existing carriers in the markets at issue would appear to be insignificant. We tentatively find that Southern's revenues would be subject to diversion of about $23,000[6] and that Piedmont's revenues would be subject to diversion of about $19,000.[7] The figure for Southern includes no diversion in the Memphis-Nashville market, since in our view the effect of the restriction against turnaround service in this market which we will impose (and which Allegheny indicates it will accept) will be to reduce any such diversion to negligible proportions. The revenues of the trunkline carriers concerned would be subject to diversion of approximately $394,000.[8] This latter estimate of course, does not reflect cost savings to the trunkline carriers which will obtain if these carriers handle less traffic in these markets. Viewed in the aggregate for the trunkline carriers concerned the revenue loss does not appear to be a substantial figure.

We tentatively find that Allegheny's proposal will result in an operating profit for that carrier and that it shows future promise of reducing that carrier's subsidy. Attached as Appendix F is our estimate of Allegheny's proposed operation for the first year of service, which shows an operating profit for the carrier of $344,000 and a subsidy requirement, when return on investment and taxes are taken into consideration, of $149,000. Our financial estimate differs from Allegheny's in certain significant respects. Thus, Allegheny's costing method does not reflect the computation of full return and taxes as specified in Subpart K of Part 302 of the Board's Rules of Practice. Moreover, the growth rate employed by the carrier in its traffic estimates includes factors that, in our view, are duplicated by its estimate of stimulation due to improved service. Nonetheless, we tentatively find that Allegheny's proposal would convenience a significant number of passengers; and that the carrier's traffic estimate is attainable during the second year of operations. Under these circumstances, although we forecast a subsidy requirement for the first year of operations, we think that the proposed route has the potential strength to be operated at a subsidy reduction during the second year of operations. We note that Allegheny has offered to accept the new route authority on a subsidy ineligible basis and we would impose such a condition in the carrier's certificate.

The action which we propose to make herein is in harmony with our policy to act affirmatively in situations which hold promise for route strengthening for local service carriers where it appears that the public will benefit substantially.[9]

In granting interested persons the opportunity to show cause why our tentative findings and conclusions should not be adopted, we expect such persons to support their objections with detailed answers, specifically setting forth the tentative findings and conclusions to which objection is taken. Such objections should be accompanied by arguments of fact or law supported by legal precedent or detailed economic analysis.

Accordingly, it is ordered, That:

1. A proceeding be and it hereby is instituted in Docket 17913 pursuant to section 401(g) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended, to determine whether the public convenience and necessity require, and the Board should order, the amendment of the certificate of public convenience and necessity held by Allegheny Airlines, Inc., for route 97 so as to:

a. Amend existing segment 5 to read as follows: "Between the terminal point Pittsburgh, Pa., the intermediate points Wheeling, Parkersburg, and Huntington, W. Va., Lexington, Ky., and the coterminal points Nashville and Memphis, Tenn."

b. Add a new condition to read as follows: "Flights which serve both Memphis and Nashville, Tenn., shall originate or terminate at a point north and east of Nashville."

c. Amend existing condition (10)(a) by adding the order number and date of the Board's final order herein to the list of orders, operations conducted solely pursuant to which are ineligible for subsidy.

2. All interested persons are directed to show cause why the Board should not issue an order making final the tentative findings and conclusions stated herein and issue to Allegheny a certificate of public convenience and necessity amended in the manner set forth in ordering paragraph 1 above;

3. Any interested persons having objection to issuance of an order making final the proposed findings, conclusions and certificate amendments set forth herein shall, within 20 days after service of a copy of this order, file with the Board and serve upon all persons made parties to this proceeding a statement of objections together with a summary of testimony, statistical data and other evidence expected to be relied upon to support the stated objections;

4. If timely and properly supported objections are filed, full consideration will be accorded the matters or issues raised by the objections before further action is taken by the Board;[10]

5. In the event no objections are filed, all further procedural steps will be deemed to have been waived, and the case will be submitted to the Board for final action; and

6. A copy of this order should be served upon the following persons, who are hereby made parties to this proceeding: Allegheny Airlines, Inc.; American Airlines, Inc.; Eastern Air Lines, Inc.; Lake Central Airlines, Inc.; Piedmont Aviation, Inc.; Southern Airways, Inc.; United Air Lines, Inc.; Lexington-Fayette County Airport Board; the city of Philadelphia and the Greater Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce; the county of Allegheny, Pa.; the city of Memphis and the Memphis Area Chamber of Commerce; the city of Parkersburg, the Greater Parkersburg Chamber of Commerce, the city of Marietta, Ohio, and the Marietta Area Chamber of Commerce; the Metropolitan Government of Nashville; and the Tri-State Airport Authority and the Greater Huntington Area Chamber of Commerce.

This order will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

OPERATIONS RESEARCH SERIES

Notice of Establishment of Prescribed Minimum Educational Requirements

In accordance with section 3308 of title 5, United States Code, the Civil Service Commission has determined that minimum educational requirements should be established for positions in the Operations Research Series, GS-1515. The requirements, the duties of the positions, and the reasons for the Commission's decision that these requirements are necessary are set forth below.

The Operations Research Series, GS-1515 (All Grades).

Minimum educational requirements. Candidates must show successful completion of a full 4-year or longer curriculum in an accredited college or university leading to a bachelor's or higher degree with a course of study that included 24 semester hours of coursework in any combination of the following: operations research; mathematics; statistics; logic; and subject-matter courses which require substantial competence in mathematics or statistics.

Duties. Operations research analysts perform professional and scientific work requiring the design, development, and adaptation of mathematical, statistical, econometric, and other scientific methods to analyze operational problems of decision-makers. Operations research analysts develop and conduct analytic studies to provide advice and evaluations of the probable effects of alternative solutions to these problems.

Reasons for Establishing Requirements. The duties of these positions cannot be performed without a sound basic knowledge of the principles, theories and concepts of mathematical, statistical, econometric, and other rigorous methods and techniques for professional scientific research. The duties of the positions require the application of highly technical scientific information and skills which can only be acquired through the successful completion of a course of study in an accredited college or university which has scientific libraries, well-equipped laboratories and thoroughly trained instructors, gives expert guidance, and evaluates progress completely.

LOW POWER FM BROADCAST TRANSLATOR STATIONS

Order Extending Time for Filing Comments and Reply Comments

In the matter of Amendment of Part 74 of the Commission's rules and regulations to permit the operation of low power FM broadcast translator stations.

1. In a notice of inquiry, released on February 8, 1967, in this proceeding (FCC 67-152), the Commission invited comments from interested parties on a proposal to permit the use of FM Broadcast Translators in a manner similar to the TV translators. The time for filing comments was given as April 5, 1967, and that for reply comments as April 20, 1967. In an order issued on April 13, 1967, these dates were extended until July 5, 1967, and July 20, 1967, respectively.

2. On June 28, 1967, Booth and Lovett, on behalf of various clients, filed a petition of time in this proceeding from July 5, 1967, to November 2, 1967 (120 days). Petitioner submits that they have been informed by their consulting engineers that they will not have sufficient time to complete the detailed engineering studies which are expected to be made, that the Commission desires as many comments as possible, and that no parties will be injured by the requested extension of time. We are of the view that good cause has been shown for an extension. However, we believe that an extension until September 5, 1967, should be sufficient time to prepare the contemplated submissions in view of the time alloted previously. Accordingly, it is ordered, That the time for filing comments in this proceeding is extended from July 5, 1967, to September 5, 1967, and that the time for filing reply comments is extended from July 20, 1967, to September 20, 1967.

3. This action is taken pursuant to authority found in sections 4(i), 5(d)(1), and 303(r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and § 0.281(d)(8) of the Commission's rules.

NORTH SHORE BROADCASTING CORP. (WESX)

Memorandum Opinion and Order Designating Application for Hearing on Stated Issues

In re application of North Shore Broadcasting Corp. (WESX), Salem, Mass., Docket No. 17560, File No. BP-16938; Has: 1230 kc, 250w, 1 kw-LS, DA-D, U, Class IV; Requests: 1230 kc, 250w, 1 kw-LS, U, Class IV; for construction permit.

1. The Commission has before it for consideration (a) the application of North Shore Broadcasting Corp., licensee of Station WESX, Salem, Mass., filed on September 24, 1965, for a construction permit to change from directional to omnidirectional operation; (b) a Petition to Deny, filed by Ottaway Stations, Inc., licensee of Class IV standard broadcast Station WOCB, West Yarmouth, Mass. (1240 kc, 250w, 1 kw-LS, U), on August 15, 1966; and (c) pleadings in opposition and reply thereto.

2. Presently, WESX causes interference to WOCB in an area situated 100 miles from West Yarmouth. Although the proposal would eliminate the aforementioned interference and result in a net decrease in interference, it would at the same time cause new interference to be received by WOCB approximately 7 or 8 miles from WOCB's transmitter site, an area in which it previously received no interference.

3. The petitioner contends that the creation of new interference constitutes a modification of its license within the purview of section 316 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

4. The applicant argues that the petitioner is without standing as a party in interest since the interference resulting from the proposal is not in contravention of the Commission's rules. It is North Shore's contention that § 73.37(d) of the Commission's rules stands for the proposition that the interference otherwise prohibited by § 73.37 of the rules will be tolerated when it is the result of a Class IV power increase, and stations receiving such interference are without standing to oppose a grant of such a request.

5. The applicant's contentions are without merit. Section 73.37 of the rules establishes acceptability criteria and was not intended to abrogate the substantive rights of interested parties. Contrary to the applicant's argument, § 73.37(d) includes within its body the phrase "if otherwise consistent with the public interest and subject to section 316 of the Communications Act * * *." It is quite evident from the foregoing that the Commission, in adopting the above rule, intends to preserve any rights a party might have under section 316 of the Act. Accordingly, the Commission finds that since a grant of the proposal would effect a modification of the WOCB license, the petitioner must be afforded the opportunity of showing why the modification should not take place. FCC v. National Broadcasting Co. (KOA), 319 U.S. 239 (1943).

6. The petitioner also points out that the majority stockholder of WESX (James D. Asher) is also the majority stockholder in Station WJDA, Quincy, Mass.,[1] and that a grant of the proposal would increase the area of existing 1 mv/m overlap between the two stations in contravention of § 73.35(a). However, Note 3 of § 76.36 specifically exempts applications for increased power for Class IV stations from the applicability of the overlap rule. Although this application is not, strictly speaking, one for increased power, we believe that the policy reason for the exception should also apply here, and that § 73.35(a) should be waived in this case.

7. Except as indicated by the issues specified below, the applicant is qualified to construct, own and operate as proposed, however, in view of the foregoing the Commission is unable to find that a grant of the application would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity and is of the opinion that it must be designated for hearing on the issues set forth below.

Accordingly, it is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(e) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the application is designated for hearing, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the proposed operation of Station WESX and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine whether the instant proposal would cause objectionable interference to Station WOCB, and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

3. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues, whether a grant of the instant application would serve the public interest, convenience and necessity.

It is further ordered, That § 73.35 of the Commission's rules is hereby waived.

It is further ordered, That the petition to deny by Ottaway Stations, Inc., is granted to the extent indicated above and is denied in all other respects.

It is further ordered, That Ottaway Stations, Inc., licensee of Station WOCB, West Yarmouth, Mass., is made a party to the proceeding.

It is further ordered, That, in the event of a grant of the application, the construction permit shall contain the following condition: Permittee shall accept such interference as may be imposed by other existing 250 watt Class IV stations in the event they are subsequently authorized to increase power to 1000 watts.

It is further ordered, That to avail themselves of the opportunity to be heard, the applicant and party respondent herein, pursuant to § 1.221(c) of the Commission's rules, in person or by attorney, shall within twenty (20) days of the mailing of this order, file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this order.

It is further ordered, That the applicant herein shall, pursuant to section 311(a)(2) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and § 1.594 of the Commission's rules, give notice of the hearing, within the time and in the manner prescribed in such rule, and shall advise the Commission of the publication of such notice as required by § 1.594(g) of the rules.

ORANGE NINE, INC., ET AL.

Memorandum Opinion and Order Enlarging Issues

In re applications of Orange Nine, Inc., Orlando, Fla., Docket No. 11661, File No. BPCT-1153; Mid-Florida Television Corp., Orlando, Fla., Docket No. 11663, File No. BPCT-1801; Central Nine Corp., Orlando, Fla., Docket No. 17339, File No. BPCT-3697; Florida Heartland Television, Inc., Orlando, Fla., Docket No. 17341, File No. BPCT-3737; Comint Corp., Orlando, Fla., Docket No. 17342, File No. BPCT-3738; TV 9, Inc., Orlando, Fla., Docket No. 17344, File No. BPCT-3740; for construction permit for new television broadcast station.

1. The above captioned mutually exclusive applications for a television station utilizing Channel 9 at Orlando, Fla., were designated for consolidated hearing by Commission order, FCC 67-416, released April 7, 1967, published in the FEDERAL REGISTER April 12, 1967.[3] The issues set forth in that order include among others a standard comparative issue. However, no provision was made for inquiry into the efforts made by each applicant to ascertain the programing needs and interests of the community nor was a comparative issue concerning proposed programing specified. Mid-Florida Television Corp. is presently operating a station on Channel 9 in Orlando, Fla., pursuant to temporary authority issued by the Commission in its order, FCC 66-1020, released November 19, 1965.[4] The Commission in that order provided an opportunity for the filing of other applications for the facility and spelled out that "this authorization shall be without prejudice to and constitutes no preference in any aspect of the proceeding to be held with respect to Channel 9 in Orlando, Fla." The other applicants in this proceeding filed their applications pursuant to the provisions of that order. On April 27, 1967, Mid-Florida and Central Nine Corp. filed petitions seeking to enlarge the issues to include issues with respect to ascertainment of programing needs and comparative programing.[5] These petitions are in each instance supported by the affidavit of a principal of the applicant who purports to have knowledge of the facts. Since the questions raised by both petitions are essentially the same, they will be treated jointly in this document.

ASCERTAINMENT OF NEED ISSUE

2. Mid-Florida in its petition argues that its 10 years' experience gives it a special knowledge of the needs of the community which it proposes to serve. Moreover, Mid-Florida argues that in 1966 it conducted an extensive survey which consisted of interviews with 150 area residents and civic leaders. It also notes that during the time its station has been on the air, it has had some 1,600 formal contacts with the public concerning the programing of its station. Mid-Florida further notes that it has examined the application files of all the other applicants in this proceeding and observed that, while some of them state that they have made surveys, they have not undertaken to specifically relate the results of the surveys to the proposed programing. Moreover, it notes that Orange Nine, Inc., Florida 9 Broadcasting Co., Howard A. Weiss, and Central Nine Corp. gave no indication in their applications that a survey to ascertain the programing needs of the community was made.[6]

3. Central Nine Corp. in its petition notes the absence of an ascertainment of need issue and points out that it conducted a survey utilizing the service of 22 persons who completed 1,749 telephonic interviews with persons residing in 14 different communities in the proposed service area. Furthermore, personal interviews were had with over 200 leaders of the various communities within the service area by Central Nine stockholders, and 10 luncheons which were attended by community leaders from 33 different communities within the service area were held by Central Nine to secure expressions of opinion concerning television programing for its proposed station. In addition to this, Central Nine monitored the existing stations in Orlando to ascertain the extent to which those stations are meeting

[3] The applications of Howard A. Weiss and Florida 9 Broadcasting Co. which were included in the original designation order were dismissed by order of the Examiner, FCC 67M-15, released May 17, 1967, and FCC 67M-905, released June 15, 1967.

[4] We need not detail the long history of litigation concerning the use of TV Channel 9 at Orlando, Fla. It is enough to say that this matter has been twice before the Circuit Court of Appeals for D.C. and once before the Supreme Court. The proceeding now before us stems from the most recent decision of the Court, WOKE v. FCC, 345 F. 2d 55 (1965).

[5] There are also before the Board, Comments of the Broadcast Bureau filed May 24, 1967; Oppositions filed by TV 9, Inc., and Comint Corp., May 10, 1967, and May 26, 1967, respectively; a partial opposition to the Mid-Florida petition filed by Central Nine Corp., May 26, 1967; and Replies filed by Mid-Florida and Central Nine Corp., June 6 and June 8, 1967, respectively.

[6] Weiss and Florida 9 Broadcasting have both dismissed their applications. Central Nine Corp. is a petitioner for an ascertainment of needs issue in this proceeding.

the needs of the community. Central Nine then observes that since the Commission has indicated that each applicant is expected to make an investigation of the needs of the community, such investigations must have been made by other applicants in the proceeding. It observes, however, that the extent of these investigations is not within its knowledge and that the extensive investigation which it had conducted is sufficient to warrant consideration in the comparative evaluation of the several applicants.

4. The applicants which opposed the Mid-Florida petition, including Central Nine Corp., all objected to consideration of any knowledge or experience which Mid-Florida might have acquired while operating Station WFTV in Orlando. They argue that its license to operate that station was terminated as a result of the Court's decision in WORZ, Inc. v. FCC, supra, and that because of dubious circumstances under which Mid-Florida acquired its license, no credit should accrue to it from that operation. This argument, we think, is beside the point.[1] Both Mid-Florida and Central Nine have shown that they have made extensive efforts to ascertain the needs of the community which they propose to serve and that there has been no comparable showing on the part of several other applicants. None of the other applicants used their opportunity to oppose the petition to amplify their showing concerning the effort they have made to ascertain community need. Thus, based on the showing before us, there appear to be significant differences among the several applicants as to the effort each has made to ascertain community needs. In view of these circumstances a comparative issue concerning the efforts each applicant has made to ascertain community need is warranted. See Chapman Radio and Television Co., FCC 67-234, released March 6, 1967, 7 FCC 2d 213.

THE COMPARATIVE PROGRAMING ISSUE

5. Mid-Florida has set forth with great care certain public interest programs which it believes meet the needs of Orlando. It has not, however, undertaken to show that those same needs will not be met by the proposals of the other applicants. It has also argued that there is a need for station editorialization. Mid-Florida observes that only it and three other applicants propose to editorialize daily, that one other applicant would editorialize once each week and the remaining three applicants have not proposed to editorialize at all. Two of the applications which did not reflect plans to editorialize have, since the instant petitions were filed, been dismissed. Thus only one of the remaining applications does not propose some editorialization.

[1] Mid-Florida's past broadcast offerings are irrelevant to a determination of whether there are differences between the applicants' program proposals, and we are not relying upon such past broadcast offerings in reaching our determination herein.

6. Central Nine bases its request for a comparative programing issue largely upon differences in the time percentages shown in the applications for the various categories of programing. It argues that it made an extensive survey of the needs of the community and that to meet those needs, it divided its time among the various categories of programing as indicated in its application. It points out particularly that it proposes to utilize 7.33 percent of its broadcast time for educational programing. In contrast it observes that one other applicant proposed as little as 0.8 percent educational programing and another applicant proposes only 1.2 percent educational programing. It notes other disparities in percentages of time to be devoted to the various types of programing.

7. The petitioners have alleged sufficient facts to indicate that there are substantial differences in the programing proposed by the various applicants and that those differences reflect the result of the petitioners' efforts to ascertain the needs of the community. This is particularly so with respect to Mid-Florida's proposal concerning daily editorialization with ample opportunity for presentation of opposing views and Central Nine's educational proposal. The petitions contain showings of sufficient differences to warrant the inclusion of a comparative programing issue. For as the Commission said in the Chapman Radio case, supra:

"* * * This showing need not approach the total evidentiary showing necessary at the hearing itself, nor need it be upon the basis of some absolute community need, but the petitioner should make such a showing as will indicate the relationship between his own ascertainment of community needs and interests and the reflection of those needs and interests in the substantially greater amount of time, effort and resources proposed to be devoted to certain of the categories of programing. In other words, a proponent of the programing issue should be required to make a prima facie showing that there are significant differences in the programing proposed and should relate his claimed substantial superiority in program planning to his ascertainment of community needs."

It is ordered, That the Petitions to Enlarge Issues, filed by Mid-Florida Television Corp. and Central Nine Corp., April 27, 1967, are granted, and the issues in the above-captioned proceeding are enlarged as follows:

(a) To determine on a comparative basis the significant differences among the applicants with respect to the efforts made by each applicant to ascertain the needs and interests of the community and area each proposes to serve; and

(b) To determine on a comparative basis the significant differences among the applicants with respect to their program proposals and the manner in which they propose to meet the needs and interests of the community and area each proposes to serve.

[Docket No. 17561; FCC 67-760]

SANFORD SCHAFITZ

Order Designating Application for Hearing on Stated Issues

In re application of Sanford Schafitz, Farrell, Pa., Docket No. 17561, File No. BPH-5281; Requests: 103.9mc, No. 280; 3 kw; 85 ft.; for construction permit.

1. The Commission has under consideration the above captioned and described application.

2. Following a hearing on the renewal applications for stations WWIZ, Lorain, Ohio, and WFAR, Farrell, Pa., the Commission concluded[1] that Schafitz had permitted an unauthorized transfer of control of Station WWIZ, had submitted false and misleading information, had withheld other information regarding that station and had shown a lack of licensee responsibility, as evidenced by his inattention to the station, and its operation in violation of Commission regulations. Having reached this conclusion regarding Schafitz's qualifications, the Commission revised the Examiner's Initial Decision (28 RR 239; released Mar. 6, 1963) and denied the renewal application for Station WWIZ.

3. Although the Commission simultaneously renewed the license of Station WFAR, such action did not carry the implication that Schafitz would be considered qualified to achieve an additional broadcast station. Rather, in view of the adverse conclusions referred to, supra, serious questions obtain regarding Schafitz's qualifications to construct and operate the proposed FM station. Accordingly, the application will be designated for hearing on appropriate issues.

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(e) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the application is designated for hearing at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine in light of the adverse conclusions regarding his lack of candor and licensee qualifications in connection with station WWIZ whether Sanford Schafitz is qualified to construct and operate the proposed FM station.

2. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issue, whether a grant of the application would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity.

It is further ordered, That to avail itself of the opportunity to be heard, the applicant, pursuant to § 1.221(c) of the Commission's rules, in person or by attorney shall, within twenty (20) days of the mailing of this order, file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this order.

It is further ordered, That the applicant herein shall, pursuant to section 311(a)(2) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and § 1.594 of the Commission's rules, give notice of the hearing, within the time and in the manner prescribed in such rule, and shall advise the Commission of the publication of such notice as required by § 1.594(g) of the rules.

2. The above-cited schedules contain new and increased charges for certain interstate communications services and the Commission is unable to determine from an examination of the above-cited tariff schedules whether the charges contained therein will be lawful under the Communications Act of 1934, as amended. If the above-cited tariff schedules are permitted to become effective on the date specified therein, the rights and interests of the public may be adversely affected thereby.

3. Accordingly, it is ordered, That, pursuant to sections 201, 202, 204, 205, and 403 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission shall enter upon a hearing and investigation concerning the lawfulness of the charges set forth in the above-cited tariff schedules and any amendments, cancellations, or successive issues thereof effected during the pendency of the investigation; and

(1) Whether the above-cited tariff schedules will subject any person or class of persons to unjust or unreasonable discrimination or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any person, class of persons or locality, or subject any person, class of persons or locality to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage within the meaning of section 202(a) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended;

(2) Whether any of the charges, classifications, regulations or practices contained in the above-cited tariff schedules are or will be unjust and unreasonable within the meaning of section 201(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended; and

(3) Whether the Commission should prescribe just and reasonable charges, classifications, regulations, and practices or the maximum or minimum or maximum and minimum charges to be hereafter followed with respect to the services governed by the tariff schedules herein suspended, and, if so, what charges, classifications, regulations, and practices should be prescribed.

6. It is further ordered, That, in the event a decision as to the lawfulness of the provisions suspended has not been made during the aforesaid suspension period, and said increased charges, practices, classifications, and regulations go into effect, The Western Union Telegraph Co. and its connecting said concurring carriers shall, until further ordered by the Commission, keep accurate account of all amounts received by reason of such increase specifying by whom and in whose behalf such amounts are paid, and upon completion of the hearing and decision therein the Commission may by further order require the refund thereof, with interest, pursuant to section 205 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended and the carrier shall file with the Commission a report on or before the 10th day of each calendar month, commencing November 10, 1967, showing the amounts accounted for as aforesaid during the previous calendar month; and

7. It is further ordered, That a copy of this order be filed in the offices of the Commission with said tariff schedules herein suspended; that The Western Union Telegraph Co. and all carriers listed in its Tariff FCC No. 211 as concurring carriers with respect to matters contained in said tariff schedules herein suspended are hereby made parties respondent to this proceeding; and that a copy hereof be served upon each such respondent; upon the agency of each State which has regulatory jurisdiction with respect to communications rates and services and the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners; and

8. It is further ordered, That a hearing be held in this proceeding at the Commission's offices in Washington, D.C., at a time to be specified, before a presiding officer to be designated hereafter who shall certify the record to the Commission, without preparation of an initial or recommended decision, and the Chief of the Common Carrier Bureau shall thereafter issue a recommended decision which shall be subject to the submittal of exceptions and requests for oral argument as provided in 47 CFR 1.276 and 1.277, after which the Commission shall issue its decision as provided in 47 CFR 1.283.

[Notice 1063]

MOTOR CARRIER, BROKER, WATER CARRIER AND FREIGHT FORWARDER APPLICATIONS

JULY 7, 1967.

The following applications are governed by Special Rule 1.247[1] of the Commission's general rules of practice (49 CFR, as amended), published in the FEDERAL REGISTER issue of April 20, 1966, effective May 20, 1966. These rules provide, among other things, that a protest to the granting of an application must be filed with the Commission within 30 days after date of notice of filing of the application is published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Failure seasonably to file a protest will be construed as a waiver of opposition and participation in the proceeding. A protest under these rules should comply with § 1.247(d)(3) of the rules of practice which requires that it set forth specifically the grounds upon which it is made, contain a detailed statement of protestant's interest in the proceeding (including a copy of the specific portions of its authority which protestant believes to be in conflict with that sought in the application, and describing in detail the method—whether by joinder, interline, or other means—by which protestant would use such authority to provide all or part of the service proposed), and shall specify with particularity the facts, matters, and things relied upon, but shall not include issues or allegations phrased generally. Protests not in reasonable compliance with the requirements of the rules may be rejected. The original and one copy of the protest shall be filed with the Commission, and a copy shall be served concurrently upon applicant's representative, or applicant if no representative is named. If the protest includes a request for oral hearing, such requests shall meet the requirements of § 1.247(d)(4) of the special rule, and shall include the certification required therein.

Title 3—THE PRESIDENT

Proclamation 3792

COPYRIGHT EXTENSION: GERMANY

By the President of the United States of America
A Proclamation

WHEREAS the President is authorized, in accordance with the conditions prescribed in Section 9 of Title 17 of the United States Code, which includes the provisions of the act of Congress approved March 4, 1909, 35 Stat. 1075, as amended by the act of September 25, 1941, 55 Stat. 732, to grant an extension of time for fulfillment of the conditions and formalities prescribed by the copyright laws of the United States of America, with respect to works first produced or published outside the United States of America and subject to copyright or to renewal of copyright under the laws of the United States of America, by nationals of countries which accord substantially equal treatment to citizens of the United States of America; and

WHEREAS satisfactory official assurances have been received that, since April 15, 1892, citizens of the United States have been entitled to obtain copyright in Germany for their works on substantially the same basis as German citizens without the need of complying with any formalities, provided such works secured protection in the United States; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to Article 2 of the Law No. 8, Industrial, Literary and Artistic Property Rights of Foreign Nations and Nationals, promulgated by the Allied High Commission for Germany on October 20, 1949, literary or artistic property rights in Germany owned by United States nationals at the commencement of or during the state of war between Germany and the United States of America which were transferred, seized, requisitioned, revoked or otherwise impaired by war measures, whether legislative, judicial or administrative, were, upon request made prior to October 3, 1950, restored to such United States nationals or their legal successors; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to Article 5 of the aforesaid law, any literary or artistic property right in Germany owned by a United States national at the commencement of or during the state of war between Germany and the United States of America was, upon request made prior to October 3, 1950, extended in term for a period corresponding to the inclusive time from the date of the commencement of the state of war, or such later date on which such right came in existence, to September 30, 1949; and

WHEREAS, by virtue of a proclamation by the President of the United States of America dated May 25, 1922, 42 Stat. 2271, German citizens are and have been entitled to the benefits of the act of Congress approved March 4, 1909, 35 Stat. 1075, as amended, including the benefits of Section 1(e) of the aforementioned Title 17 of the United States Code; and

WHEREAS, a letter of February 6, 1950, from the Chancellor of the Federal Republic of Germany to the Chairman of the Allied High Commission for Germany established the mutual understanding that reciprocal copyright relations continued in effect between the Federal Republic of Germany and the United States of America:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, LYNDON B. JOHNSON, President of the United States of America, by virtue of the authority vested in me by Section 9 of Title 17 of the United States Code, do declare and proclaim:

(1) That, with respect to works first produced or published outside the United States of America: (a) where the work was subject to copyright under the laws of the United States of America on or after September 3, 1939, and on or before May 5, 1956, by an author or other owner who was then a German citizen; or (b) where the work was subject to renewal of copyright under the laws of the United States of America on or after September 3, 1939, and on or before May 5, 1956, by an author or other person specified in Sections 24 and 25 of the aforesaid Title 17 who was then a German citizen, there has existed during several years of the aforementioned period such disruption and suspension of facilities essential to compliance with conditions and formalities prescribed with respect to such works by the copyright law of the United States of America as to bring such works within the terms of Section 9(b) of the aforesaid Title 17; and

(2) That, in view of the reciprocal treatment accorded to citizens of the United States by the Federal Republic of Germany, the time within which persons who are presently German citizens may comply with such conditions and formalities with respect to such works is hereby extended for one year after the date of this proclamation.

It shall be understood that the term of copyright in any case is not and cannot be altered or affected by this proclamation. It shall also be understood that, as provided by Section 9(b) of Title 17, United States Code, no liability shall attach under that title for lawful uses made or acts done prior to the effective date of this proclamation in connection with the above-described works, or with respect to the continuance for one year subsequent to such date of any business undertaking or enterprise lawfully undertaken prior to such date involving expenditure or contractual obligation in connection with the exploitation, production, reproduction, circulation or performance of any such works.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this twelfth day of July in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and sixty-seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and ninety-second.

Proclamation 3793

CAPTIVE NATIONS WEEK, 1967

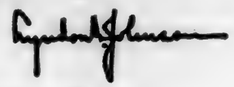
By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

WHEREAS the joint resolution approved July 17, 1959 (73 Stat. 212), authorizes and requests the President of the United States of America to issue a proclamation each year designating the third week in July as "Captive Nations Week" until such time as freedom and independence shall have been achieved for all the captive nations of the world; and

WHEREAS freedom and justice are basic human rights to which all men are entitled; and

WHEREAS the independence of peoples requires their exercise of the elemental right of free choice; and



WHEREAS these inalienable rights have been circumscribed or denied in many areas of the world; and

WHEREAS the United States of America, from its founding as a nation has had an abiding commitment to the principles of national independence and human freedom:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, LYNDON B. JOHNSON, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate the week beginning July 16, 1967 as Captive Nations Week.

I invite the people of the United States of America to observe this week with appropriate ceremonies and activities, and I urge them to give renewed devotion to the just aspirations of all peoples for national independence and human liberty.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this twelfth day of July in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and sixty-seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and ninety-second.

Title 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter VIII—Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (Sugar), Department of Agriculture

SUBCHAPTER B—SUGAR REQUIREMENTS AND QUOTAS

[Sugar Reg. 817, Amdt. 5]

PART 817—REQUIREMENTS RELATING TO BRINGING OR IMPORTING SUGAR OR LIQUID SUGAR INTO CONTINENTAL UNITED STATES

Limitations on the Importation of Sugar-Containing Products or Mixtures

Basis and purpose and basis and considerations. Pursuant to section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended (7 U.S.C. 624), the President issued Proclamation 3790 dated June 30, 1967, which among other things established quantity import limitations for 1967 on butterfat containing products. The regulations issued under the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended, limiting the importation of products containing sugar and butterfat are subject to the quantity import limitations on butterfat containing products imposed by Presidential Proclamations issued pursuant to section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended. The purpose of this amendment is to correlate such regulations with the import limitations on butterfat containing products established by such Presidential Proclamations.

Pursuant to authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture by the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended (61 Stat. 922, as amended), § 817.10 paragraph (d) is amended by amending the second sentence thereof, preceding the tabulation of countries, to read as follows:

§ 817.10 Sugar-containing products and mixtures.

* * * * *

(d) * * * The total quantity of all such products or mixtures which may be imported during the calendar year 1967 from each of the following countries shall not exceed the amount stated as follows for such country, except that the total quantity of products or mixtures containing butterfat which may be imported from a foreign country is also subject to the quantity import limitations on butterfat containing products imposed by Presidential Proclamations issued pursuant to section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended (7 U.S.C. 624). * * *

(Sec. 403, 61 Stat. 932; 7 U.S.C. 1153; sec. 906; 61 Stat. 927 as amended by P.L. 89-331, 79 Stat. 1277)

Effective date. Since this amendment merely correlates regulations with governing provisions of Presidential Proclamations, it is found and determined that compliance with the notice, public procedure and 30-day effective date requirements in 5 U.S.C. 553 is unnecessary and this amendment shall become effective when filed for public inspection in the Office of the Federal Register.

Signed at Washington, D.C., this 10th day of July 1967.

ORVILLE L. FREEMAN,
Secretary.

Title 14—AERONAUTICS AND SPACE

Chapter I—Federal Aviation Administration, Department of Transportation

SUBCHAPTER C—AIRCRAFT

[Docket No. 7886; Amdt. 39-449]

PART 39—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

Pilatus Model PC-6 Series Airplanes Serial Numbers to 620

A proposal to amend Part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations to include an airworthiness directive requiring inspection and repair, where necessary, of the elevator attachment brackets on the Pilatus Model PC-6 Series airplanes, serial numbers to 620 was published in 32 F.R. 614.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the amendment. Although no objections were received, the FAA has determined that the requirement that the "repair" referred to in the AD be accomplished by modifying the part in accordance with Pilatus Service Bulletin No. 67 is too restrictive and that other equivalent methods can be used. Therefore, the AD has been revised to provide that a cracked part may be replaced with a new or used uncracked part or may be modified in accordance with the service bulletin, in which event the inspection may be discontinued.

Inasmuch as these changes provide an alternative means of compliance and impose no additional burden on any person, further notice and public procedures are not required.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (25 F.R. 6489), § 39.13 of Part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

PILATUS. Applies to all Models PC-6 airplanes, Serial Numbers to 620.

Compliance required as indicated.

To detect cracks of the elevator attachment bracket, Part No. 6300.11, accomplish the following:

(a) Within the next 50 hours' time in service after the effective date of this AD, unless already accomplished within the last 50 hours' time in service, and thereafter at intervals not to exceed 100 hours' time in service from the last inspection, visually inspect the elevator attachment bracket, P/N 6300.11, for cracks between the welded seams.

(b) If cracks are detected during the inspection required by paragraph (a), before further flight either replace the defective part with a new or used uncracked part of the same part number or modify the part in accordance with Pilatus Service Bulletin No. 67 or later Swiss Federal Air office-approved issue, or an FAA-approved equivalent.

(c) The repetitive inspections required by paragraph (a) of this AD may be discontinued after the elevator attachment bracket is modified in accordance with Piketa Service Bulletin No. 67 or later Swiss Federal Air office-approved issue, or an FAA-approved equivalent.

This amendment becomes effective August 13, 1967.

(Secs. 313(a), 601, and 603 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958; 49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1421, and 1423)

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 6, 1967.

EDWARD C. HODSON,
Acting Director,
Flight Standards Service.

On page 6846 of the FEDERAL REGISTER dated May 4, 1967, the Federal Aviation Administration published a notice of proposed rule making which would amend § 71.171 of Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations so as to alter the control zone at Milwaukee, Wis. (Timmerman Airport).

Interested persons were given 45 days to submit written comments, suggestions or objections regarding the proposed amendment.

No objections have been received and the proposed amendment is hereby adopted without change and is set forth below.

This amendment shall be effective 0001 e.s.t., September 14, 1967.

This amendment is made under the authority of section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1348).

Issued in Kansas City, Mo., on June 27, 1967.

DANIEL E. BARROW,
Acting Director, Central Region.

PART 71—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS, CONTROLLED AIRSPACE, AND REPORTING POINTS

Alteration of Transition Area

On May 25, 1967, F.R. Doc. 67-5814 was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (32 F.R. 7634), which altered the 1,200 foot portion of the Alamosa, Colo., transition area.

Interested persons were given 30 days in which to submit written comments, suggestions, or objections regarding the proposed alteration. No objections were received and the amendment as so proposed is hereby adopted subject to the following changes:

In consideration of the foregoing, the description of the Alamosa, Colo., transition area as contained in F.R. Doc. 67-5814 (32 F.R. 7634) is changed by deleting "* * * T * * " in the seventh line, " * * (326° M) * * " in the eighth line, " * * T (114° M) * * " and " * * T (294° * * " in the 11th line, and " * * M) * * *" in the 12th line.

Since this correction is editorial in nature and imposes no additional burden on any person, compliance with section 4 of the Administrative Procedures Act (5 U.S.C. section 553) is unnecessary.

Effective date. This amendment is effective 0001 e.s.t., September 14, 1967.

(Sec. 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended; 72 Stat. 749; 49 U.S.C. 1348)

Issued in Los Angeles, Calif., on June 29, 1967.

A. E. HORNING,
Acting Director, Western Region.

In § 71.181 (32 F.R. 2148) the Alamosa, Colo., transition area is amended by deleting all after "* * *" that airspace extending upward from 1,200 feet above the surface * * *", and substituting therefor, "within 7 miles west and 11 miles east of the Alamosa VORTAC 339° radial, extending from the VORTAC to 33 miles north, within 8 miles northeast and 5 miles southwest of the 127° and 307° radials, extending from 3 miles northwest to 12 miles southeast of the VORTAC."

PART 71—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS, CONTROLLED AIRSPACE, AND REPORTING POINTS

Alteration and Revocation of Transition Area

Interested persons were given 45 days to submit written comments, suggestions or objections regarding the proposed amendments.

No objections have been received and the amendments as so proposed are hereby adopted, subject to the following changes:

(1) The Civic Memorial Airport, Alton, Ill., coordinates recited in the St. Louis, Mo., transition area redesignation as "latitude 38°53'28" N., longitude 90°03'02" W." are changed to read "latitude 38°53'30" N., longitude 90°03'00" W."

PART 71—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS, CONTROLLED AIRSPACE, AND REPORTING POINTS

Alteration of Transition Area

The purpose of this amendment to Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is to alter the Minneapolis, Minn., transition area.

On July 20, 1967, VOR Federal airway No. 26 will be realigned west of Eau Claire, Wis. This realigned airway segment will completely overlie the 5,000-foot MSL floor transition area east of Minneapolis and will provide the necessary controlled airspace protection presently afforded by the Minneapolis 5,000-foot MSL floor transition area east of Minneapolis. Therefore, alteration of the Minneapolis transition area is necessary to delete this airspace from the transition area designation since it is no longer required.

Since the proposed alteration will reduce the existing designated Minneapolis, Minn., transition area, it will not impose any additional burden on any person. Therefore, notice and public procedure hereon are unnecessary.

In consideration of the foregoing, Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended effective 0001 e.s.t., July 20, 1967, as hereinafter set forth:

In § 71.181 (32 F.R. 2148), the Minneapolis, Minn., transition area is amended by deleting the portion which reads: "and that airspace extending upward from 5,000 feet MSL E of Minneapolis bounded on the SE by V-26, on the SW by V-2N, and on the N by V-78."

(Sec. 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958; 49 U.S.C. 1348)

Issued in Kansas City, Mo., on June 26, 1967.

DANIEL E. BARROW,
Acting Director, Central Region.

PART 71—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS, CONTROLLED AIRSPACE, AND REPORTING POINTS

Designation and Alteration of Transition Area

On Pages 6846 and 6847 of the FEDERAL REGISTER dated May 4, 1967, the Federal Aviation Administration published a notice of proposed rule making which would amend section 71.181 of Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations so as to designate a transition area at Cloquet, Minn., and alter the transition area at Duluth, Minn.

Interested persons were given 45 days to submit written comments, suggestions, or objections regarding the proposed amendments.

No objections have been received and the amendments as so proposed are hereby adopted, subject to the following changes:

(1) The Cloquet Municipal Airport coordinates recited in the Cloquet, Minn., transition area designation as "latitude 46°42'02" N., longitude 92°30'23" W." are changed to read "latitude 46°42'05" N., longitude 92°30'20" W."

(2) The Duluth International Airport coordinates recited in the Duluth, Minn., transition area redesignation as "latitude 46°50'28" N., longitude 92°11'35" W." are changed to read "latitude 46°50'30" N., longitude 92°11'25" W."

These amendments shall be effective 0001 e.s.t., September 14, 1967.

(Sec. 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958; 49 U.S.C. 1348)

Issued in Kansas City, Mo., on June 28, 1967.

DANIEL E. BARROW,
Acting Director, Central Region.

(1) Designate the Cloquet, Minn., transition area as that airspace extending upward from 700 feet above the surface within a 5-mile radius of Cloquet Municipal Airport (latitude 46°42'05" N., longitude 92°30'20" W.); and within 2 miles each side of the Duluth, Minn., VOR 244° radial, extending from the 5-mile radius area southwest to 22 miles southwest of the VOR.

(2) Redesignate the Duluth, Minn., transition area as that airspace extending upward from 700 feet above the surface within a 6-mile radius of Duluth International Airport (latitude 46°50'30" N., longitude 92°11'25" W.); within 2 miles each side of the Duluth VOR 023° radial, extending from the 6-mile radius area to 18 miles northeast of the VOR; and within 2 miles each side of the Duluth ILS localizer west course, extending from the 6-mile radius area to 8 miles west of the OM; and that airspace extending upward from 1,200 feet above the surface within a 35-mile radius of Duluth International Airport; within a 34-mile radius of the Duluth VOR; and within 8 miles northwest and 5 miles southeast of the Duluth VOR 051° radial, extending from the 35-mile radius area to 41 miles northeast of the VOR; excluding the portion which overlies the Hibbing, Minn., transition area.

PART 73—SPECIAL USE AIRSPACE

Revocation of Restricted Area

The purpose of this amendment to Part 73 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is to revoke Restricted Area/Military Climb Corridor R-3902, Limestone, Maine.

The Department of the Air Force has advised the Federal Aviation Administration that satisfactory radar departure procedures have been developed to replace the Loring Air Force Base, Limestone, Maine, Restricted Area/Military Climb Corridor. For this reason, action is taken herein to revoke R-3902.

At the same time, similar action will be taken by the Flight Standards and Regulations Division, Civil Aviation Branch, Department of Transport, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada, to revoke that portion of R-3902 that extends into Canada. The Canadian portion is designated as C7R22.

Since this amendment is less restrictive to the public, notice and public procedure hereon are unnecessary, and the amendment may be made effective on less than 30 days' notice.

In consideration of the foregoing, Part 73 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended, effective July 15, 1967, as hereinafter set forth.

In § 73.39 (32 F.R. 2313) Restricted Area R-3902 at Limestone, Maine, is revoked.

(Sec. 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958; 49 U.S.C. 1348)

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 6, 1967.

Acting Director,
Air Traffic Service.

SUBCHAPTER F—AIR TRAFFIC AND GENERAL OPERATING RULES

[Reg. Docket No. 8367; Amdt. 844]

PART 97—STANDARD INSTRUMENT APPROACH PROCEDURES

Miscellaneous Amendments

The amendments to the standard instrument approach procedures contained herein are adopted to become effective when indicated in order to promote safety. The amended procedures supersede the existing procedures of the same classification now in effect for the airports specified therein. For the convenience of the users, the complete procedure is republished in this amendment indicating the changes to the existing procedures.

As a situation exists which demands immediate action in the interests of safety in air commerce, I find that compliance with the notice and procedure provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act is impracticable and that good cause exists for making this amendment effective within less than 30 days from publication.

In view of the foregoing and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 5662), Part 97 (14 CFR Part 97) is amended as follows:

1. By amending the following automatic direction finding procedures prescribed in § 97.11(b) to read:

Title 22—FOREIGN RELATIONS

Chapter V—United States Information Agency

PART 502—WORLD-WIDE FREE FLOW (EXPORT-IMPORT) OF AUDIO-VISUAL MATERIALS

The following material replaces §§ 502.1–502.14 of Title 22 of the Code of Federal Regulations and will constitute Part 502 thereof.

Sec.
502.1 Summary; general.
502.2 Implementing statute and Executive Order.

502.4 Consultation of experts.
502.5 Review and appeal.

AUTHORITY: The provisions of this Part 502 are issued under R.S. 161, 5 U.S.C. 301; 22 U.S.C. 1431 et seq.; Pub. Law 89-634 of Oct. 8, 1966; E.O. 11311 of Oct. 14, 1966.

§ 502.1 Summary; general.

(a) The "Audio-Visual Agreement" (short title), also known as the "Beirut Agreement of 1948", is a multi-nation treaty with the formal title, "Agreement for Facilitating the International Circulation of Visual and Auditory Materials of an Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Character".[1] United States acceptance of this treaty was proclaimed by President Johnson and deposited with the United Nations on October 14, 1966, and formal operations by the United States under the Agreement commenced January 12, 1967. Initial implementation of the treaty by the United States was effected by Public Law 89-634 of October 8, 1966, and Executive Order 11311 of October 14, 1966, and it is further implemented by these regulations. The U.S. Information Agency has been designated by the President to carry out the Agreement for the United States. Export certification, import certificate authentication, rulings, and information, respecting the Agreement may be obtained from the International Communications Media Staff (IMV/C), U.S. Information Agency, Washington, D.C. 20547.

(b) This treaty facilitates the free flow of educational audio-visual materials between nations, by eliminating import duties, import licenses, special taxes, quantitative restrictions and other restraints and costs, by shipment under an international certificate. Each government may issue such certificates as to materials for which basic ownership is in said country. The material must be primarily educational as to its nature and usefulness (see § 502.6(a)(3)). The term "audio-visual" is defined as embracing the categories exemplified by film prints, motion picture film, filmstrips, videotape, sound recordings, sound/picture recordings, models, charts, posters, maps, globes, slides, and the like.

§ 502.2 Implementing statute and Executive Order.

(a) Public Law 89-634 (10/8/66) amends Schedule 8 of the Tariff Schedules of the United States, as follows:

(1) After the heading to Part 6, insert:

"Part 6 Headnote:

"1. No article shall be exempted from duty under item 870.30 unless a Federal agency or agencies designated by the President determines that such article is visual or auditory material of an educational, scientific, or cultural character within the meaning of the Agreement for Facilitating the International Circulation of Visual and Auditory Materials of an Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Character. Whenever the President determines that there is or may be profit-making exhibition or use of articles described in item 870.30 which interferes significantly (or threatens to interfere significantly) with domestic production of similar articles, he may prescribe regulations imposing restrictions on the entry of such foreign articles to insure that they will be exhibited or used only for nonprofitmaking purposes."

(2) At the end of Part 6, add this new item:

"870.30 Developed photographic film, including motion-picture film on which pictures or sound and pictures have been recorded; photographic slides; transparencies; sound recordings; recorded videotape; models; charts; maps; globes; and posters; all of the foregoing which are determined to be visual or auditory materials in accordance with headnote 1 of this part ------ Rates of Duty (1), Free; Rates of Duty (2), Free."

(b) Executive Order 11311, "Carrying out Provisions of the Beirut Agreement of 1948 Relating to Audio-visual Materials" provides:

"By virtue of the authority vested in me as President of the United States, including the provisions of the Joint Resolution of October 8, 1966, Public Law 89-634, and section 301 of Title 3 of the United States Code, I hereby order and proclaim that—

"Pursuant to the 'Agreement for Facilitating the International Circulation of Visual and Auditory Materials of an Educational, Scientific and Cultural Character', made at Beirut in 1948, the Joint Resolution, and headnote 1 to schedule 8, part 6 of the Tariff Schedules of the United States, the United States Information Agency is hereby designated as the agency to carry out the provisions of the Agreement and related protocol, and to make any determinations and to prescribe any regulations required by headnote 1."

(c) Public Law 89-634 further provides:

"It shall be the duty of the Federal agency or agencies so designated to take appropriate measures for the carrying out of the provisions of the Agreement including the issuance of regulations.

"Sec. 2. Agencies of the Federal Government are authorized to furnish facilities and personnel for the purpose of assisting the agency or agencies designated by the President in carrying out the provisions of the Agreement."

§ 502.3 Procedures.

(a) Applicant: An "Applicant" is (1) the U.S. holder of "basic rights" in materials he submits for export certification, (2) the holder of a foreign certificate or his exporter or U.S. importer or the agent of any of them as to materials proposed for import to the United States, or (3) the U.S. consignee of materials proposed for U.S. import under a foreign certificate. Any "Applicant" may request USIA to certify materials for export or to authenticate a foreign certificate for import of materials.

(b) Imports: Educational / informational audio-visual materials, as identified in the Substantive Criteria of the regulations in this part, are permitted duty-free entry into the United States upon authentication by the United States Information Agency of the Certificate of the Government of the country wherein basic ownership is held, or of the certificate of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), attesting the educational/informational character of such materials within the meaning of the "Agreement", and compliance with applicable Customs entry procedures (see 19 CFR 10.121).

(c) In order to establish qualification for entry into the United States under the provisions of Tariff Item 870.30, the Applicant shall forward the foreign certificate directly to:

International Communications Media Staff (IMV/C), U.S. Information Agency, Washington, D.C. 20547.

(d) Upon affirmative determination by the U.S. Information Agency as to the qualification of the certified articles for such entry, the Applicant will be advised of the determination, and be provided with an authenticating document for presentation with the related Customs documentation at the Port of Entry, for duty-free clearance under Item 870.30.

(e) If for any reason the U.S. Information Agency is unable to accept and authenticate a foreign certificate, the Applicant will be promptly so notified, together with either (1) request for additional information or (2) the reasons why the certificate cannot be accepted. Qualification or non-qualification of material for entry under Tariff Item 870.30 does not affect its eligibility for entry under other laws of the United States.

(f) Exports: U.S. educational/informational audio-visual materials, as identified in the Substantive Criteria of these Regulations, may, if eligible as provided herein, be certified by the U.S. Information Agency as being "of international educational character," and thus entitled to special import privileges such as duty-free entry abroad in "Beirut countries" (see § 502.7 on history and background, for a list of the countries where there is formal and informal participation under the Beirut Agreement).

(g) For general information and application forms, Applicants should write to:

International Communications Media Staff (IMV/C), U.S. Information Agency, Washington, D.C. 20547.

Applicants seeking certification of materials, should send to the same office, the following:

(1) A completed Application for each subject or series to be certified.

(2) A notarized document evidencing Applicant's basic ownership or right in the materials.

(3) A description of the content of the material (where appropriate and feasible attachments should be included, such as narrations, captions, advertising leaflets, catalogs, etc.; indicate clearly if these attachments are to be returned to the Applicant).

(4) Copies or examples of the materials, if feasible; same to be transmitted prepaid, and will be returned promptly (the question can be discussed with the Agency preliminarily if transmittal seems infeasible due to bulk, fragility or large quantities, or because excessive cost would be involved; one item may serve as an example of a series, or the Agency may have reviewed the material previously in another context).

(h) It is anticipated that action of the Agency on a certification request will usually take about 2 weeks. If a longer interval is expected, the Agency will send the Applicant an interim acknowledgment indicating the action time estimated.

(i) Upon certification, the Applicant will receive the original Certificate and four signed copies. The Applicant should retain the original, so that he may reproduce it by photocopying, to service his future needs in connection with subsequent shipments of identical copies of the same material. A copy of the Certificate should accompany each shipment abroad, but further instructions may be available from the foreign importer.

(j) If for any reason the Agency is unable to certify the materials, the Applicant will be promptly so notified, together with either (1) a request for additional information or (2) the reasons why the certificate cannot be issued. Qualification or non-qualification of material under the Beirut Agreement does not affect the right of export, nor the right of foreign import under other laws.

§ 502.4 Consultation of experts.

(a) The Chief Attestation Officer of the United States (International Communications Media Staff, U.S.I.A.—IMV/C) and the Attestation Officers under his supervision will routinely and continuously receive Agency policy and legal guidance, and protests of Applicants will be reviewed by the Review Board and by the Agency's Director as provided below. The Chief Attestation Officer and his staff will regularly consult experts throughout the Agency and throughout the Government whenever the examination of materials (for certification or authentication) indicates the desirability of substantive expertise in making a fair evaluation. Whenever appropriate, and whenever requested by an Applicant, experts who have been consulted will be available for discussions with the Applicant.

(b) In addition to such ad hoc consultation of experts, a regular group of advisors exists as a standing committee to advise this program, both as to broad policy and to evaluate specific materials; this is the Interdepartmental Committee on Visual and Auditory Materials for Distribution Abroad, and its Attestation Subcommittee. The Committee is composed of members representing the Department of State, U.S. Information Agency, Agriculture Department, Atomic Energy Commission, Commerce Department, Defense Department, Department of the Army, Department of the Navy, Department of the Air Force, the Marine Corps, Federal Aviation Agency, General Services Administration, Health, Education and Welfare Department, Education Department, Library of Congress, National Aeronautics and Space Administration, National Gallery of Art, National Science Foundation, Treasury Department, and the Veterans Administration.

§ 502.5 Review and appeal.

(a) A Review Board for import and export rulings under this Program consists (within USIA) of three members, appointed by the Director, USIA.

(b) Any Applicant may ask for formal review of any ruling of a USIA Attestation Officer. The request for review must be made in writing and addressed to the—supported by such data and arguments as he wishes to be considered. If the Applicant wishes the Review Board to screen or examine the materials in question, he should so state and, as to exports, arrange to furnish such materials to the Review Board. The Review Board will render the Applicant a written decision, reversing, modifying or affirming the ruling of the Attestation Officer.

Review Board for the International Audio-Visual Program (IMV/C), U.S. Information Agency, Washington, D.C. 20547.

(c) The Applicant may make written appeal to the Director, USIA, from any decision furnished him by the Review Board, provided his Appeal is received by the Agency within 30 days after his receipt of the Review Board decision. The Director will personally review the Agency record of the case, or will advise the Applicant that he is appointing a Designee to do so. In either event, the Director will furnish the Applicant his written decision on the appeal, which shall constitute final administrative action on the case.

§ 502.6 Substantive criteria.

(a) For both exports and imports, the Agency applies the criteria set forth in the "Agreement for Facilitating the International Circulation of Visual and Auditory Materials of an Educational, Scientific and Cultural Character" (adopted at the Third Session, General Conference of UNESCO, Beirut, 1948), viz:

(1) Audio-visual materials are those exemplified by the following types and forms: developed and/or printed films, filmstrips and microfilm; sound recordings; slides, models, charts, maps, and posters. They include but are not limited to: Motion pictures, videotapes, transparencies, and combinations of sound/picture and sound/printing.

(2) The country wherein the material originated shall be taken to mean, or shall include, the country of "basic ownership" of the material. The country of basic ownership is not necessarily the country of photography or the country of production, nor does it necessarily mean the country where irrevocable reproduction and distribution rights are held; these factors are considered in determining the country of basic ownership.

(3) Audio-visual materials shall be deemed to be of international educational character:

When their primary purpose or effect is to instruct or inform through the development of a subject or aspect of a subject, or when their content is such as to maintain, increase or diffuse knowledge and augment international understanding and good will;

When the materials are representative, authentic, and accurate; and

When the technical quality is such that it does not interfere with the use made of the material.

(b) Interpretation of criteria: (Though neither purposely selective on the one hand nor comprehensive on the other, the following relate to some of the problem areas most frequently encountered.)

(1) The Agency does not certify or authenticate materials the primary purpose or effect of which is to amuse or entertain.

(2) The Agency does not certify or authenticate materials the primary purpose of which is to inform concerning timely current events (newsreels, newscasts, other forms of "spot news").

(3) The Agency does not certify or authenticate materials which by special pleading attempt to influence opinion, conviction or policy (religious, economic, or political propaganda), to espouse a cause, to inculcate any dogma, to constitute a ritual or denominational service, or conversely, when they seem to attack a particular persuasion. Visual and auditory materials intended for use only in denominational programs of moral and religious education and which otherwise meet the criteria set forth under paragraph (a) of this section, may be determined eligible for certification in the judgment of the Agency.

(4) The Agency does not certify or authenticate materials the purpose or effect of which is to stimulate the use of a special process or products to advertise a particular organization or individual, or to raise funds. The Agency considers that an incidental appeal of this sort does not invalidate the educational character of material, such as when the appeal is for service or help in non-competitive, voluntary cooperative participation in public services and does not involve contributions of money or marketable commodities. Normal credits or mention of a sponsor or product are usually deemed "incidental" in this sense; the degree and purpose of advertising may be considered in this connection. In no event, however, will materials be considered eligible which make categorical claims of exclusivity.

(5) The Agency does not regard as augmenting international understanding or good will and cannot certify or authenticate any material which may lend itself to misinterpretation, or misrepresentation of the United States or other countries, their peoples or institutions, or which appear to have as their purpose or effect to attack or discredit economic, religious, or political views or practices.

(6) The Agency does not certify or authenticate any materials which have not in fact already been produced at the time of application.

(c) Classes of material:

(1) Motion picture films, filmstrips and microfilm in exposed and developed negative form, or in positive form, viz., masters or prints; teletranscriptions; kinescopes; videotape, and prints therefrom.

(2) Electronic sound recordings and sound/picture recordings of all types and forms; pressings and transfers of same.

(3) Photographs, transparencies and slides; models, static and moving; charts, globes, maps and posters.

(4) Recorded music may be considered, the Agency recognizing that certain music recordings have as their primary purpose or effect "to instruct or inform" and do otherwise conform to the above requirements. In considering recorded music for which certification or authentication is requested, the Agency may be guided by evidence in the recordings or in collateral submitted material, such as teaching guides, etc., which support the educational or informational purpose or effect of the recordings.

(d) Application of criteria:

(1) The Agency has, as its general approach to certification and authentication, the desire to facilitate, in so far as appropriate, the international circulation of visual and auditory materials. However, the Agency in appraising materials submitted will consider their purpose or effect in relation to their intended educational level, and will exercise its judgment in determining whether the content of the material is of sufficient substance to maintain, increase or diffuse knowledge of the subject it covers, at the intended educational level.

(2) The Agency will avoid the certification or authentication of classes of materials which it believes participating countries would be unwilling to admit free of duty under the terms of the Agreement.

(e) Assistance without certification: The Agency may, in its discretion, issue a letter or other document to facilitate the shipment to a specific country (or countries) of materials intended for specialised or limited use in an educational, scientific or cultural context, if for any technical reason the material may not be eligible for general certification. The users and nature of the intended use abroad of such material must be clearly established by the Applicant if this assistance "outside the treaty" is to be considered; of course, facilitation of entry comparable to the Beirut standards is not obligatory on the importing nation under this extraordinary procedure.

§ 502.7 History and background.

(a) Educators and producers/distributors of educational/informational materials—particularly those items coming to be known as "audio-visual"—noticed with respect to international commerce in such materials that the tariff and customs laws extant in several countries provided for duty-free, accelerated entry of same if the nature of the materials was satisfactorily established. In order to take advantage of that existing situation, the Geneva Convention of 1933 and the Buenos Aires Convention of 1936 were drafted to provide for a technique of certified shipments as to this international commerce. However, the United States did not join either convention: Geneva, because the procedure was thought to be impractical since it involved the initial shipment of all materials to a commission located in Italy that was to issue all certificates; Buenos Aires, because of the manner of handling propaganda materials.

(b) In 1938, the U.S. Department of State established the policy of this Government to assist in every appropriate way the circulation abroad of American visual and auditory materials, and in 1942 implemented that policy by beginning to certify American audio-visual materials as to their educational/informational nature, to facilitate their shipment and probable duty-free entry abroad. The program was further developed in 1946 by establishment of an interdepartmental committee on attestation, in order to give attestation officers the benefit of government-wide expertise in the reviewing of motion pictures and other audio-visual materials.

(c) Most of the objections to the Geneva and Buenos Aires treaties were overcome in the drafting of the Beirut Agreement of 1948 through the device of certification by an agency of the government of the country of origin of the materials. That treaty has since 1948 been the guide for all U.S.A. export certification. Although delayed in ratification and in the passage of implementing legislation, the U.S.A. has now become a full partner in Beirut, so that (effective January 12, 1967) imports under foreign certificate move in duty-free for the first time.

(d) On August 1, 1953, with the creation of the U.S. Information Agency, this attestation program was transferred to USIA, where it has continued without interruption. As of January 1, 1967, the U.S. Government had issued over 26,000 certificates covering an estimated 175,000 items of visual and auditory materials (a number of the certificates cover a series of items), and over 3,000 different Applicants had submitted materials for export certification. The number of times a certificate is re-used for subsequent shipments of additional copies of the same item is, of course, unknown.

(e) Beirut program countries are as follows:

(1) Formally participating.

U.S.A.	Iraq.
Brazil.	Malagasy Republic.
Cambodia.	Norway.
Canada.	Pakistan.
Denmark.	The Philippines.
Ghana.	El Salvador.
Greece.	Syria.
Haiti.	Yugoslavia.
Iran.	Trinidad and Tobago.

(2) Informally participating. (USIA has reason to believe—judging from actual practice reported—that USIA certificates have a significantly salutary effect upon the waiver of duties and expediting of imports into these countries.)

Ceylon.	New Zealand.
Costa Rica.	Nicaragua.
Dominican Republic.	Nigeria.
Surinam.	Panama.
Ecuador.	Rhodesia.
Guatemala.	Spain.[1]
India.	Sweden.
Ireland.	Taiwan.
Italy.[1]	Turkey.
Liberia.	Uruguay.

§ 502.8 Miscellaneous; coordination with U.S. Customs Bureau.

(a) Nothing in these regulations shall preclude normal examinations of imported materials under the Customs laws and regulations (Title 19, U.S. Code; Title 19, Code of Federal Regulations), or the application of the laws and regulations governing the importation or prohibition against importation of certain materials including seditious or salacious materials as provided in 19 U.S. Code 1305.

(b) Each USIA action, authenticating a foreign certificate, will be reflected in an Importation Document furnished the Applicant; a copy of each such Importation Document will be simultaneously furnished the U.S. Bureau of Customs (Treasury Department). USIA records and officers are always available to the U.S. Bureau of Customs in connection with all questions within the competence of the Bureau.

(c) Refund of duty: If audio-visual materials, which are claimed to be eligible for duty-free import under these regulations, are sought to be entered under item 870.30 of the Tariff Schedules of the United States prior to the filing of an appropriate importation document as described herein, a deposit of the estimated duties which will be due if the articles do not qualify for free entry under item 870.30 will be required. Liquidation of the entry will be deferred for a period of 90 days during which time the importation document may be filed with the District Director of Customs at the port of entry. If the document is filed within this period, the entry will be liquidated duty free under item 870.30 and the duties deposited will be refunded. If the importer fails to file the required importation document, the entry will be liquidated dutiable under the customs laws. In such case, the importer is allowed a period of 60 days after liquidation in which he may protest an adverse ruling by the District Director of Customs as to the dutiability of the articles. For customs regulations relating to entry of articles conditionally free under item 870.30 see 19 CFR 10.121. U.S. importers and consignees who, due either to inadvertence or lack of knowledge as to these procedures, believe that a recent import shipment of audio-visual materials is eligible for duty-free treatment under the regulations in this part (regardless of whether the U.S. Customs entry of duty has already been liquidated by payment and delivery effected) may contact the USIA office identified in the regulations in this part to obtain advice and information respecting steps necessary to effect a Customs adjustment for duty-free entry.

(d) Although U.S. law and the treaty permit the restriction of use of these materials to "nonprofitmaking purposes", this Government has not imposed such a restriction, so that regular commercial uses are permissable. Also, this treaty does not describe or categorize eligible importers or consignees, so that any commercial enterprise may be the recipient of these international shipments.

(e) Postal clearing fee: Articles delivered by mail, which are eligible for duty-free entry under the regulations in this part, are, additionally, not subject to the standard Postal Clearing Fee normally imposed by the U.S. Post Office Department, provided there has been a timely filing with the appropriate U.S. Customs Office of the documentation required by the regulations in this part.

ROBERT W. AKERS,
Acting Director.

§ 518.1 Purpose.

The provisions of Part 518 govern policies and procedures for the release, outside of the Department of the Army, of information contained in Army records.

§ 518.2 General policies.

(a) The policy of the Department of the Army is that maximum information shall be made available from Army records. Requests for information from, or copies of, identifiable Army records will be granted unless the request involves a category of information that is exempted from the requirement of disclosure by 5 U.S.C. 552, and § 518.10.

(b) All requests for information will be acted upon fairly, completely, and expeditiously. Delay will not be permitted even though requests appear to be minor in nature. Information within a category which is normally exempt from public disclosure under § 518.10 should be made available if no legitimate purpose exists for withholding it from the public. Information from Army files will not be withheld from the public because it may reveal or suggest error or inefficiency.

§ 518.3 Scope.

The provisions of this Part 518 apply to requests for Army records received from any source outside the Department of the Army. It is not intended, however, to limit release of information to agencies or individuals in the Federal Government whose official duties entitle them to secure the records concerned. The policies set forth in this Part 518 govern the release of information in all other instances. Requests for Army records will be denied only on the grounds authorized in this Part 518, the Armed Services Procurement Regulation (Subchapter A, Chapter I of this title), and the Federal Personnel Manual. Notwithstanding any limitations contained in the other regulations listed in this section, the following regulations set forth additional procedures for the release of certain records or information therefrom:

(a) News media and other public information channels—AR 360–5.
(b) Litigation—AR 27–5.
(c) Patents and inventions—AR 27–6.
(d) Disciplinary actions—AR 345–60.
(e) General Accounting Office comprehensive audits—AR 36–30.
(f) Confinement of persons presently or formerly confined in the United States disciplinary barracks (paragraph 127, AR 210–170).
(g) Release of information from—
(1) Inspector general reports—AR 20–1.
(2) Aircraft accident investigations—AR 95–30.
(3) Traffic accident investigations—AR 190–15.
(4) Criminal investigation reports—AR 195–10.
(5) Safety reports and records—AR 385–40.
(6) Medical records, and files in Records Centers—AR 345–200.
(7) Claims reports—AR 27–20.
(8) Military personnel records—AR 640–12.
(9) Civilian personnel records—CPR's C1, E2, M1, R1; Federal Personnel Manual, Chapters 293 and 339.
(h) Procurement matters—Armed Services Procurement Regulation (ASPR) (Subchapter A, Chapter I of this title) and the Army Procurement Procedure (APP) (Parts 591 to 612 of this chapter).
(i) Information to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for investigation and prosecution of offenses—AR 22–160.
(j) Defense (classified) information. Information classified pursuant to AR 380–5 (Part 505 of this chapter) may not be released pursuant to this Part 518. However, if it appears that information from, access to, or copies of defense information are of proper and direct concern to a requesting party, and that the granting of the request would be appropriate if the papers were not classified, declassification will be considered for the whole document or portions thereof. See paragraph 15, AR 380–5. Necessary coordination will be made with the command intelligence officer, or the Assistant Chief of Staff for Intelligence, as appropriate. In addition, classified documents may be used for unofficial research purposes under conditions set forth in paragraph 66–AR 345–200.
(k) Release of information to foreign nationals—AR 345–200.
(l) Technical reports—AR 70–31.

§ 518.4 Definition of Army records.

For the purpose of this Part 518, the following definition of "record," taken from 44 U.S.C. 366, applies:

> * * * All books, papers, maps, photographs, or other documentary materials, regardless of physical form or characteristics, made or received by any agency of the United States Government in pursuance of Federal law or in connection with the transaction of public business and preserved or appropriate for preservation by that agency or its legitimate successor as evidence of the organization, functions, policies, decisions, procedures, operations, or other activities of the Government or because of the informational value of data contained therein.

(a) The term "records" does not include objects or articles such as structures, furniture, paintings, sculpture, three-dimensional models, vehicles, equipment, etc., whatever their historical value or value as evidence.
(b) Records are not limited to permanent or historical documents but include contemporaneous documents as well.

§ 518.5 Requests for Army records.

(a) Subject to the procedural requirements of this regulation and the exemptions contained in § 518.10, copies of, or information from, Army records will be made available upon proper request from any person. A proper request requires:
(1) A description of the record requested with sufficient particularity to enable the Department of the Army to locate the record with a reasonable amount of effort.
(2) A willingness and ability to pay the costs associated with locating and providing copies of the record requested.
(b) There is no obligation to create a record to satisfy a request for information. When the information requested exists in the form of several records at several locations the applicant will be referred to those sources if gathering the information would be so burdensome as to interfere materially with the operations of the Army.
(c) If the requested record originated within another agency, the request will be promptly referred to that agency for disposition. A member of the public who requests a copy of material primarily concerning a member of Congress or a Congressional Committee, or a copy of a transcript of testimony given before a Congressional Committee, will be advised to direct his request to the member or committee concerned.

§ 518.6 Examination and reproduction of records.

(a) Authority to release records includes authority to permit their examination. When authority to examine records is granted, the examination normally will be permitted at the place where the papers are maintained or stored, during regular business hours, and under such circumstances and procedures as are deemed appropriate by the custodian.
(b) Original and record copies of Army records may not be released. Copies should be furnished instead. A charge may be imposed for conducting a search and preparing copies of records in accordance with the provisions of AR 37–30 and Part 288, Chapter I of this title.

§ 518.7 Procedure for release of records to the public.

(a) Upon receipt of a request conforming with the requirements of § 518.5, the commander of a unit, installation, or activity will furnish access to, or copies of, Army records, unless the information contained therein falls within one or more of the exemptions set forth in § 518.10. The appropriate judge advocate or legal officer should be consulted on matters of legal interpretation. If, in the judgment of the commander, the request involves a record containing information falling within the limitations of § 518.10 the applicant should be advised that he may appeal the commander's decision to the appropriate officer designated in § 518.11. Such an appeal will be made in writing and will be submitted to the commander to whom the original request was directed. The commander will transmit the request to the appropriate officer designated in § 518.11, together with a statement of his grounds for refusing the request and his recommendation if any as to permitting the release of exempted information pursuant to § 518.11.
(b) Information releasable by commands subordinate to Headquarters, Department of the Army, may also be released by the agency within Headquarters, Department of the Army, primarily concerned.
(c) The following records, exempt from disclosure to the general public, will none the less be released on request to the individuals specified:
(1) Medical records. The following information will be released by commanding officers of medical treatment facilities or records centers:
(i) Information on the condition of sick and injured patients will be released to the relative of such patients, in order to allay their anxiety.
(ii) Information that the patient's condition has reached a critical stage will be released to the nearest known relative or the person designated by the patient to be informed in case of an emergency.
(iii) Information that a diagnosis of psychosis has been made will be released to the nearest known relative or the person designated by the patient.
(iv) Information will be released to local officials with respect to all births, deaths, and cases of communicable diseases where such reports are required by pertinent local laws.
(v) Medical records relating to present or former military personnel, dependents, civilian employees, or patients in a medical treatment facility of the Department of the Army, are the proper and direct concern of the individual to whom they pertain, and will be released to him. In the event he has been adjudged insane or is dead, the records are the proper and direct concern of the next of kin or his legal representative, and will be released to them. If the information might prove injurious to the physical health of the patient, the information will not be released to the individual concerned. In such a case, the information will be released only to his next of kin or legal representative.
(vi) Copies of medical records may be furnished to a Federal or State hospital or penal institution when the individual to whom they pertain is a patient or an inmate therein. If the patient or his legal representative consents, the medical records of the patient will be released to a civilian physician.
(vii) Copies of medical records, or information therefrom, may be furnished to authorized representatives of the National Academy of Sciences, National Research Council, or any other accredited agency, when engaged in cooperative studies undertaken at the specific request of, or with the consent of, The Surgeon General.
(viii) In connection with the collection of claims in favor of the Government, pertinent portions of an injured party's medical records may be furnished to the judge advocate or legal officer of the command for release to the tort-feasor's insurer, if appropriate, even though the injured party does not consent thereto.

Information released to third persons under the provisions of subdivisions (v), (vi), and (vii) of this subparagraph will be accompanied by a statement to the effect that the information is released upon condition that it will not be disclosed to other persons, except in accordance with the accepted limitations which relate to privileged communications between doctor and patient.

(2) Military personnel records will be released by the custodian as follows:
(i) Statement of military service: The Department of the Army is required by statute to provide certain information relating to the service of an individual to that individual or his legal representative. (Sec. 601 of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940, as amended; 50 U.S.C. App. 581.)
(ii) Papers relative to applications for, designation of beneficiaries under, and allotments in payment of premiums for National Service Life Insurance are the proper and direct concern of the applicant or insured, and will be released to him. In the event of his death or insanity, the beneficiaries designated in the policies, or the next of kin, are considered to have a direct and proper concern in these records, and the records will be released to them.
(iii) Copies of Army documents recording the death of a member of the military service, a dependent, or a civilian employee will be released to his next of kin, his life insurance carrier, and legal representative.
(iv) Papers relating to the pay and allowances or allotments of a member or former member of the military service will be released to the individual to whom they pertain, his authorized representative or, in the case of deceased personnel, the next of kin or legal representative.
(3) Civilian personnel records: Civilian personnel officers having custody of papers relating to the pay and allowances or allotments of a current or former civilian employee will release them to the individual to whom they pertain, his authorized representative, and, in the case of deceased employees, the next of kin or legal representative. Authority to release civilian personnel records does not include authority to release statements of witnesses, medical records, or other reports or documents, pertaining to compensation for injuries or death of an Army civilian employee. See paragraph 1–4, chapter 330, Federal Personnel Manual. Such information will be released only by the appropriate officials designated in § 518.11.
(4) In cases under subparagraphs (1) through (3) of this paragraph, requests for information by individuals acting in a representative capacity on behalf of another individual will include evidence in writing of the requestor's representative capacity. In cases in which the release of the requested information is limited to the individuals concerned, the records may be released to other individuals or organizations upon presentation of evidence in writing of the consent of the individual concerned.

§ 518.8 Releases to Congress.

(a) Congressional requests. Requests by Members of Congress (or staffs of congressional committees) for inspection or copies of official records will be handled as follows:
(1) Defense (classified) records: Applicable provisions of AR 380–5 will be followed.
(2) Civilian personnel records: Members of Congress may examine official personnel folders subject to observance of applicable instructions governing the release of disciplinary action information. See CPR R1. 3–6 and paragraph 7b, AR 345–60.
(3) Information pertaining to disciplinary action: See paragraph 7b, AR 345–60.
(4) Military personnel records: These records will not be released except by Headquarters, Department of the Army. Requests from Members of Congress (or staffs of congressional committees) will be referred direct to the Chief of Legislative Liaison, Department of the Army, Washington, D.C. 20310.
(5) Except for the records set forth in this section and in § 518.19 installation commanders may furnish the requested records.
(b) Reports to Chief of Legislative Liaison.
(1) Upon release of information to Members of Congress or staffs of congressional committees, the Chief of Legislative Liaison, Department of the Army, will be immediately informed of the action taken.
(2) Requests from Members of Congress or staffs of congressional committees for nonreleasable or defense (classified) information will be referred by the most expeditious means to the Chief of Legislative Liaison, Department of the Army, for action. Referrals will include the material requested together with the recommendations of the transmitting agency.

§ 518.9 Litigation.

Whenever information is released under the provisions of this Part 518 for use in litigation involving the United States, the official responsible for investigative reports (paragraph 6b, AR 27–1) will be advised of such release so that he may include a notation in any investigative report that he may be required to submit pursuant to section II, AR 27–1.

§ 518.10 Exemptions.

Except as authorized in §§ 518.7(c), 518.8 and 518.11, information contained in the following records will not be released:

(a) Those classified in the interests of national defense and foreign policy pursuant to AR 380–5.

(b) Those containing rules, regulations, orders, manuals, directives, and instructions which provide only internal guidance to DoD personnel. Examples include:

(1) Operating rules, guidelines and manuals for investigators, inspectors, auditors, and examiners, and schedules or methods involved.

(2) Negotiating and bargaining techniques, positions, and limitations.

(3) Personnel and other administrative matters, such as examination questions and answers used in training courses or in the determination of the qualifications of candidates for employment, entrance to duty, advancement, or promotion.

(c) Those containing information which statutes authorize or require to be withheld from the public. Examples include:

(1) Trade and financial information provided in confidence by businesses (18 U.S.C. 1905).

(2) Technical data, including technical data regarding munitions (50 U.S.C. 2023 and 22 U.S.C. 1934).

(3) National Security Agency information (50 U.S.C. 402).

(4) Information relating to inventions which are the subject of patent applications on which Patent Secrecy Orders have been issued (35 U.S.C. 181–188).

(d) Documents containing information received from an individual, a foreign nation, an international organization, a state or local government, a corporation, or any other private organization with the understanding that they will be retained on a privileged or confidential basis. Such records include documents containing:

(1) Information customarily considered privileged or confidential under the rules of evidence in the Federal courts, such as information coming within the doctor-patient, lawyer-client, or priest-penitent privileges.

(2) Commercial or financial information received in confidence in connection with loans, bids, or proposals, as well as other information received in confidence and privileged, such as trade secrets, inventions and discoveries, or other proprietary data.

(3) Statistical data and commercial or financial information concerning contract performance, income, profits, losses and expenditures if received in confidence from a contractor or potential contractor.

(4) Commercial information such as formulae, designs, drawings, and other technical data submitted in confidence in connection with research, grants or contracts.

(5) Personal statements given in the course of inspections or investigations, where such statements are received in confidence.

(e) Except as provided in subparagraph (6) of this paragraph, internal communications within and among agencies and components. Examples include:

(1) Staff papers containing staff advice, opinions, and suggestions, preliminary to a decision or action. These include, for example, reports of inspections, audits, investigations or surveys which pertain to safety, security, or the internal management, administration, or operation of the Department of the Army, which contain recommendations or advice to an official authorized to take action on the subject matter concerned.

(2) Advice, suggestions, or reports prepared on behalf of the Department of the Army by boards, committees, councils, groups, panels, conferences, commissions, task forces, or other similar groups that are formed to provide advice and recommendations.

(3) Advance information on such matters as proposed plans to procure, lease, or otherwise hire and dispose of materials, real estate, facilities, or functions when such information would provide undue or unfair competitive advantage to private personal interests.

(4) Records which are exchanged among agency personnel or within and among components or agencies preparing for anticipated legal proceedings before any federal, state or military court, or before any regulatory body. These include papers and advice exchanged internally in preparation for administrative settlement of potential litigation, such as claims against the Government.

(5) Records of evaluations of contractors and their products which could be used improperly to the advantage or to the detriment of private interests.

(6) If any such intra- or inter-agency information requested would routinely be made available through the discovery process in the course of litigation with the agency, then it should not be withheld from the general public. If, however, the information would not routinely be made available through the discovery process except by a decision of the court based on the particular needs of a litigant balanced against the interests of the agency in maintaining its confidentiality, then the record or document is exempt from the requirement of disclosure to the public.

(f) Information in personnel and medical files, as well as information in similar files that, if disclosed to a member of the public, would result in a clearly unwarranted invasion of privacy.

(1) Examples of files similar to medical and personnel files include:

(i) Those compiled to evaluate or adjudicate the suitability of candidates for civilian employment and the eligibility of individuals, civilian, military or industrial, for security clearances;

(ii) Files containing reports, records, and other material pertaining to individual cases in which administrative action may be taken.

(2) In determining whether the release of information would result in a clearly unwarranted invasion of privacy, consideration should be given, in cases involving alleged misconduct, to the relationship of the alleged misconduct to an individual's official duties, the amount of time which has passed since the alleged misconduct, and the degree to which the individual's privacy has already been invaded by any investigation of proceedings which have taken place. For example, after completion of appellate review, unclassified records of court-martial proceedings should always be made available, since they represent a record of proceedings open to the public in which the relevant conduct of the member has been fully explored. (Records of court-martial proceedings may be made available at an earlier stage if to do so in the judgement of The Judge Advocate General would not interfere with their use by counsel and reviewing authorities.)

(3) When the sole and exclusive basis for withholding information is protection of the personal privacy of an individual, the information will not be withheld from him or from his designated legal representative.

(g) Investigatory files compiled for the purpose of enforcing civil, criminal, or military law, including Executive orders or regulations validly adopted pursuant to law.

(1) This exemption includes statements of witnesses and other material based on the information developed during the course of the investigation and all materials prepared in connection with related government litigation and adjudicative proceedings.

(2) Any rights conferred by existing law or regulation upon specified persons or classes of persons to obtain access to investigatory files are not hereby diminished.

(h) Those contained in or related to examination, operating, or condition reports prepared by, on behalf of, or for the use of any agency responsible for the regulation or supervision of financial institutions.

(i) Documents containing geological and geophysical information and data (including maps) concerning wells.

§ 518.11 Appeals and exceptions.

(a) Authority to take action upon appeals from decisions of local commanders under § 518.7 and to release exempted records under paragraph (b) of this section is assigned to the officials indicated below. The named officials will coordinate all matters relating to the release of exempted information which have public relations aspects with the Chief of Information or with the appropriate information officer in accordance with AR 10–5 and AR 360–6. In cases where the exempted information requested is related to actual or potential litigation by or against the United States, its release will be coordinated with the Judge Advocate General. In cases in which the officials designated below determine that the information requested is not exempt under § 518.10 they will release it on their own authority and will inform the Chief of Information or the Judge Advocate General of its release, as appropriate.

(1) The Adjutant General or his designee is authorized to take action upon all requests involving military personnel records, and medical records of retired, separated, or inactive duty military personnel. Requests for medical records of former military personnel, not covered by the provisions of AR 345–300, will be coordinated with The Surgeon General.

(2) The Surgeon General or his designee is authorized to take action upon all requests involving medical records of active duty military personnel, former military personnel, dependents, any person given a physical examination in connection with prospective appointment, induction or enlistment, and other civilians.

(3) The Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel or his designee is authorized to take action on requests for release of information contained in civilian personnel records.

(4) The Provost Marshal General or his designee is authorized to take action on requests for release of information contained in criminal investigation reports (DA Form 2800).

(5) Commanders designated in paragraph 32, AR 380–5, are authorized to release defense security information under conditions specified in paragraph 32, AR 380–5.

(6) The Heads of Procuring Activities as listed ASPR 1–201.14 (§ 1.201–14 of this title) are authorized to take action on requests for release of information contained in procurement records.

(7) The Judge Advocate General or his designee is authorized to take action on all other requests except those involving IG reports. Authority to act on IG reports is as prescribed in AR 20–1. The Judge Advocate General is also authorized to take action on requests within the purview of subparagraphs (1) through (4) of this paragraph in cases involving litigation in which the United States has an interest.

(b) The officers named in paragraph (a) of this section may in appropriate cases permit the release of exempted records described in § 518.10 (b) and (i) unless nondisclosure is required by statute. The new part provides for general notices of proposed rule making, to be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, except in cases where the Secretary finds that notice is impractical, unnecessary, or contrary to the public interest, and except for interpretive rules, general statements of policy, and rules relating to Departmental organization, procedure, or practices. The authority to conduct rule-making proceedings and to issue final rules may be delegated to any Assistant Secretary or the General Counsel.

The new Part also provides for the consideration of petitions for rule making, petitions for exemption from adopted rules, and petitions for extension of time to comment on notices of proposed rule making.

Sections 556 and 557 of Title 5, United States Code (formerly sections 7 and 8 of the Administrative Procedure Act) do not apply to rule making under the new Part. Therefore, hearings are not a required part of the rule-making procedure. However, hearings may be held as a supplementary fact-finding procedure, whenever it is considered necessary or desirable. Any hearing held would be nonadversary, with no formal pleadings and no adverse parties, and any resultant rule would not necessarily be based exclusively on the record of the hearing.

All final rules will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, unless, in accordance with section 552(a) of Title 5, United States Code, actual and timely notice has been given to all persons subject to it.

Since this amendment relates to Departmental organization, procedures, and practices, notice and public procedure hereon is unnecessary and it may be made effective in less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

This amendment is made under the authority of section 9 of the Department of Transportation Act (P.L. 89-670; 49 U.S.C. 1657).

In consideration of the foregoing, Title 49 of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended by adding the following new Part 5 "Rule-making Procedures", effective July 14, 1967.

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 7, 1967.

AUTHORITY: The provisions of this Part 5 issued under sec. 9, 80 Stat. 944; 49 U.S.C. 1657.

Subpart A—General

§ 5.1 Applicability.

(a) This part prescribes general rule-making procedures that apply to the issue, amendment, and repeal of rules of the Secretary of Transportation. It does not apply to rules issued by the National Transportation Safety Board, U.S. Coast Guard, Federal Aviation Administration, Federal Highway Administration, Federal Railroad Administration, or St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation.

(b) For the purposes of this part, "Secretary" means the Secretary of Transportation or the Under Secretary of Transportation, or any of the following to whom the Secretary has delegated authority to conduct rule-making proceedings:

(1) Any Assistant Secretary.

(2) The General Counsel.

Any of these officers may redelegate that authority to the head of any office who reports to him.

(c) Records relating to rule-making proceedings are available for inspection as provided in Part 7 of this subtitle.

§ 5.3 Initiation of rule making.

The Secretary initiates rule making on his own motion. However, in doing so, he may, in his discretion, consider the recommendations of other agencies of the United States and of other interested persons.

§ 5.5 Participation by interested persons.

Any person may participate in rule-making proceedings by submitting written information or views. The Secretary may also allow any person to participate in additional rule-making proceedings, such as informal appearances or hearings, held with respect to any rule.

§ 5.7 Regulatory docket.

(a) Records of the Office of the Secretary of Transportation concerning rule-making actions, including notices of proposed rule making, comments received in response to those notices, petitions for rule making or exemption, petitions for rehearing or reconsideration, grants and denials of exemptions, denials of petitions for rule making, and final rules are maintained in current docket form in the Office of the General Counsel.

(b) Any person may examine any docketed material at that office and may obtain a copy of any docketed material upon payment of the prescribed fee.

Subpart B—Petitions for Rule Making or Exemptions

§ 5.11 Filing of petitions.

(a) Any person may petition the Secretary to issue, amend, or repeal a rule, or for a permanent or temporary exemption from any rule.

(b) Each petition filed under this section must—

(1) Be submitted in duplicate to the Docket Clerk, Office of the General Counsel, Department of Transportation, Washington, D.C. 20590;

(2) Set forth the text or substance of the rule or amendment proposed, or of the rule from which the exemption is sought, or specify the rule that the petitioner seeks to have repealed, as the case may be;

(3) Explain the interest of the petitioner in the action requested including, in the case of a petition for an exemption, the nature and extent of the relief sought and a description of the persons to be covered by the exemption;

(4) Contain any information and arguments available to the petitioner to support the action sought; and

(5) In the case of a petition for exemption, unless good cause is shown in that petition, be submitted at least 60 days before the proposed effective date of the exemption.

§ 5.13 Processing of petitions.

(a) General. Each petition received under § 5.11 of this part is referred to the head of the office responsible for the subject matter of that petition. No public hearing, argument, or other proceeding is held directly on a petition before its disposition under this section.

(b) Grants. If the Secretary determines that the petition contains adequate justification, he initiates rule-making action under Subpart C of this part or grants the exemption, as the case may be.

(c) Denials. If the Secretary determines that the petition does not justify initiating rule-making action or granting the exemption, he denies the petition.

(d) Notification. Whenever the Secretary determines that a petition should be granted or denied, the office concerned and the Office of the General Counsel prepare a notice of that grant or denial for issuance to the petitioner, and the Secretary issues it to the petitioner.

Subpart C—Procedures

§ 5.21 General.

(a) Unless the Secretary finds, for good cause, that notice is impractical, unnecessary, or contrary to the public interest, a notice of proposed rule making is issued and interested persons are invited to participate in the rule-making proceedings with respect to each substantive rule.

(b) Unless the Secretary determines that notice and public rule-making proceedings are necessary or desirable, interpretive rules, general statements of policy, and rules relating to organization, procedure, or practice are prescribed as final without notice or other public rule-making proceedings.

(c) In his discretion, the Secretary may invite interested persons to participate in the rule-making proceedings described in § 5.29 of this subpart.

§ 5.23 Contents of notices.

(a) Each notice of proposed rule making is published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, unless all persons subject to it are named and are personally served with a copy of it.

(b) Each notice, whether published in the FEDERAL REGISTER or personally served, includes—

(1) A statement of the time, place, and nature of the proposed rule-making proceeding;

(2) A reference to the authority under which it is issued;

(3) A description of the subjects or issues involved or the substance or terms of the proposed rule;

(4) A statement of the time within which written comments must be submitted and the required number of copies; and

(5) A statement of how and to what extent interested persons may participate in the proceeding.

§ 5.25 Petitions for extension of time to comment.

(a) Any person may petition the Secretary for an extension of time to submit comments in response to a notice of proposed rule making. The petition must be submitted in duplicate not later than 3 days before expiration of the time stated in the notice. The filing of the petition does not automatically extend the time for petitioner's comments.

(b) The Secretary grants the petition only if the petitioner shows a substantive interest in the proposed rule and good cause for the extension, and if the extension is in the public interest. If an extension is granted, it is granted as to all persons and is published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

§ 5.27 Consideration of comments received.

All timely comments are considered before final action is taken on a rule-making proposal. Late filed comments may be considered so far as possible without incurring additional expense or delay.

§ 5.29 Additional rule-making proceedings.

The Secretary may initiate any further rule-making proceedings that he finds necessary or desirable. For example, he may invite interested persons to present oral arguments, participate in conferences, appear at informal hearings, or participate in any other proceeding.

§ 5.31 Hearings.

(a) Sections 556 and 557 of Title 5, United States Code, do not apply to hearings held under this part. As a fact-finding proceeding, each hearing is nonadversary and there are no formal pleadings or adverse parties. Any rule issued in a case in which a hearing is held is not necessarily based exclusively on the record of the hearing.

(b) The Secretary designates a representative to conduct any hearing held under this part. The General Counsel designates a member of his staff to serve as legal officer at the hearing.

§ 5.33 Adoption of final rules.

Final rules are prepared by representatives of the office concerned and the Office of the General Counsel. The rule is then submitted to the Secretary for his consideration. If the Secretary adopts the rule, it is published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, unless all persons subject to it are named and are personally served with a copy of it.

Subpart A—Economic Development Regions

§ 307.1 Authority.

The Secretary is authorized by section 501 of the Act to designate multistate economic development regions, with the concurrence of the States in which such regions will be wholly or partially located, if he finds that the areas within such regions are related geographically, culturally, historically, and economically, and that the region has lagged behind the whole Nation in economic development.

§ 307.2 Purpose of designation.

Economic development regions are designated in order to give participating States, through the establishment of a common economic development program, the advantages of joint and coordinated action on economic problems extending beyond the boundaries of a single State, and of more effective utilization of the various existing State and Federal programs to implement the regional overall economic development program.

§ 307.3 Criteria for designation.

In order to establish an economic development region under the Act, the Secretary of Commerce must find that:

(a) There is a relationship between the areas within such region geographically, culturally, historically, and economically.

(b) With the exception of Alaska and Hawaii, the region is within contiguous States, and

(c) Upon consideration of the following matters, among others, the region has lagged behind the whole Nation in economic development for the following reasons:

(1) The rate of unemployment is substantially above the national rate,

(2) The median level of family income is significantly below the national median,

(3) The level of housing, health, and education facilities is substantially below the national level,

(4) The economy of the area has traditionally been dominated by only one or two industries which are in a state of long-term decline.

(5) The rate of outmigration of capital or labor or both is substantial.

(6) The area is adversely affected by changing industrial technology.

(7) The area is adversely affected by changes in national defense facilities or production, and

(8) Indices of regional production indicate a growth rate substantially below the national average.

§ 307.4 Documentation required for designation.

As a basis for designation, the Secretary may request, over the signature of the respective Governors, a formal document requesting designation. This document should contain the following elements:

(a) Compilation of data and statistics about the region which demonstrate that the region meets the statutory criteria under section 501 of the Act,

(b) An outline and discussion of the major general and specific regionwide problems, which need to be resolved on a regional basis,

(c) An analysis which demonstrates why a regionwide approach would be more effective in solving these problems than a State-by-State approach, and

(d) A list of regionwide programs that might appropriately be undertaken in an effort to overcome these problems.

Subpart B—Modification of Regional Boundaries

§ 307.20 Authority and purpose.

[illegible] 302(a)(1) of the Act directs [illegible] action planning commissions established pursuant to the Act to "advise and assist the Secretary in the identification of optimum boundaries for multistate economic development regions." The purpose of this subpart is to set forth the principles and procedures by which the Secretary will consider and act upon proposed boundary adjustments recommended by the commissions.

307.21 Documentation required for modification.

The recommendations of a regional commission for modifications in existing regional boundaries should be accompanied by sufficient documentation to justify the proposed changes, including:

(a) A statistical analysis of the expanded territory in terms of the criteria in § 307.3 of the regulations of this part;

(b) Where appropriate, additional statistics and analyses evidencing inadequate or retarded economic development;

(c) A statistic profile of the expanded territory in terms of population, employment and income;

(d) Information concerning the economic, cultural, historic, or geographic relationship with the areas already situated within the designated economic development region;

(e) A description of the specific economic development problems which are common to the designated region and to the proposed additional territory, and for which action by the regional commission is needed;

(f) A comparison of the economic ties of the additional territory to the designated region as opposed to its economic ties to areas outside the designated region;

(g) The written concurrence of the Governor of the State or States whose territory would be affected by the expansion of the region.

Subpart C—Regional Commission

§ 307.30 Establishment.

The Secretary, in accordance with section 502 of the Act, shall invite and encourage the States wholly or partially located in a designated economic development region to establish a multistate regional commission.

§ 307.31 Membership.

(a) Membership on a regional commission consists of one Federal member, hereinafter referred to as the "Federal Cochairman," and one member from each State participating in the region.

(b) The Federal Cochairman is appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and may have an alternate who is similarly appointed. The State member may be the Governor, his designee, or such other person as may be provided by the law of the State which he represents. Each State member may have an alternate, appointed by the Governor or as may otherwise be provided by law.

§ 307.32 Voting.

(a) Decisions by a regional commission require the affirmative vote of the Federal Cochairman and of a majority, or at least one if only one of two, of the State members.

(b) An alternate shall vote in the event of the absence, death, disability, removal, or resignation of the State member or Federal Cochairman.

§ 307.33 Initial meeting.

The Federal Cochairman, after appointment by the President and confirmation by the Senate, is authorized to call the initial organizational meeting of the regional commission, at which time, among other things, the State members may elect a State Cochairman, and the commission may declare its establishment, adopt a charter listing its functions, and adopt resolutions governing the internal administration of the commission.

§ 307.34 Program development criteria.

(a) The Secretary, in accordance with the provisions of section 504 of the Act, through the Federal Cochairman, shall encourage each regional commission in its development of recommendations for programs and projects for future regional economic development, and in the establishment of priority ranking for such programs and projects, to follow procedures that will insure consideration of the following factors:

(1) The relationship of the project or class of projects to overall regional development including its location in an area determined by the State to have a significant potential for growth;

(2) The population and area to be served by the project or class of projects including the relative per capita income and unemployment rates in the area;

(3) The relative financial resources available to the State or political subdivision or instrumentalities thereof which seek to undertake the projects;

(4) The importance of the project or class of projects in relation to other projects or classes of projects which may be in competition for the same funds;

(5) The prospects that the project, on a continuing basis, will improve the opportunities for additional employment, raise the average level of income, or otherwise foster the economic and social development of the area served by the projects.

(b) In order to assist the Federal Cochairmen in carrying out their responsibilities under this section, the Secretary may from time to time issue program planning guidelines for their use and convenience.

§ 307.35 Reports.

In accordance with section 509 of the Act, each regional commission makes a comprehensive and detailed annual report each fiscal year to the Congress with respect to the commission's activities and recommendations for programs. Before the Federal Cochairman approves the report he shall consult with the Secretary, who will insure coordination of any proposals made in the report with the proposals of the several other commissions and those of the interested Federal departments and agencies.

§ 307.36 Powers and duties generally.

The regional commission is authorized by section 506 of the Act to:

(a) Adopt, amend, and repeal bylaws, rules, and regulations governing the conduct of its business and the performance of its functions;

(b) Appoint and fix the compensation of an executive director and such other personnel as may be necessary to enable the commission to carry out its functions, except that such compensation shall not exceed the salary of the alternate to the Federal Cochairman on the commission and no member, alternate, officer, or employee of such commission, other than the Federal Cochairman on the commission and his staff and his alternate, and Federal employees detailed to the commission under paragraph (c) of this section, shall be deemed a Federal employee for any purpose;

(c) Request the head of any Federal department or agency (who is so authorized by section 506(3) of the Act) to detail to temporary duty with the commission such personnel within his administrative jurisdiction as the commission may need for carrying out its functions, each such detail to be without loss of seniority, pay, or other employee status;

(d) Arrange for the services of personnel from any State or local government or any subdivision or agency thereof, or any intergovernmental agency;

(e) Make arrangements, including contracts, with any participating State government for inclusion in a suitable retirement and employee benefit system of such of its personnel as may not be eligible for, or continue in, another governmental retirement or employee benefit system, or otherwise provide for such coverage of its personnel, and the Civil Service Commission of the United States is authorized to contract with such commission for continued coverage of commission employees, who at date of commission employment are Federal employees, in the retirement program and other employee benefit programs of the Federal Government;

(f) Accept, use, and dispose of gifts or donations of services or property, real, personal, or mixed, tangible or intangible;

(g) Enter into and perform such contracts, leases, cooperative agreements, or other transactions as may be necessary in carrying out its functions and on such terms as it may deem appropriate, with any department, agency, or instrumentality of the United States or with any State, or any political subdivision, agency, or instrumentality thereof, or with any person, firm, association, or corporation;

(h) Maintain an office in the District of Columbia and establish field offices at such other places as it may deem appropriate; and

(i) Take such other actions and incur such other expenses as may be necessary or appropriate.

§ 307.37 Hearings.

In accordance with section 507 of the Act, each regional commission may:

(a) Hold such hearings, sit and act at such times and places, take such testimony, receive such evidence, and print or otherwise reproduce and distribute so much of its proceedings and reports thereon as it may deem advisable; a Cochairman of such commission, or any member designated by the commission for the purpose, is authorized by the Act to administer oaths when it is determined by the commission that testimony shall be taken or evidence received by oath, and

(b) Arrange for the head of any Federal, State or local department or agency who is authorized by the Act, and to the extent not otherwise prohibited by law, to furnish to the commission such information as may be available to or procurable by such department or agency.

§ 307.38 Records.

The Act requires each regional commission to keep complete records of its transactions, which shall be made available for public inspection.

Subpart D—Review of Commission Proposals

§ 307.50 Authority and purpose.

Section 503(b) of the Act requires the Secretary to "present such plans and proposals of the Commissions as may be transmitted and recommended to him (but are not authorized by any other section of the Act) first for review by the Federal agencies primarily interested in such plans and proposals and then, together with the recommendations of such agencies, to the President for such action as he may deem desirable." The Secretary, in cooperation with the Federal Cochairmen, will determine appropriate procedures for obtaining review of commission proposals by interested departments and agencies.

§ 307.51 Comprehensive planning.

Commission plans and proposals normally should be supported by regional programs which have been endorsed by the commissions which, when fully developed, will ordinarily include the following elements:

(a) Review of prior studies. The regional plan should include a review of prior studies concerning the region's economy, together with an indication of the relevance of such studies to the region's current problems.

(b) Framework for analysis. The regional plan should include an estimate of the gaps in research and data needed to conduct effective development planning.

(c) Review of the regional economy. The regional plan should include projections of population and labor force and employment by key industrial sectors, and an inventory of natural resources. It should analyze the present capability of the infrastructure to support economic growth. It should identify the major growth centers within the region which are capable of long-term economic growth.

(d) Review of conditions inhibiting growth. The regional plan should include a review of the major factors which have caused the region to lag behind the Nation as a whole in economic development.

(e) Review of major plans and pending decisions. The regional plan should include a review of public and available private plans for capital expansion and investment, and should relate these other public and private plans to the commission's regional plan.

(f) Establishment of regional goals. The regional plan should include an explicit statement of the region's economic goals, such as reducing unemployment, raising personal income, raising educational levels, and so forth.

(g) Determination of a development strategy. The regional plan should set forth an explicit strategy for achieving the region's specified development goals. This strategy should included an analysis of the extent to which public investment should be concentrated or dispersed, and what kinds of public investments are the most critical for achieving a higher rate of economic growth.

(h) Review of existing program adequacy. The regional plan should include a review and analysis of the extent to which existing Federal, State, and local programs are adequate to support the commission's goals and strategies. It should identify the major gaps, modifications, or supplements to existing programs which will help carry out the commission's development strategy.

(i) Criteria for project identification. The regional plan should include an analysis of the classes of projects which are consistent with the commission's goals and programs and an identification on a regionwide basis of the locations and types of projects necessary to carry out the regional plan for economic development.

§ 307.52 Review standards.

In reviewing the commission's regional plans and proposals prior to making recommendations to the President, the Secretary will consider the following factors:

(a) Consistency with national economic trends. The projections of economic activity contained in the plans will be compared with trends in the national economy. Such projections of regional growth should be reasonably consistent with the projections of national growth and other projections of regional growth, particularly when the regional projections depend for their success upon growing regional exports to national markets.

(b) Interregional consistency. Regional plans developed by the commissions should be reasonably consistent with each other, taking into account the differing needs and objectives of the various regions.

(c) Transference of employment. The regional plans should not provide for nor encourage the pirating of industry into the region from other parts of the Nation.

(d) National benefits. The regional plans should attempt to provide reasonable assurance that economic growth within the region can be sustained with a minimum amount of subsidization; and that the identifiable benefits from the proposed regional program bear a reasonable relationship to the estimated Federal investment.

Subpart E—Administrative Grants

§ 307.60 Authority and purpose.

(a) The Secretary is authorized by section 505(b) of the Act to review and approve the administrative expenses of each regional commission, and to pay such expenses as he approves from Federal funds appropriated for such purposes. For the period ending June 30 of the second full fiscal year following the date of establishment of a commission, the entire administrative expenses of the commission as approved by the Secretary shall be paid by the Federal Government. Thereafter, not to exceed 50 per centum of such expenses may be paid by the Federal Government.

(b) The purpose of this subpart is to outline the procedures by which such administrative expenses will be paid by the Federal Government.

§ 307.61 Procedure for obtaining administrative expenses.

(a) As a condition to receiving administrative expense funds from the Federal Government, each commission shall submit a proposed budget to the Secretary in such form as he may prescribe. The proposed commission budget should itemize each category of expenditure and contain a proposed work statement indicating the work program and schedule of activities for the commission during the period for which funds are requested.

(b) Such administrative expense funds as are approved by the Secretary shall be made available on a quarterly basis. Approved funds will be deposited into a special trust account established by the U.S. Treasury for the exclusive use of the regional commissions. Expenditures from such trust funds shall be made only upon the proper certification of a duly authorized officer of the commission, except that expenditures from funds reserved for payment to the Department of Commerce for the provision of administrative support to the commissions may be certified by the Secretary or his designee.

§ 307.62 Terms and conditions.

(a) Approval of administrative expense grants are normally subject to the following terms and conditions:

(1) Federal grant assistance may be used only in the performance of the activities and work program outlined in the commission's budget request as approved by the Secretary;

(2) The procurement of supplies, materials, equipment, furniture, and services shall be in compliance with the standard procurement procedures established by the commission, except that such procurement should be channeled, to the maximum extent deemed practicable by the commission, through the established procurement channels of the Department of Commerce; the Department may act as agent for the commission pursuant to a properly executed delegation of authority;

(3) The rate of compensation for positions paid from grant funds should be generally comparable to the rate paid by the Federal Government for similar positions, and commission employees who occupy such positions should generally meet the comparable Federal experience and educational requirements for similar positions;

(4) Reimbursement for travel costs, including transportation, food and lodging incurred by personnel in performance of their official duties while away from their regular place of duty, should be generally comparable to that provided by the standard travel regulations of the Federal Government;

(b) In appropriate circumstances, and after due notice and adequate opportunity for hearing, the Secretary may suspend the financial assistance approved under this subpart upon a formal finding that the commission is in violation of the terms of the grant offer or the provisions of these regulations.

(c) No part of the Federal grant funds shall be used, either directly or indirectly, to assist, solicit, or encourage the relocating of any establishment from one area to another or to assist, solicit, or encourage the transfer of contract or subcontract work which would result in a transfer of jobs causing unemployment at the location where such work was previously performed, or to pay any part of the compensation or expense of employees who may at any time engage in such activities for which such funds may not be used.

(d) The commission shall keep such records as will fully disclose the amount and disposition of the total budgeted funds, the purpose of undertaking for which such funds were used, the amount and nature of all contributions from other sources, and such other records as may be necessary. Commission records pertaining to the expenditures of Federal funds should be preserved for a period of not less than three (3) years following disbursement of funds.

Federal Aviation Administration

[14 CFR Part 39]

[Docket No. 8278]

AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

Avions Marcel Dassault Fan Jet Falcon Airplanes, Serial Nos. 1 Through 94

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amending Part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations by adding an airworthiness directive applicable to Avions Marcel Dassault Fan Jet Falcon airplanes, Serial Nos. 1 through 94. There have been inflight failures of the pressurization control microswitch installation which have caused jamming of the engine power levers in a low-power range. Since this condition is likely to exist or develop in other airplanes of the same type, the proposed airworthiness directive would require the modification of the type MF 2006 pressurization control microswitch installation by the addition of a support, P/N MY.20.240.3801, and a leaf spring, P/N MY 20.240.3802, in accordance with Avions Marcel Dassault Service Bulletin No. 211 (76–4).

Interested persons are invited to participate in the making of the proposed rule by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should identify the docket number and be submitted in duplicate to the Federal Aviation Administration, Office of the General Counsel, Attention: Rules Docket, 800 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20590. All communications received on or before August 14, 1967, will be considered by the Administrator before taking action upon the proposed rule. The proposals contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received. All comments will be available, both before and after the closing date for comments, in the Rules Docket for examination by interested persons.

This amendment is proposed under the authority of sections 313(a), 601, and 603 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1421, and 1423).

In consideration of the foregoing, it is proposed to amend § 39.13 of Part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

AVIONS MARCEL DASSAULT. Applies to Fan Jet Falcon airplanes, Serial Nos. 1 through 94.

Compliance required within the next 200 hours' time in service after the effective date of this AD, unless already accomplished.

To prevent jamming of the engine power lever, modify the type MF 2006 pressurization control microswitch installation by the addition of a support P/N MY.20.240.3801, and a leaf spring, P/N MY.20.240.3802, in accordance with Avions Marcel Dassault Service Bulletin No. 211 (76–4), revision 1, dated April 4, 1967, or later SGAC-approved revision, or an equivalent approval by the Chief, Aircraft Certification Staff, FAA, Europe, Africa, and Middle East Region.

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 6, 1967.

EDWARD C. HODGSON,
Acting Director, Flight Standards Service.

AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

Avions Marcel Dassault Fan Jet Falcon Airplanes, Serial Nos. 1 Through 89, Except Serial Nos. 73, 78, 82, 85, and 87

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amending Part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations by adding an airworthiness directive applicable to Avions Marcel Dassault Fan Jet Falcon airplanes, Serial Nos. 1 through 89, except Serial Nos. 73, 78, 82, 85, and 87. Field inspections of these airplanes have revealed numerous incidents of wing to fuselage recess and attachment bolt corrosion. Since this condition is likely to exist or develop in other airplanes of the same type, the proposed airworthiness directive would require repetitive inspections of the recesses of the wing fuselage junction and specified attachment bolts for corrosion and the incorporation of Dassault Modifications M1014A, M1014C, and M1057 when corrosion is detected but in any event not later than December 31, 1968.

Interested persons are invited to participate in the making of the proposed rule by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should identify the docket number and be submitted in duplicate to the Federal Aviation Administration, Office of the General Counsel, Attention: Rules Docket, 800 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20590. All communications received on or before August 14, 1967, will be considered by the Administrator before taking action upon the proposed rule. The proposals contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received. All comments will be available, both before and after the closing date for comments, in the Rules Docket for examination by interested persons.

This amendment is proposed under the authority of sections 313(a), 601, and 603 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1421, and 1423).

In consideration of the foregoing, it is proposed to amend § 39.13 of Part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

AVIONS MARCEL DASSAULT. Applies to Fan Jet Falcon Airplanes Serial Nos. 1 through 89, except Serial Nos. 73, 78, 82, 85, and 87.

Compliance required as indicated.

To detect and prevent corrosion of the wing to fuselage recesses and the wing to fuselage attachment bolts, accomplish the following, unless already accomplished:

(a) For all airplanes, within the next 200 hours' time in service after the effective date of this AD, and thereafter at intervals not to exceed 200 hours' time in service from the last inspection, visually inspect the recesses of the wing fuselage junction for signs of corrosion, in accordance with Dassault Service Bulletin No. 282 (57–14), dated April 12, 1967, or later SGAC-approved or FAA-approved revision, or in accordance with an FAA-approved equivalent.

(b) For airplanes without Dassault Modifications M1014A and M1014C and with more than 400 hours' time in service on the effective date of this AD, within the next 200 hours' time in service after the effective date of this AD, and thereafter at intervals not to exceed 600 hours' time in service from the last inspection, inspect the wing to fuselage attachment bolts for signs of corrosion, in accordance with Dassault Service Bulletin No. 282 (57–14), dated April 12, 1967, or later SGAC-approved or FAA-approved revision, or in accordance with an FAA-approved equivalent.

(c) For airplanes without Dassault Modifications M1014A and M1014C and with less than 400 hours' time in service on the effective date of this AD, prior to the accumulation of 600 hours' time in service, and thereafter at intervals not to exceed 600 hours' time in service from the last inspection, inspect the wing to fuselage attachment bolts for signs of corrosion in accordance with Dassault Service Bulletin No. 282 (57–14), dated April 12, 1967, or later SGAC-approved or FAA-approved revision, or in accordance with an FAA-approved equivalent.

(d) If corrosion is found when conducting the inspections required by paragraphs (a), (b), or (c), within the next 200 hours' time in service, comply with paragraph (f).

(e) If no corrosion is found during the inspections required by paragraphs (a), (b), or (c), incorporate the modifications specified in paragraph (f) prior to the accumulation of 1,200 hours' time in service from the effective date of this AD, but in any event not later than December 31, 1968.

(f) Incorporate Dassault Modifications M1014A, M1014C, and M1057, in accordance with Dassault Service Bulletins No. 284, revision 1, dated April 12, 1967, and No. 285, dated April 12, 1967, or later SGAC-approved or FAA-approved revisions, or an FAA-approved equivalent.

(g) The repetitive inspections, required by paragraphs (a), (b), and (c), may be discontinued after the incorporation of Dassault Modifications M1014A, M1014C, and M1057.

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 6, 1967.

AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

British Aircraft Corp. Model BAC 1–11, 200 and 400 Series Airplanes

Amendment 39–321 (31 F.R. 16125), AD 67–1–1, established service life limits for flap carriage links P/N AB09 A943 on British Aircraft Corp. Model BAC 1–11, 200 and 400 Series airplanes until such links are replaced with modification PM 2245 links P/N AB09 A3657. However, service experience after the issuance of Amendment 39–321 indicates that it is necessary to establish service life limits for the post modification PM 2245 flap links P/N AB09 A3657. Therefore, the agency is considering superseding Amendment 39–321 with a new AD that establishes service life limits for both flap carriage links P/N AB09 A943 and post modification PM 2245 flap links P/N AB09 A3657.

Interested persons are invited to participate in the making of the proposed rule by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should identify the docket number and be submitted in duplicate to the Federal Aviation Administration, Office of the General Counsel, Attention: Rules Docket, 800 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20590. All communications received on or before August 14, 1967, will be considered by the Administrator before taking action upon the proposed rule. The proposals contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received. All comments will be available, both before and after the closing date for comments, in the Rules Docket for examination by interested persons.

This amendment is proposed under the authority of sections 313(a), 601, and 603 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1421, and 1423).

In consideration of the foregoing, it is proposed to amend § 39.13 of Part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

BRITISH AIRCRAFT. Applies to Model BAC 1–11, 200 and 400 Series airplanes.

Compliance required as indicated.

To prevent fatigue failures of the flap carriage links P/N AB09 A943 and post modification PM 2245 flap carriage links P/N AB09 A3657, accomplish the following:

(a) For airplanes equipped with carriage links P/N AB09 A943, within the next 800 landings after January 16, 1967, or before the accumulation of the number of landings specified in Column 2 or Column 3, as applicable, for the respective flap numbers specified in Column 1, whichever occurs later, and thereafter at intervals not to exceed the number of landings specified for that flap number and series of airplane, replace carriage links P/N AB09 A943 with new links of the same part number; or replace with carriage links P/N AB09 A3657. If carriage links P/N AB09 A3657 are used as replacements, they must be replaced in accordance with the requirements of paragraph (b).

1	3,000	2,000
2	12,000	8,000
3	24,000	16,000

(b) For airplanes equipped with carriage links P/N AB09 A3657, within the next 300 landings after the effective date of this AD or before the accumulation of the number of landings specified in column 2 or column 3, as applicable, for the respective flap number specified in column 1, whichever occurs later, and thereafter at intervals not to exceed the number of landings specified for that flap number and series of airplane, replace carriage links P/N AB09 A3657 with new links of the same part number, or replace with carriage links P/N AB09 A943. If carriage links P/N AB09 A943 are used as replacements, they must be replaced in accordance with the requirements of paragraph (a).

(Column 1) Flap No. (link location)	(Column 2) Number of landings 300 series airplanes	(Column 3) Number of landings 400 series airplanes
1	4,000	3,000
2	16,000	12,000
3	32,000	24,000

(c) For the purpose of complying with this AD, subject to acceptance by the assigned FAA maintenance inspector, the number of landings may be determined by dividing each airplane's hours' time in service by the operator's fleet average time from takeoff to landing for the airplane type.

(British Aircraft Corp. (Operating), Ltd. (Weybridge Division), Alert Service Bulletin No. 27-A-PM 2245, Issue 2, pertains to this subject.)

This supersedes Amendment 39-321, AD 67-1-1.

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 6, 1967.

AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

Dart Model 542-4 and 542-10 Engines

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amending Part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations by adding an airworthiness directive applicable to Dart Model 542-4 and 542-10 engines. There have been instances of cracking and crazing of fuel and oil pressure indicator hoses due to heat deterioration resulting in fuel and oil leaks. Since this condition is likely to exist or develop in other engines of the same type, the proposed airworthiness directive would require periodic inspection of specified fuel and oil hoses and the replacement of defective hoses. The proposed AD also provides that the inspections of the fuel hoses may be discontinued after the incorporation of Rolls-Royce Modifications 1455 or 1467 and that the inspections of the oil pressure hoses may be discontinued after the incorporation of Rolls-Royce Modification 1453.

Interested persons are invited to participate in the making of the proposed rule by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should identify the docket number and be submitted in duplicate to the Federal Aviation Administration, Office of the General Counsel, Attention: Rules Docket, 800 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20590. All communications received on or before August 14, 1967, will be considered by the Administrator before taking action upon the proposed rule. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received. All comments will be available, both before and after the closing date for comments, in the Rules Docket for examination by interested persons.

This amendment is proposed under the authority of sections 313(a), 601, and 603 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1421, and 1423).

In consideration of the foregoing, it is proposed to amend § 39.13 of Part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

ROLLS-ROYCE. Applies to Dart Model 542-4 and 542-10 engines.

Compliance required as indicated, unless already accomplished. To prevent failure of fuel and oil hoses, accomplish the following:

(a) For fuel hoses, P/N's RU.21448, RK.-38339A, RK.29902, RK.38340A, RU.21447, RK.-29900A, RK.38361, RU.21455A, RK.29901A, and oil pressure indicator hose P/N RU.-21440A, with 700 or more hours total time in service on the effective date of this AD, within the next 100 hours' time in service after the effective date of this AD and at intervals thereafter not to exceed 125 hours' time in service from the last inspection, remove and inspect for cracks and crazing in accordance with Rolls-Royce Alert Service Bulletin DA73-A49 or later ARB-approved issue, or FAA-approved equivalent.

(b) For fuel hoses, P/N's RU.21448, RK.1-38339A, RK.29902, RK.38340A, RU.21447, RK.-29900A, RK.38361, RU.21455A, RK.29901A, and oil pressure indicator hose P/N RU.-21440A, with less than 700 hours' time in service on the effective date of this AD, before the accumulation of 800 hours' time in service and at intervals thereafter not to exceed 125 hours' time in service from the last inspection, remove and inspect for cracks and crazing in accordance with Rolls-Royce Alert Service Bulletin Da 73-A49 or later ARB-approved issue, or FAA-approved equivalent.

(c) If cracking or crazing of the hose is detected during the inspections required by (a) and (b), before further flight, replace with a new assembly.

(d) The repetitive inspections required under (a) or (b) for the fuel hoses may be discontinued following the incorporation of ARB-approved Rolls-Royce Modification 1455 or 1467, or FAA-approved equivalent.

(e) The repetitive inspections required under (a) or (b) for the oil pressure indicator hoses may be discontinued following the incorporation of ARB-approved Rolls-Royce Modification 1453, or FAA-approved equivalent.

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 7, 1967.

Proposed Alteration

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amending Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations which would alter the Albuquerque, N. Mex., control zone. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The official Docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Office of the Regional Counsel, Southwest Region, Federal Aviation Administration, Fort Worth, Tex. An informal Docket will also be available for examination at the Office of the Chief, Air Traffic Division.

It is proposed that the Albuquerque, N. Mex., control zone, as described in FAR, Part 71, § 71.171 (32 F.R. 2072) be amended to read:

ALBUQUERQUE, N. MEX.

Within a 5-mile radius of Albuquerque Sunport Airport/Kirtland AFB (latitude 35°02'42" N., longitude 106°36'02" W.); within 2 miles each side of the extended centerline of Runway 35, extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 7 miles N of the N end of Runway 35; within 8 miles each side of the extended centerline of Runway 17, extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 8 miles S of the S end of Runway 17; and within 2 miles each side of the Albuquerque VORTAC 090° radial, extending from the 5-mile radius zone to the VORTAC.

This amendment is proposed under the authority of section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1348).

Issued in Fort Worth, Tex., on July 6, 1967.

OBJECTS AFFECTING NAVIGABLE AIRSPACE

Notice of Proposed Rule Making

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amendments that would make minor substantive changes and editorial corrections to Part 77 of the Federal Aviation Regulations.

Interested persons are invited to participate in the making of the proposed rule by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should identify the regulatory docket or notice number and be submitted in duplicate to the Federal Aviation Administration, Office of the General Counsel, Attention: Rules Docket, 800 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20590. All communications received on or before September 1, 1967, will be considered by the Administrator before taking action upon the proposed rule. The proposals contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received. All comments will be available, both before and after the closing date for comments, in the Rules Docket for examination by interested persons.

Currently, subdivisions (i), (ii), and (iii) of § 77.13(a)(2), and paragraph (a)(4) of § 77.13 specify that the notice requirements of paragraph (a) of § 77.13 apply to certain construction or alteration proposals on or near any airport, if that airport is listed in the Airport Directory of the current Airman's Information Manual or is operated by a Federal military agency. Consequently, civil airports in the Alaska and Pacific Regions are excluded because they are listed in the Alaska and Pacific Airman's Guide and Chart Supplement and not in the Airport Directory. Furthermore, airports that are planned, proposed, or under construction are not listed in any of the above-mentioned publications.

This amendment proposes to make the notice requirements of paragraph (a) of § 77.13 applicable to proposals near an airport that is listed in the current Alaska or Pacific Airman's Guide and Chart Supplement, or is a planned or proposed airport or airport under construction, that is the subject of a notice or proposal on file with the FAA. This would be in addition to the present requirement applicable to construction or alteration proposals near an airport that is either listed in the Airport Directory of the current Airman's Information Manual or is operated by a Federal military agency. Additionally, the proposed amendment specifies that the affected airport must be available for public use.

The runway lengths referred to in subdivisions (i) and (ii) of § 77.13(a)(2) are the actual lengths of the runways and should not be confused with corrected runway lengths. The amendment would avoid possible confusion by using the term "actual length" in each instance.

Paragraph (a)(3) of § 77.13 refers to an interstate highway but does not define this term. This proposal would limit this reference to highways designated as part of the National System of Military and Interstate Highways. These highways are designated by a "blue shield," i.e., US No. 95, and are designed with minimum vertical clearance of 17 feet at crossings.

Paragraph (a)(5) of § 77.13 requires a notice of proposed construction or alteration when requested by the FAA. The objective of this Part is to provide notice to the FAA of proposed construction that would be an obstruction to air navigation. If the FAA is aware of the construction already, it obviously has no need of further notice of that construction. Since the FAA has not utilized this provision and it serves no useful purpose, it is proposed to delete this requirement.

Paragraph (c) of § 77.15 presently identifies certain types of objects, the locations and heights of which are fixed by their functional purposes, for which notice is not required. FAA-approved aircraft arresting devices are not named in this paragraph, therefore, a strict interpretation of this paragraph might not include FAA-approved aircraft arresting devices. To avoid this possibility, § 77.15(c) should be amended to include specifically an "aircraft arresting device". Additionally, certain editorial changes are proposed that would eliminate unnecessary repetition.

Section 77.17 lists the Regional offices of the FAA and specifies that the notice of construction required by § 77.13(a) shall be submitted to the applicable Regional office. The FAA has now established area offices and it is proposed that the notice of construction be submitted to the Area Manager of the Federal Aviation Area Office having jurisdiction over the area in which the construction or alteration will be located. A list of the area offices and the areas covered by each office is shown for the convenience of the public.

Section 77.21 states the scope of Subpart C—Obstruction Standards which replaced and revoked similar standards in Technical Standard Order TSO/N18 when Part 77 was revised effective May 1, 1965. The third sentence of § 77.21(a) would be reworded to state more clearly the applicability of the standards to navigation facilities and controlled airspace. Section 77.21(6) would be revised to include a reference to the airports listed in the Alaska and Pacific Airman's Guide, and would require that a civil airport must be available for public use to come within the classes of airports to which this Part is applicable.

Section 77.23 contains the standards for determining obstructions. In that section it is proposed to combine that portion of the standard contained in paragraph (a)(3) with the related information in paragraph (c).

It is proposed to clarify the fact that there are two ends to a primary surface by changing the phrase "the end of the primary surface" to "each end of the primary surface" as it appears in paragraph (b) and (c) of § 77.27.

It is proposed to amend § 77.39 to clarify the fact that a determination to which § 77.39(d) is applicable may be revised or extended under the provisions of § 77.37(b). This is in accordance with the FAA's interpretation of that section, and effects no substantive change therein.

In consideration of the foregoing, it is proposed to amend Part 77 as hereinafter set forth:

1. Paragraph (a)(2), (3), (4) and (5) of § 77.13 would be amended as follows:

§ 77.13 Construction or alteration requiring notice.

(a) * * *

(2) Any construction or alteration of greater height than an imaginary surface extending outward and upward at one of the following slopes:

(i) 100 to 1 for a horizontal distance of 20,000 feet from the nearest point of the nearest runway of each airport specified in subparagraph (5) of this paragraph with at least one runway more than 3,200 feet in actual length, excluding heliports and seaplane bases without specified boundaries.

(ii) 50 to 1 for a horizontal distance of 10,000 feet from the nearest point of the nearest runway of each airport specified in subparagraph (5) of this paragraph with its longest runway no more than 3,200 feet in actual length, excluding heliports and seaplane bases without specified boundaries.

(iii) 25 to 1 for a horizontal distance of 5,000 feet from the nearest point of the nearest landing and takeoff area of each heliport specified in subparagraph (5) of this paragraph.

(3) Any highway, railroad, or other traverse way for mobile objects, of a height which if adjusted upward 17 feet for an Interstate Highway that is part of the National System of Military and Interstate Highways where overcrossings are designed for a minimum of 17 feet vertical distance, 15 feet for other highways, 25 feet for a railroad, and, for any other traverse way, an amount equal to the height of the highest unshielded mobile objects that would normally traverse it, would exceed a standard of subparagraph (1) or (2) of this paragraph.

(4) Any construction or alteration on an airport specified in subparagraph (5) of this paragraph.

* * * * *

(5) Paragraph (a) applies to any of the following airports, and to seaplane bases with specified boundaries.

(i) An airport that is available for public use and is listed in the "Airport Directory" of the current Airman's Information Manual or in either the Alaska or Pacific Airman's Guide and Chart Supplement.

(ii) A planned or proposed airport or an airport under construction, that is the subject of a notice or proposal on file with the Federal Aviation Administration, provided, except for military airports, it is clearly indicated that that airport will be available for public use.

(iii) An airport that is operated by an Armed Force of the United States.

* * * * *

2. Section 77.15(c) would be amended to read as follows:

§ 77.15 Construction or alteration not requiring notice.

* * * * *

(c) Any air navigation facility, airport visual approach or landing aid, aircraft arresting device, or meteorological device, approved by the Administrator, the location and height of which is fixed by its functional purpose.

* * * * *

4. The third sentence of § 77.21(a) and paragraph (c) would be amended to read as follows:

§ 77.21 Scope.

(a) * * * The standards apply to an existing air navigation facility and to the use of navigable airspace by aircraft, such as an air navigation aid, airport, Federal airway, instrument approach procedure, approved off-airway route, control zone, or transition area. (1) Available for public use and is listed in the "Airport Directory" of the current Airman's Information Manual or in either the Alaska or Pacific Airman's Guide and Chart Supplement; or,

(2) A planned or proposed airport or an airport under construction, that is the subject of a notice or proposal on file with the Federal Aviation Administration, provided, except for military airports, it is clearly indicated that that airport will be available for public use; or,

(3) An airport that is operated by an Armed Force of the United States.

* * * * *

5. Section 77.23(a)(8) would be amended to read as follows:

(a) * * *

(8) The surface of a takeoff and landing area of an airport or any imaginary surface established under § 77.25, 77.27, 77.28, or 77.29. However, no part of the takeoff and landing area itself may be considered an obstruction. Each airport imaginary surface that is established for a civil airport is based on runway lengths corrected in accordance with the current FAA airport design standards to no gradient and standard conditions of temperature and elevation.

6. Section 77.23(c) would be deleted.

7. The first sentence of paragraph (b), paragraph (c), the first sentence in paragraphs (c) (1), (2) (i), (ii), and (iii) of § 77.27 would be amended by striking out the words "at the end of the primary surface" and inserting "at each end of the runway" in place thereof.

8. Section 77.39(b) would be amended to read as follows:

§ 77.39 Effective period of determination of no hazard.

* * * * *

(b) In any case, including determinations to which paragraph (d) of this section applies, where the proposed construction or alteration has not been started during the applicable period by actual structural work, such as the laying of a foundation, but not including excavation, any interested person may, at least 15 days before the date the final determination expires, petition the FAA official who issued the determination to:

(1) Revise the determination based on new facts that change the basis on which it was made; or

(2) Extend its effective period.

* * * * *

This amendment is proposed under the authority of sections 307, 313 and 1101 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1348, 1354, and 1501).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 6, 1967.

[47 CFR Part 73]

[Docket No. 17585; FCC 67-803]

EDUCATIONAL RESERVATIONS AT SAVANNAH, PEMBROKE, COLUMBUS, AND WARM SPRINGS, GA.

Table of Assignments

1. On March 30, 1967, the Georgia State Board of Education (the Board) filed a petition for rule making requesting that the Commission change the assignments of Channel *9— from Savannah, Ga., to Pembroke, Ga., and of Channel *28 from Columbus, Ga., to Warm Springs, Ga. No statements in opposition to the petition have been filed.

2. The Board points out that it is licensee of Station WVAN–TV, which is operating on Channel *9 about 1 mile from Pembroke, and about 30 miles from Savannah. Station WJSP–TV is being operated on Channel *28 within 3 miles of Warms Springs, approximately 30 miles from Columbus. The locations of WVAN–TV and WJSP–TV were selected as part of an overall plan to achieve statewide coverage.

3. The identification of WVAN–TV with Savannah and of WJSP–TV with Columbus is confusing viewers. Complaints have been received from people who have been unable to find listings of the stations in the Savannah and Columbus newspapers and who have had mail addressed to the stations at these localities returned to them by the post office. Therefore, the Board requests that the channels involved be reassigned to the cities requested.

4. Since Stations WVAN–TV and WJSP–TV are operating at locations considerably removed from the communities listed in the Table of Assignments, we are proposing to adjust the pattern of educational television broadcast channels in Georgia by shifting Channel *9— from Savannah to Pembroke and Channel *28 from Columbus to Warm Springs. The above changes will not require any other changes in the Table of Assignments and will have no impact on the unassigned channels available for use in the areas.

5. Accordingly, pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4(i), 303 and 307(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended: it is proposed to amend the Table of Assignments in § 73.606(b) of the Commission rules by changing channel assignments in the State of Georgia, as follows:

City	Channel Nos.
	Present	Proposed
Savannah, Ga.	3+, *9—, 11, 22	3+, 11, 22, *9—
Pembroke, Ga.		3, 9+, 38, 54, *22, *28
Columbus, Ga.	3, 9+, *28, 38, 54, *22
Warm Springs, Ga.

6. Pursuant to applicable procedures set out in section 1.415 of the Commission rules, interested parties may file comments on or before August 14, 1967, and reply comments on or before August 24, 1967. All submissions by parties to this proceeding or by persons acting in behalf of such parties must be made in written comments, reply comments or other appropriate pleadings.

7. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.419 of the rules, and original and 14 copies of all written comments, replies, pleadings, briefs, or other documents shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: July 5, 1967.

Released: July 10, 1967.

[Docket No. 17561; FCC 67-797]

SPECIAL EMERGENCY RADIO SERVICE

Medical Associations Eligible for Authorizations

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. The Special Emergency Radio Service was established to provide radio communications for certain activities relating to the safety of life and property. Section 89.507 of the rules makes the service available to physicians for communications relating to the safety of life and for urgent messages relating to their medical duties. In many areas of the country physicians rely heavily on their local medical societies for such services as receiving and relaying telephone requests for medical aid from patients, and arranging for available physicians to respond to calls for medical aid during evenings, weekends and holidays. These functions of medical societies also clearly relate to the safety of life and come within the scope of the Special Emergency Radio Service. Therefore, it would appear that medical societies should have access to this service for radio facilities which would aid in discharging these functions more efficiently. This would be consistent with the purpose for which that Service was established and with the types of communications permitted in § 89.507.

3. Individual doctors may, of course, establish joint communications systems on a cooperative nonprofit basis under the provisions of § 89.13 of our rules. Many of these systems operated under § 89.13 have been integrated or are associated closely with the above-mentioned services offered by medical societies, which indicates that these cooperative systems used by physicians can be best operated by or under the auspices of local medical societies.

4. Accordingly, we propose to amend § 89.507 of our rules to make medical associations eligible for radio station authorizations in Special Emergency Radio Service. Under our proposal, eligibility to the Special Emergency Radio Service would be limited to associations and societies which are chartered by a national, state, or regional medical association or society, such as the American Medical Association. However, eligibility would not be confined to the chapters of the AMA, but would be extended to any bona fide medical association or society. Associations formed for the primary purpose of rendering a communications service to their members would not qualify. Physicians who would wish to operate a joint radio system independent from the local medical society would, of course, be able to do so under the provisions of § 89.13.

5. Medical societies would be eligible in Special Emergency to obtain a license to operate a system for the transmission of messages relating to safety of life, and to the medical duties of their member physicians, including, of course, relaying such messages to individual doctors. The association would be permitted to transmit messages only to its members who are eligible to hold licenses in their own names. Service would be rendered on a nonprofit, cost-sharing basis. Records which reflect this cost-sharing, nonprofit basis would be maintained by the association and held available for inspection by Commission representatives.

6. Authority for the proposed amendments is contained in sections 4(i) and 303 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

7. Pursuant to applicable procedures set forth in § 1.415 of the Commission's rules, interested persons may file comments on or before August 14, 1967, and reply comments on or before August 24, 1967. All relevant and timely comments and reply comments will be considered by the Commission before final action is taken in this proceeding. In reaching its decision, the Commission may also take into account other relevant information before it, in addition to the specific comments invited by this notice.

8. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.419 of the Commission's rules and regulations, an original and 14 copies of all statements, briefs, and comments filed should be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: July 5, 1967.

Released: July 10, 1967.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,[1]
[SEAL] BEN F. WAPLE,

Section 89.507 of the Commission's rules would be amended to read as follows:

§ 89.507 Physicians and veterinarians.

(a) Eligibility. The following are eligible for authorizations in the Special

[1] Commissioners Bartley and Cox dissenting, Commissioner Wadsworth absent.

Emergency Radio Service under this category:

(1) An individual physician or a school of medicine;

(2) An association of physicians in a locality (such as county, city, a metropolitan area) which is chartered by a national, state, or regional association of physicians; and

(3) A veterinarian or a school of veterinary medicine.

(b) Eligibility showing. The initial application shall be accompanied by a statement in sufficient detail to permit a ready determination of the applicant's eligibility. Any subsequent application may refer to information previously filed if there has been no change in the status of the applicant's eligibility. In the event changes have occurred which affect the original eligibility statements, a new showing must accompany the application.

(c) Class and number of stations available. Each physician, veterinarian, school of medicine, or school of veterinary medicine normally may be authorized to operate not more than one base station and two mobile units. Additional base stations or mobile units will be authorized only in exceptional circumstances when the applicant can show a specific need therefor.

(d) Permissable communications. Except for test transmissions as permitted by § 89.151, stations authorized under this section may be used as follows:

(1) Stations licensed to physicians, schools of medicine, veterinarians, or to schools of veterinary medicine may be used only for the transmission of messages pertaining to the safety of life or property and urgent messages relating to the medical duties of the licensee.

(2) Stations authorized to associations of physicians may be used only for the transmission of messages pertaining to safety of life and urgent messages relating to the medical duties of those members of the association who would be eligible for authorization under paragraph (a) of this section. Radio Service may be rendered only on a nonprofit, cost-sharing basis.

Notice of Decision on Application for Duty Free Entry of Scientific Article

The following is a decision on an application for duty free entry of a scientific article pursuant to section 6(c) of the Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Materials Importation Act of 1966 (Public Law 89-651; 80 Stat. 897) and the regulations issued thereunder (32 F.R. 2433 et seq.).

A copy of the record pertaining to this decision is available for public review during ordinary business hours of the Department of Commerce, at the Office of Scientific and Technical Equipment, Department of Commerce, Room 5123, Washington, D.C. 20230.

Docket No. 67-00030-06-46040. Applicant: University of California, Lawrence Radiation Laboratory, End of East Avenue, Livermore, Calif. 94550. Article: Electron Microscope-Hitachi Model HU-125. Manufacturer: Hitachi, Ltd., Japan. Intended use of article: Applicant states:

This instrument will be used for research purpose by the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory under Contract No. W-7405-ENG-48 with the Atomic Energy Commission. Specific use will be in studies of "High Z" materials such as uranium alloys and other materials which, because of their nature, cannot be thinned properly. The behaviour of "High Z" materials is such that an electron microscope of 125 KV is needed to provide adequate penetration.

Comments: Comments were received from one domestic manufacturer, Radio Corporation of America (RCA), which alleged inter alia that "RCA model No. EMU-4 Electron Microscope is of equivalent scientific value to the instrument for which duty-free entry has been requested for the purposes stated in the application for which the instrument is intended to be used." (RCA comment, May 5, 1967, par. (3).) Decision: Application approved. No instrument or apparatus of equivalent scientific value to such article, for the purposes for which such article is intended to be used, is being manufactured in the United States. Reasons: Applicant intends to use the foreign article in studies of "High Z" materials such as uranium alloys and other materials which, because of their nature, cannot be thinned properly. (Exhibit II to application.) Since these specimens cannot be made sufficiently thin, the electron microscope must be capable of furnishing an electron beam with adequate penetrating power for the thicker samples. Because penetrating power is a function of accelerating voltage, this characteristic is pertinent to the purpose for which the foreign article is intended to be used. The foreign article offers a maximum of 100 kilovolts. The domestic manufacturer claims that the 100 kilovolt capability of the EMU-4 provides sufficient accelerating voltage for the purposes for which the foreign article is intended to be used and that the additional 11.5 percent penetrating power provided by the foreign article is not a pertinent characteristic. (RCA comment, par. (4).) The applicant notes that the increase in penetrating power is around 15 percent and that a 20-percent increase has been demonstrated experimentally. (Letter from applicant dated May 12, 1967, p. 1.)

However, even a difference of 11.5 percent in penetrating power is significant because of the additional information derived from observation of the thicker samples which are representative of the major portion of materials to be investigated with the use of the foreign article. Therefore, we find that the RCA electron microscope is not of equivalent scientific value to the foreign article for the purposes for which such article is intended to be used.

The Department of Commerce knows of no other instrument or apparatus which is of equivalent scientific value to the foreign article for the purposes for which the article is intended to be used and which is being manufactured in the United States.

CHARLEY M. DENTON,
Director, Office of Scientific and Technical Equipment, Business and Defense Services Administration.

UNION CARBIDE CORP.

Notice of Allocation of Hospital Ship "U.S.S. Haven"

In F.R. Doc. 67-5699 appearing in the FEDERAL REGISTER issue of May 20, 1967 (32 F.R. 7512), notice was given that pursuant to the Ship Exchange Act (sec. 510(1) of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936, as added by Public Law 86-575 and amended by Public Law 89-254, 46 U.S.C. 1160(1)), one C4-S-B2 Hospital Ship, U.S.S. Haven, owned by the United States of America, represented by the Secretary of Commerce, acting by and through the Maritime Administrator, was available for trade-out to a nonsubsidized American-flag steamship operator in exchange for its older and less efficient ship in accordance with the terms therein stated.

On the basis of a review of applications received in relation to the criteria for assignment of the ship as stated in the notice, the U.S.S. Haven has been assigned by the Acting Maritime Administrator to Union Carbide Corporation subject to the applicant agreeing to:

(1) Convert the U.S.S. Haven to a chemical carrier of approximately 27,000 deadweight tons in accordance with conversion plans approved by the Maritime Administration.

(2) Qualify for the ship exchange in accordance with the provisions of the Ship Exchange Act, P.L. 86-575, as amended, and with the requirements of General Order 92 (27 F.R. 2011).

(3) Accept the ship assignment within 10 days and enter in a Ship Exchange Contract within 90 days after the receipt of notice of assignment, unless additional time is granted by the Maritime Administration for good cause. The assignment is contingent upon the execution of a shipyard contract or commitment for the contemplated conversion not later than the time of the execution of the exchange contract. The allocation is contingent upon the applicant meeting all other requirements for the exchanges involved.

(4) In the event the assignment is rejected or the applicant does not comply with the conditions of assignment, the Maritime Administration reserves the right to rescind the assignment and take such action with respect to the ship as it may deem appropriate.

(5) The Maritime Administration, without obligation to the applicant, reserves the right to cancel the assignment prior to the execution of an exchange contract, if it determines for good cause that it would be in the public interest to do so, or that the applicant is not proceeding promptly and in good faith to comply with the conditions of the assignment.

(6) The Ship Exchange Contract will contain provisions requiring that the applicant complete the conversion of the U.S.S. Haven substantially in accordance with plans approved by the Maritime Administration within 18 months after execution of the Ship Exchange Contract, unless additional time is granted by the Maritime Administration for good cause. The exchange contract will provide that in the event the applicant fails to complete the conversion within the time stipulated, there shall become due and payable liquidated damages in the sum of $1,000 per day for failure to complete the conversion and should this default continue for a period of more than 60 days, the exchange contract will be subject to termination at the option of the Maritime Administration in which event title and possession of the U.S.S. Haven will be returned to the U.S. Government, without obligation to the applicant.

(7) The assignment of the U.S.S. Haven is conditioned upon title to the ship being taken by the applicant or a closely related company.

By order of the Acting Maritime Administrator.

Dated: July 10, 1967.

Acting Secretary.

CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

[Docket No. 18562; Order No. E-25395]

BUKER AIRWAYS, INC.

Order To Show Cause

Issued under delegated authority July 10, 1967.

Petition of Buker Airways, Inc., for the establishment of a final service mail rate for the transportation of mail.

Buker Airways, Inc. (Buker), an air taxi operator providing air transportation under the provisions of Part 298 of the Board's Economic Regulations, by petition filed May 16, 1967, has requested the Board to establish a final service mail rate of 78 cents per mile for the transportation of mail by aircraft between Boston, New York, Pittsburgh, and Cincinnati. Buker states that it would use Lear Jet Model 24 aircraft in performing the service, would provide backup aircraft for the operation, and would be responsible for loading and unloading the aircraft at all points served.

Buker states in its petition that the proposed rate will cover the fully allocated costs of the services to be performed. In its answer, the Post Office supports the proposed rate and states it considers it to be fair and reasonable for this service. It further states that the proposed service will eliminate presently existing schedule deficiencies in these markets, and that the schedules to be provided and the terms and conditions set forth in the petition will properly satisfy postal requirements. No objection has been filed to the level of the proposed rate.

By Order E-25395, July 10, 1967, in this Docket, the Board determined to permit Buker to provide the proposed air transportation of mail for the period terminating December 31, 1968. Since no mail rate is presently in effect for this carrier in these markets, it is necessary to fix and determine the fair and reasonable rate of compensation to be paid to Buker by the Postmaster General for the air transportation of mail.

The Board, therefore, finds it in the public interest to fix and determine the fair and reasonable rate of compensation to be paid to Buker by the Postmaster General for the transportation of mail by aircraft, the facilities used and useful therefor, and the services connected therewith, between the aforesaid points. Upon consideration of the petition, the Postmaster General's answer thereto, and the matters officially noticed, the Board proposes to issue an order[1] to include the following findings and conclusions:

1. That the fair and reasonable final service mail rate to be paid to Buker Airways, Inc., pursuant to section 406 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 for the transportation of mail by aircraft, as authorized by Order E-25395, July 10, 1967, the facilities used and useful therefor, and the services connected therewith, shall be 78 cents per aircraft mile for Lear Jet Model 24 aircraft and other aircraft of similar capacity.

2. The final service mail rate here fixed and determined is to be paid in its entirety by the Postmaster General.

Accordingly, pursuant to the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, and particularly sections 204(a) and 406 thereof, the regulations promulgated in 14 CFR Part 302, and the authority delegated by the Board in 14 CFR 385.14(f),

It is ordered, That:

1. All interested persons, and particularly Buker Airways, Inc., the Postmaster General, Trans World Airlines, Inc., Allegheny Airlines, Inc., American Airlines, Inc., Mohawk Airlines, Inc., Piedmont Aviation, Inc., and United Air Lines, Inc., are directed to show cause why the Board should not adopt the foregoing proposed findings and conclusions and fix, determine, and publish the final rate specified above as the fair and reasonable rate of compensation to be paid to Buker Airways, Inc., for the transportation of mail by aircraft, the facilities used and useful therefor and the services connected therewith as specified above;

2. Further procedures herein shall be in accordance with 14 CFR Part 302; and, if there is any objection to the rates or to the other findings and conclusions proposed herein, notice thereof shall be filed within 10 days, and if notice is filed, written answer and supporting documents shall be filed within 30 days after the date of service of this order;

3. If notice of objection is not filed within 10 days, or if notice is filed and if answer is not filed within 30 days, after service of this order, all persons shall be deemed to have waived the right to a hearing and all other procedural steps short of a final decision by the Board, and the Board may enter an order incorporating the findings and conclusions proposed herein and fix and determine the final rate specified herein;

4. If answer is filed presenting issues for hearing, the issues involved in determining the fair and reasonable final rate shall be limited to those specifically raised by the answer, except insofar as other issues are raised in accordance with Rule 307 of the rules of practice (14 CFR 302.307); and

5. This order shall be served upon Buker Airways, Inc., the Postmaster General, Trans World Airlines, Inc., Allegheny Airlines, Inc., American Airlines, Inc., Mohawk Airlines, Inc., Piedmont Aviation, Inc., and United Air Lines, Inc.

This order will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

[SEAL] HAROLD R. SANDERSON,
Secretary.

[F.R. Doc. 67-8130; Filed, July 13, 1967; 8:48 a.m.]

[1] As this order to show cause does not constitute a final action and merely affords interested persons an opportunity to be heard on the matters herein proposed, it is not regarded as subject to the review provisions of Part 385 (14 CFR Part 385). The provisions of that part dealing with petitions for Board review will be applicable to any final action which may be taken by the staff in this matter under authority delegated in § 385.-14(f).

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

HOME ECONOMIC SERIES

Prescribed Minimum Educational Requirements

In accordance with section 3308 of title 5, United States Code, the Civil Service Commission has decided that the previously approved minimum educational requirements for positions in the Home Economics Series, GS-493, should be superseded by revised requirements. Identification of the superseded requirements, the revised requirements, the duties of the positions, and the reasons for the Commission's decision that these requirements are necessary are set forth below.

The Home Economics Series, GS-493.

(All positions GS-5 through GS-15.)

Superseded requirements. The following material supersedes that previously published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, August 22, 1964.

Minimum educational requirements. Candidates for Home Economist positions must have successfully completed one of the following requirements:

A. A course of study in an accredited college or university leading to a bachelor's or higher degree with major study in home economics or a closely related discipline or field of science. This course of study must have included at least 20 semester hours in or directly applicable to one or more of the following fields of home economics: Foods and nutrition, home management and household economics, housing and household equipment, textiles and clothing, or child and family development.

B. A total of at least 20 semester hours in home economics, as described in A above, plus a sufficient amount of additional experience or education to total 4 years of education and experience or 4 years of education. The nature and quality of this additional experience or education must have been such that, when combined with the prescribed 20 semester hours in home economics, it would give the candidate a professional knowledge of home economics comparable to that normally gained by successfully completing the course of study described in A above.

Candidates for positions in research, development, and comparable highly technical and scientific functional areas of home economics work must meet the requirements described in A above.

Duties. Home economists perform professional work concerned with the selection, care, use, and management of foods, clothing, housing, and the equipment and furnishings that are used in the home. Some of the work involves studies and investigations concerning consumer and food economics and changing patterns of family living; diets and nutritional levels and the composition, quality, and nutritional values of different foods, in relation to the physiological requirements of the human body; the needs, adequacy, usability, and arrangements of housing space and equipment; and the properties and use of household fabrics. Other work involves the carrying out of programs designed to advise, inform, and instruct the public, professional and consumer groups, or homemakers about such matters as the management of the home or carrying out programs of a specific nature, e.g., school lunch programs, institutional management, military feeding, community development, etc.

Reasons for requirements. Home Economists apply a sound knowledge of the basic biological, physical, and applied sciences, and a more detailed knowledge of one or more specialized fields of home economics in their work. The duties of research and other highly technical and scientific positions are particularly demanding in this respect and may require a detailed and exacting knowledge of home economics and of the tool sciences applied in the work, e.g., chemistry, physics, microbiology, statistics, etc. Appropriate scientific training of this kind can only be acquired at accredited colleges and universities that have appropriate facilities available and a staff of trained instructors who can evaluate the students progress in the various scientific subjects properly.

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION,
[SEAL] JAMES C. SPRY,
Executive Assistant to the Commissioners.

KITTYHAWK BROADCASTING CORP. ET AL.

Memorandum Opinion and Order Enlarging Issues

In re applications of Kittyhawk Broadcasting Corp., Kettering, Ohio, et al., Docket No. 17243, File No. BP-16603, 17244, 17245, 17246, 17247, 17248, 17249, 17250; for construction permits.

1. This proceeding, involving eight applicants for new or changed standard broadcast facilities, was designated for hearing by Memorandum Opinion and Order, FCC 67-256, 7 FCC 2d 153, released March 16, 1967. Presently before the Board is a petition to enlarge and delete issues, filed April 7, 1967, by Kittyhawk Broadcasting Corp. (Kittyhawk),[1] seeking: (1) The addition of financial, programing, and overlap issues[2] against the Gem City Broadcasting Co. (Gem City); (2) the addition of technical, transmitter site, and financial issues against Western Ohio Broadcasting Service, Inc. (Western Ohio); and (3) the deletion of an air hazard issue against Kittyhawk.[3]

Gem City's financial qualifications. 2. In support of its request for the addition of financial issues against Gem City, Kittyhawk asserts that Gem City will require approximately $259,133 (including repayment of principal and interest on a proposed bank loan) to construct and operate its proposed station for 1 year and that Gem City has only $186,000 available (a $100,000 bank loan commitment; a $36,000 equipment credit; and $50,000 in stock subscriptions) to meet its total first year costs. Kittyhawk further alleges that part of the funds relied upon may not be available. Specifically, it is argued that, because of unrevealed liabilities, Arthur M. Beerman, Chairman of the Board of Gem City, will not be able to meet his financial commitments, totaling $30,000 (a $25,000 stock subscription and an agreement to loan Thomas Andrews $5,000 to meet his stock subscription) to Gem City. The accuracy and relevance of portions of Beerman's balance sheet are questioned. Kittyhawk also contends that Gem City's estimated revenues, $166,200, cannot be relied upon because they are not adequately supported. Finally, it is suggested that due to the alleged failure of Gem City to supply pertinent updated financial information concerning Arthur M. Beerman, a section 1.65 issue would be warranted against Gem City.

3. In opposition, Gem City first disputes as erroneous Kittyhawk's contention that approximately $259,133 will be required by Gem City to construct and operate its proposed station for the first year. Gem City claims that repayment on the bank loan is not required for the first 3 years, and therefore that it requires only $219,470 to construct and operate its proposed station for the first year.[4] Gem City refers to an amendment to its application (accepted on May 15, 1967, FCC 67M-818), which adds the following financial information to its application: (1) An updated bank commitment letter raising the amount of the loan to Gem City from $100,000 to $150,000; (2) a current balance sheet for Thomas B. Andrews, Executive Vice President of Gem City; (3) a current balance sheet for Arthur M. Beerman; and (4) nine advertising commitment letters totalling $84,700. As to the ability of Arthur M. Beerman to meet his commitments, Gem City asserts that even if Beerman were unable to fulfill his obligations to Gem City, it would still have a surplus of funds; and that Beerman's net worth of $6,062,463.53 and his current liquid assets of $650,114.52 (as opposed to current liabilities of $506,553) render absurd petitioner's contention that he cannot supply $30,000 to Gem City. Finally, Gem City asserts that its estimated revenues for the first year, $166,200, are based on studies of the Dayton market and on knowledge of the area. The Broadcast Bureau, opposing the addition of any financial issues against Gem City,[5] argues that it is unreasonable to assume that Arthur M. Beerman could not raise $30,000 when his total net worth exceeds $5 million. According to the Bureau, while Gem City's showing to justify its estimate of revenues, i.e., a study of the Dayton market and knowledge of the area, was not convincing, Kittyhawk, which also proposes a station in Kettering, Ohio, has made a convincing showing indicating the availability of approximately $130,000 in revenues, and the showing made by Kittyhawk can be used as a basis for making a finding that Gem City can reasonably expect similar revenues.

4. Kittyhawk, in reply, argues that the interest on the $150,000 bank loan must be paid during the first year of operation, and therefore Gem City's estimate of $219,470 must be increased to $228,470; and the validity of the new bank loan is questionable.[6] With respect to Beerman's commitment to Gem City, Kittyhawk reasserts that his net worth is misleading, because (1) his contingent liabilities are unknown and (2) he faces repayment of $927,500 in 90-day notes, while his current assets total $650,144. Kittyhawk alleges that there are no assurances that these notes will be renewed or that they will continue to be paid off at the current rate of $249,350 annually. Thus, petitioner concludes that Beerman faces an impossible financial situation if the notes are not renewed. Finally, Kittyhawk challenges the nine advertising commitment letters submitted with Gem City's amendment alleging that seven of the nine companies which wrote the letters are affiliated with Beerman's enterprises or are controlled by other Gem City stockholders; that the two companies not so controlled would provide only $17,000 in revenues; and that the letter from one company is not a firm advertising commitment.

5. Gem City's amended application reflects that it will require a maximum sum of approximately $228,470 (if, as Kittyhawk contends, interest payments on the proposed bank loan must be paid during the first year) in order to construct and operate the proposed station for 1 year.[7] The Board is of the opinion that Gem City has adequately demonstrated that it can meet this requirement. The $150,000 bank loan commitment, contained in Gem City's amendment, is firm and complete. The facts that the commitment requires the personal guarantees of seven of Gem City's stockholders and that a corporation owned by one of those stockholders is in bankruptcy do not raise sufficient doubt as to the availability of the loan as to require the addition of an issue in this regard. In the absence of some evidence to the contrary, we must assume that stockholders of an applicant are willing to abide by the terms of a loan agreement that applicant submits, particularly where, as here, this question is raised in a reply pleading. Moreover,

[1] Also before the Board are the following related pleadings: (a) Opposition, filed Apr. 28, 1967, by the Gem City Broadcasting Co.; (b) errata, filed May 1, 1967, by Gem City; (c) opposition, filed Apr. 26, 1967, by Western Ohio Broadcasting Service, Inc.; (d) petition to accept late filing, filed May 1, 1967, by the Broadcast Bureau; (e) comments, filed May 1, 1967, by the Broadcast Bureau; (f) reply to Gem City's opposition, filed May 12, 1967, by Kittyhawk; and (g) reply to Western Ohio's opposition, filed May 12, 1967, by Kittyhawk.

[2] Specifically here, Kittyhawk seeks an issue to determine whether the applications of Gem City and Treaty City Radio, Inc., are mutually exclusive. In a Memorandum Opinion and Order, FCC 67R-225, released June 6, 1967, the Board, in disposing of a motion filed by Gem City, ruled that the two applications are not mutually exclusive. For the reasons set forth in the forementioned document, Kittyhawk's request for an issue inquiring into this matter will therefore be denied.

[3] The petition was filed 2 days after the time required for filing petitions to enlarge issues. Section 1.229(b) of the Commission's rules. The late filing was allegedly caused by a misunderstanding on the part of Kittyhawk's attorney regarding the date the issues in this proceeding were published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The Board finds that good cause has been shown to permit consideration of the pleading.

[4] Gem City's estimate is as follows:

Cost of operations for the first year	$152,630
Equipment down payment	12,000
RCA equipment installment payment for first year	14,640
Other items	40,200

[5] The Bureau's comments regarding Kittyhawk's petition should have been filed on Apr. 28, 1967; however, due to the workload of the Commission's duplicating division, they were filed on May 1, 1967. Since no party has been prejudiced by the late filing and since no party objects to the consideration of the Bureau's comments, the Bureau's petition to accept late filing will be granted.

[6] Kittyhawk argues that the loan is conditioned upon the personal guarantee of Gem City's stockholders; that one of the stockholder's assets consists solely of stock in a grocery chain which recently filed a bankruptcy petition; that the bankruptcy petition destroys the validity of the stockholder's guarantee; and that none of the stockholders named in the bank letter have furnished a guarantee to the bank or have assured the Commission that they will personally guarantee the $150,000 loan.

[7] Except with regard to the repayment of principal and interest on the bank loan, no question is raised concerning Gem City's estimate of construction and initial operation costs.

there is no reference in the commitment letter to the financial condition of any of the seven named guarantors, and the contention that the bank would not meet its commitment because a corporation owned by one of the guarantors was in bankruptcy is mere conjecture. In our view, Kittyhawk has also failed to raise a substantial question regarding the availability of Gem City's $50,000 in stock subscriptions. Beerman's balance sheet reflects over $10 million in total assets and net worth of more than $6 million.[1] Although Beerman has not disclosed the extent of his contingent liabilities, we fail to see how such a disclosure could compel a conclusion that he will be unable to meet his $30,000 commitment. Finally, we agree with the Broadcast Bureau that the remaining $28,470 required by Gem City can be obtained from first year's revenues. Gem City has furnished firm advertising commitments for more than this amount,[2] and the Board has recently credited Kittyhawk with a portion of its $130,000 in estimated revenues for Kettering. See the memorandum opinion and order cited in note 2, supra. The requested financial issues will therefore be denied.

Gem City's programing. 6. To support a request for an issue inquiring into the efforts made by Gem City to ascertain community needs and interests and the manner it prepares to meet those needs and interests, Kittyhawk alleges that Gem City's application contains no reference to program preparation efforts; and, although an amendment to Gem City's application, filed on November 28, 1966,. reflects that some survey was made, Gem City's program proposal contains no mention of Kettering, and nine of 12 community leaders contacted indicated that they had not been contacted by Gem City. In opposition, Gem City contends that prior to filing its application, Gem City made an extensive listener survey of the area proposed to be served, including over 231 telephone interviews in one week; that Gem City made numerous community leader contacts; [3] that Gem City did, in fact, contact many of the persons who told Kittyhawk's employee that they had not been contacted; and that the form submitted by Gem City did not require a description of the applicant's survey processes. The Board agrees with the Broadcast Bureau that the showing made in Gem City's opposition clearly establishes that a Suburban issue is not required.

Western Ohio's technical qualifications. 7. Kittyhawk requests the addition of the following technical issues against Western Ohio:

A. To determine whether the minimum required RMS can be realized by the applicant;

B. To determine whether the antenna, as proposed by the applicant, can be maintained;

C. To determine whether the applicant proposes sufficient and suitable technical equipment to operate its proposed station; and

D. Whether in light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues, whether the applicant is technically qualified to construct and operate its proposed station.

8. In support of its request for Issue A, petitioner relies on an analysis by its consulting engineer of Western Ohio's technical proposal, in which he concludes that the minimum required RMS value will not be achieved by Western Ohio. In his affidavit, petitioner's engineer states that "with a normally assumed base loss resistance of 2 ohms, the RMS value for the proposed antenna is 0.1 mv/m above the minimum value of 87.5 mv/m required by § 73.189(b)(2)(ii) of the rules. * * * The ground radials in the easterly and westerly directions are 140 feet (59°) long. Due to the short radials the base loss is expected to be greater than 2 ohms. * * * The outer towers have a negative operating resistance component * * * The presence of two negative towers will result in an unstable and lossy operation. * * * [Therefore] * * * the minimum required RMS value of 87.5 mv/m will not be achieved." In its opposition, Western Ohio, relying on an affidavit of its consulting engineer, disputes the analysis and findings of Kittyhawk's engineer. Western Ohio's engineer concludes that "losses as high as 2 ohms per tower could occur without RMS dropping below the permitted minimum of 87.5 mv/m for 0.25 kw operation. It is not expected that losses will occur to this extent, but they can be tolerated without violation of the rules * * *."

9. The Broadcast Bureau urges the denial of requested Issue A on the ground that Kittyhawk's allegations are not supported by facts. The Bureau contends that Kittyhawk's assumption that the base loss resistance for each of the towers in Western Ohio's proposed directional antenna system is expected to be greater than 2 ohms is not adequately supported; that the Commission's Rules do not specify a particular value of loss resistance to be used in directional antenna calculations; and that the loss resistance, which can be as low as 0.5 ohms, depends on the quality of the installation. The Bureau further contends that the ground system about each tower will exceed 0.25 wavelength, except for a small sector to the east of the east tower and to the west of the west tower where the radials reach a minimum of 0.16 wavelength; that Kittyhawk's engineer fails to acknowledge the compensating effect of the great mass of Western Ohio's proposed ground system which reaches more than 0.25 wavelength from the several towers; and that he offers no calculations or other evidence that Western Ohio's proposed ground system is inadequate or that it would contribute significantly to ground loss.

10. Considering all of the information submitted, Kittyhawk has failed to allege sufficient facts to support its allegation that Western Ohio's proposed directional antenna system cannot be constructed to achieve the minimum RMS. Although Kittyhawk in its reply to oppositions lists calculated losses (based on measured RMS values) in excess of 2 ohms for certain operating broadcast stations, the listing is insufficient to establish that Western Ohio's array can not attain a loss of 2 ohms or less. For example, the listed stations apparently met Commission requirements with no necessity for improving their performance through lower losses. The request for Issue A will be denied substantially for the reasons advanced by the Broadcast Bureau.

11. Kittyhawk also challenges the ability of Western Ohio to maintain its proposed antenna, basing its allegations on the fact that there is a drive-in theater screen at the proposed 1,000 mv/m contour. Kittyhawk's engineer states in his affidavit attached to the petition that the screen cannot be detuned. He further states that "it must be assumed that an irreducible and residual reflection of at least 1 percent of the impinging field will be present * * * The screen will become an uncontrollable part of the directional array." Thus, concludes petitioners engineer, there will result an "unstable operation" and the proposed 25 uv/m contour will penetrate the WCAR measured 0.5 mv/m contour. Western Ohio's engineer disputes this argument in his affidavit, asserting that an "inadvertent error" had been made in the original engineering report where it was indicated that the towers would be located within 300 feet of the drive-in theater screen.[13] The distance will be approximately 1,000 feet, Western Ohio states, and a corrective amendment is being prepared now. Western Ohio's engineer concludes that "the separation from the drive-in theater screen amounting to approximately 0.2 mile, is sufficient so that the problem of reradiation of the signal is of no significance, and the pattern can be adjusted within the maximum expected operating values specified."

[1] Beerman's purchases and loans created no substantial and significant changes in his financial status; therefore, they were not required to be reported under Rule 1.65. Beerman's short term notes, being paid at a rate of $249,360 annually, can be met from the $393,194 in cash shown on the balance sheet.

[2] We do not agree with Kittyhawk that the letters of commitment cannot be relied upon because several of the potential advertisers are owned or controlled by Gem City stockholders.

[3] Gem City specified 14 community leaders contacted prior to filing its application; and 15 such leaders contacted after its application was filed. The results of Gem City's efforts and the manner in which these results are reflected in Gem City's program policy are also set forth.

[13] In an amendment to its application, Western Ohio noted the presence of the drive-in theater screen. In the opinion of the applicant's engineer, the proximity of the screen was not expected to significantly affect the operation of the proposed directive antenna. Besides, possible effects of reradiation were allegedly taken into account in the specification of MEOV. Furthermore, Western Ohio's engineer stated that, if the screen did affect the antenna, steps would be taken to detune the structure.

12. The Broadcast Bureau opposes the addition of Issue B because the allegations made by Kittyhawk and its engineer are unsupported by facts. In its reply, Kittyhawk reasserts that the screen cannot be detuned. The Board agrees with Western Ohio and the Bureau. There is no supporting data to sustain the contention that the drive-in theater screen cannot be detuned. Moreover, Western Ohio's original engineering report apparently erred in indicating the distance between the towers and the drive-in screen. However, even if the distance is not greater than that originally assumed, Kittyhawk's request for Issue B must be denied for failure to support its request with sufficient data or facts concerning alleged reradiation from the screen—the dimensions of which are considerably less than one-quarter wavelength at Western Ohio's proposed operating frequency.[14]

13. In support of its request for Issue C, Kittyhawk argues that Western Ohio has not specified adequate or sufficient equipment to operate its proposed station. Kittyhawk's engineer lists ten items alleged to be necessary for station operation, but not listed by Western Ohio in its application.[15] Petitioner also claims that spare parts for certain technical equipment proposed by Western Ohio may not be available. In opposition, Western Ohio, through its engineer's affidavit, submits a list of equipment on hand and of required items, including some of the items listed by Kittyhawk's engineer. The applicant asserts that a field strength meter has been purchased since its application was filed. The Bureau supports the addition of Issue C if Western Ohio fails to show that it has available the necessary equipment to operate the proposed station.

14. It appears from the equipment lists submitted by the Kittyhawk engineer that various items of equipment, which Kittyhawk contends will be required, have not been provided for by Western Ohio.[16] The Board is unable to resolve, on the basis of the pleadings, whether Western Ohio has sufficient and adequate equipment to construct its proposed station. An issue under which this question can be resolved will therefore be specified.

Western Ohio's transmitter site. 15. Kittyhawk requests an issue to determine whether Western Ohio's transmitter site is available and whether the ownership thereof is as represented by Western Ohio. In its application, Western Ohio represented that "land and housing facilities have been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Coning, majority stockholders of the corporation, and will be rented to the corporation for the AM facilities." Kittyhawk argues that the Conings have not purchased the land and housing being relied upon; that the property in question is presently owned by a Beers family; that the Conings had leased the property from a Robert L. Hudson, Jr., who previously owned the property (a copy of the lease is attached to the petition); that no lease payments have been made to the new owner; and that there are no existing buildings or structures of any kind on the land specified. In opposition, Western Ohio alleges that the proposed station will be housed in a trailer owned by Coning, and regarding its proposed site, that the lease between Stanley Coning and Robert Hudson does not require the lessee (Coning) to make any payments to the property owner unless and until he (the lessee) takes possession of the property. With respect to the charge that the property in question has been sold, Western Ohio contends that it has contacted the County Clerk's Office of Preble County, Ohio, and finds no record of such sale. Finally, Western Ohio states that, according to the agreement between Coning and Hudson (a lease-purchase agreement) the lessee will own the property upon the expiration of the lease. Kittyhawk, in its reply, argues that Western Ohio has not satisfied the question as to the availability of its proposed site. Petitioner contends that while Stanley Coning may have the right to purchase the land in the future, he does not own it now. Furthermore, petitioner asserts that the property is heavily mortgaged and that no steps have been taken to release from the bank's mortgage the land specified by Western Ohio.

16. The Board is of the opinion that Kittyhawk's allegations do not raise a substantial question concerning the availability of Western Ohio's proposed site. The pleadings herein establish that Coning entered into a lease agreement, with an option to purchase, with the then owner of the site; that the owner subsequently entered into a contract to sell the property; and that the contract of sale specifically makes that sale subject to the agreement with Coning.[17] Although the statement contained in Western Ohio's application to the effect that the property has been purchased was not entirely accurate, we do not, in view of the option to purchase arrangement, believe that it raises a question as to Western Ohio's veracity. Finally, Western Ohio's allegation that payments under the lease do not commence until it takes possession of the property is in accord with the terms of the lease, and we fail to see the significance of the fact there is an outstanding mortgage on the property in the absence of some indication that the mortgage payments are not being met or that foreclosure is being contemplated by the mortgagee.

Western Ohio's financial qualifications. 17. In support of its request for issues inquiring into Western Ohio's financial qualifications, Kittyhawk alleges that Western Ohio has estimated a total cost of $22,086 for construction and first year's operation and that such figure is unrealistic.[18] Petitioner contends (1) that the estimated construction costs of $5,936 assume that the land and buildings relied upon by Western Ohio would be rented from Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Coning; and (2) that since it is questionable whether the land is actually owned by the Conings, and that since there are no buildings thereon, construction costs will have to be greater than the figure estimated. Kittyhawk also questions the reliability of Western Ohio's representations that technical equipment would be rented from the Conings, basing its doubts on the alleged discrepancies with respect to the representation regarding the ownership of the land; and reasserts that at least $9,163 in additional equipment will be needed by Western Ohio to effectuate its proposal. It is also alleged that Western Ohio's estimated operating costs of $16,150 are insufficient since such estimate is based on the assumption that no new capital would be necessary to purchase land or equipment or to construct the proposed station. Kittyhawk points out that WCTM–FM, an FM station owned by Western Ohio which will be operated in conjunction with the proposed AM station, suffered losses of $2,830.52 during 1964 and argues that this raises a serious question as to Western Ohio's $39,500 estimate of revenues. Finally, Kittyhawk questions the availability of a $20,000 loan by Mrs. Dorothy Waring to Western Ohio. It is argued that the loan commitment is limited; that Mrs. Waring would not assume alleged financial risks; and that Mrs. Waring is unable to meet her commitment.

18. Western Ohio, in its opposition, states that while there are presently no buildings on its alleged transmitter site, a 47-foot trailer, owned by Stanley Coning, will be at the site and will house the station; and that the seemingly low construction costs are based on the fact that Stanley Coning contemplates doing most of the construction work himself.[19] Coning's expertise and ability, questioned by Kittyhawk, are defended by Western Ohio. It is further contended that Kittyhawk's charges in regard to Western Ohio's estimated operating revenues are speculative. Specifically, Western Ohio alleges that it has submitted to the Commission letters of intent from local merchants who expect to spend a total of $47,850 in advertising during the first year of operation of Western Ohio's proposed AM station. Finally, Western Ohio defends the Waring loan, asserting that the loan is not conditioned upon the discontinuance of the operation of WCTM–FM, Eaton, Ohio; that the loan commitment is "firm and unequivocal"; and that Mrs. Waring

[14] See Denver Area Broadcasters (KDAB), 28 FCC 583, 4 RR 2d 895 (1966).

[16] Three sampling loops; tower foundations; base network housings; four radio frequency meters; and three base isolation coils.

[17] A copy of the sales contract was submitted with Kittyhawk's reply. There is no indication, however, of whether or not the sale was actually consummated.

[18] Western Ohio estimates $5,936 in construction costs, and $16,150 in operating expenses.

[19] Coning allegedly did most of the construction work on WCTM–FM, Western Ohio's FM station at Eaton, Ohio.

is able (her balance sheet shows $25,000 in cash and listed securities) to meet her commitment. In view of Kittyhawk's allegations, the Broadcast Bureau supports the addition of the requested financial issues. In its reply, Kittyhawk challenges Stanley Coning's ability to construct Western Ohio's technical facilities. Petitioner also alleges that a trailer is not a proper structure in which to house radio transmitting equipment; that Western Ohio's FM station in Eaton has had financial difficulty; and that Western Ohio failed in its opposition to answer the many financial questions posed in Kittyhawk's petition.

19. The requested financial issues will be denied. As previously indicated, we disagree with Kittyhawk's contention that Western Ohio has not established reasonable assurance of the availability of its proposed site. (See par. 15, supra.) Nor can we accept Kittyhawk's contentions that Coning would not be able to erect the tower and install the ground system, or that the trailer owned by Coning would be inadequate to house the station in the absence of more specific allegations to support these contentions. Thus, assuming that Western Ohio will require all of the additional equipment as alleged by Kittyhawk, it would require a maximum of $29,078 in order to construct its proposed station and operate for 1 year.[1] To meet this requirement, Western Ohio relies upon a $20,000 loan commitment from one of its stockholders, Dorothy Waring, and revenues. The loan commitment is unconditional, complete and firm on its face; and supported by a balance sheet from the stockholder reflecting $25,000 in liquid assets, $40,000 in total assets, and no liabilities.[2] While not all of the commitment letters from advertisers submitted by Western Ohio are definite and firm, it is clear that Western Ohio should be credited with at least the $9,079 in additional funds needed from these commitments, which total more than the $39,500 which Western Ohio has estimated as first year's revenues. Under these circumstances, further inquiry into Western Ohio's financial qualifications is not warranted.

Air hazard issue. 20. Finally, Kittyhawk requests that the air hazard issue, which is directed against it (Issue 12), be deleted. In support of its request, Kittyhawk submitted a copy of a letter from the Federal Aviation Agency, dated March 17, 1967, which states that the Kittyhawk proposal would not be a hazard to air navigation. This letter was mailed to the Commission one day following the release of the designation order herein. The Broadcast Bureau does not object to the request. In view of the facts that the FAA's notice was sent to the Commission only 1 day after the designation order was released; that the request to the FAA to make the determination was made approximately one month prior to designation; and that none of the parties object, deletion of the air hazard issue would be appropriate. Cf. D. H. Overmeyer Communications Co., FCC 66R-64, 2 FCC 2d 531.

Accordingly, it is ordered, That the petition to enlarge and delete issues, filed April 7, 1967, by Kittyhawk Broadcasting Corp., is granted to the extent indicated below and denied in all other respects; that the petition to accept late filing, filed May 1, 1967, by the Broadcast Bureau, is granted; that the designation order herein, FCC 67-256, released March 16, 1967, is modified by the deletion of Issue 12; and

It is further ordered, That the issues in this proceeding are enlarged by the addition of the following issue:

To determine whether Western Ohio Broadcasting Service, Inc., proposes sufficient and suitable technical equipment to operate its proposed station; and whether in light of the evidence adduced, Western Ohio Broadcasting Service, Inc., is technically qualified to construct and operate its proposed station.

Adopted: June 27, 1967.

Released: July 10, 1967.

Secretary.

[F.R. Doc. 67-8137; Filed, July 13, 1967; 8:48 a.m.]

[1] $22,086, as estimated by Western Ohio; $4,163 in additional equipment; and $2,830 in FM losses. Since Western Ohio does not dispute Kittyhawk's contention that the FM station is operating at a loss, we believe it is appropriate in computing the funds required, to consider whether Western Ohio has sufficient funds to operate both stations. However, Kittyhawk's contention that if Western Ohio received a grant, it would suffer larger FM losses is not supported by adequate factual allegations.

[2] Kittyhawk's allegation that its "investigation" indicates that Mrs. Waring has a net worth of only $12,000 is completely unsupported and must be rejected.

WYOMING

Order Vacating Land Withdrawals in Project Nos. 104 and 1314

JULY 6, 1967.

Application has been filed by the U.S. Forest Service (Applicant) for vacation of the power withdrawals under Section 24 of the Federal Power Act pertaining to the following described lands of the United States:

SIXTH PRINCIPAL MERIDIAN, WYOMING

T. 52 N., R. 108 W.,
Sec. 21, SE¼NE¼, N½SE¼, SE¼SE¼;
Sec. 22, W½SW¼.
(240 acres.)

The lands are within the Shoshone National Forest and are located at the confluence of Kitty Creek and North Fork of Shoshone River.

The lands are withdrawn variously pursuant to the filing on April 18, 1921, of an application for license for Project No. 104, and the filing on May 8, 1935, of an application for license for Project No. 1314. By Commission letters dated April 23, 1921, and June 12, 1936, respectively, notices of the withdrawals were given to the General Land Office, now Bureau of Land Management.

Project No. 104 consisted of, among other project works, a powerhouse containing generating equipment of 6-kilowatt capacity. A 25-year license was issued for the project, effective as of May 27, 1921. Pursuant to application therefor, the Commission accepted surrender of the license by order of March 20, 1936. Project No. 1314 consisted of, among other project works, a powerhouse with 10 horsepower of installed capacity. A 20-year license was issued, effective as of May 24, 1937. The license expired on May 24, 1957.

By letter filed April 14, 1967, Applicant advises that the National Forest land occupied by both projects have been restored to a condition satisfactory to Applicant. According to available records, the area formerly occupied by the projects is being served by a rural electric cooperative.

The Commission finds: The subject lands no longer have power value, and the withdrawals of the lands serve no use for power purposes.

The Commission orders: The power withdrawals of the subject lands pursuant to applications for Project Nos. 104 and 1314 are hereby vacated.

By the Commission.

PANHANDLE EASTERN PIPE LINE CO.

Notice of Petition To Amend

JULY 6, 1967.

Take notice that on June 27, 1967, Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co. (Petitioner), 1 Chase Manhattan Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10005, filed in Docket No. CP66-344 a petition to amend the order issued by the Commission June 6, 1966, as amended August 26, 1966, and January 26, 1967, by authorizing Petitioner to increase the summer contract demand of three existing customers for the period July 1, 1967, to October 31, 1967, all as more fully set forth in the petition to amend which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

PRESIDENT'S CABINET TEXTILE ADVISORY COMMITTEE
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20230.

COMMISSIONER OF CUSTOMS,
Department of the Treasury,
Washington, D.C. 20226.

DEAR MR. COMMISSIONER: Under the terms of the Long Term Arrangement Regarding International Trade in Cotton Textiles done at Geneva on February 9, 1962, pursuant to the bilateral cotton textile agreement of July 17, 1964, as amended on May 23, 1966, between the United States and Greece, and in accordance with the procedures outlined in Executive Order 11052 of September 28, 1962, as amended by Executive Order 11214 of April 7, 1965, you are directed, effective July 15, 1967 and until further notice, to prohibit entry into the United States for consumption and withdrawal from warehouse for consumption of any cotton textiles and cotton textile products in Categories 1, 2, 3, and 4, produced or manufactured in Greece and which have been exported to the United States after August 31, 1966, and before September 1, 1967.

The foregoing directive is temporary and is expected to be the subject of a further directive to you at the conclusion of consultations now in progress with the Government of Greece.

A detailed description of the categories in terms of T.S.U.S.A. numbers was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on July 7, 1966 (31 F.R. 9310).

In carrying out the above directions, entry into the United States for consumption shall be construed to include entry for consumption into the commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

The actions taken with respect to the Government of Greece and with respect to imports of cotton textiles and cotton textile products from Greece have been determined by the President's Cabinet Textile Advisory Committee to involve foreign affairs functions of the United States. Therefore, the directions to the Commissioner of Customs, being necessary to the implementation of such actions, fall within the foreign affairs exception to the notice provisions of 5 U.S.C. 553. This letter will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Sincerely yours,

CHEVRON OVERSEAS FINANCE CO.

Notice of Filing of Application for Order Exempting Company From All Provisions of Act

JULY 11, 1967.

Notice is hereby given that Chevron Overseas Finance Co. ("applicant"), 225 Bush Street, San Francisco, Calif. 94104, a Delaware corporation, has filed an application pursuant to section 6(c) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act") for an order exempting it from all provisions of the Act and the Rules and Regulations thereunder. All interested persons are referred to the application on file with the Commission for a statement of the representations therein, which are summarized below.

Applicant was organized by Standard Oil Co. of California ("Standard") under the laws of the State of Delaware on June 5, 1967. All of the outstanding securities of applicant consists of 5,000 shares of common stock without par value, of which 100 shares have been purchased for $10,000 and are held by Standard. On or before the issuance of the Notes of applicant described below, Standard will contribute to applicant all of the outstanding stock of one or more of Standard's fully owned subsidiaries having an aggregate book value of approximately $6,600,000. Standard may make further investments in applicant, either in cash, in securities of Standard's foreign subsidiaries, affiliates or other foreign assets, in exchange for additional shares of applicant's common stock or by contribution to applicant's capital. Any additional securities which applicant may issue, other than debt securities, will be issued only to Standard. Standard will continue to retain its present holdings of applicant's stock and any additional securities of applicant which Standard may acquire, and Standard will not dispose of any of applicant's securities except to applicant or to a fully owned subsidiary of Standard (which term as used herein means a corporation all of the outstanding securities of which are owned, directly or indirectly, by Standard); and Standard will cause each fully owned subsidiary not to dispose of applicant's securities except to Standard, applicant or another fully owned subsidiary of Standard.

Standard is engaged directly and through its subsidiaries in the acquisition and development of prospective and proven oil and gas lands and leases, the production, purchase, sale, transportation and refining of crude oil and its derivatives and the transportation and wholesale and retail marketing of petroleum products, petrochemicals and agricultural chemicals.

Applicant has been organized to raise funds abroad for financing the expansion and development of Standard's foreign operations while at the same time providing assistance in improving the balance of payments position of the United States in compliance with the voluntary cooperation program instituted by the President in February 1965.

Applicant intends to issue and sell $25 million principal amount of its guaranteed notes due 1972 ("notes"). Standard will guarantee the principal, interest payments and premium, if any, on said notes. Any additional debt securities of applicant which may be issued to or held by the public will be guaranteed by Standard in a manner substantially similar to the guarantee of the notes.

It is intended that upon completion of the long-term investment of applicant's assets, substantially all of the assets of applicant (exclusive of U.S. Government securities and cash items) will be invested in or loaned to foreign companies which are primarily engaged in a business or businesses other than investing, reinvesting, owning, holding, or trading in securities and which are, or upon the making of such investment will be (1) majority-owned subsidiaries of Standard within the meaning of section 2(a)(23) of the Act, (2) companies under Standard's control within the meaning of section 2(a)(9) of the Act or (3) companies which are engaged in a business related to the business of Standard, in which Standard or applicant owns 10 percent or more of the total combined voting power of the stock. Applicant will proceed as expeditiously as practicable with the long-term investment of its assets in the manner described above. Pending such investment, applicant will invest temporarily in debt obligations (including time deposits) of foreign governments, foreign financial institutions and foreign subsidiaries of Standard, payable in U.S. dollars or other currencies and in each case maturing in 1 year or less from the date of acquisition. Applicant will not acquire the securities representing its investments or loans for the purpose of resale and will not trade in such securities.

The notes are to be sold through a group of Underwriters for offering outside the United States. The notes are to be offered and sold under conditions which are intended to assure that the notes will not be offered or sold in the United States, its territories or possessions or to nationals or citizens or residents of the United States, its territories or possessions. Any additional debt securities of applicant which may be sold to the public in the future will be sold under substantially similar conditions.

Counsel has advised applicant that U.S. persons will be required to report and pay an interest equalization tax with respect to acquisition of the notes, except where a specific statutory exemption is available. Applicant has applied to the Internal Revenue Service for a ruling to this effect prior to the sale of the notes. Thus, by financing its foreign operations through applicant rather than through the sale of its own debt obligations, Standard will utilize an instrumentality, the acquisition of whose debt obligations by U.S. persons would, generally, subject such persons to the interest equalization tax, thereby discouraging them from purchasing such debt obligations.

Applicant submits that it is appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policies and provisions of the Act for the Commission to enter an order exempting applicant from each and every provision of the Act for the following reasons: (1) A principal purpose of applicant is to assist in improving the balance of payments program of the United States by serving as a vehicle through which Standard may obtain funds in foreign countries for its foreign operations; (2) the public policy underlying the Act is not applicable to applicant and the security holders of applicant do not require the protection of the Act, because the payment of the notes, which is guaranteed by Standard, does not depend on the operations or investment policy of applicant, for the noteholders may ultimately look to the business enterprise of Standard rather than solely to that of applicant; (3) none of the securities other than debt securities of applicant will be held by any person other than Standard or a fully owned subsidiary of Standard; (4) applicant will not deal or trade in securities; (5) the notes will be offered and sold abroad to foreign nationals under circumstances designed to prevent the sale in the United States, its territories or to nationals or residents thereof; and (6) the burden of the interest equalization tax will tend to discourage purchase of the notes by any U.S. person.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than July 20, 1967, at 5:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on the matter accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for such request and the issues of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission shall order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549. A copy of such request shall be served personally or by mail (air mail if the person being served is located more than 500 miles from the point of mailing) upon applicant at the address stated above. Proof of such service (by affidavit or in case of an attorney-at-law by certificate) shall be filed contemporaneously with the request. At any time after said date, as provided by Rule 0-5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the Act, an order disposing of the application herein may be issued by the Commission upon the basis of the information stated in said application, unless an order for hearing upon said application shall be issued upon request or upon the Commission's own motion. Persons who request a hearing or advice as to whether a hearing is ordered will receive notice of further developments in this matter, including the date of the hearing (if ordered) and any postponements thereof.

For the Commission (pursuant to delegated authority).

PURITAN FUND, INC.

Notice of Filing of Application for Order Exempting Sale by Open-End Company of Securities at Other Than Public Offering Price

JULY 11, 1967.

Notice is hereby given that Puritan Fund, Inc. ("applicant"), 31 Milk Street, Boston, Mass., a Massachusetts corporation registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act") as an open-end diversified management investment company, has filed an application pursuant to section 6(c) of the Act requesting an order of the Commission exempting from the provisions of section 22(d) of the Act a transaction in which applicant's redeemable securities will be issued at a price other than the current public offering price described in the prospectus in exchange for substantially all of the assets of Wilbert Securities, Inc. ("Wilbert"). All interested persons are referred to the application on file with the Commission for a statement of applicant's representations which are summarized below.

Wilbert, a New York corporation, is a personal holding company all of whose outstanding stock is owned of record and beneficially by two individuals and is exempt from registration under the Act by reason of the provisions of section 3(c)(1) thereof. Pursuant to an agreement between applicant and Wilbert, assets owned by Wilbert with a value of approximately $1,360,366 as of January 31, 1967, will be transferred to applicant in exchange for shares of its capital stock.

The number of shares of applicant to be issued to Wilbert is to be determined by dividing the aggregate market value (subject to certain adjustments set forth in the application) of the assets of Wilbert to be transferred to applicant by the net asset value per share of applicant, both to be determined as of the valuation time, as defined in the agreement. If the valuation under the agreement had taken place on January 31, 1967, Wilbert would have received 137,854 shares of applicant's stock.

When received by Wilbert, the shares of applicant are to be distributed to the Wilbert stockholders on the liquidation of Wilbert. Applicant has been advised by the management of Wilbert that the stockholders of Wilbert do not have any present intention of redeeming or otherwise transferring the shares of applicant to be received on such liquidation following the sale of assets transaction. Applicant does not have any present intention of selling any securities acquired from Wilbert subsequent to their acquisition.

No affiliation exists between Wilbert or its officers, directors, or stockholders and applicant, its officers or directors, and the agreement was negotiated at arm's length by the two companies. The Board of Directors of applicant approved the agreement as being in the best interests of its shareholders, taking all relevant considerations into account.

Section 22(d) of the Act provides that registered open-end investment companies may sell their shares only at the current public offering price as described in the prospectus. FEDERAL REGISTER

VOLUME 32 • NUMBER 135

PART II

Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

Federal Home Loan Bank Board

Insurance of Accounts and Deposits

No. 135—Pt. II——1

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

Title 12—BANKS AND BANKING

Chapter III—Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

SUBCHAPTER B—REGULATIONS AND STATEMENTS OF GENERAL POLICY

PART 330—CLARIFICATION AND DEFINITION OF DEPOSIT INSURANCE COVERAGE

On January 27, 1967, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (32 F.R. 996) stating that the Board of Directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation was considering the adoption of new rules and regulations regarding insurance coverage of deposit accounts. Interested parties were afforded an opportunity to participate in the rule making through the submission of comments within 60 days from the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. After consideration of all such relevant matter as was submitted by interested persons, the rules and regulations as so proposed are hereby adopted, with certain changes, as set forth below.

The purpose of the rules and regulations adopted in revised Part 330 is to define and clarify insurance coverage of deposits in insured banks so as to carry out the concept of limited coverage intended by Federal deposit insurance. The Federal Deposit Insurance Act is interpreted to limit the various devices commonly used to increase such coverage beyond that meant to be provided by law.

Specifically, the rules and regulations set forth certain general principles relating to record keeping requirements and valuation of trust interests which provide a basis for determining the amount of insurance available to deposits held by depositors in the same or different rights and capacities.

As to each right and capacity, the rules and regulations state the various ownership interests and the amount of insurance applicable thereto. Single ownership accounts, including those held by an individual or someone acting for him, testamentary accounts, accounts owned and held by executors or administrators, corporations, partnerships and unincorporated associations, public unit accounts, jointly owned accounts and trust accounts are defined and the amount of insurance coverage available to each such category of ownership is specified.

Effective September 1, 1967, Part 330 of the rules and regulations of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (12 CFR Part 330) is revised to read as follows:

AUTHORITY: The provisions of this Part 330 issued under sec. 9, 64 Stat. 881; 12 U.S.C. 1819; sec. 3, 80 Stat. 1056; 12 U.S.C. 1813 Interpret or apply secs. 3, 7, 11, 12, 64 Stat. 873; 12 U.S.C. 1813, 1817, 1821, 1822.

REGULATIONS

§ 330.1 General principles applicable in determining insurance of deposit accounts.

(a) General. This Part 330 provides for determination by the Corporation of the insured depositors of an insured bank and the amount of their insured deposit accounts. The rules for determining the insurance coverage of deposit accounts maintained by depositors in the same or different rights and capacities in the same insured bank are set forth in the following provisions of this part. Insofar as rules of local law enter into such determinations, the law of the jurisdiction in which the insured bank's principal office is located shall govern.

(b) Records. (1) The deposit account records of the insured bank shall be conclusive as to the existence of any relationship pursuant to which the funds in the account are deposited and on which a claim for insurance coverage is founded. Examples would be trustee, agent, custodian or executor. No claim for insurance based on such a relationship will be recognized in the absence of such disclosure.

(2) If the deposit account records of an insured bank disclose the existence of a relationship which may provide a basis for additional insurance, the details of the relationship and the interests of other parties in the account must be ascertainable either from the records of the bank or the records of the depositor maintained in good faith and in the regular course of business.

(3) The deposit account records of an insured bank in connection with a trust account shall disclose the name of both the settlor (grantor) and the trustee of the trust and shall contain an account signature card executed by the trustee.

(4) The interests of the co-owners of a joint deposit account shall be deemed equal, unless otherwise stated on the insured bank's records in the case of a tenancy in common.

(c) Valuation of trust interests. (1) Trust interests in the same trust deposited in the same account will be separately insured if the value of the trust interest is capable of determination, without evaluation of contingencies, except for those covered by the present worth tables and rules of calculation for their use set forth in § 20.2031–7 of the Federal Estate Tax Regulations (26 CFR 20.2031–7).

(2) In connection with any trust in which certain trust interests are not capable of evaluation in accordance with the foregoing rule, payment by the Corporation to the trustee with respect to all such trust interests shall not exceed the basic insured amount of $15,000.

(3) Each trust interest in any trust established by two or more settlors shall be deemed to be derived from each settlor pro rata to his contribution to the trust.

(4) The term "trust interest" means the interest of a beneficiary in an irrevocable express trust, whether created by trust instrument or statute, but does not include any interest retained by the settlor.

(5) With respect to trust funds held by an insured bank in a fiduciary capacity pursuant to section 7(i) of the Act, the term "trust interest" shall mean the same as the term "trust funds" as used in section 3(p) of the Act.

§ 330.2 Single ownership accounts.

Funds owned by an individual and deposited in the manner set forth below shall be added together and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

(a) Individual accounts. Funds owned by an individual (or by the community between husband and wife of which the individual is a member) and deposited in one or more deposit accounts in his own name shall be insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

(b) Accounts held by agents or nominees. Funds owned by a principal and deposited in one or more deposit accounts in the name or names of agents or nominees shall be added to any individual deposit accounts of the principal and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

(c) Accounts held by guardians, custodians, or conservators. Funds held by a guardian, custodian, or conservator for the benefit of his ward or for the benefit of a minor under a Uniform Gifts to Minors Act and deposited in one or more deposit accounts in the name of the guardian, custodian, or conservator shall be added to any individual deposit accounts of the ward or minor and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

§ 330.3 Testamentary accounts.

(a) Funds owned by an individual and deposited in a revocable trust account, tentative or "Totten" trust account, "payable-on-death" account or similar account evidencing an intention that on his death the funds shall belong to his spouse, child or grandchild shall be insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate as to each such named beneficiary, separately from any other accounts of the owner.

(b) If the named beneficiary of such an account is other than the owner's spouse, child or grandchild, the funds in such account shall be added to any individual accounts of such owner and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

§ 330.4 Accounts held by executors or administrators.

Funds of a decedent held in the name of the decedent or in the name of the executor or administrator of his estate and deposited in one or more deposit accounts shall be insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate, separately from the individual deposit accounts of the beneficiaries of the estate or of the executor or administrator.

§ 330.5 Accounts held by a corporation or partnership.

Deposit accounts of a corporation or partnership engaged in any independent activity shall be insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate. A deposit account of a corporation or partnership not engaged in an independent activity shall be deemed to be owned by the person or persons owning such corporation or comprising such partnership and, for deposit insurance purposes, the interest of each person in such a deposit account shall be added to any other deposit accounts individually owned by such person and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

§ 330.6 Accounts held by an unincorporated association.

Deposit accounts of an unincorporated association engaged in any independent activity shall be insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate. A deposit account of an unincorporated association not engaged in an independent activity shall be deemed to be owned by the persons comprising such association and, for deposit insurance purposes, the interest of each owner in such a deposit account shall be added to any other deposit accounts individually owned by such person and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

§ 330.7 Independent activity.

The term "independent activity" means any activity other than one directed solely at increasing insurance coverage.

§ 330.8 Public unit accounts.

(a) General. Where different officers, agents or employees of the same public unit, having by law the official custody of public funds of the unit, deposit the same in an insured bank, each such officer, agent or employee shall be separately insured up to $15,000 in such custodial capacity. An officer, employee, or agent of a public unit shall be deemed to be insured only up to $15,000 with respect to all public funds of the same unit held by him, regardless of how many offices he holds in such unit or the purposes for which such funds are held or designated. If the same person is an officer, employee, or agent of more than one public unit, he shall be separately insured up to $15,000 with respect to the public funds held by him of each such unit.

(b) Public bond issues. Where an officer, agent or employee of a public unit has custody of certain funds which by law or under the bond indenture are required to be paid to the holders of bonds issued by the public unit, any deposit of such funds in an insured bank shall be deemed to be a deposit by a trustee of trust funds of which the bondholders are pro rata beneficiaries, and each such beneficial interest shall be separately insured up to $15,000.

§ 330.9 Joint accounts.

(a) Separate insurance coverage. Deposits owned jointly, whether as joint tenants with right of survivorship, as tenants by the entireties, as tenants in common, or by husband and wife as community property, shall be insured separately from deposit accounts individually owned by the co-owners.

(b) Qualifying joint accounts. A joint deposit account shall be deemed to exist, for purposes of insurance of accounts, only if each co-owner has personally executed a deposit account signature card and possesses withdrawal rights. The restrictions of this subsection shall not apply to holders in due course of a deposit obligation of a bank evidenced by a negotiable instrument which had, in fact, been negotiated prior to the closing of the bank.

(c) Failure to qualify. A deposit account owned jointly which does not qualify as a joint account for purposes of insurance of accounts shall be treated as owned by the named persons as individuals and the actual ownership interest of each such person in such account shall be added to any other accounts individually owned by such person and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

(d) Same combination of individuals. All joint deposit accounts owned by the same combination of individuals shall first be added together and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

(e) Interest of each co-owner. The interests of each co-owner in all joint deposit accounts owned by different combinations of individuals shall then be added together and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

§ 330.10 Trust accounts.

All trust interests for the same beneficiary deposited in deposit accounts established pursuant to valid trust agreements created by the same settlor (grantor) shall be added together and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate, separately from other deposit accounts of the trustee of such trust funds or the settlor or beneficiary of such trust arrangements.

§ 330.11 Deposits evidenced by negotiable instruments.

If any insured deposit obligation of a bank be evidenced by a negotiable certificate of deposit, negotiable draft, negotiable cashier's or officer's check, negotiable certified check, or negotiable traveler's check or letter of credit, the owner of such deposit obligation will be recognized for all purposes of claim for insured deposits to the same extent as if his name and interest were disclosed on the records of the bank provided the instrument was in fact negotiated to such owner prior to the date of the closing of the bank. Affirmative proof of such negotiation must be offered in all cases to substantiate the claim.

§ 330.12 Deposit obligations for payment of items forwarded for collection by bank acting as agent.

Where a closed bank has become obligated for the payment of items forwarded for collection by a bank acting solely as agent, the owner of such items will be recognized for all purposes of claim for insured deposits to the same extent as if his name and interest were disclosed on the records of the bank when such claim for insured deposits, if otherwise payable, has been established by the execution and delivery of prescribed forms. Such bank forwarding such items for the owners thereof will be recognized as agent for such owners for the purpose of making an assignment of the rights of such owners against the closed insured bank to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and for the purpose of receiving payment on behalf of such owners.

§ 330.13 Continuation of prior coverage.

All deposit accounts insured under the rules and interpretations heretofore in effect shall continue to be insured, anything in this part to the contrary notwithstanding, until April 15, 1968.

§ 330.14 Notification of depositors.

Each insured bank is required to provide notice of these revisions to the Rules and Regulations for Clarification and Definition of Insurance Coverage of Deposit Accounts, Part 330, prior to February 1, 1968, to the depositors of each deposit account which had a balance in excess of $5,000 on any date selected by the bank between September 1, 1967, and February 1, 1968. Such notice shall consist of mailing to such depositors at their last known address as shown on the records of the insured bank, a question and answer brochure on insurance of deposit accounts prepared by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Such brochure shall also be made available to the public at each teller's station or window where deposits are normally received and at new account stations of an insured bank. Additional explanatory materials may also be sent to depositors at the option of the insured bank.

INTERPRETATIONS

§ 330.101 Recognition of deposit ownership in custodial accounts.

(a) The opinion of the Board of Directors has been requested as to whether a fractional or percentage computation of the interests of owners of commingled funds on deposit in custodial accounts in banks insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation meets the requirements of § 330.1.

(b) Section 330.1 provides that if the name and interest of an owner of any portion of a specifically designated custodial deposit is disclosed on the records of the person in whose name the deposit is maintained and such records are maintained in good faith and in the regular course of business, such owner will be recognized for all purposes of claim for insured deposits to the same extent as if his name and interest were disclosed on the records of the bank.

(c) The Board of Directors has concluded that, if the records of the depositor, maintained in good faith and in the regular course of business, reflect, at all times, the name and ascertainable interest of each owner in a specifically designated custodial deposit, such interest may be determined on a fractional or percentage basis. This may be accomplished in any manner which indicates that where the funds of an owner are commingled with other funds held in custody and a portion thereof is placed on deposit in one or more insured banks, his interest in a custodial deposit in any one insured bank would represent at any given time the same fractional share as his share of the total commingled funds.

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION,

Secretary.

[F.R. Doc. 67-8195; Filed, July 13, 1967; 8:50 a.m.]

EXAMPLES OF INSURANCE COVERAGE AFFORDED DEPOSIT ACCOUNTS IN BANKS INSURED BY THE FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

The Board of Directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation has adopted rules and regulations to clarify, define and limit deposit insurance coverage in insured banks, which rules and regulations, revised Part 330 (12 CFR Part 330), have been published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The Board of Directors has further determined that it would be in the public interest to publish concurrently its official interpretations of the aforesaid rules in the form of questions and answers setting forth insurance coverage afforded accounts in insured banks. Such interpretations are hereby adopted as set forth below.

EXAMPLES DEMONSTRATING INSURANCE COVERAGE ON DEPOSIT ACCOUNTS IN THE SAME INSURED BANK

The following examples illustrate insurance coverage on deposit accounts maintained in the same insured bank. They are intended to cover various types of ownership interests and combinations of accounts which may occur in connection with deposited funds and which are the subject matter of the insurance coverage rules in Part 330.

The type of account (whether checking, savings, certificate of deposit or other form of deposit) has no bearing on the amount of insurance coverage. All such forms of deposit accounts owned by the same depositor in the same right and capacity will be added together for purposes of computing his maximum insurance claim.

The examples, as well as the rules which they interpret, are predicated upon the assumption that deposited funds are actually owned in the manner indicated on the bank's records. If available evidence shows that ownership is different from that on the bank's records, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation may pay claims for insured deposits on the basis of actual rather than ostensible ownership.

Single ownership accounts. All funds owned by an individual (or the community between husband and wife of which the individual is a member) and deposited by him in one or more individual accounts are added together and insured up to the maximum of $15,000. This is true whether the accounts are maintained in the name of the individual owning the funds, in the name of his agent or nominee, or in the name of a guardian, conservator or custodian holding the funds for his benefit.

EXAMPLE 1

Question: A and B, husband and wife, each maintain an individual account containing $15,000. In addition, they hold a joint account containing $15,000. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Each account is separately insured to $15,000, for a total coverage of $45,000. The coverage would be the same whether the individual accounts contain funds owned as community property or the individual property of the spouses (§ 330.2(a) and § 330.9(a)).

EXAMPLE 2

Question: H and W, husband and wife, reside in a community property state. H maintains a $15,000 account consisting of his separately owned funds and deposits $15,000 of community funds in another account. Both of the accounts are in his name alone. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The two accounts are added together and insured to a total of $15,000. $15,000 is uninsured (§ 330.2(a)).

EXAMPLE 3

Question: A has $12,000 deposited in an individual account, and his agent, B, deposits $5,000 of A's funds in a properly designated agency account. B also holds a $15,000 individual account. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: A's individual account and the agency account are added together and insured to the $15,000 maximum, leaving $2,000 uninsured. The depositing of funds through an agent does not result in additional insurance coverage for the principal (§ 330.2(b)). B's individual account is insured separately from the agency account. However, if the records of the bank do not show the agency relationship under which the funds in the $5,000 account are held, the $5,000 in B's name could, at the option of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, be added to his individual account and insured to $15,000 in the aggregate, leaving $5,000 uninsured (§ 330.1(b)(1)).

Question: A holds a $15,000 individual account. B holds two accounts in his own name, the first containing $5,000 and the second containing $12,000. In processing the claims for payment of insurance on these accounts, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation discovers that the funds in the $5,000 account actually belong to A and that B had deposited these funds as agent for A, his undisclosed principal. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since the available evidence shows that A is the actual owner of the funds in the $5,000 account, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation may, at its option, add these funds to the $15,000 individual account held by A (rather than to B's $12,000 account) and insure the total of $20,000 to the $15,000 maximum, leaving $5,000 uninsured. In that event B's $12,000 individual account would be separately insured (§ 330.2 (a) and (b)).

EXAMPLE 5

Question: C, a minor, maintains an individual account of $150 in connection with a school savings program. C's grandfather makes a gift to him of $10,000 which is deposited in another account by C's father, designated on the bank's records as custodian under a Uniform Gifts to Minors Act. C's father also maintains an individual account of $10,000. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: C's individual account and the custodianship account held for him by his father are added together and insured to the $15,000 maximum (§ 330.2(c)). The individual account held by C's father is separately insured (§ 330.2(a)).

EXAMPLE 6

Question: G, a court appointed guardian, deposits in a properly designated account $15,000 of funds in his custody which belong to W, his ward. W and G each maintain $5,000 individual accounts. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: W's individual account and the guardianship account in G's name are added together and insured in the aggregate to $15,000. The fact that a guardian has been judicially appointed does not alter the fact that the guardianship funds legally belong to W, the ward, and are insured as W's individually owned funds (§ 330.2(c)). G's individual account is separately insured (§ 330.2(a)).

Testamentary accounts. The term "testamentary account" refers to a revocable trust account, tentative or "Totten" trust account, "payable-on-death" account or any similar account which evidences an intention that the funds shall pass on the death of the owner of the funds to a named beneficiary. If the beneficiary is a spouse, child, or grandchild of the owner, the funds in all such accounts are insured for the owner up to $15,000 in the aggregate as to each such beneficiary, separately from any other individual accounts of the owner of the funds. If the beneficiary of such an account is other than a spouse, child or grandchild of the owner, the funds in the account are, for insurance purposes, added to any other individual accounts of the owner and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate. In the case of a revocable trust account, the person who holds the power of revocation is deemed to be the owner of the funds in the account. If a revocable trust account is held in the name of a fiduciary other than the owner of the funds, any other accounts held by the fiduciary are insured separately from such revocable trust account.

EXAMPLE 1

Question: H deposits $35,000 in a revocable trust account with his son, S, and his daughter, D, as named beneficiaries. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since S and D are children of H, the owner of the account, the funds are insured up to $15,000 as to each beneficiary (§ 330.3(a)). Assuming that S and D have equal beneficial interests ($17,500 each), H is fully insured for this account.

EXAMPLE 2

Question: H, as settlor-trustee, creates a revocable trust for the benefit of his son, S. H creates a second revocable trust with T as trustee, for the benefit of his nephew, N. H deposits $15,000 of the funds of the first trust in a revocable trust account. T deposits $10,000 of the funds of the second trust in another account. In addition, H, S, N and T each maintain individual accounts containing $15,000. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since S is a child of H, the account established under the first trust is insured up to $15,000 separately from any other accounts held by H (§ 330.3(a)). Since N is not a spouse, child or grandchild of H, the $10,000 in the account held by T under the second trust is deemed to be owned by H and is added to the $15,000 in H's individual account and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate, leaving $10,000 uninsured (§ 330.3(b)). The individual accounts of S, N, and T are separately insured to the $15,000 maximum (§ 330.2(a)).

EXAMPLE 3

Question: H deposits $15,000 in each of four "payable-on-death" accounts. Under the terms of each account contract, H has the right to withdraw any or all of the funds in the account at any time. Any funds remaining in the account at the time of H's death are to be paid to a named beneficiary. The respective beneficiaries of the four accounts are H's wife, his mother, his brother and his son. H also holds an individual account containing $15,000. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The accounts payable on death to H's wife and son are each separately insured to the $15,000 maximum (§ 330.3(a)). The accounts payable to H's mother and brother are added to H's individual account and insured to $15,000 in the aggregate, leaving $30,000 uninsured (§ 330.3(b)).

Accounts of executors or administrators. All funds belonging to a decedent and deposited in one or more accounts, whether held in the name of the decedent or in the name of his executor or administrator, are added together and insured to the $15,000 maximum. Such funds are insured separately from the individual accounts of any of the beneficiaries of the estate or of the executor or administrator.

EXAMPLE 1

Question: A, administrator of D's estate, sells D's automobile and deposits the proceeds of $2,500 in an account entitled: "A, Administrator of the estate of D." In the same bank there is an account containing $15,000 which D had opened just prior to his death. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The two accounts are added together and insured up to the $15,000 maximum, leaving $2,500 uninsured (§ 330.4).

EXAMPLE 2

Question: X is executor of the will of T, under which A, B and C are beneficiaries in equal shares. X deposits $45,000 of T's estate in an account entitled: "X, Executor of the will of T." A and X maintain accounts of $15,000 each in the same bank. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The account held by X as executor is insured only to $15,000. Such funds are considered the property of the decedent's estate and are not apportioned among the beneficiaries under the will. Since the title of the estate account discloses its fiduciary nature, X's individual account is insured separately. In addition, A's individual account is separately insured to the $15,000 maximum (§ 330.4).

Accounts held by a corporation, partnership or unincorporated association. All funds deposited in an account or accounts by a corporation, a partnership or an unincorporated association engaged in any independent activity are added together and insured to the $15,000 maximum. The term "independent activity" means any activity other than one directed solely at increasing insurance coverage. If the corporation, partnership or unincorporated association is not engaged in an independent activity, any account held by the entity is insured as if owned by the persons owning or comprising the entity, and the imputed interest of each such person is added for insurance purposes to any individual account which he maintains.

EXAMPLE 1

Question: X Corporation maintains a $15,000 account. The stock of the corporation is owned by A, B, C and D in equal shares. Each of these stockholders also maintains an individual account with the same bank. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Each of the accounts would be insured to $15,000 if the corporation is engaged in an independent activity and has not been established merely for the purpose of increasing insurance coverage. The same would be true if the business were operated as a bona fide partnership instead of a corporation (§ 330.5).

EXAMPLE 2

Question: A and B each has a $12,000 account in his own name and X Corporation has a $12,000 account. One third of the stock of X Corporation is owned by A and two-thirds by B. X Corporation was set up solely to obtain additional insurance. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since X Corporation is not engaged in an independent activity, the funds in its account are insured as if owned by A and B in proportion to their interest in the corporation. For insurance purposes, $4,000 of the corporate account is imputed to A and added to his individual account and $8,000 is added to B's individual account. A has an aggregate individual interest of $16,000, of which $15,000 is insured, leaving $1,000 uninsured. Of B's total interest of $20,000, $5,000 is uninsured (§ 330.5).

EXAMPLE 3

Question: C College maintains three separate accounts with the same bank under the titles: "General Operating Fund", "Teachers Salaries", and "Building Fund". What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since all of the funds are the property of the college, the three accounts are added together and insured only to the $15,000 maximum (§ 330.5 and § 330.8).

EXAMPLE 4

Question: The men's club of X Church carries on various social activities in addition to holding several fund raising campaigns for the church each year. The club is supported by membership dues. Both the club and X Church maintain accounts in the same bank. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The men's club is an unincorporated association engaged in an independent activity. If the club funds are, in fact, legally owned by the club itself and not the church, each account is separately insured to the $15,000 maximum (§ 330.5).

EXAMPLE 5

Question: The PQR Union has three locals in a certain city. Each of the locals maintains a deposit account containing funds belonging to the parent organization. All three accounts are in the same insured bank. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The three accounts are added together and insured up to the $15,000 maximum (§ 330.5).

Public unit accounts. For insurance purposes, the official custodian of funds belonging to a public unit, rather than the public unit itself, is insured as the depositor. All funds belonging to a public unit and deposited by the same custodian are added together and insured to the $15,000 maximum, regardless of the number of accounts involved. If there is more than one official custodian for the same public unit, the funds deposited by each custodian are separately insured up to $15,000. If the same person is custodian of funds for more than one public unit, he is separately insured to $15,000 with respect to the funds of each such unit deposited by him in properly designated accounts.

EXAMPLE 1

Question: B, as County Treasurer, deposits $5,000 in each of the following accounts: "General Operating Account", "Road and Bridge Fund", "School Transportation Fund", "Local Maintenance Fund", and "Payroll Fund." What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since all of these funds are owned by the same public unit (i.e., the county) and are deposited by the same public official, the five accounts are added together and insured in the aggregate to the $15,000 maximum, leaving $10,000 uninsured (§ 330.5(a)).

EXAMPLE 2

Question: As Comptroller of Y Consolidated School District, A maintains a $20,000 account containing school district funds. He also maintains his own $10,000 savings account. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The two accounts will be separately insured, assuming the bank's records indicate that the account containing the school district funds is held by A in a fiduciary capacity. Thus, $15,000 of the school's funds and the entire $10,000 in A's personal account will be insured (§ 330.1(b)(1) and § 330.5(a)).

EXAMPLE 3

Question: A, as City Treasurer, and B, as chief of the city police department, each have $15,000 in city funds deposited in custodial accounts. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Assuming that both A and B have official custody of the city funds, each account would be separately insured to the $15,000 maximum (§ 330.5(a)).

EXAMPLE 4

Question: A is Treasurer of X County and collects certain tax assessments, a portion of which must be paid to the State under statutory requirement. A maintains an account for general funds of the county and establishes a separate account for the funds which belong to the State Treasurer. The bank's records indicate that the separate account contains funds held for the State. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since two public units own the funds held by A, the accounts would each be separately insured to the maximum ($ 330.8(a)).

EXAMPLE 6

Question: A City Treasurer deposits $15,000 of city funds in each of the following accounts: "General Operating Account," "School Transportation Fund," "Local Maintenance Fund," and "Payroll Fund." All of the funds in the various accounts have been allocated to the specific use indicated by city ordinance or by statute. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: All of the accounts would be added together and insured in the aggregate to $15,000. The allocation of the city's funds by ordinance or by statute for a specific purpose would not make such funds to be maintained in separate rights and capacities.

EXAMPLE 8

Question: A City Treasurer deposits $15,000 in a "General Fund" account and $20,000 in a "Meter Deposit" account. The funds in the Meter Deposit account belong to users of gas and are held by the official custodian in a fiduciary capacity as security for damage to gas meters. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Each account would be separately insured. However, if the City Treasurer held such funds as agent for the users of gas, their interest in the Meter Deposit account would be added to their individual accounts in computing insurance coverage. On the other hand, if the meter deposits are actually held in trust, pursuant to statute or contract, such funds would be separately insured from any individually owned funds of the gas users.

EXAMPLE 7

Question: In addition to the public fund accounts listed in Example 1, the County Treasurer also maintains a "Bond Payment Account" containing funds required by law to be paid to 3,000 holders of bonds issued by the county. The account contains $200,000. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The interest of each bondholder is separately insured to the $15,000 maximum. Where a public official deposits funds in an account which are required by law to be held for the payment of a particular bond issue, the account is deemed to be held in trust for the individual bondholders. The title of such an account, however, must indicate its fiduciary nature ($ 330.8(b)).

Joint accounts. Accounts held under any form of joint ownership valid under State law (whether as joint tenants with right of survivorship, tenants by the entireties, tenants in common or by husband and wife as community property) are insured up to $15,000. This insurance is separate from that afforded individual accounts held by any of the co-owners.

An account is insured as a joint account only if each of the co-owners has personally executed an account signature card and possesses withdrawal rights. An account owned jointly which does not qualify as a joint account for insurance purposes is insured as if owned by the named persons as individuals. In that case, the actual ownership interest in the account of each person is added to any other accounts individually owned by such person and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

Any individual, including a minor, may be a co-owner of a joint account provided, under State law, he may execute a signature card and withdraw funds from the account on the same basis as other co-owners.

All funds deposited in joint accounts owned by the same combination of individuals are first added together and insured to the $15,000 maximum. Where a depositor has an interest in more than one joint account and different joint owners are involved, his interests in all of such joint accounts are then added together and insured to $15,000 in the aggregate.

For insurance purposes, the co-owners of any joint account are deemed to have equal interests in the account, except in the case of a tenancy in common. With a tenancy in common, equal interests are presumed unless otherwise stated on the records of the bank.

EXAMPLE 1

Question: A and B maintain an account as joint tenants with right of survivorship and, in addition, each holds an individual account. Is each account separately insured?

Answer: If both A and B have executed the signature card and possess withdrawal rights with respect to the joint funds, each account is separately insured to the $15,000 maximum ($ 330.9 (a) and (b)).

EXAMPLE 2

Question: H and W, husband and wife, reside in a community property state. Each holds an individual account and, in addition, they hold a qualifying joint account. The funds in all three accounts consist of community property. Is each account separately insured?

Answer: Yes. An account in the individual name of a spouse will be insured up to $15,000, whether the funds consist of community property or separate property of the spouse. A joint account containing community property is also insured up to $15,000. Thus, community property can be used for individual accounts in the name of each spouse and for a joint account in the name of both spouses, each of which accounts is separately insured up to $15,000 ($ 330.2(a) and $ 330.9(a)).

EXAMPLE 3

Question: Two accounts of $15,000 each are held by a husband and his wife under the following names: John Doe and Mary Doe, husband and wife, joint tenants, with right of survivorship. Mrs. John Doe and John Q. Doe (community property). Are the accounts separately insured?

Answer: No. Both accounts are considered joint accounts owned by the same combination of individuals, regardless of the form of joint ownership. Reversal of names or use of different styles does not change the result, as long as the account owners are, in fact, the same in both cases. For insurance purposes, the accounts are added together for a total of $30,000, of which $15,000 is insured ($ 330.9(d)).

EXAMPLE 4

Question: The following accounts are held by A, B, and C, each of whom has personally executed signature cards for the accounts in which he has an interest. Each co-owner of a joint account possesses the necessary withdrawal rights.

No. 1 A, as an individual—$15,000.
No. 2 B, as an individual—$15,000.
No. 3 C, as an individual—$15,000.
No. 4 A and B, as joint tenants with right of survivorship—$15,000.
No. 5 A and C, as joint tenants with right of survivorship—$15,000.
No. 6 B and C, as joint tenants with right of survivorship—$15,000.
No. 7 A, B, and C, as joint tenants with right of survivorship—$15,000.

What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Accounts numbered 1, 2, and 3 are each separately insured for $15,000 as individual accounts held by A, B, and C, respectively ($ 330.2(a)). With regard to accounts numbered 4, 5, 6, and 7, the respective interests of A, B, and C in such accounts are added together for insurance purposes ($ 330.9(e)). The interests of the co-owners of each joint account are deemed equal for insurance purposes ($ 330.1(b)(4)). Thus, A has an interest of $7,500 in account No. 4, $7,500 in account No. 5, and $5,000 in account No. 7, for a total joint account interest of $20,000, of which $15,000 is insured. The interests of B and C are similarly insured.

EXAMPLE 5

Question: A, B, and C hold accounts as set forth in Example 4. A and B are husband and wife. C, their minor child has failed to execute the signature card for account No. 7. In account No. 5, C cannot make a withdrawal without A's written consent. In account No. 6, the signatures of both B and C are required for withdrawal. A has provided all of the funds for accounts numbered 5 and 7. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: If any of the co-owners of a joint account have failed to meet any of the joint account requirements, the account is not insured as a joint account. Instead, the account is insured as if it consisted of commingled individual accounts of each of the co-owners in accordance with his actual ownership of the funds, as determined under applicable State law ($ 330.9(c)). Account No. 5 is not insured as a joint account because C does not possess the right to withdraw the funds in accordance with his purported interest in the account. Account No. 6 does qualify as a joint account for insurance purposes, since each co-owner possesses the right to withdraw funds on the same basis ($ 330.9(b)). Account No. 7 is not insured as a joint account since C did not personally execute the signature card. Assuming that, under applicable State law, A has the entire actual ownership interest in accounts 5 and 7, all of the funds in these accounts are treated for insurance purposes as individually owned by A ($ 330.9(c)). Thus, the $30,000 in these accounts is added to the $15,000 in account No. 1, A's individual account, and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate, leaving $30,000 uninsured. Accounts 4 and 6, the remaining joint accounts, are each insured to the $15,000 limit, since they are owned by different combinations of individuals and no co-owner has an aggregate interest in the two accounts in excess of $15,000 ($ 330.9 (d) and (e)).

EXAMPLE 6

Question: Three qualifying joint accounts are owned by A, B and C, as joint tenants with right of survivorship, as follows:
No. 1 A and B—$15,000.
No. 2 A and B—$5,000.
No. 3 A and C—$10,000.
What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since accounts numbered 1 and 3 are owned by the same combination of individuals, they are first added together and insured to $15,000 in the aggregate, leaving $5,000 uninsured ($ 330.9(d)). Since the respective interests of the co-owners of each joint account are deemed equal for insurance purposes, A has an interest of $7,500 in account No. 1, $2,500 in account No. 2, and $5,000 in account No. 3, for a total joint account interest of $15,000. A's interest of $10,000 in accounts numbered 1 and 3 receives a $7,500 proportionate share of the $15,000 insurance coverage on the two accounts, as does B's interest, leaving $2,500 uninsured in each case. A is entitled to $15,000 of insurance on the total of his interests in joint accounts owned by different combinations of individuals ($ 330.9(e)). $7,500 of this $15,000 is allocated to A's interest in accounts numbered 1 and 3, leaving $7,500 of insurance available for his $5,000 interest in account No. 3, which is fully insured. C's $5,000 interest in account No. 3 is also fully insured. Thus, $12,500 of A's total interest of $15,000 is insured; $7,500 of B's $10,000 interest is insured; and all of C's $5,000 interest is insured. Of the $30,000 invested in the three joint accounts, a total of $25,000 is insured.

EXAMPLE 7

Question: A and B own a $15,000 joint account evidenced by a negotiable certificate of deposit. Subsequent to purchase and prior to the closing of the bank, the certificate is negotiated to C and D. C also maintains a $15,000 individual account in the issuing bank. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The joint account owned by C and D and C's individual account are separately insured. Since the certificate evidencing the joint account was negotiated prior to the closing of the bank, signature cards as to each subsequent joint owner are not required ($ 330.9(b)).

Trust accounts. A trust interest is the interest of a beneficiary in an irrevocable express trust, whether created by trust instrument or statute, that is valid under State law. Thus, funds deposited in an account by a trustee under an irrevocable express trust are insured on the basis of the beneficial interests under such trust. The interest of each beneficiary in an account (or accounts) established under such a trust arrangement is insured up to $15,000, separately from other accounts held by the trustee, the settlor (grantor) or the beneficiary. However, in cases where a beneficiary has an interest in more than one trust arrangement created by the same settlor, the interests of the beneficiary in all accounts established under such trusts are added together for insurance purposes, and the beneficiary's aggregate interest derived from the same settlor is separately insured to the $15,000 maximum.

A beneficiary's interest in an account established pursuant to an irrevocable express trust arrangement is insured separately from other beneficial interests (trust interests) deposited in the same account if the value of the beneficiary's interest (trust interest) can be determined without evaluation of contingencies except for those covered by the present worth tables and rules of calculation for their use set forth in Sec. 20.2031-7 of the Federal Estate Tax Regulations (26 CFR 20.2031-7). If any trust interests in such an account cannot be so determined, the insurance with respect to all such trust interests together shall not exceed the basic insured amount of $15,000.

In order for insurance coverage of trust accounts to be effective in accordance with the foregoing rules, certain record-keeping requirements must be met. In connection with each trust account, the bank's records must indicate the name of both the settlor and the trustee of the trust and must contain an account signature card indicating the fiduciary capacity of the trustee and executed by him. In addition, the interests of the beneficiaries under the trust must be ascertainable from the records of either the bank or the trustee.

Although each ascertainable trust interest in an irrevocable trust is separately insured, it should be noted that in short-term trusts the insurable interest or interests may be very small, since the interests are computed only for the duration of the trust. Thus, if a trust is made irrevocable for a specified period of time, the beneficial interests will be calculated in terms of the length of time stated. A reversionary interest retained by the settlor is treated in the same manner as an individual account of the settlor.

As stated, the trust must be valid under local law. A trust which does not meet local requirements, such as one imposing no duties on the trustee or conveying no interests to the beneficiary, is of no effect for insurance purposes. An account in which such funds are deposited is considered to be an individual account.

An account established pursuant to a revocable trust arrangement is insured as a form of individual account and is treated under § 330.3, dealing with Testamentary Accounts.

EXAMPLE 1

Question: T is a trustee of an irrevocable trust created by S, settlor, for the benefit of A and B in equal shares. T holds an account containing $30,000 in trust funds. A and B, as well as T and S, each maintain individual accounts in the amount of $15,000 each. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The trust interests of A and B deposited in the account are each insured to the $15,000 maximum, assuming that neither A nor B have beneficial interests in any other accounts established pursuant to an irrevocable trust created by the same settlor. Since A and B have equal beneficial interests under the trust, each has a proportionate interest in the trust account of $15,000, and the account is fully insured. The individual accounts of A, B, T, and S are each separately insured to $15,000 ($ 330.10).

EXAMPLE 2

Question: S is the settlor of an irrevocable trust for the sole benefit of his son, B. T, the trustee, maintains an account in Y Bank containing $15,000 in trust funds. S subsequently creates a separate irrevocable trust, also for B's sole benefit, with X Bank as trustee. X Bank deposits $5,000 of the trust funds in another account in Y Bank. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: B has the sole beneficial interest in two accounts established under trusts created by the same settlor. Both accounts are added together and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate, leaving $5,000 uninsured. The fact that two different trustees are involved is immaterial ($ 330.10).

EXAMPLE 3

Question: S is the settlor of an irrevocable trust fund for the sole benefit of his son B. T, trustee, deposits $15,000 of the trust funds in a trust account. S establishes a revocable trust account in the amount of $15,000 for the sole benefit of B. S also has an individual account of $15,000. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: B's trust estate in the account established pursuant to the irrevocable trust arrangement is insured to $15,000 separately from the accounts owned by S ($ 330.10). The revocable trust account is insured to $15,000 as a testamentary account owned by S with his child as beneficiary, separately from S's individual account ($ 330.3(a)). The three accounts are fully insured.

EXAMPLE 4

Question: An account in the amount of $25,000 is held pursuant to an irrevocable trust for the benefit of A and B. Under the terms of the trust instrument, A is to receive the income for life and B is to receive the remainder at A's death. At the time of insolvency, A is 70 years of age. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The proportionate value of A's life estate can be determined by the use of the present worth tables found at 26 CFR § 20.2031-7. To ascertain A's beneficial interest in the account, the appropriate multiplier (0.27370) indicated by Table I is multiplied by the amount in the account. A's interest is found to be $6,842.50. The difference of $18,157.50 represents B's beneficial interest in the account. The trustee is entitled to an insurance payment of $21,842.50, representing A's complete interest ($6,842.50) and $15,000 of B's interest ($ 330.10 and $ 330.1(c)(1)).

EXAMPLE 5

Question: The situation is the same as in Example 4, except that A is to receive the income for life or until she marries, with remainder over to B. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Both interests in the trust are subject to a contingency (A's marriage) which precludes their evaluation by the use of the present worth tables. The insurance coverage with respect to all trust interests in the account is limited to the $15,000 maximum ($ 330.1(c)(2)). The trustee is entitled to an insurance payment of $15,000.

EXAMPLE 6

Question: S establishes an irrevocable trust fund of $75,000 for the equal benefit of A, B, C, D, and E. The trustee deposits the entire amount in a properly designated trust account. The trust provides that each beneficiary is to receive income in equal shares until the age of 35, at which time the principal is to vest in equal shares, except that if either D or E does not complete college by age 35, his share of the principal is to go to X Church. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The proportionate (one-fifth) interests in the account of A, B, and C are each insured up to $15,000 as separate trust estates. The interests of D, E, and X Church are subject to contingencies (completion of college) which cannot be evaluated by use of the present worth tables. Therefore, the insurance coverage on their interests is limited to $15,000 in the aggregate, resulting in a total insurance coverage of $60,000 for the trust account ($ 330.1(c) (1) and (2)).

EXAMPLE 7

Question: G is settlor of a short-term irrevocable trust for the benefit of H University. Under the terms of the trust instrument, the university is to receive all of the income (payable annually) for 2 years. At the end of the 2-year period, the trust is to terminate, and the corpus is to revert to G. The trustee deposits $20,000 in a trust account. At the date of insolvency 1 year of the 2-year term of the trust has expired. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Although this arrangement constitutes an express irrevocable trust, G's reversionary interest is treated, for insurance purposes, as an individual account owned by him ($ 330.1(a)). To ascertain the value of H University's remaining 1-year income in-trust in the trust account, the appropriate multiplier (0.08282) indicated by Table II of the present worth tables is multiplied by the account balance. H University's trust estate in the account is $676.69. G's reversionary interest is worth $19,323.30. Assuming that G has no individual interest in any other account, the trustee is entitled to an insurance payment of $15,676.69, representing H University's entire trust estate in the account ($676.69) and $15,000 of G's reversionary interest ([§ 330.1(c)(1)] and [§ 330.10]).

EXAMPLE 8

Question: H and W create an irrevocable trust for the benefit of their children, S and D, in equal shares. The trust contains $100,000, of which $20,000 was contributed by W. As joint trustees, H and W deposit $60,000 of these funds in a trust account. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The trust interests of S and D are deemed to be derived from H and W in proportion to the contribution of each to the trust. W has contributed 20 percent of the funds and H has contributed 80 percent. S and D have equal beneficial interests in the trust account. Of H's beneficial interest of $30,000, $4,000 (20 percent) is deemed to be derived from W and $16,000 (80 percent) is deemed to be derived from H. D's beneficial interest is similarly derived. The trust interest of each beneficiary derived from each settlor is separately insured to the $15,000 maximums. The $4,000 interest derived from W is fully insured, and $15,000 of the interest derived from H is insured, leaving $1,000 uninsured in the case of each beneficiary. The account is insured to a total of $38,000 ([§ 330.1(c)(2)]).

EXAMPLE 9

Question: X Corporation acts as servicing agent for FHA, VA and conventional mortgage loans. Each month X Corporation collects payments from approximately 2,000 mortgagors and commingles these funds in a single account. The account contains $300,000. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The amount of insurance coverage depends upon the terms of the contract or instrument under which X Corporation collects the funds. If it acts in the capacity of a trustee for the benefit of the mortgagors, the interest of each mortgagor is separately insured to the $15,000 maximums. If it acts in the capacity of a trustee for the lenders, the interest of each lender is separately insured to the $15,000 maximum. In either case, this insurance is separate from that afforded the individually owned funds of X Corporation invested in the institution or the individual accounts of any of the mortgagors or lenders ([§ 330.10]). If X Corporation is found to act in the capacity of an agent for either the mortgagors or the lenders, the interest of each such principal is separately insured as his individual account (but added to any other individual accounts which the principal holds in the same institution) ([§ 330.2 (b)]). If X Corporation is found to hold the funds as owner, or principal, with only a contractual obligation to pay to its creditors, and not as trustee or agent, the account would be insured only to the $15,000 limit ([§ 330.2]).

EXAMPLE 10

Question: What is the insurance coverage on other fiduciary accounts, such as clients' funds invested in the name of a lawyer, rent security funds invested in the name of the landlord, escrow funds invested in the name of a real estate broker, taxpayers' funds invested in the name of a representative of a court, consignors' funds invested in the name of a market servicing agent, and similar funds invested in other custodial accounts?

Answer: Such funds are insured in the same manner as indicated in Example 9. If the funds are held in irrevocable trust pursuant to statute or trust instrument, they are insured as trust funds. If held on an agent-principal basis, they are insured as the individually owned property of the various principals ([§ 330.2(b)] and [§ 330.10]).

EXAMPLE 11

Question: G, a cemetery, maintains an account consisting of its general funds in the amount of $15,000. It also maintains a properly designated trust account containing perpetual care funds held in trust pursuant to statute or trust instrument for the benefit of the various cemetery lots in the amount of $60,000. No single perpetual care fund in the trust account exceeds $15,000. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The general funds account is insured up to $15,000 ([§ 330.5 and 6]). Since each separate trust interest in the trust account is separately insured, the trust account is fully insured to $60,000 ([§ 330.1(c)(4)] and [§ 330.10]).

EXAMPLE 12

Question: G creates a charitable trust under which the principal and income are to be used for the furtherance of legal education, in the discretion of the trustee. The trustee deposits $30,000 of the trust funds in a properly designated account. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since the beneficiaries under the trust are indefinite and cannot be ascertained, there can be insurance only to the basic insured amount ([§ 330.1(c)(2)]). Thus, the account is insured only to $15,000, leaving $10,000 uninsured ([§ 330.10]).

1. Section 561.2 of the Rules and Regulations for Insurance of Accounts is hereby revised to read as follows:

§ 561.2 Insured member.

The term "insured member" means the holder of an account or accounts in an institution insured by the Corporation. Such holder is a separate insured member in each of the capacities and to the extent provided in Part 564 of this chapter.

§ 561.3 Insured account.

An "insured account" is a withdrawable or repurchasable share, investment certificate, deposit, or savings account held by an insured member in an institution insured by the Corporation. Accounts which by the terms of the contract of the holder with the institution or by provisions of state law cannot be withdrawn or the value thereof paid to the holder until all of the liabilities, including other classes of share liabilities, of the institution have been fully liquidated and paid upon the winding up of the institution are not insurable, and are hereinafter referred to as "nonwithdrawable accounts".

4. Section 561.4 of the Rules and Regulations for Insurance of Accounts is hereby revoked.

5. A new section, § 561.4, to read as follows, is hereby added immediately following § 561.3 of the Rules and Regulations for Insurance of Accounts.

§ 561.4 Trust estate.

The term "trust estate" means the interest of a beneficiary in an irrevocable express trust, whether created by trust instrument or statute, but does not include any interest retained by the settlor.

6. Section 561.5 of the Rules and Regulations for Insurance of Accounts is hereby revoked.

7. Three new sections, §§ 561.5, 561.5a, and 561.5b to read as follows, are hereby added immediately following § 561.4 of the Rules and Regulations for Insurance of Accounts.

§ 561.5 Public unit.

The term "public unit" means the United States, any state of the United States, the District of Columbia, any territory of the United States, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, any county, any municipality or any political subdivision thereof.

§ 561.5a Political subdivision.

The term "political subdivision" means any subdivision of a public unit, as defined in § 561.5, to which some functions of local government have been delegated and, in addition, includes drainage, irrigation, navigation, improvement, levee, sanitary, school or power districts and bridge or port authorities created by state statute or compacts between the states.

§ 561.5b Independent activity.

The term "independent activity" means any activity other than one directed solely at increasing insurance coverage.

PART 564—SETTLEMENT OF INSURANCE

Amendments Relating to Settlement of Insurance

JULY 7, 1967.

Resolved that, notice and public procedure having been duly afforded (32 F.R. 999) and all relevant material presented or available having been considered by it, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, upon the basis of such consideration and of determination by it of the advisability of amendment of Part 564 of the Rules and Regulations for Insurance of Accounts (12 CFR, Part 564) as hereinafter set forth, and for the purpose of effecting such amendment, hereby amends said Part 564 as follows, effective September 1, 1967:

1. Section 564.1 of the Rules and Regulations for Insurance of Accounts is hereby revised to read as follows:

§ 564.1 Settlement of insurance upon default.

(a) General. In the event of a default by an insured institution, the Corporation will promptly determine the insured members thereof and the amount of their insured accounts. The Corporation will give to each insured member of an insured institution in default written notice of the time and place of payment of insurance by mail at the last known address as shown by the books of the insured institution.

(b) Determination of amount of insured account. The amount of each insured account will be determined from the savings account contract and from the books and records of the insured institution as of the date of default. The insured amount is the amount which the insured member would have been entitled to withdrawal as of the date of the last dividend paid prior to default, plus payments on, and less repurchases and withdrawals from, such account subsequent to such date and without regard to (1) any earnings attributable to the account since such date and (2) whether the account is subject to any pledge. The insured amount does not include the amount of the dividend preceeding default if unlawfully declared or credited, contrary to instructions from a supervisory authority.

(c) Multiple accounts. In the event an insured member holds more than one insured account in the same capacity, and the aggregate amount of such accounts exceeds the amount of insurance afforded thereon, the insurance coverage will be prorated among the member's interests in all accounts held in the same capacity on the basis of their withdrawable value as of the date of default. In the case of individual accounts the insurance proceeds shall be paid to the holder of the account, whether or not the beneficial owner. In the case of accounts which are owned jointly the insurance proceeds shall be paid to the owners jointly. In the case of trust estates the insurance proceeds shall be paid to the indicated trustee unless otherwise provided for in the trust instrument or under State law. In the case of corporations, partnerships and unincorporated associations, whether or not engaged in an independent activity, the insurance proceeds shall be paid to the indicated holder of the account. Where insurance payment is in the form of a transferred account, the same rules shall be applied.

2. Part 564 of the Rules and Regulations for Insurance of Accounts is hereby amended by adding, immediately after § 564.1, as revised, the following new sections:

§ 564.2 General principles applicable in determining insurance of accounts.

(a) General. Section 564.1 of this part provides for determination by the Corporation of the insured members of an insured institution and the amount of their insured accounts. The rules for determining the insurance coverage of accounts in the same insured institution are set forth in the following provisions of this part. Insofar as rules of local law enter into such determinations, the law of the jurisdiction in which the insured institution's principal office is located shall govern.

(b) Records. (1) The account records of the insured institution shall be conclusive as to the existence of any relationship pursuant to which the funds in the account are invested and on which a claim for insurance coverage is founded. Examples would be trustee, agent, custodian or executor. No claim for insurance based on such a relationship will be recognized in the absence of its disclosure on such records.

(2) If the account records of an insured institution disclose the existence of a relationship which may provide a basis for additional insurance, the details of the relationship and the interests of other parties in the account must be ascertainable either from the records of the association or the records of the account holder maintained in good faith and in the regular course of business.

(3) The account records of an insured institution in connection with a trust account shall disclose the name of both the settlor (grantor) and the trustee of the trust and shall contain an account signature card executed by the trustee.

(4) The interests of the co-owners of a joint account shall be deemed equal, unless otherwise stated on the insured institution's records in the case of a tenancy in common.

(c) Valuation of trust interests. (1) Trust estates in the same trust invested in the same account will be separately insured if the value of the trust estate is capable of determination, as of the date of default, without evaluation of contingencies except for those covered by the present worth tables and rules of calculation for their use set forth in section 20.2031–7 of the Federal Estate Tax Regulations (26 CFR 20.2031–7).

(2) In connection with any trust in which certain trust estates are not capable of evaluation in accordance with the foregoing rule, payment by the Corporation to the trustee with respect to all such estates shall not exceed the basic insured amount of $15,000.

(3) Each trust estate in any trust established by two or more settlors shall be deemed to be derived from each settlor pro rata to his contribution to the trust.

§ 564.3 Single ownership accounts.

Funds owned by an individual and invested in the manner set forth below shall be added together and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

(a) Individual accounts. Funds owned by an individual (or by the husband-wife community of which the individual is a member) and invested in one or more accounts in his own name shall be insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

(b) Accounts held by agents or nominees. Funds owned by a principal and invested in one or more accounts in the name or names of agents or nominees shall be added to any individual accounts of the principal and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

(c) Accounts held by guardians, custodians or conservators. Funds held by a guardian, custodian or conservator for the benefit of his ward or for the benefit of a minor under a Uniform Gifts to Minors Act and invested in one or more accounts in the name of the guardian, custodian or conservator shall be added to any individual accounts of the ward or minor and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

§ 564.4 Testamentary accounts.

(a) Funds owned by an individual and invested in a revocable trust account, tentative or "Totten" trust account, payable-on-death account or similar account evidencing an intention that on his death the funds shall belong to his spouse, child or grandchild, shall be insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate as to each such named beneficiary, separately from any other accounts of the owner.

(b) If the named beneficiary of such an account is other than the owner's spouse, child or grandchild, the funds in such account shall be added to any individual accounts of such owner and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

§ 564.5 Accounts held by executors or administrators.

Funds of a decedent held in the name of the decedent or in the name of the executor or administrator of his estate and invested in one or more accounts shall be insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate, separately from the individual accounts of the beneficiaries of the estate or of the executor or administrator.

§ 564.6 Accounts held by a corporation or partnership.

Accounts of a corporation or partnership engaged in any independent activity shall be insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate. An account of a corporation or partnership not engaged in an independent activity shall be deemed to be owned by the person or persons owning such corporation or comprising such partnership and, for insurance purposes, the interest of each person in such account shall be added to any other accounts individually owned by such person and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

§ 564.7 Accounts held by an unincorporated association.

Accounts of an unincorporated association engaged in any independent activity shall be insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate. An account of an unincorporated association not engaged in an independent activity shall be deemed to be owned by the persons comprising such association and, for insurance purposes, the interest of each owner in such account shall be added to any other accounts individually owned by such person and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

§ 564.8 Public unit accounts.

(a) General. Where different officers, agents or employees of the same public unit, having by law the official custody of public funds of the unit, invest the same in an insured institution, each such officer, agent, or employee shall be separately insured up to $15,000 in such custodial capacity. An officer, employee, or agent of a public unit shall be deemed to be insured only up to $15,000 with respect to all public funds of the same unit held by him regardless of how many offices he holds in such unit or the purposes for which such funds are held or designated. If the same person is an officer, employee or agent of more than one public unit, he shall be separately insured up to $15,000 with respect to the public funds held by him of each such unit.

(b) Public bond issues. Where an officer, agent or employee of a public unit has custody of certain funds which by law or under the bond indenture are required to be paid to the holders of bonds issued by the public unit, any investment of such funds in an insured institution shall be deemed to be an investment by a trustee of trust funds of which the bondholders are pro rata beneficiaries, and each such beneficial interest shall be separately insured up to $15,000.

§ 564.9 Joint accounts.

(a) Separate insurance coverage. Accounts owned jointly, whether as joint tenants with right of survivorship, as tenants by the entireties, as tenants in common, or by husband and wife as community property, shall be insured separately from accounts individually owned by the co-owners.

(b) Qualifying joint accounts. A joint account shall be deemed to exist, for purposes of insurance of accounts, only if each co-owner has personally executed an account signature card and possesses withdrawal rights.

(c) Failure to qualify. An account owned jointly which does not qualify as a joint account for purposes of insurance of accounts shall be treated as owned by the named persons as individuals and the actual ownership interest of each such person in such account shall be added to any other accounts individually owned by such person and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

(d) Same combination of individuals. All joint accounts owned by the same combination of individuals shall first be added together and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

(e) Interest of each co-owner. The interests of each co-owner in all joint accounts owned by different combinations of individuals shall then be added together and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

§ 564.10 Trust accounts.

All trust estates for the same beneficiary invested in accounts established pursuant to valid trust arrangements created by the same settlor (grantor) shall be added together and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate, separately from other accounts of the trustee of such trust funds or the settlor or beneficiary of such trust arrangements.

§ 564.11 Continuation of prior coverage.

All accounts insured under the rules and interpretations heretofore in effect shall continue to be insured, anything in this part to the contrary notwithstanding, until April 15, 1968.

§ 564.12 Notification of account holders.

Each insured institution is required to provide notice of these amendments to the Rules and Regulations for Insurance of Accounts, prior to February 1, 1968, to the holders of each account which had a balance in excess of $5,000 at the close of the last dividend period prior to notification. Such notice shall consist of mailing to such holders, at their last known address as shown on the records of the institution, a question and answer brochure on insurance of accounts prepared by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. Such brochure shall also be made available to the public at each office of an insured institution. Additional explanatory materials may also be sent to account holders at the option of the insured institution.

EXAMPLES OF INSURANCE COVERAGE AFFORDED ACCOUNTS IN INSTITUTIONS INSURED BY THE FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN INSURANCE CORPORATION

JULY 7, 1967.

Whereas, by Federal Home Loan Bank Board Resolutions Nos. 20,723 and 20,724, dated July 7, 1967, this Board has amended pertinent provisions of the Rules and Regulations for Insurance of Accounts (12 CFR, Chapter V, Subchapter D) to define, limit and clarify the insurance coverage afforded investors in withdrawable accounts in institutions insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation; and

Whereas, this Board has determined that it would be in the public interest to publish concurrently interpretations of the aforesaid rules in the form of questions and answers setting forth insurance coverage afforded accounts in insured institutions:

Now, therefore, it is hereby resolved, That the examples of insurance coverage attached hereto and identified as Exhibit 20,725–A are adopted as official interpretations of the regulations of the Board;

Be it further resolved, That the Secretary to the Board is directed to submit copies of this resolution and these approved examples to the Office of the Federal Register for publication.

By the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

[SEAL] HARRY W. CAULSEN,
Secretary.

The following examples illustrate insurance coverage on accounts maintained in the same insured institution. They are intended to cover various types of ownership interests and combinations of accounts which may occur in connection with funds invested in insured institutions. These examples interpret the rules for insurance of accounts contained in 12 CFR Part 564.

The examples, as well as the rules which they interpret, are predicated upon the assumption that invested funds are actually owned in the manner indicated on the institution's records. If available evidence shows that ownership is different from that on the institution's records, the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation may pay claims for insured accounts on the basis of actual rather than ostensible ownership.

A. Single ownership accounts. All funds owned by an individual (or by the husband-wife community of which the individual is a member) and invested by him in one or more individual accounts are added together and insured to the $15,000 maximum. This is true whether the accounts are maintained in the name of the individual owning the funds, in the name of his agent or nominee, or in the name of a guardian, conservator or custodian holding the funds for his benefit.

EXAMPLE 1

Question: A and B, husband and wife, each maintain an individual account containing $15,000. In addition, they hold a joint account containing $15,000. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Each account is separately insured to $15,000, for a total coverage of $45,000. The coverage would be the same whether the individual accounts contain funds owned as community property or as individual property of the spouses (§ 564.3(a) and § 564.9(a)).

EXAMPLE 2

Question: H and W, husband and wife, reside in a community property state. H maintains a $15,000 account consisting of his separately owned funds and invests $15,000 of community property funds in another account, both of which are in his name alone. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The two accounts are added together and insured to a total of $15,000; $15,000 is uninsured (§ 564.3(a)).

EXAMPLE 3

Question: A has $12,000 invested in an individual account, and his agent, B, invests $5,000 of A's funds in a properly designated agency account. B also holds a $15,000 individual account. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: A's individual account and the agency account are added together and insured to the $15,000 maximum, leaving $2,000 uninsured. The investment of funds through an agent does not result in additional insurance coverage for the principal (§ 564.3(b)). B's individual account is insured separately from the agency account (§ 564.3(a)). However, if the account records of the institution do not show the agency relationship under which the funds in the $5,000 account are held, the $5,000 in B's name could, at the option of the Insurance Corporation, be added to his individual account and insured to $15,000 in the aggregate, leaving $5,000 uninsured (§ 564.3(b)(1)).

Question: A holds a $15,000 individual account. B holds two accounts in his own name, the first containing $5,000 and the second containing $12,000. In processing the claims for payment of insurance on these accounts, the Insurance Corporation discovers that the funds in the $5,000 account actually belong to A and that B had invested these funds as agent for A, his undisclosed principal. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since the available evidence shows that A is the actual owner of the funds in the $5,000 account, the Insurance Corporation may, at its option, add these funds to the $15,000 individual account held by A (rather than to B's $12,000 account) and insure the total of $20,000 to the $15,000 maximum, leaving $5,000 uninsured. In that event B's $12,000 individual account would be separately insured (§ 564.3 (a) and (b)).

EXAMPLE 5

Question: C, a minor, maintains an individual account of $150 in connection with a school savings program. C's grandfather makes a gift to him of $10,000, which is invested in another account by C's father, designated on the institution's records as custodian under a Uniform Gifts to Minors Act. C's father also maintains an individual account of $10,000. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: C's individual account and the custodianship account held for him by his father are added together and would be insured to the $15,000 maximum (§ 564.3(c)). The individual account held by C's father is separately insured (§ 564.3(a)).

EXAMPLE 6

Question: G, a court appointed guardian, invests in a properly designated account $15,000 of funds in his custody which belong to W, his ward. W and G each maintain $5,000 individual accounts. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: W's individual account and the guardianship account in G's name are added together and insured to $15,000 in the aggregate. The fact that a guardian has been judicially appointed does not alter the fact that the guardianship funds legally belong to W, the ward, and are insured as W's individually owned funds (§ 564.3(c)). G's individual account is separately insured (§ 564.3(a)).

EXAMPLE 7

Question: M Savings and Loan Association declares and pays a dividend on June 30, although ordered by its supervisory authority not to do so because it is insolvent. A receiver is thereupon appointed for the purpose of liquidation, and no further dividends are declared. A holds an account to which the June 30 dividend has been credited. B holds an account on permanent dividend order and has received a check for the June 30 dividend. What is the insurance coverage of the dividend?

Answer: If the last dividend prior to default is unlawfully declared or credited, contrary to instructions from a supervisory authority, an amount equal to the last dividend may be deducted in determining the insured amount of the account (§ 564.1(b)). Since the association has so declared and paid its last dividend unlawfully, the amount of the dividend will be deducted from the insurance payment on both accounts—on A's account because the dividend was improperly credited and on B's account to reflect the amount improperly paid but already received.

EXAMPLE 6

Question: L Savings and Loan Association has a monthly-payment bonus plan under which a bonus of ¼ percent is payable after regular payments have been made for 36 months and a bonus of ½ percent is payable after 60 months. At the time of default, A has made payments on his bonus account for 36 months and B for 40 months. What is the insurance coverage with regard to the bonus?

Answer: The amount of an insured account includes only the earnings which an insured member would have been entitled to withdraw as of the date of the last dividend paid prior to default (§ 564.1(b)). As of that date A did not have a right to withdraw any portion of the bonus, but B would have been entitled to a bonus of ¼ percent. Thus, the insurance payment to B would include an amount equal to a bonus of ¼ percent, but the payment to A would not include any portion of the bonus.

B. Testamentary accounts. The term "testamentary account" refers to a revocable trust account, tentative or "Totten" trust account, "payable-on-death" account or any similar account which evidences an intention that the funds shall pass on the death of the owner of the funds to a named beneficiary. If the beneficiary is a spouse, child or grandchild of the owner, the funds in all such accounts are insured for the owner up to $15,000 in the aggregate as to each such beneficiary, separately from any other individual accounts of the owner. If the beneficiary of such an account is other than a spouse, child or grandchild of the owner, the funds in the account are, for insurance purposes, added to any other individual accounts of the owner and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate. In the case of a revocable trust account, the person who holds the power of revocation is deemed to be the owner of the funds in the account. If a revocable trust account is held in the name of a fiduciary other than the owner of the funds, any other accounts held by the fiduciary are insured separately from such revocable trust account.

EXAMPLE 1

Question: H invests $25,000 in a revocable trust account with his son, S, and his daughter, D, as named beneficiaries. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since S and D are children of H, the owner of the account, the funds are insured up to $15,000 as to each beneficiary (§ 564.4(a)). Assuming that S and D have equal beneficial interests ($12,500 each), H is fully insured for this account.

EXAMPLE 2

Question: H, as settlor-trustee, creates a revocable trust for the benefit of his son, S. H creates a second revocable trust, with T as trustee, for the benefit of his nephew N. H invests $15,000 of the funds of the first trust in a revocable trust account. T invests $10,000 of the funds of the second trust in another account. In addition, H, S, N, and T each maintain individual accounts containing $15,000. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since S is a child of H, the account established under the first trust is insured up to $15,000 separately from any other accounts held by H (§ 564.4(a)). Since N is not a spouse, child or grandchild of H, the $10,000 in the account held by T under the second trust is deemed to be owned by N and is added to the $15,000 in H's individual account and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate, leaving $10,000 uninsured (§ 564.4(b)). The individual accounts of S, N and T are separately insured to the $15,000 maximum (§ 564.2(a)).

EXAMPLE 3

Question: H invests $15,000 in each of four "payable-on-death" accounts. Under the terms of each account contract, H has the right to withdraw any or all of the funds in the account at any time. Any funds remaining in the account at the time of H's death are to be paid to a named beneficiary. The respective beneficiaries of the four accounts are H's wife, his mother, his brother and his son. H also holds an individual account containing $15,000. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The accounts payable on death to H's wife and son are each separately insured to the $15,000 maximum (§ 564.4(a)). The accounts payable to H's mother and brother are added to H's individual account and insured to $15,000 in the aggregate, leaving $30,000 uninsured (§ 564.4(b)).

C. Accounts of executors or administrators. All funds belonging to a decedent and invested in one or more accounts, whether held in the name of the decedent or in the name of his executor or administrator, are added together and insured to the $15,000 maximum. Such funds are insured separately from the individual accounts of any of the beneficiaries of the estate or of the executor or administrator.

EXAMPLE 1

Question: A, administrator of D's estate, sells D's automobile and invests the proceeds of $2,500 in an account entitled: "A, Administrator of the estate of D." In the same institution there is an account containing $15,000 which D had opened just prior to his death. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The two accounts are added together and insured up to the $15,000 maximum, leaving $2,500 uninsured (§ 564.5).

EXAMPLE 2

Question: X is executor of the will of T, under which A, B and C are beneficiaries in equal shares. X invests $40,000 of T's estate in an account entitled: "X, Executor of the will of T." A and X maintain individual accounts of $15,000 each in the same institution. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The account held by X as executor is insured only to $15,000. Such funds are considered the property of the decedent's estate and are not apportioned among the beneficiaries under the will. Since the title of the estate account discloses its fiduciary nature, X's individual account is insured separately. In addition, A's individual account is separately insured to the $15,000 maximum (§ 564.5).

D. Accounts held by a corporation, partnership or unincorporated association. All funds invested in an account or accounts by a corporation, a partnership or an unincorporated association engaged in any independent activity are added together and insured to the $15,000 maximum. The term "independent activity" means any activity other than one directed solely at increasing insurance coverage. If the corporation, partnership or unincorporated association is not engaged in an independent activity, any account held by the entity is insured as if owned by the persons owning or comprising the entity, and the imputed interest of each such person is added for insurance purposes to any individual account which he maintains.

EXAMPLE 1

Question: X Corporation maintains a $15,000 account. The stock of the corporation is owned by A, B, C and D in equal shares. Each of these stockholders also maintains an individual account with the same institution. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Each of the accounts would be insured to $15,000 if the corporation is engaged in an independent activity and has not been established merely for the purpose of increasing insurance coverage. The same would be true if the business were operated as a bona fide partnership instead of as a corporation (§ 564.6).

EXAMPLE 2

Question: A and B each has a $12,000 account in his own name and X Corporation has a $12,000 account. One third of the stock of X Corporation is owned by A and two thirds by B. X Corporation was set up solely to obtain additional insurance. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since X Corporation is not engaged in an independent activity, the funds in its account are insured as if owned by A and B in proportion to their interest in the corporation. For insurance purposes, $4,000 of the corporate account is imputed to A and added to his individual account and $8,000 is added to B's individual account. A has an aggregate individual interest of $16,000, of which $15,000 is insured, leaving $1,000 uninsured. Of B's total interest of $20,000, $5,000 is uninsured (§ 564.6).

EXAMPLE 3

Question: C College maintains three separate accounts with the same institution under the titles: "General Operating Fund", "Teachers Salaries", and "Building Fund". What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since all of the funds are the property of the college, the three accounts are added together and insured only to the $15,000 maximum (§ 564.6 and § 564.7).

EXAMPLE 4

Question: The men's club of X Church carries on various social activities in addition to holding several fund raising campaigns for the church each year. The club is supported by membership dues. Both the club and X Church maintain accounts in the same institution. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The men's club is an unincorporated association engaged in an independent activity. If the club funds are, in fact, legally owned by the club itself and not the church, each account is separately insured to the $15,000 maximum (§ 564.7).

EXAMPLE 5

Question: The PQR Union has three locals in a certain city. Each of the locals maintains a savings account containing funds belonging to the parent organization. All three accounts are in the same insured institution. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The three accounts are added together and insured up to the $15,000 maximum (§ 564.7).

E. Public unit accounts. For insurance purposes, the official custodian of funds belonging to a public unit, rather than the public unit itself, is insured as the account holder. All funds belonging to a public unit and invested by the same custodian are added together and insured to the $15,000 maximum, regardless of the number of accounts involved. If there is more than one official custodian for the same public unit, the funds invested by each custodian are separately insured up to $15,000. If the same person is custodian of funds for more than one public unit, he is separately insured to $15,000 with respect to the funds of each such unit held by him in properly designated accounts.

EXAMPLE 1

Question: X, as county treasurer, invests $5,000 in each of the following accounts: "General Operating Account," "Road and Bridge Fund," "School Transportation Fund," "Local Maintenance Fund," and "Payroll Fund." What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since all of these funds are owned by the same public unit (the county) and are invested by the same public official, the five accounts are added together and insured in the aggregate to the $15,000 maximum, leaving $10,000 uninsured (§ 564.8(a)).

EXAMPLE 2

Question: As Comptroller of Y Consolidated School District, A maintains a $20,000 account containing school district funds. He also maintains his own $10,000 savings account. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The two accounts will be separately insured, assuming the institution's records indicate that the account containing the school district funds is held by A in a fiduciary capacity. Thus, $15,000 of the school's funds and the entire $10,000 in A's personal account will be insured (§ 564.2(b)(1) and § 564.8(a)).

EXAMPLE 3

Question: A, as city treasurer, and B, as chief of the city police department, each have $15,000 in city funds invested in custodial accounts. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Assuming that both A and B have official custody of the city funds, each account is separately insured to the $15,000 maximum (§ 564.8(a)).

EXAMPLE 4

Question: A is Treasurer of X County and collects certain tax assessments, a portion of which must be paid to the State under statutory requirement. A maintains an account for general funds of the county and establishes a separate account for the funds which belong to the State Treasurer. The institution's records indicate that the separate account contains funds held for the State. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since two public units own the funds held by A, the accounts would each be separately insured to the $15,000 maximum. (§ 564.8(a)).

EXAMPLE 5

Question: A city treasurer invests $15,000 of city funds in each of the following accounts: "General Operating Account," "School Transportation Fund," "Local Maintenance Fund," and "Payroll Fund." All of the funds in the various accounts have been allocated to the specific use indicated by city ordinance or by statute. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: All of the accounts are added together and insured in the aggregate to $15,000. The allocation of the city's funds by ordinance or by statute for a specific purpose would not cause such funds to be separately insured (§ 564.8(a)).

EXAMPLE 6

Question: A city treasurer invests $15,000 in a "General Fund" account and $20,000 in a "Meter Deposit" account. The funds in the Meter Deposit account belong to users of gas and are held by the official custodian in a fiduciary capacity as security for damage to gas meters. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Each account is separately and fully insured. However, if the city treasurer held such funds as agent for the users of gas, their interests in the Meter Deposit account would be added to their individual accounts in computing insurance coverage (§ 564.2(b)). On the other hand, if the meter deposits are actually held in trust pursuant to statute or contract, such funds would be separately insured from any individually owned funds of the gas users. (§ 564.10).

EXAMPLE 7

Question: In addition to the public fund accounts listed in Example 1, the county treasurer also maintains a "Bond Payment Account" containing funds required by law to be paid to 2,000 holders of bonds issued by the county. The account contains $200,000. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The interest of each bondholder is separately insured to the $15,000 maximum. Where a public official invests in an account funds which are required by law to be held for the payment of a particular bond issue, the account is deemed to be held in trust for the individual bondholders. The title of such an account, however, must indicate its fiduciary nature (§ 564.8(b)).

F. Joint accounts. Accounts held under any form of joint ownership valid under State law (whether as joint tenants with right of survivorship, tenants by the entireties, tenants in common or by husband and wife as community property) are insured up to $15,000. This insurance is separate from that afforded individual accounts held by any of the co-owners.

An account is insured as a joint account only if each of the co-owners has personally executed an account signature card and possesses withdrawal rights. An account owned jointly which does not qualify as a joint account for insurance purposes is insured as if owned by the named persons as individuals. In that case, the actual ownership interest in the account of each person is added to any other accounts individually owned by such person and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate.

Any individual, including a minor, may be a co-owner of a joint account provided that, under State law, he may execute a signature card and withdraw funds from the account on the same basis as the other co-owners.

All funds invested in joint accounts owned by the same combination of individuals are first added together and insured to the $15,000 maximum. Where an investor has an interest in more than one joint account and different joint owners are involved, his interests in all of such joint accounts are then added together and insured to $15,000 in the aggregate.

For insurance purposes, the co-owners of any joint account are deemed to have equal interests in the account, except in this case of a tenancy in common. With a tenancy in common, equal interests are presumed unless otherwise stated on the records of the institution.

EXAMPLE 1

Question: A and B maintain an account as joint tenants with right of survivorship and, in addition, each holds an individual account. Is each account separately insured?

Answer: If both A and B have executed the signature card and possess withdrawal rights with respect to the joint funds, each account is separately insured to the $15,000 maximum (§ 564.9 (a) and (b)).

EXAMPLE 2

Question: H and W, husband and wife, reside in a community property state. Each holds an individual account and, in addition, they hold a qualifying joint account. The funds in all three accounts consist of community property. Is each account separately insured?

Answer: Yes. An account in the individual name of a spouse will be insured up to $15,000, whether the funds consist of community property or separate property of the spouse. A joint account containing community property is also insured up to $15,000. Thus, community property can be used for individual accounts in the name of each spouse and for a joint account in the name of both spouses, each of which accounts is separately insured up to $15,000 (§ 564.2(a) and § 564.9(a)).

EXAMPLE 3

Question: Two accounts of $15,000 each are held by a husband and his wife under the following names:

John Doe and Mary Doe, husband and wife, as joint tenants with right of survivorship.
Mrs. John Doe and John Q. Doe (community property).

Are the accounts separately insured?

Answer: No. Both accounts are considered joint accounts owned by the same combination of individuals, regardless of the form of joint ownership. Reversal of names or use of different styles does not change the result, as long as the account owners are in fact the same in both cases. For insurance purposes, the accounts are added together for a total of $30,000, of which $15,000 is insured (§ 564.9(d)).

EXAMPLE 4

Question: The following accounts are held by A, B, and C, each of whom has personally executed signature cards for the accounts in which he has an interest. Each co-owner of a joint account possesses the necessary withdrawal rights.

No. 1 A, as an individual—$15,000.
No. 2 B, as an individual—$15,000.
No. 3 C, as an individual—$15,000.
No. 4 A and B, as joint tenants w/r/o survivorship—$15,000.
No. 5 A and C, as joint tenants w/r/o survivorship—$15,000.
No. 6 B and C, as joint tenants w/r/o survivorship—$15,000.
No. 7 A, B, and C, as joint tenants w/r/o survivorship—$15,000.

What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Accounts numbered 1, 2, and 3 are each separately insured for $15,000 as individual accounts held by A, B, and C, respectively (§ 564.3(a)). With regard to accounts numbered 4, 5, 6, and 7, the respective interests of A, B, and C in such accounts are added together for insurance purposes (§ 564.9(e)). The interests of the co-owners of each joint account are deemed equal for insurance purposes (§ 564.2(b)(4)). Thus, A has an interest of $7,500 in account No. 4, $7,500 in account No. 5, and $4,000 in account No. 7, for a total joint account interest of $30,000, of which $15,000 is insured. The interests of B and C are similarly insured.

EXAMPLE 5

Question: A, B, and C hold accounts as set forth in Example 4. A and B are husband and wife. C, their minor child, has failed to execute the signature card for account No. 7. In account No. 5, C cannot make a withdrawal without A's written consent. In account No. 6, the signatures of both B and C are required for withdrawal. A has provided all of the funds for accounts numbered 6 and 7. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: If any of the co-owners of a joint account have failed to meet any of the joint account requirements, the account is not insured as a joint account. Instead, the account is insured as if it consisted of commingled individual accounts of each of the co-owners in accordance with his actual ownership of the funds, as determined under applicable state law (§ 564.9(c)). Account No. 5 is not insured as a joint account because C does not possess the right to withdraw the funds in accordance with his purported interest in the account (§ 564.9(b)). However, account No. 6 does qualify as a joint account for insurance purposes since each co-owner possesses the right to withdraw funds on the same basis. Account No. 7 is not insured as a joint account since C did not personally execute the signature card. Assuming that, under applicable state law, A has the entire actual ownership interest in accounts 5 and 7, all of the funds in these accounts are treated for insurance purposes as individually owned by A (§ 564.9(c)). Thus, the $30,000 in these accounts is added to the $15,000 in account No. 1, A's individual account, and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate, leaving $30,000 uninsured. Accounts 4 and 6, the remaining joint accounts, are each insured to the $15,000 limit, since they are owned by different combinations of individuals and no co-owner has an aggregate interest in the two accounts in excess of $15,000 (§ 564.9 (d) and (e)).

EXAMPLE 6

Question: Three qualifying joint accounts are owned by A, B and C, as joint tenants with right of survivorship, as follows:

No. 1 A and B—$25,000.
No. 2 A and B—5,000.
No. 3 A and C—10,000.

What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since accounts numbered 1 and 2 are owned by the same combination of individuals, they are first added together and insured to $15,000 in the aggregate, leaving $5,000 uninsured (§ 564.9(d)). Since the respective interests of the co-owners of each joint account are deemed equal for insurance purposes, A has an interest of $7,500 in account No. 1, $2,500 in account No. 2, and $5,000 in account No. 3, for a total joint account interest of $15,000. B's interest of $10,000 in accounts numbered 1 and 2 receives a $7,500 proportionate share of the $15,000 insurance coverage on the two accounts, as does B's interest, leaving $2,500 uninsured in each case. A is entitled to $15,000 of insurance on the total of his interests in joint accounts owned by different combinations of individuals (§ 564.9(e)). $7,500 of this $15,000 is allocated to A's interest in accounts numbered 1 and 2, leaving $7,500 of insurance available for his $5,000 interest in account No. 3, which is fully insured. C's $5,000 interest in account No. 3 is also fully insured. Thus, $12,500 of A's total interest of $15,000 is insured; $7,500 of B's $10,000 interest is insured; and all of C's $5,000 interest is insured. Of the $30,000 invested in the three joint accounts, a total of $25,000 is insured.

G. Trust accounts. A trust estate is the interest of a beneficiary in an irrevocable express trust, whether created by trust instrument or statute, that is valid under State law. Thus, funds invested in an account by a trustee under an irrevocable express trust are insured on the basis of the beneficial interests under such trust. The interest of each beneficiary in an account (or accounts) established under such a trust arrangement is insured to $15,000, separately from other accounts held by the trustee, the settlor (grantor) or the beneficiary. However, in cases where a beneficiary has an interest in more than one trust arrangement created by the same settlor, the interests of the beneficiary in all accounts established under such trusts are added together for insurance purposes, and the beneficiary's aggregate interest derived from the same settlor is separately insured to the $15,000 maximum.

A beneficiary's interest in an account established pursuant to an irrevocable express trust arrangement is insured separately from other beneficial interests (trust estates) invested in the same account if the value of the beneficiary's interest (trust estate) can be determined (as of the date of default) without evaluation of contingencies except for those covered by the present worth tables and rules of calculation for their use set forth in Sec. 20.2031–7 of the Federal Estate Tax Regulations (26 CFR 20.2031–7). If any trust estates in such an account cannot be so determined, the insurance with respect to all such trust estates together shall not exceed the basic insured amount of $15,000.

In order for insurance coverage of trust accounts to be effective in accordance with the foregoing rules, certain recordkeeping requirements must be met. In connection with each trust account, the institution's records must indicate the name of both the settlor and the trustee of the trust and must contain an account signature card indicating the fiduciary capacity of the trustee and executed by him. In addition, the interests of the beneficiaries under the trust must be ascertainable from the records of either the institution or the trustee.

Although each ascertainable trust estate is separately insured, it should be noted that in short-term trusts the insurable interest or interests may be very small, since the interests are computed only for the duration of the trust. Thus, if a trust is made irrevocable for a specified period of time, the beneficial interest will be calculated in terms of the length of time stated. A reversionary interest retained by the settlor is treated in the same manner as an individual account of the settlor.

As stated, the trust must be valid under local law. A trust which does not meet local requirements, such as one imposing no duties on the trustee or conveying no interest to the beneficiary, is of no effect for insurance purposes. An account in which such funds are invested is considered to be an individual account.

An account established pursuant to a revocable trust arrangement is insured as a form of individual account and is treated under Section E, supra, dealing with Testamentary Accounts.

EXAMPLE 1

Question: T is a trustee of an irrevocable trust created by S, settlor, for the benefit of A and B in equal shares. T holds an account containing $60,000 in trust funds. A and B, as well as T and S, each maintain individual accounts in the amount of $15,000 each. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The trust estates of A and B invested in the account are each insured to the $15,000 maximum, assuming that neither A nor B have beneficial interests in any other accounts established pursuant to an irrevocable trust created by the same settlor. Since A and B have equal beneficial interests under the trust, each has a proportionate interest in the trust account of $15,000, and the account is fully insured. The individual accounts of A, B, T and S are each separately insured to $15,000 (§ 564.10).

EXAMPLE 2

Question: S is the settlor of an irrevocable trust for the sole benefit of his son, B. T, the trustee, maintains an account containing $15,000 in trust funds. S subsequently creates a separate irrevocable trust, also for B's sole benefit, with K Bank as trustee. K Bank invests $5,000 of the trust funds in another account. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: B has the sole beneficial interest in two accounts established under trusts created by the same settlor. Both accounts are added together and insured up to $15,000 in the aggregate, leaving $4,000 uninsured. The fact that two different trustees are involved is immaterial (§ 564.10).

EXAMPLE 3

Question: S is the settlor of an irrevocable trust fund for the sole benefit of his son, B. T, trustee, invests $15,000 of the trust funds in a trust account. S establishes a revocable trust account in the amount of $15,000 for the sole benefit of S. S also has an individual account of $15,000. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The trust estate in the account established pursuant to the irrevocable trust arrangement is insured to $15,000 separately from the accounts owned by S (§ 564.10). The revocable trust account is insured to $15,000 as a testamentary account owned by S with his child as beneficiary, separately from S's individual account (§ 564.4(a)). The three accounts are fully insured.

EXAMPLE 4

Question: An account in the amount of $20,000 is held pursuant to an irrevocable trust for the benefit of A and B. Under the terms of the trust instrument, A is to receive the income for life and B is to receive the remainder at A's death. At the time of default, A is 70 years of age. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The proportionate value of A's life estate can be determined by the use of the present worth tables found at 26 CFR § 20.2031–7. To ascertain A's beneficial interest in the account, the appropriate multiplier (.27370) indicated by Table I is multiplied by the amount in the account. A's interest is found to be $5,843.80. The difference of $13,156.20 represents B's beneficial interest in the account. The trustee is entitled to an insurance payment of $11,843.80, representing A's complete interest ($5,843.80) and $5,000 of B's interest (§ 564.2(c) (1) and § 564.10).

EXAMPLE 5

Question: The situation is the same as in Example 4, except that A is to receive the income for life or until she marries, with remainder over to B. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Both trust estates are subject to a contingency (A's marriage) which precludes their evaluation by the use of the present worth tables. The insurance coverage with respect to all trust estates in the account is limited to the $15,000 maximum (§ 564.2(c)(2)). The trustee is entitled to an insurance payment of $15,000.

EXAMPLE 6

Question: S establishes an irrevocable trust fund of $75,000 for the equal benefit of A, B, C, D, and E. The trustee invests the entire amount in a properly designated trust account. The trust provides that each beneficiary is to receive income in equal shares until the age of 35, at which time the principal is to vest in equal shares, except that if either D or E does not complete college by age 35, his share of the principal is to go to X Church. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The proportionate (one-fifth) interests in the account of A, B, and C are each insured up to $15,000 as separate trust estates. The interests of D, E and X Church are subject to contingencies (completion of college) which cannot be evaluated by use of the present worth tables. Therefore, the insurance coverage on their interests is limited to $15,000 in the aggregate, resulting in a total insurance coverage of $60,000 for the trust account (§ 564.2(c) (1) and (2)).

EXAMPLE 7

Question: G is settlor of a short-term irrevocable trust for the benefit of H University. Under the terms of the trust instrument, the university is to receive all of the income (payable annually) for 2 years. At the end of the 2-year period, the trust is to terminate, and the corpus is to revert to G. The trustee invests $20,000 in a trust account. At the date of default, 1 year of the 2-year term of the trust has expired. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Although this arrangement constitutes an express irrevocable trust, G's reversionary interest is treated, for insurance purposes, as an individual account owned by him (§ 561.4). To ascertain the value of H University's remaining one-year income interest in the trust account, the appropriate multiplier (0.08883) indicated by Table II of the present worth tables is multiplied by the account balance. H University's trust estate in the account is $676.40. G's reversionary interest is worth $19,323.60. Assuming that G has no individual interest in any other account, the trustee is entitled to an insurance payment of $15,676.40, representing H University's entire trust estate in the account ($676.40) and $15,000 of G's reversionary interest (§ 564.2(c)(1) and § 564.10).

Question: H and W create an irrevocable trust for the benefit of their children, S and D, in equal shares. The trust contains $100,000, of which $20,000 was contributed by W. As joint trustees, H and W invest $40,000 of these funds in a trust account. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The trust estates of S and D are deemed to be derived from H and W in proportion to the contribution of each to the trust. W has contributed 20 percent of the funds and H has contributed 80 percent. S and D have equal beneficial interests in the trust account. Of S's beneficial interest of $20,000, $4,000 (20 percent) is deemed to be derived from W and $16,000 (80 percent) is deemed to be derived form H. D's beneficial interest is similarly derived. The trust estate of each beneficiary derived from each settlor is separately insured to the $15,000 maximum. The $4,000 interest derived from W is fully insured, and $15,000 of the interest derived from H is insured, leaving $1,000 uninsured in the case of each beneficiary. The account is insured to a total of $38,000 (§ 564.2 (c)(3)).

EXAMPLE 9

Question: X Corporation acts as servicing agent for FHA, VA and conventional mortgage loans. Each month X Corporation collects payments from approximately 2,000 mortgagors and commingles these funds in a single account. The account contains $200,000. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The amount of insurance coverage depends upon the terms of the contract or instrument under which X Corporation collects the funds. If it acts in the capacity of a trustee for the benefit of the mortgagors, the interest of each mortgagor is separately insured to the $15,000 maximum. If it acts in the capacity of a trustee for the lenders, the interest of each lender is separately insured to the $15,000 maximum. In either case, this insurance is separate from that afforded the individually owned funds of X Corporation invested in the institution or the individual accounts of any of the mortgagors or lenders (§ 564.10). If X Corporation is found to act in the capacity of an agent for either the mortgagors or the lenders, the interest of each such principal is separately insured as his individual account (but added to any other individual accounts which the principal holds in the same institution) (§ 564.2(b)). If X Corporation is found to hold the funds as owner, or principal, with only a contractual obligation to pay to its creditors, and not as trustee or agent, the account would be insured only to the $15,000 limit (§ 564.6).

EXAMPLE 10

Question: What is the insurance coverage on other fiduciary accounts, such as clients' funds invested in the name of a lawyer, rent security funds invested in the name of the landlord, escrow funds invested in the name of a real estate broker, litigants' funds invested in the name of a representative of a court, consignors' funds invested in the name of a market servicing agent, and similar funds invested in other custodial accounts?

Answer: Such funds are insured in the same manner as indicated in Example 9. If the funds are held in irrevocable trust pursuant to statute or trust instrument, they are insured as trust funds. If held on an agent-principal basis, they are insured as the individually owned property of the various principals (§ 564.2(b) and § 564.10).

EXAMPLE 11

Question: A cemetery maintains an account, consisting of its general funds, in the amount of $15,000. It also maintains a properly designated trust account, containing perpetual care funds held in trust pursuant to statute or trust instrument for the benefit of various cemetery lots, in the amount of $50,000. No single perpetual care fund in the trust account exceeds $15,000. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: The general funds account is separately insured to $15,000. Since each separate trust estate in the trust account is separately insured, the trust account is fully insured in the amount of $50,000 (§ 564.10).

EXAMPLE 12

Question: G creates a charitable trust under which the principal and income are to be used for the furtherance of legal education, in the discretion of the trustee. The trustee invests $25,000 of the trust funds in a properly designated account. What is the insurance coverage?

Answer: Since the beneficiaries under the trust are indefinite and cannot be ascertained, there can be insurance only to the basic insured amount (§ 564.2(c)(2)). Thus, the account is insured only to $15,000, leaving $10,000 uninsured (§ 564.10).

Chapter VII—Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (Agricultural Adjustment), Department of Agriculture

SUBCHAPTER B—FARM MARKETING QUOTAS AND ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS

[Amdt. 2]

PART 725—FLUE-CURED TOBACCO

Subpart—Flue-Cured Tobacco, 1966–67 and Subsequent Marketing Years

Basis and purpose. This amendment is issued pursuant to and in accordance with the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1281 et seq.), and is made for the purpose of amending the flue-cured tobacco allotment and marketing quota regulations for the 1966–67 and subsequent marketing years. The amendment (1) provides that if the farm operator is erroneously notified prior to the planting of tobacco on the farm of the marketing quota for the farm which is higher than the correct farm marketing quota, the farm marketing quota of which he was notified shall be used in computing penalty, and (2) provides for the issuance of a marketing card to a producer on the farm, other than the farm operator, if, after a hearing before the county committee, it is determined that such producer is or has been deprived of the use of the marketing card issued for the farm, and provides, in such instances, for assessing marketing quota penalty at the full rate against the farm operator or other producer on the farm responsible for marketing tobacco in excess of his proportionate share of the crop. A table of contents embodying the changes set forth is included in the amendment.

Tobacco farmers are currently engaged in the preparation for and production of flue-cured tobacco for 1967 and marketings of the crop will begin soon. Hence, it is essential that this amendment be made effective at the earliest possible date. Accordingly, it is hereby found and determined that compliance with the notice, public procedure, and effective date provisions of 5 U.S.C. 553 is impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and the amendment contained herein shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

1. Section 725.70(e) is amended to read as follows:

§ 725.70 Approval of allotments and marketing quotas, and notices to farm operators.

• • • • • •

(e) Marketing quota erroneous notice. If the official notice of acreage allotment and marketing quota issued for a farm erroneously stated a marketing quota larger than the correct effective farm marketing quota, the marketing quota shown on the erroneous notice shall be deemed to be the marketing quota and the basis for marketing quota penalty computation for the farm for the current marketing year only, if the county committee determines (with approval of the State executive director) that (1) the error was not so gross as to place the operator on notice thereof, and (2) that the operator, relying upon such notice and acting in good faith, planted tobacco on the farm and was not notified of the correct farm marketing quota prior to planting the tobacco.

Undermarketings and overmarketings for farms for which the erroneous notice of marketing quota is applied shall be determined based on the correct effective farm marketing quota for the farm.

2. Section 725.87 is amended by changing paragraph (a) to read as follows:

§ 725.87 Issuance of marketing cards.

(a) General. (1) A marketing card (MQ–76) shall be issued for the current marketing year for each farm having tobacco available for marketing. Cards shall be issued in the name of the farm operator except that (i) cards issued for tobacco grown for experimental purposes only shall be issued in the name of the experiment station, and (ii) cards issued to a successor-in-interest shall be issued in the name of the successor-in-interest. A marketing card may be issued in the name of a producer who is not the farm operator if the county committee determines pursuant to the procedure in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph that such producer has been or likely will be deprived of the right to use the marketing card issued for the farm to market his proportionate share of the crop.

(2) If the county committee has reason to believe that one or more producers on the farm have been or likely will be deprived of the right to use such marketing card to market his or their proportionate shares of the crop, a hearing shall be scheduled by the county committee and the operator of the farm and the producer or producers involved shall be invited to be present, or to be represented, at which time they shall be given the opportunity to substantiate their claims concerning the use of the farm marketing card to market each such producer's proportionate share of the effective farm marketing quota for such crop. At least two members of the county committee shall be present at the hearing. The hearing shall be held at the time and place named in the notice. A summary of the evidence presented at the hearing shall be prepared for use of the county committee. If the farm operator or other producer(s) on the farm do not attend the hearing, or are not represented, the county committee may take whatever action it deems proper on the basis of information available to it. If the county committee finds that any producer on the farm has been or likely will be deprived of the right to use the marketing card issued for the farm to market his proportionate share of the crop, the marketing card issued for the farm shall be recalled and a separate marketing card, showing 110 percent of the producer's proportionate share of effective farm marketing quota shall be issued to each such producer who it is determined has been or likely will be deprived of the opportunity to market his proportionate share of the crop and another marketing card (or other cards if considered preferable by the county committee) shall be issued showing 110 percent of the balance of the effective farm marketing quota to enable the other producers on the farm to market their proportionate shares. The marketing cards issued pursuant to this subparagraph shall reflect the proportionate pounds, if any, already marketed by each producer.

• • • • • •

3. Section 725.95 is amended by changing the title and adding paragraph (c) to read as follows:

§ 725.95 Producers penalties; false identification; failure to account; cancelled allotments; overmarketing proportionate share.

• • • • • •

(c) Overmarketing proportionate share of effective farm marketing quota. If the county committee determines that the farm operator or another producer on the farm has marketed more than 110 percent of his proportionate share of the effective farm marketing quota with intent to deprive some other producer on the farm from marketing his proportionate share of the same crop of tobacco, such operator or other producer shall be liable for marketing penalties at the full rate per pound for each pound marketed above 110 percent of his proportionate share of the effective farm marketing quota: Provided, That the sum of such penalties shall not exceed the total penalty due on total marketings above 110 percent of the effective farm marketing quota for the farm on which such tobacco was produced. Before assessment of penalty pursuant to this paragraph (c), a hearing shall be scheduled by the county committee and the operator and affected producers shall be invited to be present, or to be represented, to determine whether the operator or another producer on the farm has marketed more than 110 percent of his proportionate share of the effective farm marketing quota. The notice of the hearing shall request the farm operator and affected producers to bring to the hearing floor sheets and other relevant supporting documents. At least two members of the county committee shall be present at the hearing. The hearing shall be held at the time and place named in the notice and any action taken to impose penalty shall be taken after the hearing. If the farm operator or other affected producer does not attend the hearing, or is not represented, the county committee may take whatever action it deems necessary to assess penalty against the proper producers. If a hearing under § 725.87(a) is being held, and it is practicable to do so, such hearing and the hearing under this paragraph may be combined.

Chapter IX—Consumer and Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders; Fruits, Vegetables, Nuts), Department of Agriculture

[Valencia Orange Reg. 211]

PART 908—VALENCIA ORANGES GROWN IN ARIZONA AND DESIGNATED PART OF CALIFORNIA

Limitation of Handling

§ 908.511 Valencia Orange Regulation 211.

(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 908, as amended (7 CFR Part 908), regulating the handling of Valencia oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674), and upon the basis of the recommendations and information submitted by the Valencia Orange Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of handling of such Valencia oranges, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 553) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective as hereinafter set forth. The committee held an open meeting during the current week, after giving due notice thereof, to consider supply and market conditions for Valencia oranges and the need for regulation; interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit information and views at this meeting; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein were promptly submitted to the Department after such meeting was held; the provisions of this section, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such Valencia oranges; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period herein specified; and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject hereto which cannot be completed on or before the effective date hereof. Such committee meeting was held on July 13, 1967.

(b) Order. (1) The respective quantities of Valencia oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California which may be handled during the period July 16, 1967, through July 22, 1967, are hereby fixed as follows:

(i) District 1: 135,000 cartons;

(ii) District 2: 365,000 cartons;

(iii) District 3: Unlimited movement.

(2) As used in this section, "handled," "handler," "District 1," "District 2," "District 3," and "carton" have the same meaning as when used in said amended marketing agreement and order.

[Peach Reg. 5]

PART 919—PEACHES GROWN IN THE COUNTY OF MESA IN THE STATE OF COLORADO

Grades and Sizes

Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 919, as amended (7 CFR Part 919), regulating the handling of peaches grown in the county of Mesa in the State of Colorado, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674), and upon the basis of the recommendations of the Administrative Committee, established under the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments of such peaches, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this regulation until 30 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 553) in that, as hereinafter set forth, the time intervening between the date when information upon which this regulation is based became available and the time when this regulation must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient; a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective not later than July 17, 1967. A reasonable determination as to the supply of, and the demand for, such peaches must await the development of the crop and adequate information thereon was not available to the Administrative Committee until July 6, 1967; recommendations as to the need for, and the extent of, regulation of shipments of such peaches were made by said committee on July 6, 1967, after consideration of all information then available relative to the supply and demand conditions for such peaches, at which time the recommendation and supporting information were submitted to the Department on July 10, with supplemental information received on July 12, and made available to growers and handlers; shipments of the current crop of peaches are expected to begin shortly, and this regulation should be applicable, insofar as practicable, to all shipments of such peaches in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act; and compliance with this regulation will not require of handlers any preparation therefor which cannot be completed by the effective time hereof.

§ 919.306 Peach Regulation 5.

(a) Order. (1) During the period July 17, 1967, through September 14, 1967, no handler shall ship:

(i) Any peaches of any variety which do not grade at least U.S. No. 1 grade except as follows: Not to exceed 20 percent, by count, of such peaches in such lot may consist of peaches which do not meet the requirements of such grade, but not more than 10 percent, by count, of the peaches in any such lot may consist of peaches with defects causing serious damage of which not more than 5 percent shall consist of such defects caused by twig borer, or oriental fruit moth, and not more than 1 percent, by count, of the peaches in any such lot may consist of peaches which are not free from decay;

67 472 A A 30

(ii) Any peaches of any variety which are of a size smaller than 2⅛ inches in diameter: Provided, That any lot of peaches shall be deemed to be of a size not smaller than 2⅛ inches in diameter (a) if not more than 10 percent, by count, of such peaches in such lot are smaller than 2⅛ inches in diameter; and (b) if not more than 15 percent, by count, of the peaches contained in any individual container in such lot are smaller than 2⅛ inches in diameter.

(2) Definitions. As used herein, "peaches," "handler," "ship," and "varieties" shall have the same meaning as when used in the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order; "U.S. No. 1," "diameter," "count," and "serious damage" shall have the same meaning as when used in the U.S. Standards for Peaches (7 CFR 51.1210–51.1223).

(Secs. 1–19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601–674)

Dated: July 14, 1967.

PART 947—IRISH POTATOES GROWN IN MODOC AND SISKIYOU COUNTIES, CALIF., AND IN ALL COUNTIES IN OREGON EXCEPT MALHEUR COUNTY

Limitation of Shipments

Findings. (a) Pursuant to Marketing Agreement No. 114 and Order No. 947, both as amended (7 CFR Part 947), regulating the handling of Irish potatoes grown in the production area defined therein, effective under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of recommendations and information submitted by the Oregon-California Potato Committee, established pursuant to the said marketing agreement and order, and other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments hereinafter set forth, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(b) It is hereby found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice or engage in public rule making procedure, and that good cause exists for not postponing the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 553 (1966)) in that (1) shipments of 1967 crop potatoes grown in the production area will begin on or about the effective date specified herein, (2) to maximize benefits to producers, this regulation should apply to as many shipments as possible during the effective period, (3) producers and handlers have operated under the said marketing order program since 1948 so special preparation by handlers is not required, (4) information regarding the committee's recommendation has been made available to producers and handlers in the production area, (5) these regulations establish similar requirements to those made effective at the beginning of last season, and (6) information of the committee recommending these regulations did not become available to the Department until July 6, 1967.

§ 947.325 Limitation of shipments.

During the period July 17, through October 9, 1967, no person shall handle any lot of potatoes unless such potatoes meet the requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, or unless such potatoes are handled in accordance with paragraphs (c), (d), (e), (f), and (g) of this section.

(a) Minimum quality requirements.

(1) Grade: All varieties—U.S. No. 2, or better grade.

(2) Size: (i) Round varieties—1⅞ inches minimum diameter.

(ii) All other varieties—2 inches minimum diameter or 4 ounces minimum weight.

(iii) All varieties—Size B if U.S. No. 1, or better grade.

(b) Minimum maturity requirements.

(1) All varieties:

(i) Through August 31, 1967: "Moderately skinned" which means that not more than 10 percent of the potatoes in any lot may have more than one-half of the skin missing or "feathered."

(ii) Beginning September 1, 1967: "Slightly skinned" which means that not more than 10 percent of the potatoes in any lot may have more than one-fourth of the skin missing or "feathered."

(2) Not to exceed a total of 100 hundredweight of any variety of a lot of potatoes may be handled for any producer any 7 consecutive days without regard to the aforesaid maturity requirements. Prior to each shipment of potatoes exempt from the above maturity requirements, the handler thereof shall report to the committee the name and address of the producer of such potatoes, and each such shipment shall be handled as an identifiable entity.

(c) Special purpose shipments. The minimum grade, size, and maturity requirements set forth in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section shall not be applicable to shipments of potatoes for any of the following purposes:

(1) Certified seed.

(2) Grading and storing, planting, or livestock feed: Provided, That potatoes may not be shipped for such purposes outside of the district where grown except that: (i) Potatoes grown in District No. 2 or District No. 4 may be shipped for grading and storing, for planting, or for livestock feed within, or to, such districts for such purposes; (ii) potatoes grown in any one district may be shipped to a receiver in any other district within the production area for grading if such receiver is substantiated and recognized by the committee as a processor of canned, frozen, dehydrated, potato chips, or prepeeled products.

(3) Charity.

(4) Starch.

(5) Canning or freezing.

(6) Dehydration.

(7) Export.

(8) Potato chipping.

(9) Prepeeling.

(d) Safeguards. (1) Each handler making shipments of certified seed, except those lots with a maximum size of 2 inches in diameter which are handled for planting within the district where grown or between District No. 2 and District No. 4, pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section shall pay assessments on such shipments and shall furnish the committee with either a copy of the applicable certified seed inspection certificate or shall apply for and obtain a Certificate of Privilege and, upon request of the committee, furnish reports of each shipment made pursuant to each Certificate of Privilege.

(2) Each handler making shipments of potatoes for canning, freezing, dehydration, export, potato chipping, or prepeeling pursuant to subparagraphs 5 through 9 of paragraph (c) of this section and each receiver receiving potatoes pursuant to subparagraph (2), (ii) of paragraph (c) of this section, shall:

(i) First, apply to the committee for and obtain a Certificate of Privilege to make such shipments.

(ii) Prepare, on forms furnished by the committee, a diversion report in quadruplicate on each individual shipment diverted from fresh market channels to the authorized outlets specified in this subparagraph (2).

(iii) Forward one copy of such diversion report to the committee office and forward two copies to the receiver with instructions to the receiver that he sign and return one copy to the committee office. The handler and receiver may each keep one copy for their files. Failure of handler or receiver to report such shipments by promptly signing and returning the applicable diversion report to the committee office shall be cause for cancellation of such handler's Certificate of Privilege and/or the receiver's eligibility to receive further shipments pursuant to any Certificate of Privilege. Upon the cancellation of any such Certificate of Privilege the handler may appeal to the committee for reconsideration. Such appeal shall be in writing.

(e) Minimum quantity exception. Each handler may ship up to but not to exceed 5 hundredweight of potatoes any day without regard to the inspection and assessment requirements of this part, but this exception shall not apply to any portion of a shipment that exceeds 5 hundredweight of potatoes.

(f) Inspection. For the purpose of operation under this part, unless exempted from inspection by the provisions of this section, or unless handled for potato chipping or prepeeling in accordance with paragraph (c) of this section, each required inspection certificate is hereby determined, pursuant to § 947.60(c), to be valid for a period of not to exceed 14 days following completion of inspection as shown on the certificate. The validity period of an inspection certificate covering inspected and certified potatoes that are stored in refrigerated storage within 14 days of the inspection shall be the entire period such potatoes remain in such storage.

(g) Any lot of potatoes previously inspected pursuant to § 947.60(a) is not required to have additional inspection under § 947.60(b) after regrading, resorting or repacking such potatoes, if the inspection certificate is valid at the time of handling such regraded, resorted, or repacked potatoes.

(h) Definitions. The terms "U.S. No. 1," "U.S. No. 2," "Size B," "moderately skinned," and "slightly skinned" shall have the same meaning as when used in the United States Standards for Potatoes (§§ 51.1540-51.1556 of this title), including the tolerances set forth therein.

The term "prepeeling" means potatoes which are clean, sound, fresh tubers prepared commercially in a prepeeling plant by washing, removal of the outer skin or peel, trimming, and sorting preparatory to sale in one or more of the styles of peeled potatoes described in § 52.2422 (U.S. Standards for Grades of Peeled Potatoes, §§ 52.2421-52.2433 of this title). Other terms used in this section shall have the same meaning as when used in Marketing Agreement No. 114, as amended, and this part.

PART 948—IRISH POTATOES GROWN IN COLORADO

Limitation of Shipments

Notice of rule making with respect to a proposed limitation of shipments regulations for Area No. 1 to be made effective under Marketing Agreement No. 97 and Order No. 948, both as amended (7 CFR Part 948), regulating the handling of Irish potatoes grown in the State of Colorado, was published in the June 27, 1967, issue of the FEDERAL REGISTER (32 F.R. 9084). This program is effective under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.).

The notice afforded interested persons an opportunity to submit data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto not later than 10 days after publication. None was filed.

After consideration of all relevant matters, including the proposal set forth in the aforesaid notice, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments regulation, as hereinafter set forth, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

It is further found that good cause exists for not postponing the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 553 (1966)) in that (1) shipments of Irish potatoes grown in the production area are expected to begin on or about the effective date of this section, (2) more orderly marketing in the public interest than would otherwise prevail will be promoted by regulating the handling of potatoes in the manner set forth in this section, (3) compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of handlers which cannot be completed by the effective date, (4) reasonable time is permitted under the circumstances for such preparation, and (5) notice has been given of the proposed limitation of shipments set forth in this section through publicity in the production area and by publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

§ 948.354 Limitation of shipments.

During the period July 17, 1967, through June 30, 1968, no person may handle any lot of potatoes grown in Area No. 1 unless such potatoes meet the requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, or unless such potatoes are handled in accordance with the provisions of paragraphs (c), (d), and (e) of this section.

(a) Minimum grade and size requirements—(1) Round varieties. U.S. No. 2, or better grade, 2 inches minimum diameter.

(2) Long varieties. U.S. No. 2, or better grade, 2 inches minimum diameter or 4 ounces minimum weight.

(3) All varieties. Size B, if U.S. No. 1 or better grade.

(b) [Reserved for maturity requirements to be issued later]

(c) Special purpose shipments. (1) The quality and maturity requirements set forth in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section and the inspection and assessment requirements of this part shall not be applicable to potatoes handled for livestock feed.

(2) Potatoes may be handled for chipping or shoestrings if such potatoes meet the grade and size requirements of paragraph (a) of this section except for scab. The maturity requirements of paragraph (b) shall not apply to such potatoes handled for chipping or shoestrings.

(3) The quality and maturity requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section shall not be applicable to the handling of potatoes for seed as defined in § 948.6 but any lot of potatoes handled for seed shall be subject to assessments.

(d) Safeguards. (1) Each handler of potatoes which do not meet the quality and maturity requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section and which are handled pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section for any of the special purposes set forth therein shall, prior to handling, apply for and obtain a Certificate of Privilege from the committee, which shall require among other things, the handler to furnish such reports and documents as the committee may require showing that the potatoes so handled were utilized for the purpose specified in the Certificate of Privilege.

(e) Exception to regulations. The requirements of this part shall not apply to the handling of potatoes grown in the counties of Dolores, La Plata, and Montezuma during the effective period of this section.

(f) Definitions. The terms "U.S. No. 1," "U.S. No. 2," "moderately skinned," "scab" and "Size B" shall have the same meaning as when used in the United States Standards for Potatoes (§§ 51.1540-51.1556 of this title), including the tolerances set forth therein. Other terms used in this section shall have the same meaning as when used in Marketing Agreement No. 97, as amended, and this part.

(Secs. 1-19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601-674)

PART 948—IRISH POTATOES GROWN IN COLORADO

Limitation of Shipments

Findings. (a) Pursuant to Marketing Agreement No. 97, as amended and Order No. 948, as amended (7 CFR Part 948), regulating the handling of Irish potatoes grown in Colorado effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) and upon the basis of recommendations and information submitted by the Area No. 3 Committee, established pursuant to the said marketing agreement and order, and other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments regulation as hereinafter established, limiting the grade, size, and quality of such potatoes will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act and thereby maintain orderly marketing conditions and tend to increase returns to producers of such potatoes.

(b) It is hereby found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, and engage in public rule making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this regulation until 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 553 (1966)) in that (1) shipments of 1967 crop potatoes grown in Area No. 3 are expected to begin on or about the effective date of this section; (2) to maximize benefits to producers, this regulation should be made effective as soon as practicable; (3) producers and handlers have operated under the said marketing order program since 1949 so special preparation on the part of handlers is not required; (4) regulations identical to these requirements have been issued under the State order for intrastate shipments, so producers and handlers are already aware of the regulations to be issued under this Federal program; and (5) details of the Committee's recommendations were not received until July 3, 1967, which date was too late for issuing notice thereon.

§ 948.355 Limitation of shipments.

During the period July 17, 1967, through June 30, 1968, no person may handle any lot of potatoes grown in Area No. 3 unless such potatoes meet the requirements of paragraphs (a), (b), and (c) of this section, or unless such potatoes are handled in accordance with paragraphs (d), (e), and (f) of this section.

(a) Grade and size requirements—(1) Round varieties. U.S. No. 1, or better grade, 2 inches minimum diameter; or U.S. No. 2, or better grade up to but not including U.S. No. 1 grade and not less than 1⅞ inches minimum diameter.

(2) Long varieties. U.S. No. 1, or better grade, 2 inches minimum diameter or 4 ounces minimum weight; or U.S. No. 2, or better grade up to but not including U.S. No. 1 grade and not less than 1⅞ inches minimum diameter or 4 ounces minimum weight.

(3) All varieties. Size B, if U.S. No. 1, or better grade.

(b) Maturity (skinning) requirements—All varieties. For U.S. No. 2 grade, not more than "moderately skinned," and for all other grades, not more than "slightly skinned."

(c) Container requirements. Potatoes may be handled only in containers classified by weight as follows:

(1) 5 pounds;
(2) 10 pounds;
(3) 20 pounds;
(4) 25 pounds;
(5) 50 pounds; or
(6) 100 pounds and larger.

(d) Special purpose shipments. (1) Chipping stock: Potatoes may be handled for chipping if they meet the requirements of U.S. No. 2, or better grade, 1½ inches minimum diameter, if such potatoes are handled in accordance with paragraph (e) of this section.

(2) The quality, maturity, and container requirements of paragraphs (a), (b), and (c) of this section and the inspection and assessment requirements of this part shall not be applicable to shipments of potatoes for:

(i) Livestock feed; and
(ii) Charity.

(3) The maturity requirements set forth in paragraph (b) of this section shall not be applicable to shipments of potatoes for:

(i) Chipping; and
(ii) Prepeeling.

(4) The quality, maturity, and container requirements of paragraphs (a), (b), and (c) of this section shall not be applicable to shipments of potatoes for seed (§ 948.6) but such shipments shall be subject to assessments.

(e) Safeguards. Each handler making shipments of potatoes for chipping or prepeeling pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section shall:

(1) Prior to shipment, apply for and obtain a Certificate of Privilege from the committee;

(2) Furnish the committee such reports and documents as requested, including certification by the buyer or receiver on the use of such potatoes; and

(3) Bill each shipment directly to the applicable processor or receiver.

(f) Shipment by motor vehicle. No handler may transport or cause the transportation by motor vehicle of any shipment of potatoes for which an inspection certificate is required unless each shipment is accompanied by, and made available for examination at any time upon request, a copy of the inspection certificate applicable therto or such other document as the committee may specify.

(g) Minimum quantity. For purposes of regulation under this part, each person may handle up to but not to exceed 1,000 pounds of potatoes without regard to the requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, but this exception shall not apply to any portion of a shipment of over 1,000 pounds of potatoes.

(h) Definitions. The terms "U.S. No. 1," "U.S. No. 2," "Size B," "moderately skinned" and "slightly skinned," shall have the same meaning as when used in the U.S. Standards for Potatoes (§§ 51.1540-51.1556 of this title), including the tolerances set forth therein. The term "prepeeling" means potatoes which are clean, sound, fresh tubers prepared commercially in a prepeeling plant by washing, removal of the outer skin or peel, trimming, and sorting preparatory to sale in one or more of the styles of peeled potatoes described in § 52.2422 of this title (U.S. Standards for Grades of Peeled Potatoes, §§ 52.2421-52.2433 of this title). Other terms used in this section shall have the same meaning as when used in Marketing Agreement No. 97, as amended and this part.

(i) Applicability to imports. Pursuant to section 608e-1 of the act and § 980.1, "Import regulations" (7 CFR 980.1), round white varieties of Irish potatoes, except certified seed potatoes, imported into the United States during the period August 1, 1967, through June 14, 1968, shall meet the grade, size, quality and maturity requirements specified in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.

(Secs. 1-19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601-674)

Dated July 12, 1967, to become effective July 17, 1967.

PART 1—INVESTMENT SECURITIES REGULATION

Los Angeles County-West Covina Civic Center Authority, West Covina Administrative and Police Buildings Revenue Bonds

§ 1.189 Los Angeles County-West Covina Civic Center Authority, West Covina Administrative and Police Buildings Revenue Bonds.

(a) Request. The Comptroller of the Currency has been requested to rule that the $3 million Los Angeles County-West Covina Civic Center Authority, West Covina Administrative and Police Buildings Revenue Bonds are eligible for purchase, dealing in, underwriting and unlimited holding by national banks under paragraph Seventh of 12 U.S.C. 24.

(b) Opinion. (1) The Los Angeles County-West Covina Civic Center Authority is a public entity created under the laws of the State of California by an agreement between the county of Los Angeles and the city of West Covina. Under this agreement, the Authority is empowered to acquire land and construct and lease public buildings and to issue bonds to finance such projects. The Authority is issuing these bonds for the purpose of constructing public buildings which will be leased to the City.

(2) Under the lease-rental agreement the city has unconditionally promised to pay annual rentals to the Authority in an amount sufficient to meet annual interest and principal payments on these bonds as well as other necessary expenses. The city, which possesses general powers of taxation, has thus committed its faith and credit in support of the bonds.

(c) Ruling. It is our conclusion, therefore, that the $3 million Los Angeles County-West Covina Civic Center Authority, West Covina Administrative and Police Buildings Revenue Bonds are general obligations of a State or a political subdivision thereof under paragraph Seventh of 12 U.S.C. 24 and, as such, are eligible for purchase, dealing in, underwriting and unlimited holding by national banks.

Dated: July 11, 1967.

Alteration of Control Zone

On pages 6845 and 6846 of the FEDERAL REGISTER dated May 4, 1967, the Federal Aviation Administration published a notice of proposed rule making which would amend section 71.171 of Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations so as to alter the control zone at Minneapolis, Minn. (Flying Cloud Airport).

Interested persons were given 45 days to submit written comments, suggestions, or objections regarding the proposed amendment.

No objections have been received and the amendment as so proposed is hereby adopted, subject to the following change:

The Flying Cloud Airport longitude coordinate recited in the Minneapolis, Minn. (Flying Cloud Airport) control zone redesignation as "93°27'25" W." is changed to read "93°27'45" W."

This amendment shall be effective 0001 e.s.t., September 14, 1967.

(Sec. 307(a), Federal Aviation Act of 1958; 49 U.S.C. 1348)

Issued in Kansas City, Mo., on June 29, 1967.

DANIEL E. BARROW,
Acting Director, Central Region.

Redesignate the Minneapolis, Minn. (Flying Cloud Airport), control zone as that airspace within a 5-mile radius of Flying Cloud Airport latitude 44°49'30" N., longitude 93°27'45" W.); and within 2 miles each side of the Flying Cloud VOR 292° radial, extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 7 miles west of the VOR. PART 71—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS, CONTROLLED AIRSPACE, AND REPORTING POINTS

Extension of VOR Federal Airway

The purpose of this amendment to Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is to extend VOR Federal airway No. 310 from Greensboro, N.C., with a 12 AGL floor to Rocky Mount, N.C., via Raleigh-Durham, N.C. V-310 is presently designated from Louisville, Ky., to Greensboro and from Rocky Mount to Elizabeth City, N.C. The extension of V-310 taken herein between Greensboro and Rocky Mount via the designated alignment of VOR Federal airway segments Nos. 45 and 194 would provide airway continuity and simplify flight planning.

Since this amendment is editorial in nature and does not alter the extent of controlled airspace, notice and public procedure are unnecessary. However, since it is necessary that sufficient time be allowed to permit appropriate changes to be made on aeronautical charts, this amendment will become effective more than 30 days after publication.

In consideration of the foregoing, Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended, effective 0001 e.s.t., September 14, 1967, as hereinafter set forth.

In § 71.123 (32 F.R. 2009) V-310 is amended by deleting "12 AGL Greensboro. From Rocky Mount, N.C.," and substituting "12 AGL Greensboro; 12 AGL Raleigh-Durham, N.C.; 12 AGL Rocky Mount, N.C.;" therefor.

(Sec. 307(a), Federal Aviation Act of 1958; 49 U.S.C. 1348)

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 7, 1967.

Title 21—FOOD AND DRUGS

Chapter I—Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

SUBCHAPTER B—FOOD AND FOOD PRODUCTS

PART 120—TOLERANCES AND EXEMPTIONS FROM TOLERANCES FOR PESTICIDE CHEMICALS IN OR ON RAW AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES

3-[p-(p-Chlorophenoxy)phenyl]-1,1-dimethylurea

A petition (PP 6F0489) was filed with the Food and Drug Administration by CIBA Corp., Post Office Box 1105, Vero Beach, Fla. 32960, proposing the establishment of tolerances for residues of the herbicide 3-[p-(p-chlorophenoxy)phenyl]-1,1-dimethylurea in or on the raw agricultural commodities soybeans (dry) at 0.1 part per million and soybean hay and strawberries at 0.05 part per million.

Subsequently the petition was amended to increase from 0.05 to 0.1 part per million the proposed tolerance regarding strawberries and the proposed tolerances regarding soybeans (dry) and soybean hay were withdrawn.

The Secretary of Agriculture has certified that this pesticide chemical is useful for the purposes for which the tolerance is being established.

Based on consideration given the data submitted in the petition, and other relevant material, the Commissioner of Food and Drugs concludes that the tolerance established by this order will protect the public health. Therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 408(d)(2), 68 Stat. 512; 21 U.S.C. 346a(d)(2)) and delegated by him to the Commissioner (21 CFR 2.120), Part 120 is amended by adding to Subpart C a new section, as follows:

§ 120.216 3-[p-(p-Chlorophenoxy)phenyl]-1,1-dimethylurea; tolerances for residues.

A tolerance of 0.1 part per million is established for negligible residues of the herbicide 3-[p-(p-chlorophenoxy)phenyl]-1,1-dimethylurea in or on the raw agricultural commodity strawberries.

Any person who will be adversely affected by the foregoing order may at any time within 30 days from the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER file with the Hearing Clerk, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Room 5440, 330 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20201, written objections thereto, preferably in quintuplicate. Objections shall show wherein the person filing will be adversely affected by the order and specify with particularity the provisions of the order deemed objectionable and the grounds for the objections. If a hearing is requested, the objections must state the issues for the hearing. A hearing will be granted if the objections are supported by grounds legally sufficient to justify the relief sought. Objections may be accompanied by a memorandum or brief in support thereof.

Effective date. This order shall become effective on the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Title 25—INDIANS

Chapter I—Bureau of Indian Affairs, Department of the Interior

SUBCHAPTER W—MISCELLANEOUS ACTIVITIES

PART 256—OFF-RESERVATION TREATY FISHING

On Page 8969 of the FEDERAL REGISTER of July 16, 1965, there was published a notice of intent to add a new Part 255 to Chapter I, Title 25, Code of Federal Regulations, and the text of the proposed regulations. The purpose of the new part was to provide a framework within which the exercise of off-reservation fishing rights secured to certain Indian tribes under treaties with the United States might be subjected to Federal regulation and control when required for conservation of the fishery resources for the benefit of the Indians and others having interests therein.

Interested persons were given an opportunity to submit data, views, or suggestions pertaining thereto within 30 days from the date of publication of the notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Numerous comments were received from several State Governors, State agencies, tribes, and others. These have all been considered and it has been determined that the proposed regulations should be issued in a modified form. The principal changes, other than editorial, are as follows:

The regulations have been assigned Part 256 since Part 255 has been assigned to a different subject.

Section 256.1 has been revised to more precisely and succinctly state the purposes of the regulations. The definition section has been omitted as unnecessary in the light of other changes adopted.

The section dealing with issuance of area regulations (§ 256.2) has been revised. Such regulations may be issued by the Secretary for those areas which he believes require them to assure adequate conservation and wise utilization of the fishery resources upon request of an Indian tribe, request of a State Governor, or his own motion. The Secretary may incorporate state laws or approved tribal regulations if he finds these to be consistent with the treaty and with conservation requirements.

Provisions expressly calling for recommendations to the Secretary by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and the Commissioner of Fish and Wildlife have been deleted because they concerned matters of internal administration not appropriate for treatment by regulations. It is contemplated that, except in emergency situations, interested parties will be afforded an opportunity to submit comments and information in connection with the rule-making process and that any hearings or actions by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and the Commissioner of Fish and Wildlife will be as agents of the Secretary in preparing a record upon which he can act. Provision has been made for the immediate promulgation of regulations if emergency conditions require. Parties will then be afforded an opportunity to submit views in support of requests for modification of such emergency regulations.

The area regulations may include requirements for reporting catch statistics which are deemed necessary for management purposes by State agencies as well as those needed by the Secretary.

Provisions applicable to identification cards (§ 256.3) have been revised to provide that these will be identification cards rather than fishing permits. They will be issued as prima facie evidence of the holder's entitlement to exercise a treaty-secured fishing right. The Commissioner of Indian Affairs may cause a government card to be issued or he may authorize use of tribally issued cards. The latter must be countersigned by a Bureau of Indian Affairs official. Copies of card forms and lists of issuing or countersigning officers must be furnished to State agencies. The deadline for requiring an approved tribal roll is advanced to January 1, 1970.

The requirement of identification of fishing gear (§ 256.4) is not limited to gear which is not in the Indian's immediate personal possession. The presumption that unmarked gear is not being used in the exercise of a treaty right applies only in the absence of proof to the contrary.

The enforcement provision (§ 256.6) is changed to provide for enforcement by tribal courts, Courts of Indian Offenses established under Part 11 of CFR Title 25 or special Courts of Indian Fishing Offenses to be established in accordance with said Part 11.

Except for § 256.3(g) and § 256.5, Part 256 shall become effective 30 days after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Section 256.3(g) and § 256.5 shall become effective 60 days after such publication.

STEWART L. UDALL,
Secretary of the Interior.

JULY 10, 1967.

Part 256 is adopted to read as follows:

Sec.
256.1 Purpose.
256.2 Area regulations.
256.3 Identification cards.
256.4 Identification of fishing equipment.
256.5 Use of unauthorized helpers or agents.
256.6 Enforcement and penalties.
256.7 Savings provisions.

AUTHORITY: The provisions of this Part 256 issued under 25 U.S.C. 2 and 9; 5 U.S.C. 301.

§ 256.1 Purpose.

(a) The purposes of these regulations (Part 256) are:

(1) To assist in protecting the off-reservation nonexclusive fishing rights which are secured to certain Indian tribes by their treaties with the United States;

(2) To promote the proper management, conservation and protection of fisheries resources which are subject to such treaties of the United States;

(3) To provide for determination of restrictions on the manner of exercising nonexclusive fishing privileges under rights secured to Indian tribes by such treaties of the United States necessary for conservation of the fisheries resources;

(4) To assist in the orderly administration of Indian Affairs;

(5) To encourage consultation and cooperation between the states and Indian tribes in the management and improvement of fisheries resources affected by such treaties;

(6) To assist the states in enforcing their laws and regulations for the management and conservation of fisheries resources in a manner compatible with the treaties of the United States which are applicable to such resources.

(b) The conservation regulations of this Part 256 are found to be necessary to assure that the nonexclusive rights secured to certain Indian tribes by treaties of the United States to fish at usual and accustomed places outside the boundaries of an Indian reservation shall be protected and preserved for the benefit of present and future members of such tribes in a manner consistent with the nonexclusive character of such rights. Any exercise of an Indian off-reservation treaty fishing right shall be in accordance with this Part 256 and any applicable area regulations issued hereunder.

§ 256.2 Area regulations.

(a) The Secretary of the Interior may upon request of an Indian tribe, request of a State Governor, or upon his own motion, and upon finding that Federal regulation of Indian fishing in any waters in which Indians have a treaty-secured nonexclusive fishing right is necessary to assure the conservation and wise utilization of the fishery resources for the present and future use and enjoyment of the Indians and other persons entitled thereto, promulgate regulations to govern the exercise of such treaty-secured fishing right in such waters for the purpose of preventing, in conjunction with appropriate State conservation laws and regulations governing fishing by persons not fishing under treaty rights, the deterioration of the fishery resources.

(b) In formulating such regulations the Secretary of the Interior may incorporate such State laws or regulations, or such tribal regulations as have been approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, as he finds to be consistent with the Indians' rights under the Treaty and the conservation of the fishery resources.

(c) Before promulgating such regulations the Secretary of the Interior will seek the views of the affected Indian tribes, of the fish or game management agency or agencies of any affected State, and of other interested persons. Except in emergencies where the Secretary finds that the exigencies require the promulgation of regulations to be effective immediately, a notice of proposed rule making will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 553 to afford an opportunity to submit comments and information, at such times and in such manner as may be specified in the notice. In the event of the emergency promulgation of regulations, interested persons will be afforded, as soon as possible, an opportunity to request amendment or revocation thereof.

(d) Any regulations issued pursuant to this section shall contain provisions for invoking emergency closures or restrictions or the relaxation thereof at the field level when necessary or appropriate to meet conditions not foreseeable at the time the regulations were issued.

(e) Regulations issued pursuant to this § 256.2 may include such requirements for recording and reporting catch statistics as the appropriate state fish and game agencies or the Secretary of the Interior deem necessary for effective fishery management.

§ 256.3 Identification cards.

(a) The Commissioner of Indian Affairs shall arrange for the issuance of an appropriate identification card to any Indian entitled thereto as prima facie evidence that the authorized holder thereof is entitled to exercise the fishing rights secured by the treaty designated thereon. The Commissioner may cause a federal card to be issued for this purpose or may authorize the issuance of cards by proper tribal authorities: Provided, That any such tribal cards shall be countersigned by an authorized officer of the Bureau of Indian Affairs certifying that the person named on the card is a member of the tribe issuing such card and that said tribe is recognized by the Bureau of Indian Affairs as having fishing rights under the treaty specified on such card. Copies of the form of any identification card authorized pursuant to this section and a list of the authorized Bureau of Indian Affairs issuing or countersigning officials shall be furnished to the fisheries management and enforcement agencies of any State in which such fishing rights may be exercised.

(b) No such card shall be issued to any Indian who is not on the official membership roll of the tribe which has been approved by the Secretary of the Interior: Provided, That until January 1, 1970, a temporary card may be issued to any member of a tribe not having an approved current membership roll who submits evidence of his entitlement thereto satisfactory to the issuing officer and in the case of a tribally issued card, to the countersigning officer. Any Indian claiming to have been wrongfully denied a card may appeal the decision in accordance with Part 2 of this chapter.

(c) No person shall be issued an identification card on the basis of membership in more than one tribe at any one time.

(d) Each card shall state the name, address, tribal affiliation and enrollment number (if any) of the holder, identify the treaty under which the holder is entitled to fishing rights, contain such additional personal identification data as is required on fishing licenses issued under the law of the State or States within which it is used, and be signed by the issuing officer and by the holder.

(e) No charge or fee of any kind shall be imposed by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs for the issuance of an identification card hereunder: Provided, That this shall not prevent any Indian tribe from imposing any fee or tax which it may otherwise be authorized to impose upon the exercise of any tribal fishing right.

(f) All cards issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs pursuant to this Part 256 shall be and remain the property of the United States and may be retaken by any Federal, State, or tribal enforcement officer from any unauthorized holder. Any card so retaken shall be immediately forwarded to the officer who issued it.

(g) The failure of any person who claims to be entitled to the benefits of a treaty fishing right to have such a card in his immediate personal possession while fishing or engaging in other activity in the claimed exercise of such right to display it upon request to any Federal, State, or tribal enforcement officer shall be prima facie evidence that the person is not entitled to exercise an Indian fishing right under a treaty of the United States.

(h) No person shall allow any use of his identification card by any other person.

§ 256.4 Identification of fishing equipment.

All fishing gear or other equipment used in the exercise of any off-reservation treaty fishing right shall be marked in such manner as shall be prescribed in regulations issued pursuant to § 256.2 hereof to disclose the identity of its owner or user. In the absence of proof to the contrary, any fishing gear which is not so marked or labeled shall be presumed not to be used in the exercise of an off-reservation treaty fishing right and shall be subject to control or seizure under State law.

§ 256.5 Use of unauthorized helpers or agents.

No Indian shall, while exercising off-reservations treaty-secured fishing rights, permit any person 12 years of age or older other than the authorized holder of a currently valid identification card issued pursuant to this Part 256 to fish for him, assist him in fishing, or use any gear or fishing location identified as his gear or location pursuant to this Part 256.

§ 256.6 Enforcement and penalties.

(a) Any Indian tribe with a tribal court may confer jurisdiction upon such court to punish violations by its members of this Part 256 or of the area regulations issued pursuant thereto. Jurisdiction is hereby conferred upon each Court of Indian Offenses established pursuant to Part 11 of this chapter to punish such violations by members of tribes whose reservations are under the jurisdiction of such court. Courts of Indian Fishing Offenses may be created pursuant to Part 11 of this chapter to punish such violations by members of any tribe or group of tribes for which there is otherwise no Court of Indian Offenses or tribal court with jurisdiction to enforce this Part 256. The provisions of Part 11 of this chapter shall apply to any such court with respect to the exercise of its jurisdiction to enforce this Part 256. All jurisdiction conferred by this section shall apply without regard to any territorial limitations otherwise applicable to the jurisdiction of such court.

(b) Acceptance or use of an identification card issued pursuant to this Part 256 or use of any fishing gear marked or identified pursuant thereto shall constitute an acknowledgment that the fishing done under such card or with such gear is in the claimed exercise of a tribal fishing right and is subject to the jurisdiction of the tribal court, Court of Indian Offenses, or Court of Indian Fishing Offenses. Except as may be otherwise provided by tribal regulations approved by or on behalf of the Secretary of the Interior, any person claiming to be exercising such tribal right and fishing in violation of the regulations contained in or issued under this Part 256 may be punished by a fine of not to exceed $500, imprisonment of not to exceed 6 months, or both, and shall have his tribal fishing privileges suspended for not less than 5 days for any violation of this Part 256 or of any area regulation issued pursuant thereto. The court shall impound the fishing rights identification card of any person for the period which the fishing privileges are suspended.

§ 256.7 Savings provisions.

Nothing in this Part 256 shall be deemed to:

(a) Prohibit or restrict any persons from engaging in any fishing activity in any manner which is permitted under state law;

(b) Deprive any Indian tribe, band, or group of any right which may be secured it by any treaty or other law of the United States;

(c) Permit any Indian to exercise any tribal fishing right in any manner prohibited by any ordinance or regulation of his tribe;

(d) Enlarge the right, privilege, or immunity of any person to engage in any fishing activity beyond that granted or reserved by treaty with the United States;

(e) Exempt any person or any fishing gear, equipment, boat, vehicle, fish or fish products, or other property from the requirements of any law or regulation pertaining to safety, obstruction of navigable waters, national defense, security of public property, pollution, health and sanitation, or registration of boats or vehicles;

(f) Abrogate or modify the effect of any agreement affecting fishing practices entered into between any Indian tribe and the United States or any State or agency of either.

275.2 Definitions.
275.3 Policy.
275.4 Responsibilities.

AUTHORITY: The provisions of this Part 275 issued under Title 5, U.S.C., sec. 301, and Title 5, U.S.C., sec. 552.

§ 275.1 Purpose and applicability.

This part establishes policy and assigns responsibility to a single Department of Defense Component for establishing, coordinating, and maintaining capabilities for time and time interval (astronomical and atomic) for use by all DoD Components, DoD contractors, and related scientific laboratories.

§ 275.2 Definitions.

For purposes of this part, the following definitions will apply:

(a) "Time" signifies epoch, that is, the designation of an instant on a selected time scale, astronomical or atomic. It is used in the sense of time of day.

(b) "Time Interval" indicates the duration of a segment of time without reference to when the time interval begins and ends. Time interval may be given in seconds of time.

(c) "Standards" signifies the reference values of time and time interval. These standards are determined by astronomical observation and by the operation of atomic clocks. They are disseminated by transport of clocks, radio transmissions, and by other means.

§ 275.3 Policy.

(a) Resources for uniform and standard time and time interval operations and research shall be the responsibility of a single DoD Component.

(b) The maximum practicable interchange of time and time interval information shall be effected throughout the DoD.

(c) Maximum practical utilization of interservice support will be achieved as prescribed in DoD Directive 4000.19,[1] dated March 26, 1960, "Basic Policies and Principles for Interservice Support."

§ 275.4 Responsibilities.

(a) The U.S. Naval Observatory (hereafter referred to as the "Observatory") is assigned the responsibility for insuring:

(1) Uniformity in precise time and time interval operations including measurements.

(2) The establishment of overall DoD requirements for time and time interval.

(3) The accomplishment of objectives requiring precise time and time interval with minimum cost.

(b) In carrying out the above responsibilities, the Observatory shall:

(1) Derive and maintain standards of time and time interval, both astronomical and atomic.

(2) Provide coordination of such standards with recognized national and international standards to insure worldwide continuity of precision.

(3) Monitor conferences concerning time and time interval standards.

(4) Advise and provide guidance to DoD Components, contractors, and scientific laboratories on matters concerning time and time interval, and their measurement.

(c) All DoD Components which require, utilize, or distribute time and time interval information or have a need for a specific time scale shall:

(1) Refer time and time interval to the standards established by the Observatory.

(2) Maintain specific time scales such that relationship to the standard established by the Observatory is known.

(3) Prescribe technical requirements for the coordination of techniques, procedures and periodic calibrations of systems.

(4) Promote economy by prescribing requirements for precise time that are consistent with operational and research needs for accuracy.

Title 43—PUBLIC LANDS: INTERIOR

Chapter I—Bureau of Land Management, Department of the Interior

APPENDIX—PUBLIC LAND ORDERS

[Public Land Order 4239]

[Nevada 051786]

NEVADA

Withdrawal for Protection of Air Navigation Facility; Partial Revocation of Air Navigation Site Withdrawal

By virtue of the authority contained in section 4 of the Act of May 24, 1928 (45 Stat. 729; 49 U.S.C. 214), it is ordered as follows:

1. Subject to valid existing rights, the following-described lands, which are under the jurisdiction of the Secretary of the Interior, are hereby withdrawn from all forms of appropriation under the public land laws, including the mining laws (30 U.S.C., Ch. 2), but not from leasing under the mineral leasing laws, and reserved for protection of an air navigation facility:

MOUNT DIABLO MERIDIAN

T. 41 N., R. 35 E.,
Sec. 27, E½SW¼NW¼NE¼, N½NW¼SW¼NE¼, SW¼NW¼SW¼NE¼, NW¼SW¼SW¼NE¼, NE¼SE¼SW¼NW¼, N½S½SE¼NW¼, SE¼SW¼SE¼NW¼, SW¼SE¼SE¼NW¼.

The areas described aggregate 32.5 acres.

2. The Order of the Bureau of Land Management of October 13, 1950, and Public Land Order No. 3456 of September 30, 1964, creating Air Navigation Site Withdrawal No. 265, are hereby revoked so far as they affect the following described lands:

MOUNT DIABLO MERIDIAN

T. 41 N., R. 35 E.,
Sec. 22, SE¼SW¼SW¼, N½SW¼SE¼SW¼, N½SE¼SE¼SW¼, SE¼SE¼SE¼SW¼;
Sec. 27, E½W½NW¼NW¼, NW¼NE¼NW¼NW¼.

The areas described aggregate approximately 35 acres in Humboldt County.

The lands are located in the extreme southern portion of Quinn River Valley, adjacent to Nevada State Highway 8A.

3. The withdrawal made by paragraph 1 of this order does not alter the applicability of the public land laws governing the use of the lands under lease, license, or permit, or governing the disposal of their mineral or vegetative resources other than under the mining laws. However, leases, licenses, or permits will be issued only if the Federal Aviation Agency finds that the proposed use of the lands will not interfere with the proper operation of its facilities on the land.

4. At 10 a.m., on August 11, 1967, the lands released from withdrawal by paragraph 2 of this order shall be open to operation of the public land laws generally, including the mining laws, subject to valid existing rights, the provisions of existing withdrawals, and the requirements of applicable law. All valid applications received at or prior to 10 a.m., on August 11, 1967, shall be considered as simultaneously filed at that time. Those received thereafter shall be considered in the order of filing. The lands have been open to applications and offers under the mineral leasing laws.

Inquiries concerning the lands should be addressed to the Manager, Land Office, Bureau of Land Management, Reno, Nev.

HARRY R. ANDERSON,
Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

Title 47—TELECOMMUNICATION

Chapter I—Federal Communications Commission

[Docket No. 14419; FCC 67-767]

PART 73—RADIO BROADCAST SERVICES

In the matter of amendment of the rules with respect to hours of operation of standard broadcast stations.

1. Section 73.87 (formerly § 3.87) of the Commission's rules allows certain classes of standard broadcast stations to commence operation with their authorized daytime facilities as early as 4 a.m., local standard time, subject to summary termination by the Commission. Historically, such terminations have grown out of valid nighttime interference complaints by unlimited time stations assigned to the same channel. Although the privileges conferred by this section (since 1941) have been mainly confined to Class III daytime-only stations authorized to operate on the 41 regional channels, a substantial number of Class II and Class I-B stations operating on frequencies other than foreign I-A Clear Channels have also benefited from its provisions, as have many unlimited time Class III stations licensed to use different facilities day and night.

2. Because of the proliferation of standard broadcast stations (particularly daytime-only) following World War II, serious early morning interference conflicts had, by 1960, begun to develop on many regional and Class I-B channels, resulting in the issuance of increasing numbers of termination notices by the Commission and challenges thereto by stations adversely affected.[1] The problem was further compounded by a decision of the U.S. Court of Appeals (D.C. Circuit) in WBEN, Inc. v. FCC, 290 F. (2d) 743 (1961) which, for the first time, gave standing to unlimited time licensees to prosecute pregrant objections against daytime-only proposals involving possible future interfering operations under § 73.87.

3. In response to the growing number of early morning interference conflicts, which coincided with a petition for rule making filed June 16, 1961, by Storer Broadcasting Co., the Commission initiated this proceeding by notice of proposed rule making released December 8, 1961 (FCC 61-1446). One objective was the updating of the rules by the inclusion of the entire body of "presunrise" case law which had developed up to that time. Another element of the proposal was, however, to require all stations operating under the permissive provisions of § 73.87 to notify their presunrise operating hours to the Commission, thereby assisting unlimited time stations in policing their channels by identifying possible sources of interference. This proposal would also have established a cutoff date beyond which newly authorized Class III stations would be precluded from engaging in any presunrise operation with their daytime facilities.[2] Moreover, it was proposed in the notice and a clarifying order, adopted January 25, 1962 (FCC 62-98), to terminate all permissive presunrise operation by Class II stations.

4. On July 2, 1962, the House of Representatives adopted H.R. 4749 looking toward the use of daytime facilities from 6 a.m. through local sunset and, in addition, providing for certain preexisting operations in the 4–6 a.m. period, the extended hours to be made available for stations in communities unserved by unlimited time stations. This bill was never

[1] Reese Broadcasting Corp., 20 RR 1136 (1960). See also North Shore Broadcasting Co., FCC 66-833 (1966); Central Massachusetts Broadcasting Corp., 1 RR (2d) 518 (1963). In these and other cases, interference complaints by fulltime stations were sustained where it could be established that the complainant was operating with its licensed nighttime facilities during presunrise hours; that the station complained against was using its daytime facilities during the same period; and that interference was indicated by calculations made in accordance with the Commission's rules. In many instances, the interfering skywave contour was found to extend more than 1,000 miles in all directions, thus guaranteeing favorable action on virtually all properly documented complaints. It will be appreciated that the resulting disruption of early morning services, particularly those of many years standing, raised public issues of significance, far transcending in importance the narrow question of objectionable interference and its method of calculation.

[2] Since Jan. 25, 1962 (FCC Order 62-98), Class II and Class III new and major change grants have been routinely conditioned against presunrise operation with their daytime facilities pending outcome of rule making in this proceeding. Approximately 500 outstanding authorizations are so conditioned.

enacted into law. However, during its pendency we stated that we would restudy the entire subject of presunrise operation to see if some easing of existing restrictions could be provided.[4]

5. In addressing ourselves to this restudy, we were again faced with the nighttime propagation conditions under which presunrise transmissions take place, and the necessity for reconciling the objectives of this proceeding with other findings concerning the efficient nighttime utilization of standard broadcast channels. A review of our earlier findings in this area will illuminate our present task.

6. The use of skywave measurements for evaluating individual interference problems was abandoned 13 years ago, and the statistical approach, represented by the use of skywave propagation curves derived from extensive measurement data recorded over many years, was held to be the only satisfactory method of calculating nighttime interference. Docket No. 10492; 10 RR 1562 (1954). This approach was further refined in our decision in the Daytime Skywave Proceeding—Docket No. 8333; 18 RR 1845 (1959)—and calculations by the statistical method continue to be conclusive for determining the extent of skywave service and interference thereto during nighttime hours. Storer Broadcasting Co., 1 FCC (2d) 1594 (1965).

7. This approach was dispositive of our 1959 decision in the so-called 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. proceeding. Docket No. 12729; 18 RR 1689 (1959). After analyzing the comprehensive engineering data submitted in that proceeding, we concluded that if all daytime-only standard broadcast stations were to operate between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. throughout the year "there would be substantial [overall] losses of existing groundwave services, new white areas would be created in the vicinity of communities * * * now served by unlimited time stations on the same frequencies, and [existing] skywave service would be lost." We had reached the same result the previous year in the "5 a.m. to 7 p.m." proceeding concerning extended hours of operation for daytime-only stations.[5] It should be noted, however, that both proceedings and decisions presupposed operation with full daytime power and on all frequencies other than the six local channels, including channels reserved for clear channel operation, rather than the more limited proposal now before us.

8. In our recent report and order adopting more restrictive AM assignment standards—Docket No. 15084; 2 RR (2d) 1658 (1964)—we called attention to the continuing erosion of existing services by the cumulative effect of new assignments in an already overcrowded band, and concluded that, except for Class IV proposals, no application be accepted for new nighttime facilities (including the addition of-nighttime facilities to an existing daytime-only station) unless it can, among other things, be shown that no interference to other stations will occur and that substantial "white area" coverage will be achieved.[6]

9. Against this background, it is clear that any resolution of the "presunrise" question must, of necessity, rest upon a realistic balance between the provision for needed early morning service, particularly in geographic areas where it would otherwise be lacking, and the interference which such service frequently causes to full-time stations assigned to the same frequency.

10. Our further notice of proposed rule making in this proceeding (FCC 62–1241, released November 30, 1962), which followed the adoption of H. R. 4749 by several months (Par. 4, supra), would have resolved this conflict in the following manner: Sign-on times for Class II daytime-only stations not assigned to foreign I–A Clear Channels would continue to be keyed to local sunrise at the dominant station(s) if located to the east of the Class II station; Class III daytime-only licensees in communities or urbanized areas without local unlimited time stations would, upon proper application, be licensed to sign on at 6 a.m.[7] with a power of 500 watts (nondirectional); other Class III daytime-only licensees would also be eligible to apply, but would face a rebuttable presumption that the desired presunrise service was unwarranted; Class III presunrise proposals in conflict with the standards and priorities of the North American Regional Broadcasting Agreement (NARBA) or the US/Mexican bilateral agreement could be authorized only with the concurrence of the foreign government involved; and interferring signals would, for domestic purposes, be determined by reference to a set of diurnal curves so constructed as to permit evaluation of skywave signal intensity at 15-minute increments throughout the period of transition (from 2 hours before sunrise). The further notice would not have permitted any presunrise use of daytime facilities by unlimited time stations.

11. Appendix A hereto contains an analysis of the comments filed in the proceeding, chiefly those filed in response to the further notice, which were the bulk of the material. We note in passing that the manifest need for early morning service in connection with weather emergencies has already been met, in part, by our adoption of § 73.98 of the rules (Docket No. 14703; 1 RR (2d) 1559 (1963)). In essence this rule permits daytime-only stations to transmit (on a sustaining basis) nighttime traffic dealing with emergency weather conditions, including the announcement of school closings and changes in school bus schedules resulting therefrom. This authority is without regard to interference caused to other stations, but is limited to emergency situations in which unlimited time service in the area is either unavailable or inadequate.

12. After issuance of the further notice and evaluation of responsive comments, it became clear that even with the power limitation proposed therein, a substantial percentage (perhaps a majority) of all potential Class III presunrise proposals would result in cochannel nighttime interference (if judged by existing treaty standards) to unlimited time foreign stations, and that this problem would largely consist of United States-Canadian conflicts where station sites and transmission paths lie in the northern latitudes most affected by seasonal fluctuations in daylight hours. It followed, therefore, that any meaningful relaxation in presunrise restrictions—a policy desired both by Congress and this agency—depended upon reaching agreement with Canada on modifications of existing nighttime protection standards. Accordingly, informal discussions were held with representatives of the Canadian Department of Transport and Board of Broadcast Governors to explore the possibility of a bilateral agreement on this subject pursuant to section A, subsection 6 of Annex 2 of NARBA.

13. On the basis of these discussions, tentative agreement was reached in the form of a memorandum of understanding signed in Ottawa on October 28, 1965.[8] The agreement was formalized, with certain revisions, by an exchange of notes on June 12, 1967. The heart of the agreement is the reciprocal use of a new family of curves for determining acceptable United States-Canadian trans-border radiation, (Figure 12), with provision for downward power adjustments where necessary to reduce radiation to specified limits. As a result, operation by Class II and Class III stations during the transitional hours between 6 a.m. and local sunrise will generally be possible, except that: Class II operations will continue to be keyed to sunrise times at Class I–B station locations to the east (assuming full 0.5 mv/m 50 percent skywave protection to all I–B assignments to the west) and Class II daytime-only operations on foreign I–A Clear Channels will continue to be prohibited during the above transitional hours. Provision will be made for mutual United States/Canadian notification of all presunrise proposals. The protection requirements of the NARBA and the United States/Mexican bilateral agreement will be otherwise observed.

14. The advantages accruing to U.S. Class III licensees from this agreement (without regard to domestic, Mexican or Cuban interference problems) are illustrated by the following study of four regional channels:

610 kc/s: There are 22 stations assigned to this channel in the United States. Of these, all but two can qualify for 500-watt presunrise operation, in conjunction with their authorized daytime antenna systems.[9] These two can be authorized on the same basis but with power reduced to levels between 180 watts and 320 watts.

920 kc/s: There are 45 stations assigned to this channel in the United States, 42 of which can qualify for 500-watt presunrise operation in conjunction with their daytime antenna systems. The remaining three can be authorized on the same basis but with power reduced to levels between 280 and 300 watts.

1250 kc/s: There are 56 stations assigned to this channel in the United States, 54 of which can qualify for 500-watt presunrise operation in conjunction with their daytime antenna systems. The remaining two can be authorized on the same basis but with power reduced to levels between 300 and 400 watts.

1600 kc/s: There are 73 stations assigned to this channel in the United States, 68 of which can qualify for 500-watt presunrise operation in conjunction with their daytime antenna systems. The remaining five can be authorized on the same basis but with power reduced to levels between 150 watts and 300 watts.

Parallel advantages will accrue to Class II stations in the United States vis-a-vis unlimited time Class II assignments in Canada, in that permissible radiation may be determined under the new, more liberal curves. Additionally, interference to Canadian I–B Clear Channel stations (although conventionally determined) may be eliminated by reductions in power to noninterfering levels, thereby providing a modicum of service in situations heretofore beyond reach.

15. The principles agreed to with Canada (Pars. 13 and 14, supra) are reflected in the rules adopted herein except that for domestic purposes, cochannel interference among U.S. Class II and Class III stations will not be taken into account. Class II stations will continue to take advantage (after 6 a.m.) of the time differentials between local sunrise and sunrise at the dominant station(s) to the east—subject to providing conventional nighttime protection to all westerly cochannel Class I assignments.

16. With the exception of Class II stations assigned to U.S. Class I–A Clear Channels, an across-the-board power ceiling of 500 watts (into the daytime antenna system) has been imposed. While this limitation is not a specific requirement of the agreement with Canada, it is dictated by the overall interference considerations discussed elsewhere in this document. Although some existing early-morning interference problems will be moderated as a result of the power ceiling, we recognize that new zones of interference will also be created, even with the 500-watt limitation. Our study of the matter suggests, however, that those areas of the country in which the greatest destruction of existing services will occur are, in general, reached by alternate services including the signals of Clear Channel stations and, to a lesser degree, by FM broadcast services.

17. Our decision not to apply, for the time being, the 500-watt power ceiling to Class II stations operating on U.S. 1–A clear channels stems from considerations set forth in Appendix A, chiefly the fact that the record in this proceeding is inconclusive as to the need for this power ceiling. In this connection, the situation on these channels is different from that on other frequencies, in that there are fewer stations to cause interference, fewer possibilities of additional assignments, and fewer foreign protection problems.[10] By contrast, because of the geographic distribution of Class I–B clear channel stations throughout the North American Region and other considerations discussed elsewhere in this document, the 500-watt power ceiling is clearly indicated with respect to Class II stations assigned to Class I–B clear channels. Therefore, the further rule making being initiated in conjunction with our final decision in this proceeding deals only with the limited question of power levels for Class II stations operating under presunrise service authorizations on U.S. Class I–A clear channels.

18. The Rules adopted herein make no provision for operation by the 34 U.S. Class I–B clear channel stations during presunrise hours with their authorized daytime facilities. Such operation is proscribed by the agreement with Canada. We do not know precisely how many Class I–B stations now operate in this fashion, but the number is believed to be substantial. In addition to achieving better close-in coverage in specific cases, this practice has to some extent been undertaken in "self-defense" against interfering Class II signals, as well as to avoid the otherwise required maintenance of a more complicated directional antenna pattern during the early morning hours. In any event, the described operations are premissive and may be terminated without right to hearing. Music Broadcasting Co. v. FCC, 217 F. 2d 339 (1954). In our view, the requirement that Class I–B stations operate with their licensed patterns during all nighttime (including presunrise) hours, on the basis of unqualified protection to their 0.5 mv/m 50 percent skywave contours, will assure the integrity of the wide-area nighttime coverage which these Clear Channel stations are intended to provide. Storer Broadcasting Co., supra.[11] Moreover, any residual skywave interference (unrecognized under our technical standards) resulting from the practice at many Class II stations of signing on at sunrise at the dominant station to the east will, as a practical matter, be largely eliminated by our decision to apply an across-the-board 500-watt power limit to all Class II presunrise operations (other than those assigned to U.S. I–A clear channels, as noted in par. 17, supra).

19. As previously mentioned, the further notice in this proceeding proposed to limit Class III eligibility to daytime-only stations, giving preferential consideration to such stations in markets without local unlimited time standard broadcast service. Our review of this matter in light of the written comments leads to the conclusion that these limiting aspects of the proposal are neither administratively sound nor in the public interest. They involve too many anomalies to be acceptable as a basis for general presunrise allocation policy. For example, many communities have two daytime-only outlets but no unlimited-time station, raising the question of whether both should be permitted to operate presunrise and, if not, which one should be. Also, where an unlimited time station does exist (notably Class IV service with severely restricted nighttime coverage), it can frequently be demonstrated that substantial areas and populations have come to rely on the presunrise programing of Class III daytime-only stations assigned to the same community. Nighttime service from nearby communities, sometimes from within the same metropolitan area, is another variable which could not properly be assessed outside the hearing process. For the reasons more fully developed in Paragraph 30 of Appendix A, the burden of resolving these variables on a case-by-case basis is one which should not be imposed on this agency or [4] Excluding, of course, restrictions beyond the scope of this proceeding. These include the present 250-watt ceiling on Class IV nighttime power, as well as existing prohibitions against presunrise operation by Class II daytime-only stations assigned to frequencies on which foreign countries have I–A Clear Channel treaty priorities.

[5] 17 RR 1669 (1958).

[6] In passing on petitions for reconsideration of the report and order in Docket No. 15084, however, we noted that it "may be appropriate to adopt different standards for the limited time period involved in presunrise operation, in view of the different considerations which obtain." memorandum opinion and order, 4 RR (2d) 1589 (1965).

[7] As proposed and adopted herein, "6 a.m." means local standard time, as that term has historically been used—the time prevailing in each of the time zones of the United States in relation to Greenwich Mean Time, not taking into account the 1-hour advancement heretofore called "daylight saving time". We will shortly revise our rules to take into account the new terminology of the Uniform Time Act of 1966. See the public notice of March 17, 1967, FCC 67–331.

[8] In the course of these discussions, Canadian officials expressed an interest in obtaining presunrise operating authority for two daytime-only stations: CJSP, Leamington, Ontario (710 kc/s) and CHIN (formerly CHFI), Toronto, Ontario (1540 kc/s). It was determined that CJSP could, within the framework of the agreement, begin operation with a power of 500 watts at local sunrise. New York City (the location of co-channel Class I–B Station WOR). However, in the case of CHIN, any presunrise operation would involve some degree of interference to co-channel Class I–B Station KXEL, Waterloo, Iowa. Because of the importance of the CHIN proposal to the successful outcome of the negotiations, the licensee of KXEL was approached to obtain its consent to the interfering operation, CHIN to sign on at 6:00 a.m. Toronto time with a power of 500 watts into its authorized directional antenna system and to continue with that mode until local sunrise. KXEL acceded to this proposal on condition that no other exception to the pre-sunrise solution contained in this document will be authorized or agreed to by the Commission. We feel this condition to be reasonable, and in signifying our concurrence we express our appreciation for the role played by KXEL in the successful outcome of these negotiations. The agreement does not, of course, contemplate negotiation of individual exceptions to its terms. Therefore, Station CHIN is provided for as a "special case" within the framework of the agreement.

[9] Use of the antenna system already authorized, whether directional or nondirectional, will obviate the necessity for our specifying a different antenna system for the presunrise mode, thereby eliminating the need for costly and time-consuming measurement data in connection with such proposals.

[10] Dark path protection problems rule out any consideration being given to the possibility of presunrise operation by Class II daytime-only stations located east of the dominant U.S. I–A cochannel assignment.

[11] In this admittedly extreme case, the Commission found that two cochannel I–B clear channel stations (WTOP, Washington, D.C., and KSTP, St. Paul, Minn.), operating presunrise with their daytime facilities, totally destroyed each other's skywave service as well as 90 percent of their respective primary (groundwave) services during the early morning hours.

on the industry. In addition, decisions arrived at on the basis of "situations in being" would be unsettled by the addition or deletion of unlimited time stations, or by arbitrary changes in their operating schedules. Moreover, to deprive unlimited time stations of the presunrise operating benefits enjoyed by daytime-only stations, as contemplated by the further notice, would tend to penalize those licensees who, in good faith, have expended considerable sums of money to directionalize for nighttime operation and who, as unlimited time licensees, are compelled by our rules to render service through 10 p.m. even in markets where much of the nighttime audience has switched to television. We have therefore abandoned these aspects of the further notice and are making equal provision for all Class III and many Class II stations to use their daytime facilities within the limits of the 500-watt/6 a.m. operating formula, thereby giving fulltime stations an optional mode of presunrise operation.

20. We wish to call attention to certain other administrative and legal problems which must be dealt with in putting the new rules into effect. As outlined in the appendices, the new scheme of "presunrise" regulation calls for the submission of informal (letter) applications, thus eliminating the permissive aspect of the present Rule. We estimate that more than 2,000 Class II and Class III licensees and permittees, both daytime-only and unlimited time (including the 500 stations with outstanding conditions against presunrise operation) will be eligible and will apply for presunrise service authority (PSA). In order to allow sufficient leeway for the handling of these requests in time to be of benefit during the coming fall and winter seasons, it is imperative that the new rules be made effective at the earliest possible moment. On the other hand, we are reluctant to disturb existing operations until they can be reestablished on the new footing. Accordingly, notwithstanding the effective date specified below, it is our intention to maintain the status quo with respect to existing permissive operations through October 28, 1967, by which date all timely filed requests will hopefully have been disposed of. Prospective applicants are, however, cautioned that we can offer no assurance that PSA requests submitted after August 31, 1967, will be reached and considered on their merits prior to the October 28 deadline on existing operations.[9]

21. In addition, numerous presunrise interference disputes are currently pending and unresolved, including 30 complaints filed under the existing Rule (§ 73.87) and 26 petitions to deny filed against pending renewal applications under WBEM doctrine, supra. We contemplate that most, if not all of these can eventually be dismissed as moot," together with applications on file (but unaccepted) by Radio Stations WLAW, WIFS, and WEAW for specified hours of operation, submitted in response to our March 5, 1964, interim public notice entitled "Adjustment of Pre-sunrise Operating Disputes" (FCC 64-201) and 13 informal requests for deletion of outstanding conditions against presunrise operation.

22. As the record in this proceeding abundantly demonstrates neither this nor any other resolution of the "presunrise" problem can hope to satisfy the essentially irreconcilable objectives of the many respondents both within and outside the broadcast industry. As more fully developed in Appendix A, an argument may be made that section 316 of the Communications Act confers hearing rights on unlimited time licensees adversely affected by the issuances of PSA's growing out of this proceeding. We do not so construe the statute, and therefore are not postponing the effectiveness of the new presunrise arrangements. The 500-watt power ceiling will militate against significant increases in existing interference. In situations where this does not prove to be the case, we urge licensees to refrain from litigation which would only further impede our efforts to realize a final solution and which, in any event, can yield no advantage beyond the terms of licenses now in force. Finally, we emphasize our conviction that the ad hoc approach to "presunrise" regulation, with its countless anomalies arising from Commission action or failure to act on specific complaints of interference, must be abandoned in favor of a more orderly system of regulation based on definitive rules which can be applied without regard to the hearing process.

23. Authority for the adoption of this report and order is contained in sections 4(i), 303(c), 303(e), 303(r), and 307(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

24. It is ordered, That, for the reasons stated herein and in Appendix A below, the Commission's rules are amended, effective August 15, 1967, as set forth in Appendix B below.

25. It is further ordered, That for the reasons set forth in paragraphs 20 and 21 of Appendix A below, the petition for further rule making filed April 19, 1967, by the National Association of FM Broadcasters, is denied.

26. It is further ordered, That Class II stations assigned to U.S. I-A clear channels may continue existing modes of operation, without regard to the application procedures set forth in the rules as herein amended, until further notice from the Commission: Provided, That such stations may not, after October 28, 1967, sign on earlier than 6 a.m. local standard time or sunrise at the dominant station, whichever is later.

27. It is further ordered, That proceedings in Docket No. 14419 are hereby terminated.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION[11]

(SEAL) BEN F. WAPLE, Secretary.

APPENDIX A—ANALYSIS OF COMMENTS IN THE PROCEEDING

1. The further notice produced a vast volume of material, the original of the docket in the proceeding (which contains informally submitted material as well as formal filings) consisting of 60 volumes.[1] Much of the information material consisted of letters from listeners, school officials, local governmental and civic leaders, and others, usually supporting the continued presunrise operation of a particular station (8,800 letters were filed on behalf of one station alone). The great majority of these expressions appear to have been solicited by the stations they support, and for the most part it appears that the writers were not completely informed as to the nature of the problem (for example, the fact that the service they favor causes interference to other stations) and in some cases were actually misinformed as to the effect of the Commission's proposal on the particular station. Therefore, despite its obvious sincerity, much of this material is of relatively little value. However, some of it—particularly letters from school officials concerning need for school-closing and schoolbus information—is of substance, as discussed below.

2. Formal comments were filed on behalf of close to 300 stations, the great majority of them daytime-only or fulltime Class III stations on the regional channels. Two radio networks—American Broadcasting Cos., Inc. (ABC), and Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc. (CBS)—also filed, on behalf of their owned AM stations. Others filing formal comments were Association on Broadcasting Standards, Inc. (ABS, a group of fulltime stations, mostly Class III); Daytime Broadcasters Association (DBA, an association of Class II and Class III daytime-only stations); National Association of FM Broadcasters (NAFMB); Association of Maximum Service Telecasters, Inc. (MST, filing only legal comments on the question of the applicability of section 316); the AFCCE; A. Earl Cullum, Jr. & Associates; and Congressman Thomas L. Ashley of Ohio, urging that full-time stations be protected against undue interference (with particular reference to Station WSPD, Toledo). Reply comments were filed by ABS, DBA, Cullum, a number of stations (some of which had filed initial comments) and Clear Channel Broadcasting Service (CCBS, a group of Class I–A stations). In addition to Congressman Ashley's formal comments, a number of Senators and Congressman filed letters with respect to particular stations or more general situations, usually supporting the cause of presunrise operation by daytime-only stations. There were also informal expressions of views to the same effect by State legislative bodies and leading State agricultural officials. While a number of the commenting parties supported our proposal, the great majority opposed it, for various reasons, as indicated below.

3. In view of the length of the record, it is impossible to set forth all of the various arguments, counterproposals and factual showings submitted. All of the material filed has, however, been carefully considered, whether specifically referred to or not. Stations filing formal or informal comments (the great majority of them formal) are listed in Appendix C.[12]

* * * * *

COMMENTS CONCERNING THE REGIONAL CHANNELS

4. The great bulk of comments filed concerned Class III stations assigned to the 41 regional channels. The same general considerations apply to the Class II stations (other than those on foreign I–A channels, which are beyond the scope of this proceeding); but these are much less numerous and special considerations concerning the different types of situations involved must be taken into account. The Class II situations are dealt with later herein.[2]

5. Besides the ABS and DBA filings, formal or informal comments were filed on behalf of some 260 Class III stations, 143 daytime-only stations (daytimers) and 122 unlimited-time stations (fulltimers). Of the daytimers, 79 would be eligible for presunrise operation under the further notice, with 500 watts power and from 6 a.m. on, because there is no fulltimer in their community or urbanized area.[3] The remaining 64 would not be eligible, in the absence of exceptional circumstances, because there is a fulltimer in their community or urbanized area. Some daytimers (usually, those which would be "eligible" and operate daytime with 500 watts so they would not face a cutback in power), favored our proposal as the most appropriate means of resolving the presunrise problem. A few others would favor it if it were modified to accommodate their particular situations, such as operation with greater power or from 4 a.m. instead of 6 a.m., or making stations "eligible" even though there is a fulltime station in the same urbanized area but not in the same community, or where the full-time station in town is a Class IV with a highly limited presunrise service area. But a substantial majority of the commenting daytimers, and DBA, opposed it, because it would terminate many presunrise operations and reduce a great majority of the rest either in time or power (the great majority of Class III daytimers are authorized daytime power of more than 500 watts).

6. In support of daytimer presunrise operation generally—and in particular in opposition to our proposal insofar as it would terminate some such operations and restrict many others in time and power—the commenting daytimers made three main lines of argument:

(a) the importance of their presunrise service, both "local" service (such as news of school closings and school-bus schedules) and "unique" service where the station is in a city with fulltimers.

(b) the economic importance to the station of presunrise hours, and the serious economic impact of curtailment of such operation.

(c) the absence of any real interference impact from such operation (in spite of what our technical standards might indicate) on the service of fulltimers.

Numerous daytimers made factual showings in support of the value of the presunrise service, often including letters from listeners, school, civic and agricultural officials, and advertisers. In some cases, such as letters from school officials concerning the value of early morning school-closing and school-bus cancellation announcements during wintertime bad weather, these came from a considerable distance (see, for example, comments filed on behalf of Station KXXX, Colby, Kans.) This would appear to indicate that this type of service is rendered, at least in some cases, out to a distance greater than simple calculation of the daytimer's nighttime presunrise interference limit would indicate. Some factual data was advanced in support of the economic point mentioned; in reply comments some daytimers pointed out that although numerous fulltimers complained of the effects of interference from presunrise operations, none really complained of economic impact therefrom. As to the third point, the argument was mostly assertion only.

7. Of the full-time Class III stations commenting, a few did not oppose the further notice, at least if some modifications are made (such as limiting daytimers to 250 watts, like Class IV stations, instead of 500), and full "316 hearing rights" are given affected fulltimers. The great majority, more than 100, opposed the proposal, as did ABS. In general, there were two main opposing lines of argument (sometimes combined): (1) The harmful effect of interference from daytimer presunrise operation on fulltimer service, with area and population losses to full-time stations in most cases (including badly needed rural coverage) significantly greater than the gains to the daytimers and their areas; and (2) the undesirable effects of prohibiting full-timer use of daytime facilities (usually greater than nighttime) before local sunrise.[4] Some of those making the first line of argument urged that—with the high limits they generally have during these hours—daytimers are limited in coverage to their communities and immediately surrounding areas, so that they cannot effectively meet the needs for their service which are claimed, such as school announcements. It was also urged that these needs are rather minimal anyhow—news is news even if presented after sunrise rather than before, and bad weather school announcements can be taken care of by liberalizing the emergency operation rules (they have since been liberalized to cover such situations, though not where full-time emergency service is available to the area involved and only on a noncommercial basis; see § 73.98 of the rules). Conversely, several fulltimers (WREC), Memphis, for example) stressed the

---

[9] Inasmuch as separate rule making is being initiated with respect to the need for a 500-watt power ceiling for Class II operations on U.S. I–A channels, Class II stations in this category should not request presunrise service authorizations at this time, and may continue existing modes of operation until further notice. In line with the new Canadian agreement, however, such stations may not, after Oct. 28, 1967, sign on earlier than 6 a.m. or sunrise at the dominant station, whichever is later.

[10] The new 500-watt power limit alone will moot out the technical considerations on which many of these complaints and petitions are based.

[11] Statement of Commissioner Cox, partially concurring and partially dissenting, filed as part of original document; Commissioner Johnson absent.

[1] Relatively few comments were filed in response to the 1961 notice, since the date for comments was postponed indefinitely before it arrived. The majority were by Class II and Class III daytimers, opposing the proposal as tending to restrict or eliminate their presunrise privileges. A few Class III stations supported the proposal, one going further and urging that all permissive presunrise operation, by any class of station, should be abolished.

[12] Filed as part of original document.

[2] Of approximately 4,267 authorized AM stations (licensees and permittees) as of May 24, 1967 there were 2,182 daytimers, or more than 50 percent. Of these, 1,214 are on regional channels and 926 are Class II daytime-only or limited-time stations on Class I clear channels. Of the latter, 509 are on Canadian, Mexican or Bahamian I–A channels, and as such are beyond the scope of this proceeding, leaving 417 Class II daytime or limited-time stations subject to consideration herein.

[3] According to ABS, as of early 1963, 722 out of 1180 regional daytimers would be "eligible", or 61 percent. Our study indicates that this is approximately correct, and that about the same ratio has obtained with respect to grants since. This analysis, however, and the figures in the text, do not take foreign interference considerations into account.

Stations included here as daytimers are those so operating at the time they filed (May and June 1963). A few already had authorizations for full-time operation, and at present about 8 of the commenting stations then operating as daytimers either operate unlimited-time or have authorizations to do so. In determining "eligibility" under the further notice proposal, the presence or absence of full-time facilities in the community or urbanized area was determined as of mid-April 1967. It has not changed substantially since.

[4] Of the 858 fulltimers on regional channels, only 90 operate with the same facilities day and night. DBA and some daytimers supported the cause of fulltimer presunrise use of daytime facilities, apparently on the theory that the preclusion of such use is the main ground for full-time opposition to the general licensing of daytimers for presunrise operation. However, as indicated herein this is not the only basis of fulltimer opposition to daytimer presunrise operation generally, or to the further notice.

value of their own wide coverage, including rural areas.[5]

8. As to the second line of argument, several fulltimers urged that they are better off coverage-wise using daytime facilities presunrise even with a considerably higher interference limit resulting from co-channel presunrise operation (particularly for nondirectional coverage of their particular communities); some asserted that they need these greater facilities for wide-area presunrise coverage. It was urged by several that presunrise "interference" is probably not as serious a problem as engineering standards would indicate, for one reason because (it is asserted) listeners will tolerate a higher interference level where news and informational material is concerned than for, say, symphonic music. It was also urged that it is unfair to accommodate daytimer presunrise operation at the expense of fulltimers in this way.

9. A number of fulltimers favored retention of the traditional § 73.87 status quo (at least pending a complete and thorough study of propagation conditions). It was urged that this has worked well and gives fulltimers a desirable and practical option—of using their greater daytime facilities presunrise, or, if interference conditions on their channels become really serious, reverting to nighttime facilities and filing § 73.87 complaints to "clean up" their channels.

10. Counterproposals and alternatives: Some of the opposing parties presented no alternative or counterproposals. Numerous stations, both daytime and fulltime, supported the § 73.87 status quo, the daytimers apparently relying either on the absence of complaint against their operations up to now or on legal theories as to their rights in the face of complaint, and the fulltimers urging the merit of the option mentioned above. A wide range of other counterproposals was advanced. Some fulltimers urged that § 73.87 be abolished and all presunrise operation (by daytimers or fulltimers with day facilities) be prohibited except in strict accordance with engineering standards. At the other extreme, some daytimers advocated a blanket "6 to 6" rule (daytimers operating with full day facilities) or immediate licensing of all daytimer presunrise operations. Other counterproposals included: Maintaining permissive operation under §73.87 (for both daytimers and fulltimers with day facilities) until complaint, and then giving the station complained against a hearing, continuing the service in the meantime; continuing such permissive operation and using our proposal as a sort of "backstop" for daytimers in the event of complaint; using the proposal as a minimum and giving case-by-case consideration to further presunrise operation by daytimers and fulltimers; permitting daytimers not normally eligible under the proposal to continue operation until complaint, and then to file applications for presunrise authority, with the affected station to show why the application should not be granted (it was urged that thus only really serious interference will be complained of); "grandfathering" all daytimer presunrise operations, even in the face of complaint, if they have existed without complaint for a period such as 3 to 5 years; permit no daytimer presunrise operation which causes interference unless it is shown that the interference involved could not be removed by directionalizing the operation; limit such operation to 250 watts unless 500 watts is shown to cause no interference; permit fulltimer use of day facilities at least until complaint, or in "white areas" or on a showing that it is warranted; permit fulltimers to operate with 500 watts non-directionally; and impose any cutback in daytimer power on a proportional basis (i.e., why should a one-kilowatt and a 5-kilowatt station both be cut back to 500 watts?). ABS and other fulltimers urged the necessity of a case-by-case approach rather than a general rule, taking into account possible daytimer directionalization or lesser power, service from nearby stations where there is no full-time station in the community itself, and other circumstances of each case. A number of parties urged continuance of § 73.87 but more flexible application of it, to permit continuance of the presunrise operation after complaint with lesser power (or less time) than that previously used. This procedure we have since adopted for resolving presunrise controversies, and it has been successful in a number of cases; but many pending complaint situations do not appear to lend themselves to resolution on this basis alone.

11. Some fulltimers—though a smaller number than daytimers—made factual showings as to the value of their presunrise service. The relatively few letters submitted usually, though not always, related to continued use of daytime facilities for wide-area presunrise coverage, rather than interference problems. Many parties made engineering showings concerning interference.[6]

12. The great majority of commenting daytimers appear to be presently operating presunrise during part of the year, and many fulltimers use daytime facilities during these hours. A staff study of three regional channels in mid-1962 revealed that virtually all daytimers operate presunrise during part of the year, and many, likely a majority, of fulltimers make such use of their daytime facilities. In spite of the sharply increased number of complaints in recent years, there probably still is some presunrise operation (in both senses) on every regional channel, and no complaints have been filed with respect to 16 of the channels. Thus, while much of the fulltimer argument regarding interference is put in terms of what would occur, in fact much of this interference already exists. However, as mentioned the number of complaints filed has sharply increased in recent years, now reaching stations on 25 channels, as compared to only 15 channels as recently as 3 years ago.[7]

Because of the prevalence of presunrise operation, often of many years' standing, one of the most frequent and vigorous arguments against our proposal, both by daytimers and by fulltimers seeking to continue use of day facilities, was that the proposal would result in great disruption of existing service on which listeners have come to rely.

13. Comments relating to the regional channels were filed by other parties, usually not directly affected. For example, NAFMB urged the importance of encouraging FM development, and requested that a daytimer not be "eligible" for presunrise operation if there is an FM channel in its community (or one is available there under the "25 mile rule"), and thus full-time aural service is available. We also note a late filing by the Committee for Equal Facilities, a group of daytime stations authorized after January 1962 and thus subject to the overall condition against presunrise operation, urging the importance of presunrise operation to them and their areas, asserting that they should be treated the same as stations authorized earlier, and asking that the Commission either expedite resolution of this proceeding or lift the overall condition as to the new stations. Some parties advanced competitive considerations. For example, two daytimers on foreign I–A channels—not now or proposed to be allowed presunrise operation—opposed regularizing presunrise operation by daytime regional stations in their communities, with which they compete, and it was also urged—by daytimers in communities or urbanized areas having a full-time station—that it is exactly where the daytimer faces such competition that it needs the economic benefit of extra hours.

[5] WREC's showing (based on our rules and the proposed diurnal curves) was that at 6 a.m. in December e.s.t., 4 "eligible" daytimers operating would limit it to its 4.37 mv/m contour instead of its 2.0 mv/m normal nighttime contour, representing a loss of 6,310 square miles and 259,574 persons; of these, 5,460 square miles and 188,881 persons receive no other primary service at that time. This was the only showing giving specific details as to "white area" losses. Presunrise operation by certain "eligible" daytimers would serve some of the "white area" but only after 6 a.m., e.s.t.

[6] In terms of population lost, the largest numerical showing was that of WKY, Oklahoma City, claiming that, at 6 a.m. in December, it would lose 401,028 population as a result of "eligible" daytimers operating, out of 1,087,937 within the 1.94 mv/m contour it would have from nighttime facilities (the daytimers would limit it to 4.75 mv/m). WKY and other stations explored the possibility of daytimer directional operation to protect them. While no population figures were given in its showing, the "loss" would probably be greater in the case of WMCA, New York City, since the "loss" area lies in the populous New York-northern New Jersey region.

[7] These complaints have, by and large, been prosecuted by "pioneer" Class III fulltimers enjoying low nighttime RSS limits. These stations are not evenly distributed among the 41 regional channels, which has accounted for a disproportionate concentration of complaints on certain channels, notably: 600, 930, 950, 1250, 1330, 1360, 1370, and 1590 kc/s.

CLASS II STATIONS

14. In the original notice herein (and clarifying order issued January 29, 1962) we proposed to eliminate entirely presunrise operation by Class II stations. In the 1962 further notice, we proposed to permit it only for daytime-only or limited-time stations located west of all cochannel Class I stations, and only on channels not having foreign Class I assignments. As at present, as so limited it would be tied to sunrise time at the location of the dominant cochannel station. As compared to the present rule, the proposal would eliminate presunrise use of daytime facilities by: (1) Fulltime Class II stations; (2) stations located east of Class I stations but far enough away and having low enough power so that their skywave signal does not cause interference under the rules to the Class I station's skywave service; (3) Class II stations on I–B channels having foreign I–B stations; and (4) operation by agreement with the dominant station. Authorized daytime facilities could be used, and no other limit on time was specified.

15. About 25 comments were filed by Class II stations, generally opposing the proposal and stressing the importance of their presunrise operation and service, similar to the arguments mentioned above in connection with regional stations. Several of these comments were the same as those submitted by regional stations, the parties not directing themselves to the particular facts of their Class II situation. Others opposed the proposal because it would eliminate presunrise operation in their particular case, e.g., stations on channels having foreign clear channel assignments and using day facilities at sunrise at the foreign station (such as KFRE, Fresno, Calif., 940 kc/s), fulltime Class II's (e.g., KLOK, San Jose, Calif., 1170 kc/s), and stations located east of one cochannel Class I–B station and west of another, sufficiently far from the latter that their 250-watt daytime operation does not cause it interference, and wishing to continue to sign on at sunrise at the eastern Class I location (e.g., WTPR, Paris, Tenn., 710 kc/s, I–B stations at New York City and Seattle). Storer Broadcasting Co.'s filing related mostly to the regional channels, but it noted that a large number of Class II stations on U.S. I–A channels benefit from presunrise hours (although we had in the notice indicated that the matter was minimal) and pointed out that several, including its own KGBS, Los Angeles (limited-time) are more than 2,000 miles from the I–A station and under early AM assignment rules would have been permitted to operate full time simultaneously with it. DBA's comments urged that presunrise privileges should be given to Class II stations on the same widespread basis as Class III stations, urging that the House of Representatives so indicated by not making any distinction in enacting H.R. 4748, and that there is no logical reason for any different treatment. CCBS, opposing DBA in reply comments, urged that the Commission not authorize any across-the-board presunrise operation by Class II stations, because of losses to the service of Class I stations.[8] The only comments filed by a Class I licensee which dealt with this subject specifically were those of Metromedia, Inc., filing on behalf of its Class I–B station, WNEW, New York City (1130 kc/s) as well as its regional stations, and urging the general abolition of presunrise operation by any class of station.[9]

DECISION IN THE PROCEEDING

16. As already indicated, the resolution of this proceeding necessarily represents a balance between considerations and objectives which are to some degree in conflict—the provision for needed presunrise service on the one hand, particularly in situations where it has been in existence before and has come to be relied upon by listeners, and on the other hand, protection of the existing service of unlimited-time stations against an inordinate amount of loss through interference, and thus inefficient use of the channels involved. It is also apparent, as it has been for some time, that presunrise use of daytime facilities by U.S. stations must be brought into line with this country's obligations, under pertinent international agreements, to protect the stations of other nations in the North American Region from objectionable interference. With respect to the regional channels, we are persuaded, after careful consideration of the record herein and the above considerations, that the most appropriate balance can be achieved by permitting virtually all Class III stations (daytime and fulltime) to operate presunrise, from 6 a.m. standard time on, with 500 watts power, using their daytime modes of operation (directional or nondirectional), except where lesser power is required to meet international obligations as mentioned above.

17. In reaching this conclusion, we have taken into account the many considerations which have been so vigorously urged by those taking the various opposing positions, and the numerous counterproposals, urged upon us. We recognise that, as many full-time stations urge, permitting presunrise operation by daytimers (and by fulltimers) may cause substantial interference to the licensed service of full-time stations; it may well be true, as Storer and others urge, that the losses will often, perhaps usually, exceed the gains if strict engineering standards are applied. But in our judgment the record herein establishes that the presunrise service rendered by daytime-only stations is, by and large, a valuable one, and one which should be permitted. In our view, as a general proposition the gains outweigh the losses, when all factors, such as the location of the areas of service and interference with respect to the stations gaining and losing, and the extent of other service, are taken into account. We note the contention of Storer and others that rural areas will lose the badly needed service of wide-coverage full-time regional stations. But we also note that, with few exceptions, the fulltimers did not establish the extent to which listeners in such areas (usually at some distance from the station) actually rely on and need their service. Their showing in this respect fell short of daytimers' showings.

18. Moreover, we take into account the other service which remains available to such "loss" areas from the same or nearby places, often including wide-area coverage by I–A and I–B clear channel stations, and wide-coverage FM service.[10] The daytimers assert that the fulltimers are located in large cities, with a plethora of locally originated services, and, while this is by no means always true, there appears, both from the record herein and our experience generally, to be a tendency in this direction. For example,

[8] CCBS' comments do not mention the fact that presunrise operation now takes place on many of the U.S. I–A channels, where the daytime Class II stations are located west of the dominant stations. Its specific example of service losses is 640 kc/s, where there is no presunrise operation under 73.87 because the dominant station is at Los Angeles.

[9] WNEW showed the effect on service on 1130 kc/s if it and the other I–B station on the channel (KWKH, Shreveport), and three pertinent Class II stations (at Detroit, Milwaukee, and Minneapolis) used daytime facilities before sunrise New York. With the five stations' present operation with nighttime facilities, the two I–B stations are protected to their 0.5 mv/m groundwave contours and beyond, and the three Class II stations have limits of 2.2, 3.4, and 4.2 mv/m. If all five used daytime facilities instead, the Class I–B stations would be limited to 12 and 20 mv/m respectively, and the Class II stations would be limited to 44, 50 and 67 mv/m. This showing was made on the basis of the conventional nighttime propagation curves in the Rules. This situation does not in fact exist, since the Class II stations covered are all located east of the I–B station at Shreveport and therefore present 73.87 privileges do not extend to them, and even if it did exist it would not be entirely typical because of the large daytime facilities these Class II stations have (50 kw, directionalized); but it does illustrate the interference which unrestricted use of nighttime facilities by Class II stations creates or would create if permitted.

The effect of full-scale presunrise operation by Class II stations, even after sunrise at the Class I station, is illustrated by the situation of Class I–A station WCBS, New York City (880 kc/s), which in 1965 filed a complaint against presunrise operation by cochannel daytimers at Clinton, N.C. (1 kw) and Columbus-Worthington, Ohio (5 kw). The complaint claimed that immediately after sunrise at New York City in January (7:15 a.m., e.s.t.) and before their own local sunrise, the Clinton station limits WCBS to its 5.12 mv/m contour on the basis of conventional nighttime calculations, or about 1 mv/m if the diurnal factor is used, and the Ohio station imposes limits of more than 12 mv/m or about 2 mv/m, using the same bases of computation. The groundwave service of a Class I–A station is protected against cochannel interference to its 0.1 mv/m contour. As to interference to full-time Class II stations, a few such stations commented on this. We note that of 8 daytime-only Class II stations on I–B channels filing herein, all are the only stations in their communities and only one is in an urbanized area.

[10] On several occasions in recent years—for example in Docket No. 15084 (the overall AM allocation proceeding)—we expressed the view that AM and FM should be viewed as complementary parts of a total aural service.

as far as AM service is concerned, out of some 107 communities having full-time Class III stations who filed formal or informal comments herein, 65 have other Class II or Class III full-time AM service from stations in the same community (28 of these cities have wide-coverage I–A or I–B clear channel stations). Fourteen others have full-time service from a local Class IV station, and 25 have no other local full-time AM service (including 9 in urbanized areas and close to large cities with multiple services).

19. Of the 107 communities mentioned, all but 10 have wide-coverage Class B or C FM channels available (either assigned to the city or available under the "25-mile rule") on which wide-area coverage may be rendered from the city. Of the 10, three have Class A channels (two others are in urbanized areas and close to large cities with multiple AM and FM services). Taking into account both other full-time AM service (besides Class IV) and wide-coverage FM service, only nine of these communities do not have such service available. More than half of the full-time Class III stations—68 out of 122—have associated FM stations in the same community (or, in two cases, a nearby larger city); 65 of these are wide-coverage Class B or C assignments. Another 17 could take advantage of unoccupied channels, either assigned to the city or available under the "25-mile rule" (all but two Class B or C).[1]

20. In remarking on the fact that FM may thus be a means of overcoming the losses full-time stations might incur through interference, we have not overlooked the fact—which NAFMB and others urged—that it may also be of value to daytimers in overcoming their presunrise difficulties, as well as providing evening service. Out of some 135 Class III daytimers listed in Appendix C (excluding the 8 which have now become full-time operations), some 53 are FM licensees or permittees, 19 of them Class A and the rest Class B or C (including two where the FM station is in a nearby city). There are unoccupied channels—usually Class A assignments—which some of the others could use. However, of the 135 communities involved, there are some 22 situations in which no assignment is provided in the FM table for the community, it is not in an urbanized area, and it has no local full-time AM service. There are other situations where no assignment is provided in the table and the community has no full-time local AM service, but it is part of an urbanized area. In some of these cases, channels might be available under the "25 mile rule," or possibly additional assignments might be made through rulemaking; but a substantial number of these situations are in areas where channels are scarce and the making of additional assignments is not always possible however desirable it might be. Thus, it appears that with respect to the communities represented in filings herein, the extent of FM service and potential—particularly for wide-area coverage—is greater for full-time stations and their communities than it is for daytimers. We note also that many stations who particularly urged the value of wide coverage, both daytimers and fulltimers, are wide-coverage FM licensees or could become so (e.g., WMTM, KXXX, WSAU).

21. Thus, viewing the picture of aural service as a whole, we are convinced that permitting presunrise operation by daytimers to the extent provided herein will result in the provision of service where there is more need for it than there is for whatever service may be lost in the areas where such losses occur. Bearing in mind that FM is not always available to daytimers even though it often is, and the present fairly modest development of that service, perhaps particularly in more remote areas, we do not believe that it affords the answer to the "presunrise problem" as claimed by NAFMB. We do not conceive FM, at the present time, to afford the answer to supplying a needed presunrise service which daytimers in outlying areas appear to render and which, we believe, can be accommodated to the limited extent decided on herein without undue interference losses to licensed full-time service. However, it can afford a valuable supplement to service during these hours, in two respects: Giving daytimers, and fulltimers using daytime facilities, coverage comparable to that which they now have on AM using their full daytime facilities presunrise (and which they might not have limited to 500 watts); and giving coverage where AM service is lost through interference."

22. In sum, then, in our view we are making provision for service where it is most needed, in fulfillment of the mandates of section 303(g) and 307(b) of the Communications Act. In evaluating the arguments concerning interference, two other factors should be borne in mind. First, for the most part, the presunrise service under consideration here—both by daytimers and fulltimers—is an existing service, and interference therefrom, while it has increased somewhat in recent years as more stations have been authorized, is not a phenomenon arising now for the first time. As mentioned above, on some regional frequencies there still has been no complaint against stations' presunrise operation, and this was true of a majority of these frequencies as recently as 3 years ago. In other words, these conditions, however bad they may appear from a strict technical standpoint, are for the most part circumstances which the full-time stations have been able to live with. The second point is that—by the 500-watt power ceiling now provided—we are taking action which may well improve present interference conditions on these channels, for example by sharply decreasing the interference from numerous 5 kilowatt daytime operations, by both daytimers and fulltimers.

23. We also note the contention of the fulltimers that the interference loss is being incurred for very little reason, because the daytimers' service areas are so severely limited during these hours. We do not believe that—bearing in mind that these are transitional hours—the service range is as limited as present technical standards might indicate. There may be merit in the argument—advanced by several daytimers and by fulltimers in support of using full daytime-facilities—that listener tolerance of interference in listening to news, weather, etc., is fairly high, higher than our traditional signal ratios contemplate. In any event, the service appears to be one—locally oriented—valuable enough to warrant provision for its rendition.

24. The further notice would have limited daytimer presunrise operation to stations where there is no fulltimer in the community. Upon further consideration, we believe this restriction is unwarranted, even though permitting some additional operation may increase interference beyond what it would be otherwise.[2] Other daytimers may render valuable service, as indicated above, and, perhaps more important, just as much as with the "eligibles," it is often service upon which listeners have come to rely, often for a period of several years, so that termination would be disruptive. We are not persuaded that its termination is warranted. Moreover, as various parties pointed out, the fulltimers in town may not have the same service area as the daytimer—perhaps a substantially smaller one—and the proposal in this respect presented certain anomalies which might make it difficult to administer, such as cases where there are two daytimers in a community with no fulltimer, and cases where a fulltimer later goes into operation.

25. Although avoiding disruption of existing presunrise service is an important factor in our decision, we do not believe it should be the only one. Other stations, for example those granted since early 1962 and conditioned against presunrise operations, are likewise capable of rendering a valuable service during these hours, perhaps especially (though not necessarily entirely) when they are in places without fulltime outlets. The same applies to future authorizations. Therefore, we are not limiting presunrise operation to those stations which have engaged in it before, or to presently authorized stations. In our judgment, with interference conditions improved on the various channels by reduction of presunrise operation to 500 watts, the number of stations thus added will not materially worsen existing interference conditions.

26. If a great many stations are to be permitted presunrise operation, as we have concluded they should be, some restriction on such operation must be imposed if an inordinate degree of interference is to be avoided. It is for this reason that we have decided to limit presunrise operation, by daytimers or by fulltimers with daytime facilities, to no more than 500 watts power (as mentioned above, the authorized mode of operation, nondirectional or directional, will be used, although fulltimers may of course use their nighttime facilities if they prefer). This limitation will improve interference conditions in many cases, and 500 watts power appears sufficient to provide a generally adequate service to the communities involved. To a degree, of course, this reduction may mean loss of existing service, which has come to be relied upon. But if it is true that "distant" stations are not of significance to listeners at a particular place if they are fulltimers (which the daytimers urge with respect to interference), it is likely equally true that listener interest in daytimers generally decreases with distance, so that a 5-kilowatt operation may not be rendering a really significant presunrise service out to the bounds of its normal daytime service area. Moreover, while power greater than 500 watts is not precluded as such by the understanding with Canada, it appears highly unlikely that many operations with power much more than that could comply with the arrangement with Canada and applicable treaties with other countries. In connection with this limitation, as well as with the limitation to 6 a.m. mentioned below, we also note the significance of the FM service, mentioned above. If stations seek greater coverage presunrise than 500 watts would permit, they must rely on the companion aural service.

27. Likewise, we are convinced that presunrise operation must be confined to 6 a.m. l.s.t. and after. We reach this conclusion on the basis of the record herein, which, despite the assertions and showings of some stations to the contrary, does not persuade us that earlier operation has enough public interest to warrant the extensive interference entailed during earlier hours when skywave propagation and interference conditons more closely approach, or equal, full nighttime conditions. In any event, earlier operation is precluded by our understanding with Canada.

28. In reaching these conclusions as to limitations, we have rejected the contentions of some parties that the limits should be more restrictive, such as 250 watts and 7 a.m. The fact that 250 watts is the presunrise power of Class IV stations does not mean that it should be for regional stations, which are designed to serve wider areas. 500 watts appears to be both necessary to provide adequate presunrise service, and sufficiently low to avoid excessive interference. We do not believe that a 7 a.m. sign-on is sufficiently early to meet the need for local informational service which has been demonstrated herein.

29. We have likewise concluded that full-time stations should be allowed to use daytime facilities before sunrise to the same extent. We are impressed by the arguments made (e.g., that of WLOS) that such facilities, even if operated with only 500 watts, may well provide better service to the city and its environs during these important hours. In addition, such operation will afford fulltimers some additional protection against interference from daytimer presunrise operation. The limitation to 500 watts and 6 a.m. is necessary for the same reasons mentioned above for daytimers; again, we call attention to the availability of FM for wider coverage. Many fulltimers commenting on this point (e.g., WSAU) are or can become FM licensees, often on wide-coverage channels, and thus render wide-area service.

30. We must reject the arguments and counterproposals of ABS and other parties, that a case-by-case approach must be used in this matter. Such an approach—taking into account that there are some 1,200 daytimers and 858 full-time Class III stations—is simply out of the question from an administrative standpoint. The number of potential hearings involved staggers the imagination, and they would in all probability become exceedingly complex, since (with skywave interference involved) more than one daytimer usually affects a given fulltimer and, conversely, a given daytimer may affect more than one fulltimer. A given hearing situation might well end up involving a considerable number of the stations on a channel, including a comparative inquiry into which presunrise operation should be permitted and which precluded. Not only would this entail an inconceivable burden, both on the Commission and on standard broadcast stations and their advisers, it would take a great amount of time, a consideration inconsistant with our view that the public interest clearly requires a reasonably prompt resolution of the "presunrise" situation and the widespread uncertainties currently involved in it. We do not conceive that a more particularized approach, either by hearing or otherwise, would throw significantly more light on the appropriate course of action in a given situation, anything like enough to warrant the burden involved.

31. Likewise, we must reject the arguments of those who favor the traditional § 73.87 status quo, with its complaint and ensuing termination procedure. While it might have been a true statement 5 years ago that the rule has worked "reasonably well", it is hardly so today, with the large number of complaints which have been filed in recent years. We believe that the uncertainties involved in presunrise operation, as they have developed recently, must be resolved, so that all parties know where they stand. Moreover, such an approach is inconsistent with this country's international obligations to prevent objectionable interference to duly notified foreign stations.

32. Legal matters: It was contended that § 73.87 is a part of a station's license, so that we cannot order termination or reduction in a presunrise operation without complaint. This is without merit. The rule speaks of termination upon notice from the Commission that "undue interference" is caused, and in Music Broadcasting Co. v. FCC, 217 F (2d) 339 (1954), this was held to mean objectionable interference as determined under the usual nighttime interference rules. While we have in the past ordered termination or reduction only after complaint, the rule does not require this, and certainly this agency has the power to take steps to alleviate interference conditions on a channel on its own motion, even in the absence of complaint. To hold otherwise would be to negate our power to act in the public interest to further the more effective use of radio. There are virtually no presunrise operations with full daytime facilities which are free from objectionable interference effects on licensed full-time stations, using our regular nighttime interference rules. Therefore we have the power to terminate or cut back such operations—which are permissive, not licensed—without hearing or other proceedings.

33. In the further notice we posed the question of whether section 316 of the Communications Act—precluding modification of a license without a hearing—applies to the present situation where, after a general rule-making proceeding, certain presunrise operation may be permitted on an authorized basis, resulting in interference to some full-time stations. Many parties urged that it does, and that they will insist on their 316 hearing rights in connection with such

[1] The figures for the number of communities and licensees include CBS' Class III station at Boston, and ABC's Class III stations at Detroit, Los Angeles, and Pittsburgh.

[2] We are not adopting the approach urged in NAFMB's "Petition for Further Rule Making," filed herein on Apr. 19, 1967, wherein we are urged to reappraise the need for "substandard interference producing AM presunrise operation" in light of our 1964 report and order in Docket No. 15084 (2 RR 2d 1669), the JTAC Radio Spectrum Utilisation Report released the same year, and the substantial recent increase in the number of FM sets. As noted in footnote 13 of the Docket No. 15084 report and order, the nighttime allocation principles there considered were concerned with "service through the evening and not * * * service during the hours immediately before sunrise [which is] the subject of a separate rule making in Docket No. 14419 * * *." We will continue to give careful consideration to the development of FM and its proper role in the overall aural service picture; and it may be that in the fairly near future it will be appropriate to propose some action along the line urged. But we do not believe it appropriate to postpone resolution of this longstanding and wide-ranging AM proceeding, and the many uncertainties existing as long as it is unresolved, while such an evaluation of the role of FM is conducted.

[3] The interference from the additional daytimers would not necessarily be great. One engineering firm made showings as to presunrise interference on behalf of nine full-time regional stations (on eight channels), under various conditions, including (1) "eligible" daytimers operating as proposed in the further notice (500 watts from 6 a.m.) and (2) all daytimers operating on that basis (fulltimers using night facilities in both cases). In five of the nine cases the limit to the fulltimer would be the same under both conditions at all times; in the other four, the difference would usually be less than 2 mv/m, and only part of the time.

operation." We conclude that it does not. Of course this Commission cannot finally determine the statutory legal rights of licensees as against its regulatory authority; this is for the courts. But it is our duty to construe the Act to the best of our ability, in light of pertinent court decisions. For present purposes, we view the recent decision in American Airlines, Inc. v. CAB, 359 F. (2d) 624 (C.A.D.C. 1966) as authority for the proposition that we can "modify" existing licenses with respect to interference received by stations—if "modify" is the appropriate term—through a general rule-making proceeding, and that section 316 does not apply. It must be borne in mind that this is a rule-making proceeding of general applicability, affecting many stations on many channels, exactly the type of proceeding the Court considered in that case. In this respect it is clearly distinguishable from FCC v. National Broadcasting Co. (KOA), 319 U.S. 239 (1943), from which the concept of "modification through interference" stems. That was a particular proceeding involving the assignment of one station (WHDH, Boston) to KOA's frequency at night for the first time, resulting in substantial interference to what had been until then a Class I–A station. Therefore we do not view KOA as a reason for postponing the effectiveness of the new rules, and are making them effective as quickly as possible.

34. Class I–B and Class II stations: As mentioned in the report and order (par. 18), and for the reasons stated therein, the rules adopted do not provide for presunrise use of daytime facilities by Class I–B stations. See Storer Broadcasting Co., 1 F.C.C. 2d 1954 (1965).

35. With respect to presunrise operation by Class II stations, as mentioned above the original notice herein would have precluded it completely; the further notice would have precluded it except for daytime-only and limited-time stations on U.S. I–A channels (and I–B channels having no foreign I–B stations), located west of all of the dominant cochannel stations. Upon further consideration and review of the comments filed, we are of the view that these proposals would be unduly restrictive and prevent the rendition of significant service. It is, of course, of great importance to protect the skywave and wide-area groundwave service of Class I stations; but in our judgment this can be achieved, if presunrise is limited in extent as discussed below, without precluding some other categories of stations from presunrise operation. Therefore, the rules adopted herein will permit presunrise operation by: (1) Class II stations (daytime, limited-time, and full time) located west of all cochannel dominant stations, starting at sunrise at the location of the westernmost foreign or domestic dominant station (or 6 a.m. local standard time, whichever is later)[*]; and (2) operation from 6 a.m. local time by daytime and full-time stations on Class I–B channels regardless of location, if they protect the 0.5 mv/m 50 percent skywave contours of domestic and foreign cochannel Class I stations located to the west. Reduced power may be used if necessary to afford such protection. Certain requests by Class II stations in other situations must be rejected as inconsistent with overall allocations efficiency and the public interest."

36. With respect to the limitation to 6 a.m. and after, this of course is required by the terms of the understanding with Canada mentioned in the report and order. We believe it is also appropriate from a domestic standpoint, just as with the regional channels, since operation at an earlier hour, when propagation conditions more nearly approach full nighttime conditions, is the source of more substantial interference (see pars. 14 and 15 and footnote 9 above). Therefore, presunrise operation by Class II stations will be limited to 6 a.m., local standard time, and after, just as that by Class III stations.

37. With respect to the I–B channels, it is also appropriate to impose the same 500-watt restriction adopted for the regional channels. This is necessary to prevent excessive interference from higher-power operations, and afford an adequate degree of protection to Class I–B and unlimited-time Class II stations. This is particularly true since Class I–B stations will not be permitted presunrise use of daytime facilities (see report and order, par. 18).

38. Tentatively, we are of the same view that the same 500-watt restriction should apply to presunrise operation by Class II stations on the U.S. I–A channels (see, for example, the situation described in footnote 9, above). However, since this particular subject has not been explored, and since to some extent different conditions obtain on these frequencies (fewer Class II stations, much smaller foreign protection requirements, and the fact that under present assignment rules there can be no more daytime stations) we are not adopting it at this time. Such a restriction on Class II stations on these channels is proposed in a notice of proposed rule making adopted today.

39. The question of interference to U.S. Class I–B stations located west of the Class II station, to all full-time cochannel stations in North American countries other than Canada, and to Canadian I–B stations, will continue to be determined by conventional nighttime propagation standards. As to permissible radiation toward cochannel Canadian full-time Class II stations, the curves contained in new figure 12 of 73.190 will apply. If necessary to meet any of these requirements, stations may operate with power less than 500 watts and make presunrise requests on the basis of such lower power.

40. Other matters—diurnal curves: The further notice herein proposed a family of diurnal curves, taking into account the fact that the appropriate reducing factor applicable to conventional nighttime interference calculations for any particular point in time during the two hours before sunrise. Use of these curves would show less interference than conventional nighttime computations. However, their validity was attacked, chiefly on the ground that (based on data concerning postsunset conditions) they do not accurately represent presunrise conditions. A substantial question appears to exist as to their accuracy. Moreover, their use is quite complex, and they have no international standing. In our view, an appropriate resolution of this proceeding is possible without them, and therefore they are not adopted herein."

41. Directional or nondirectional presunrise operation: The further notice proposed operation by "eligible" Class III daytimers with 500 watts nondirectionally, even through their authorized facilities might be directional. Some parties attacked this, for one reason because it would produce an artificial service area for a short time during only part of the year, which the directional station would not have at other times, leading to confusion. For this reason, and also because of the added burden involved in specifying an additional mode of operation, we agree with the objecting parties and are providing herein for use of the authorized daytime mode of operation, directional or nondirectional.

APPENDIX B

Part 73 of the Commission's rules is amended as follows:

1. Section 73.87 is amended to read as follows:

§ 73.87 Program transmissions prior to local sunrise.

Except as provided in § 73.98 and § 73.99, no standard broadcast station shall operate at times, or with modes or powers, other than those specified in the basic instrument of authorization.

2. A new § 73.99 is added to read as follows:

§ 73.99 Presunrise service authority.

(a) In order to afford the maximum uniformity in early morning operations compatible with interference considera-

[*] It was argued that Transcontinent Television Corp. v. FCC, 308 F. (2d) 338 (1962)—which affirmed our authority to change a station's channel at the end of its license period without an evidentiary hearing—is not authority for the type of action contemplated here, even at the expiration of an outstanding license, for one reason because that case involved a detailed exploration in rule making of one particular situation. We do not agree with these arguments, particularly in light of the subsequent decision in The Goodwill Stations, Inc. v. FCC, 325 F. (2d) 637 (1963), affirming our clear channel decision. As indicated above, the presunrise rule making is a proceeding of general applicability. As such, we hold its impact on individual applicants, permittees, and licensees confers no adjudicatory hearing rights under sec. 316 of the Communications Act. United States v. Storer Broadcasting Co., 351 U.S. 192 (1956); Airline Pilots Association v. Quesada, 276 F. (2d) 892 (1960); Federal Power Commission v. Texaco, 377 U.S. 33 (1963); California Citizens Band Association v. USA and FCC, 9th Circuit, Case No. 20,080 (1967).

[*] This, of course, does not include daytime-only Class II stations on foreign I–A channels, which are not now permitted to operate presunrise and are not within the scope of this proceeding.

[*] Thus, if Class I–A stations' skywave service is to be protected, as we believe it must be, we cannot permit presunrise operation by a Class II station to the east of a cochannel Class I–A station; and, since we have provided that Class I–B stations must use nighttime facilities until local sunrise, we reject requests from Class II stations based on the fact that the I–B station to the west of them was in fact using its daytime facilities. As far as interference to full-time Class II stations is concerned, we are of the view that in this respect the same considerations apply as on the regional channels, and that presunrise operation serves a valuable purpose and should be permitted to the extent provided herein.

[*] On July 15, 1966, ABS filed further comments containing measurement data intended to show that the diurnal attenuation factors for sunrise and sunset transitional periods are not symmetrical, and, specifically, that morning propagation conditions (referred to sunrise at the path midpoint) are more favorable to undesired 10 percent skywave interfering signals than are evening propagation conditions (referred to sunset at the path midpoint). As stated in the text, we recognize on the basis of the earlier material filed that this factor raises a question as to the proposed curves' validity, and this is one reason for not adopting them as a presunrise tool. We have also pointed out that individual skywave measurements, or series of measurements, are not appropriate as a basis for determining skywave service and interference (Amendment of the Standards of Good Engineering Practice Concerning Standard Broadcast Stations (Skywave Measurements), 10 R.R. 1562 (1954)). Therefore, this extremely late-filed matter, and DBA's motion to strike it, need not be considered. We are of the view that the approaches adopted herein—sign-on time and power limitations, together with the conventional nighttime skywave standards on the clear channels where skywave service is to be protected—are the most appropriate and perhaps the only workable, concepts of presunrise regulation. ABS' suggestion that the proceeding be further delayed while more measurements are taken and analyzed must be rejected, if this longstanding and important proceeding is to be terminated in a reasonable time. The same applies to "Supplemental Comments" filed by ABS on Feb. 28, 1967, containing additional engineering material.

tions, the following classes of standard broadcast permittees and licensees are eligible to request presunrise service authority (PSA):

(1) Class II stations except those operating on Class I–A clear channels not assigned to the United States under the North American Regional Broadcasting Agreement (NARBA) or the United States/Mexican Agreement, and those assigned to U.S. I–A clear channels and located east of the cochannel I–A station.

(2) Class III stations.

(b) When issued, a PSA will permit:

(1) Class II stations to commence operation with their daytime antenna systems either at 6 a.m. local standard time or at sunrise at the westernmost Class I station located east of the Class II station (whichever is later), and to continue such operation until local sunrise: Provided, That the permissible power, to be specified in the PSA, shall not exceed 500 watts (or the authorized daytime or critical hours power, if less than 500 watts), or such lesser power as may be determined on the basis of calculations made pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section.

NOTE: Pending decision in Docket 17682, Class II stations on U.S. I–A channels, located west of the cochannel dominant station, may operate with their facilities licensed for use immediately after local sunrise without limitation to 500 watts power. Applications by such stations for PSA's will not be required until that proceeding is resolved, but presunrise operation may not begin prior to 6 a.m. local standard time.

(2) Class III stations to commence operation with their daytime antenna systems at 6 a.m. local standard time, and to continue such operation until local sunrise: Provided, That the permissible power, to be specified in the PSA, shall not exceed 500 watts or such lesser power as may be determined on the basis of calculations made pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of §§ 1.571 and 1.580 of this chapter, requests for PSA's shall be treated as proposals for minor changes in existing facilities and, as such, are not subject to the procedural requirements or remedies applicable to applications for new facilities and major changes therein. PSA requests shall be submitted by letter, signed in the manner specified in § 1.513 of this chapter, with the following information:

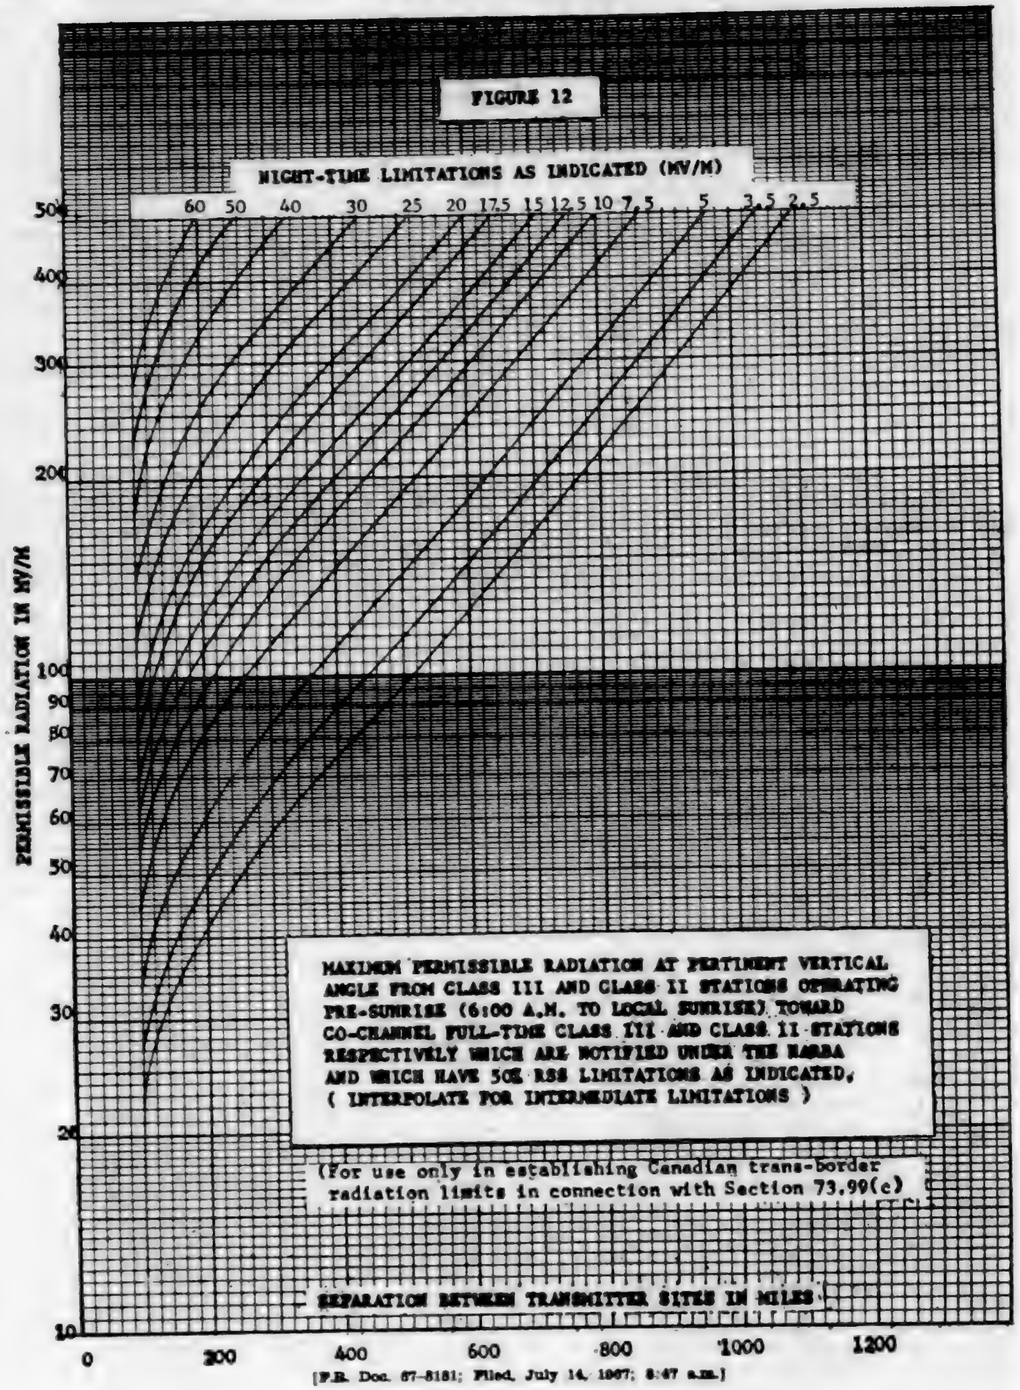
(1) Name, call letters and station location.

(2) For Class II stations, a showing that objectionable interference, as determined by the Standard Broadcast Technical Standards of this subpart or by the engineering standards of the NARBA or the United States/Mexican Agreement (whichever is controlling), will not be caused within the 0.5 mv/m 50 percent skywave contour of any domestic or foreign Class I–B clear channel station located west of the Class II station. In addition, the applicant must show that foreign Class II stations (if any) assigned to the same channel will receive full treaty protection. If the foregoing protections cannot be achieved on the basis of 500-watt operation, calculations may be submitted to establish the level to which power must be reduced to preclude objectionable interference: Provided, That with respect to Canadian Class II stations, permissible radiation may be established by the use of figure 12 of § 73.190, in the manner described in paragraph (c)(3) of this section.

(3) For Class III stations, a showing that cochannel stations in foreign countries will receive full treaty protection. If such protection cannot be achieved on the basis of 500-watt operation, calculations may be submitted to establish the level to which power must be reduced to preclude objectionable interference: Provided, That with respect to Canadian Class III stations, such power level may be established by a showing that the radiation at the pertinent vertical angle toward cochannel Canadian stations does not exceed that defined in Figure 12 of § 73.190. If the latter showing cannot be made on the basis of 500-watt operation, calculations may be submitted to establish the level to which power must be reduced in order to limit radiation at the pertinent vertical angle to the values specified in Figure 12 of § 73.190.

(4) A description of the method whereby any proposed power reduction will be achieved.

(d) Calculations made under paragraph (c) of this section shall not take outstanding PSA's into account, nor shall the grant of a PSA confer any degree of interference protection on the holder thereof.



(e) Operation under a PSA is not mandatory, and will not be included in determining compliance with the requirements of § 73.71. To the extent actually undertaken, however, presunrise operation will be considered by the Commission in determining overall compliance with past programing representations and station policy concerning commercial matter.

(f) The PSA is secondary to the basic instrument of authorization and may be suspended, modified, or withdrawn by the Commission without prior notice or right to hearing, if necessary to resolve interference conflicts, to implement agreements with foreign governments, or in other circumstances warranting such action.

(g) The PSA will be issued for a term coinciding with the current basic instrument of authorization and, unless surrendered by the holder or suspended, modified or withdrawn by the Commission, will have continuing or renewed effect under succeeding instruments.

(h) The issuance of a PSA is intended to include the waiver of §§ 73.45, 73.182, and 73.183 in situations where the operation might otherwise be considered as technically substandard. However, such special conditions as the Commission may deem appropriate may be included in the PSA to insure the operation of the transmitter and associated equipment in accordance with all phases of good engineering practice.

CONTROL ZONE AND TRANSITION AREA

Proposed Alteration

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amending Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations so as to alter the control zone and the transition area at Sidney, Nebr.

Interested persons may participate in the proposed rule making by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Director, Central Region, Attention: Chief, Air Traffic Division, Federal Aviation Administration, Federal Building, 601 East 12th Street, Kansas City, Mo. 64106. All communications received within 45 days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendments. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Administration officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Division Chief. Any data, views, or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposals contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

A public docket will be available for examination by interested persons in the Office of the Regional Counsel, Federal Aviation Administration, Federal Building, 601 East 12th Street, Kansas City, Mo. 64106.

The Sidney, Nebr. VOR is scheduled for relocation to an airport site and conversion to VORTAC in March 1968. Upon relocation and conversion of this VOR, the present public instrument approach procedure for Sidney Municipal Airport will be canceled and two new public instrument approach procedures will be established. Therefore, it is necessary to alter the Sidney control zone and transition area in order to provide controlled airspace protection for aircraft executing the two new public instrument approach procedures and to delete that controlled airspace which protects aircraft executing the present public instrument approach procedure.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Federal Aviation Administration proposes to amend Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations as hereinafter set forth:

(1) In § 71.171 (32 F.R. 2071), the following control zone is amended to read:

SIDNEY, NEBR.

Within a 5-mile radius of Sidney Municipal Airport (latitude 41°06'55" N., longitude 102°58'55" W.); within 2 miles each side of the Sidney VORTAC 128° radial, extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 8 miles SE of the VORTAC; and within 2 miles each side of the Sidney VORTAC 321° radial, extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 8 miles NW of the VORTAC.

(2) § 71.181 (32 F.R. 2148), the following transition area is amended to read:

SIDNEY, NEBR.

That airspace extending upward from 700 feet above the surface within a 10-mile radius of Sidney Municipal Airport (latitude 41°06'55" N., longitude 102°58'55" W.); within 5 miles NE and 8 miles SW of the Sidney VORTAC 321° radial, extending from the 10-mile radius area to 13 miles NW of the VORTAC; and that airspace extending upward from 1,200 feet above the surface within 5 miles SW and 8 miles NE of the Sidney VORTAC 128° radial, extending from the VORTAC to 13 miles SE of the VORTAC; and that airspace SW of Sidney VORTAC extending upward from 8,500 feet MSL bounded on the N by the S edge of V-134, on the E by the W edge of V-169, on the SE by the NW edge of V-172, on the SW by the NE edge of V-132 and on the NW by the SE edge of V-207, excluding the airspace within Federal airways.

These amendments are proposed under the authority of section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1348).

Issued in Kansas City, Mo., on June 30, 1967.

DANIEL E. BARROW,
Acting Director, Central Region.

FEDERAL AIRWAY SEGMENT

Proposed Designation

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering a proposal by the Canadian Department of Transport that would designate the United States portion of a west alternate segment to VOR Federal airway No. 317 from Ethelda Bay, British Columbia, radio beacon to Annette Island, Alaska, VOR via the intersection of the Sandspit, British Columbia, VOR 039° T (013° M) and the Annette Island, Alaska, VOR 167° T (140° M) radials.

This west alternate would provide an additional route for air traffic operating between Ethelda Bay and Annette Island.

Interested persons may participate in the proposed rule making by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should identify the airspace docket number and be submitted in triplicate to the Director, Alaskan Region, Attention: Chief, Air Traffic Division, Federal Aviation Administration, 632 Sixth Avenue, Anchorage 99501. All communications received within 30 days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

An official docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Federal Aviation Administration, Office of the General Counsel, Attention: Rules Docket, 800 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20590. An informal docket also will be available for examination at the Office of the Regional Air Traffic Division Chief.

This amendment is proposed under the authority of section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1348).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 7, 1967.

CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

[14 CFR Part 298]

[Docket No. 18782; EDR-119]

CLASSIFICATION AND EXEMPTION OF AIR TAXI OPERATORS

Notice of Proposed Rule Making

JULY 11, 1967.

Notice is hereby given that the Civil Aeronautics Board has under consideration a proposed amendment of Part 298 of the Board's Economic Regulations (14 CFR Part 298) which would (1) extend the term of the air taxi operators' existing authority to carry mail; (2) permit air taxi mail service to begin under a temporary mail rate; and (3) authorize individual exemptions for air taxi mail service in certain competitive markets.

The principal features of the proposed amendment are further described in the explanatory statement, and the proposed amendment is set forth in the proposed rule. This regulation is proposed under the authority of sections 204(a), 401, and 416 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 743, 763 and 771; 49 U.S.C. sections 1324, 1376 and 1386).

Interested persons may participate in the proposed rulemaking through submission of ten (10) copies of written data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto, addressed to the Docket Section, Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington, D.C. 20428. All relevant matter in communications received on or before August 15, 1967, will be considered by the Board before taking final action on the proposed rule. Copies of such communications will be available for examination by interested persons in the Docket Section of the Board, Room 710 Universal Building, 1825 Connecticut Avenue NW., Washington, D.C., upon receipt thereof.

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

[SEAL] HAROLD R. SANDERSON,
Secretary.

Explanatory statement. Effective November 4, 1965, Part 298 of the Board's Economic Regulations was amended so as to authorize air taxi operators to carry mail under certain limitations and conditions. Air taxi operators were authorized to carry mail only in small aircraft and within the 48 contiguous States and Hawaii. Air taxi operators can carry mail only upon a subsidy-free basis, with a final mail rate being in effect before service begins.

The most significant restriction on the air taxi mail authority is with respect to pairs of points served by certificated carriers. Section 298.21(f) precludes air taxi operators from carrying mail in any market where a certificated route carrier is currently authorized to provide service either by certificate or pursuant to exemption authority. As a result, the Post Office Department cannot employ air taxi operators to carry mail in certain markets even if the certificated carrier does not provide convenient service.

The Post Office Department has informally represented that liberalization of Part 298 is essential to meet its urgent needs. The Post Office Department's request comes at a time when air mail traffic is booming. The Department shipped 1.6 billion pieces of domestic airmail during fiscal 1965; it expects to ship 2.5 billion pieces in 1968. Most airmail cannot be sorted and prepared for shipment until after the end of the business day. If the Post Office Department is to make prompt delivery, it requires adequate aircraft departures at late-evening hours. But most air carriers attempt to gear their schedules to peak passenger travel hours, which end before the Post Office's primary needs begin. As a result, the Post Office Department is unable in many cases to achieve its objective of overnight delivery between two points within a single State.

In markets which no certificated carrier is authorized to serve, the Post Office Department has often employed air taxi operators. In most instances, the air taxi operator provides exclusive mail schedules operating from 10:30 to 11 p.m. until about 2 to 4 a.m. On an annual basis, 11 air taxi operators now provide 84,000 ton-miles of airmail transportation, or 0.027 percent of the total airmail ton-miles. Although air taxi operators thus carry only a small fraction of the load, they have proved that they can provide the Post Office Department with needed, reliable service.

In competitive markets which certificated route carriers are authorized to serve, the Post Office Department has its principal problem. Often, the mail volume for which a special late-evening flight is needed is too small for the certificated carrier to transport economically in large aircraft. Yet the load may be sufficient for an air taxi operator to carry in small aircraft. But, under Part 298, the Post Office Department cannot employ an air taxi operator even if the certificated carrier is unable and unwilling to provide the needed transportation.

As a result, the Post Office Department has been forced to rely upon air taxi operators to file applications for individual exemption authority to carry mail in competitive markets. The Board has granted such requests in the past;[1] and we believe that it is time to formalize and expedite the procedure for obtaining such individual exemption authority.

In summary, that procedure would allow the Post Office Department to gain on exemption by filing either a "Regular" or an "Expedited" notice of intent to use air taxi mail service. An "expedited" notice would differ from a "regular" notice in that it would require the Post Office Department to represent that the certificated route carriers had no objection. Unless suspended by the filing of an objection or by Board order, an "expedited" notice would be automatically effective after 5 days; a "regular" notice would be automatically effective after 10 days. If an objection were filed, however, no service could begin until the Board authorized it. In unusual circumstances, the Board could permit the service to be performed temporarily while it considered the objection.

We emphasize that the proposed rule would not confer blanket exemption authority in competitive markets. Only the Post Office Department could file an exemption application. In its application, the Department would be required to explain why the certificated carrier's service is inadequate to meet its needs. The Department has expressly represented that it does not intend to divert airmail from any certificated schedule permitting timely delivery.

Under the proposed rule, the Board would still fix the final mail rate for the air taxi service. To expedite the new procedure, Part 298 would be modified so that the Board would no longer be required to fix that rate before service is instituted. Rather, the parties would be required to file a jointly agreed-upon rate. They could begin service at that rate, subject to refund or additional payment if the Board later fixes a different final rate.

Exemption authorizations effective under the new procedure would terminate on June 30, 1969. The term of the existing blanket exemption would be extended 6 months so as to terminate on the same date, thus enabling the Post Office Department to arrange its planning upon a fiscal-year basis. By the mid-1969 expiration date, the Board intends to review the entire air taxi mail program. Finally, the mail rate procedure for the existing blanket exemption would be amended to conform to the new expedited procedure for individual exemptions.

The Board has previously found that air taxi operators should be exempt from the bulk of the regulatory requirements under the Act and regulations. The extent of the air taxi operators' general operations is limited; the extent of those operators' authority to carry mail will be even more limited. Certification procedures could not be completed in time to meet the exigencies of the postal service, and in any event such proceedings might subject a particular air taxi operator to a financial burden which would be wholly disproportionate to the benefits to be received from the new mail authority. Accordingly, the Board tentatively finds that insofar as the provisions of Title IV of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended, and the rules and regulations issued thereunder, would prevent air taxi operators from exercising the proposed authority, the enforcement of those provisions would be an undue burden on such air taxi operators by reason of the limited extent of, and unusual circumstances affecting their operations, and would not be in the public interest.

Proposed rule. It is proposed to amend Part 298 of the Economic Regulations (14 CFR Part 298) as follows:

1. By amending § 298.13 so that the section will read as follows:

§ 298.13 Duration of exemption.

The exemption from any provision of Title IV of the Act provided by § 298.11 shall continue in effect only until such time as the Board shall find that enforcement of such provision would be in the public interest or would no longer be a burden on air taxi operators: Provided, That upon such a finding as to any air taxi operator or class of air taxi operators, such exemption shall to that extent terminate with respect to such operator or class of operators: And provided further, That the authorizations to air taxi operators to engage in the transportation of mail by aircraft within the 48 contiguous States and Hawaii shall terminate on June 30, 1969.

2. By amending § 298.21(f) so that the subsection will read as follows:

§ 298.21 Scope of service authorized.

* * * * *

(f) Limitations on carriage of mail within the 48 contiguous States and Hawaii. Within the 48 contiguous States and Hawaii, an air taxi operator shall not be authorized to carry mail between any pair of points (1) when there is no agreed-upon mail rate for such carriage filed pursuant to § 298.24(e); (2) when an air carrier holds a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 401(d) (1) or (2) of the Act which authorizes service between such pair of points and such authority has not been suspended; or (3) when an air carrier holding a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 401(d) (1) or (2) of the Act has authority to serve between such pair of points by reason of an exemption authorization issued pursuant to section 416 (b)(1) of the Act: Provided, however, That with respect to a market which a certificated helicopter carrier is authorized to serve under an area exemption order, an air taxi operator will be prohibited from carrying mail therein only if there is an approved flight pattern with respect to such market under Part 376 of this chapter (Board's special regulations): Provided further, That this subsection shall not preclude an air taxi operator from carrying mail between any pair of points regarding which there is in effect a notice of intent to use air taxi mail service, as provided in § 298.24. The rules applicable to final mail rate proceedings set forth in Part 302 of this chapter shall govern the procedure for establishing a final mail rate of an air taxi operator for purposes of this part. (See §§ 302.300 through 302.321, excluding § 302.310 of this chapter.)

3. By adding a new § 298.24, reading as follows:

§ 298.24 Authority to carry mail in competitive markets.

(a) General scope. An air taxi operator may carry mail between a pair of points named in a notice of intent to use air taxi mail service which is effective pursuant to this section. Such a notice may be filed only by the Post Office Department and shall be conspicuously entitled either regular notice of intent to use air taxi mail service or expedited notice of intent to use air taxi mail service.

(b) Regular notice of intent to use air taxi mail service. A notice filed under this subsection shall state the name of the air taxi operator who will engage in the carriage of mail if known; the location of the points between which mail is to be carried; and the reasons why the Post Office Department deems the proposed service required to meet the needs of the Postal System.

(c) Expedited notice of intent to use air taxi mail service. In addition to the information required by § 298.24(b), a notice filed under this subsection shall contain a representation that the Post Office Department has ascertained that no interested certificated route carrier objects to air taxi mail service between the subject pair of points. Such notice shall also identify each interested certificated route carrier with which the Post Office has discussed the proposed air taxi mail service. For purposes of this subsection, an interested certificated route carrier is defined as (1) an air carrier holding a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 401(d) (1) or (2) of the Act which authorizes service between such pair of points and such authority has not been suspended; or (2) an air carrier holding a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 401(d) (1) or (2) of the Act which has authority to serve between such pair of points by reason of an exemption authorization issued pursuant to section 416(b) of the Act.

(d) Effective date of notice—protests and objections. Subject to the provisions of § 298.24(e), a regular notice of intent to use air taxi mail service filed under § 298.24(b) shall be effective to authorize the proposed service upon the expiration of 10 days after the filing of such notice, unless within such 10-day period (1) the Board shall issue an order suspending such notice or (2) any person shall file a written protest and objection setting forth grounds why such service would be contrary to the public interest. Subject to the provisions of § 298.24(e), an expedited notice of intent to use air taxi mail service filed under § 298.24(c) shall be effective to authorize the proposed service upon the expiration of 5 days after the filing of such notice, unless within such 5-day period (3) the Board shall issue an order suspending such notice or (4) any person shall file a telegraphic or other written protest stating opposition to the proposed service. Within 10 days after the filing of a notice under § 298.24(c), any person who filed a timely protest thereto shall also file a written objection setting forth grounds why such service would be contrary to the public interest. Within 7 days after an objection has been filed, the Post Office Department may file an answer thereto. Where a protest has been filed, a notice under § 298.24 (b) or (c) shall not be effective unless and until the Board so orders.

(e) Establishment of mail rate. No notice filed under § 298.24 (b) or (c) shall be effective until the Post Office Department and the affected air taxi operator have jointly filed with the Board a petition setting forth a mutually agreed-upon rate for the carriage of mail and requesting the Board to fix a final mail rate pursuant to section 406 of the Act. If the Board fails to fix a final mail rate by the date when such notice becomes effective, the mutually agreed-upon rate shall be the basis for temporary payment, subject to upward or downward adjustment upon the determination of a final mail rate which shall be retroactive to the date when service was inaugurated.

(f) Service of documents. A copy of each notice or answer filed by the Post Office Department with the Board under § 298.24 (b), (c), or (d) shall be served upon each interested certificated route carrier, as that term is defined in § 298.24 (c). A copy of each protest and objection shall be served upon the Post Office official subscribing the notice and upon any air taxi operator named therein. Service of any document upon any person may be made by personal service, or by registered or certified mail. Each copy of a notice served pursuant to this subsection shall be accompanied by a letter of transmittal stating that such service is being made pursuant to this part.

(g) Filing of documents. An executed original and nine copies of each notice, answer or objection and protest shall be filed with the Board. Each such copy shall be accompanied by a statement that service has been made in accordance with the provisions of § 298.24(f).

(h) Other procedural provisions. Except as otherwise specifically provided herein, the requirements of Part 302 of the Board's Procedural Regulations shall govern notices and other pleadings filed pursuant to this section.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

[47 CFR Part 73]

[Docket No. 17562; FCC 67-768]

PRESUNRISE OPERATION

Class II Stations on U.S. I–A Clear Channels

In the matter of "Presunrise" operation by Class II stations under presunrise service authorization on U.S. I–A clear channels, Docket No. 17562.

1. The Commission has today adopted a report and order and rules in Docket 14419, the longstanding proceeding concerning "presunrise" operation, i.e., use of authorized daytime facilities before local sunrise. New § 73.99 of the rules is adopted to cover this subject. It provides—for all stations permitted presunrise operation except Class II stations on U.S. I–A channels—that such operation shall be limited to no more than 500 watts power and the period between 6 a.m. and sunrise, local standard time. The 6 a.m. limitation is required by the agreement with Canada on this subject adopted by exchange of notes on June 12, 1967, and is, in our view, also appropriate from the standpoint of domestic considerations. The 500-watt restriction is not contained in the agreement, but was adopted for domestic reasons, to prevent excessive interference from higher-power daytime facilities operated before local sunrise.

2. With respect to Class II stations on U.S. I–A clear channels (daytime, limited-time, and full time), the new rules permit presunrise operation by such stations located west of the dominant Class I–A station, limited to 6 a.m. and after as the Canadian agreement requires. We left open for further consideration the question of whether such presunrise operation should be limited to no more than 500 watts, as the other categories of stations permitted to engage in presunrise operation are limited. It is the purpose of this notice to invite comments on that question, and we propose to amend § 73.99, adopted today, to impose the 500-watt limit on stations in this Class II category.

3. We expressed in the report and order the tentative view that the same 500-watt ceiling should apply to Class II stations on these U.S. I–A channels. The reasons leading to this view are, briefly, that as a general proposition, it is undesirable, from the standpoint of equity and technical parity for competitive purposes, to permit one group of stations to operate presunrise with more power than other groups are allowed to use; and that limitation to no more than 500 watts will prevent excessive interference to Class I–A stations on these channels (see, for example, footnote 9 of Appendix A to the report and order), and to Class II–A stations on some of these channels which are designed to provide wide coverage to "white areas." On the other hand, we recognize that in some respects the situation on these channels is different from that on the regional and I–B frequencies. Fewer stations are sources of interference; under present rules there can be only a very few new assignments (to daytime-only or limited-time stations, and only full-time Class II's specifically provided for in the rules); and there are substantially fewer foreign protection problems. Parties may wish to comment on these various considerations.

4. Accordingly, it is proposed to remove from § 73.99(b) (1), adopted today, the Note which exempts Class II stations on U.S. I–A channels from the 500-watt ceiling on presunrise operation. Authority for this amendment is contained in sections 4(i) and 303 (g) and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

5. Pursuant to applicable procedures set out in § 1.415 of the Commission's rules, interested parties may file comments on or before September 5, 1967, and reply comments on or before October 5, 1967. All submissions by parties to this proceeding or by persons acting in behalf of such parties must be made in written comments, reply comments or other appropriate pleadings.

6. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.419 of the rules, an original and 14 copies of all written comments, replies, pleadings, briefs, or other documents shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: June 28, 1967.

Released: July 13, 1967.

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

Office of the Secretary

RECOMMENDED AMENDMENTS TO THE PROPOSED INTEREST EQUALIZATION TAX EXTENSION ACT OF 1967

Exemption for Prior American Ownership; Due Date of Interest Equalization Tax

On July 14, 1967, the Treasury Department recommended that the Senate act favorably on H.R. 6098, 90th Congress, 1st session (the proposed Interest Equalization Tax Extension Act of 1967) as passed by the House of Representatives but with amendments, effective with respect to acquisitions of stock or debt obligations made after July 14, 1967, which would:

(a) Replace the exemption for prior American ownership with an exemption for "prior American ownership and compliance." The new exemption would apply to the acquisition of stock or a debt obligation of a foreign issuer or obligor if it is established that the person from whom such stock or debt obligation was acquired (the "seller") (i) was a U.S. person throughout the period of his ownership or continuously since July 18, 1963, (ii) had not acquired such stock or debt obligation under an exemption which made him ineligible to sell such stock or debt obligation as a U.S. person, and (iii) had complied with his interest equalization tax obligations with respect to such stock or debt obligation (i.e., the seller acquired such stock or debt obligation in an acquisition which was not subject to the interest equalization tax or the seller paid the tax).

(b) Provide that if stock of a foreign issuer or a debt obligation of a foreign issuer or obligor was acquired by a U.S. person in a transaction subject to the interest equalization tax, the U.S. person is required to file an Interest Equalization Transaction Tax Return accompanied by proper payment prior to any disposition of the stock or debt obligation if the acquisition had not been reported on the appropriate Interest Equalization Quarterly Tax Return accompanied by proper payment.

(c) Specify the manner, described below, under which the exemption for prior American ownership and compliance can be established.

(d) Amend the provisions with respect to "regular market" trading on certain national securities exchanges and "clean comparison" trading in the over-the-counter market set forth in section 4918 of the Internal Revenue Code so that they are applicable only to those members and member organizations of national securities exchanges or national securities associations registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission, which have agreed to comply, and do comply, with the amended statutory provisions and with the documentation, recordkeeping and reporting requirements established by the Secretary or his delegate (referred to in this notice as "Participating Firms"). During the period beginning July 15, 1967, and until a notice or notices to the contrary are published by the Internal Revenue Service, it will be presumed that (i) all members or member organizations of the New York Stock Exchange, (ii) all members and member organizations of the American Stock Exchange, and (iii) those members or member organizations of the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc., which either reported a net capital (as defined in Rule 15c3-1 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934) of $750,000 in the latest financial statement filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission on Form X-17A-5 prior to July 13, 1967, or which have effected 300 or more transactions in foreign securities during either the week commencing July 2 or commencing July 9, 1967 (which members or member organizations of the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc., are listed below), have agreed to comply, and are complying, with such amended statutory provisions and with the documentation, recordkeeping and reporting requirements and shall be Participating Firms.

Changes in list of Participating Firms. Any other member or member organization of a national securities exchange or a national securities association registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission may become a Participating Firm if it files with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D.C. 20224 (Attention: CP), a letter signed by the member, a partner or an officer (i) requesting designation as a Participating Firm, (ii) agreeing to comply with the documentation, recordkeeping and reporting requirements established by the Internal Revenue Service (whether established prior or subsequent to the date of the letter), (iii) agreeing that its books and records no matter where located may be examined by any employee of the Internal Revenue Service, and (iv) if the letter is filed with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue on or after August 15, 1967, stating that such documentation, recordkeeping and reporting requirement procedures are operational. The Internal Revenue Service will from time to time publish the names of those members or member organizations which have become Participating Firms subsequent to July 15, 1967.

Any member or member organization which became a Participating Firm prior to August 15, 1967, shall cease to be a Participating Firm unless on or before August 15, 1967, it files with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue a letter signed by the member, a partner, or an officer setting forth each of the items (i) to (iv), inclusive, of the preceding paragraph. A Participating Firm may terminate its status as such by filing a request with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. In addition, if the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has reasonable cause to believe that a Participating Firm is not complying with such statutory provisions, or with the documentation, recordkeeping and reporting requirements, or any part thereof, he may cause the removal of such firm from the list of Participating Firms.

The effective date on which a member or member organization shall become or cease to be a Participating Firm shall be the date specified in a notice issued by the Internal Revenue Service, which date shall not be prior to the date following the date on which the notice was made available to financial publications and wire services.

Establishment of exemption for prior American ownership and compliance. The Treasury recommended that the amendments to H.R. 6098 authorize the following procedures, effective July 15, 1967, for the establishment of the exemption for prior American ownership and compliance:

1. If a U.S. person acquiring stock of a foreign issuer or a debt obligation of a foreign obligor directly from or through a Participating Firm receives in good faith from the Participating Firm an "IET Clean Confirmation" (meeting the requirements described below) applicable to the particular stock or debt obligation acquired, the exemption for prior American ownership and compliance shall be deemed to have been established.

2. If a U.S. person acquiring stock of a foreign issuer or a debt obligation of a foreign obligor receives in good faith copies 1 and 2 of a Validation Certificate issued by the Internal Revenue Service to the seller or to himself applicable to the particular stock or debt obligation acquired and, in the case where the Validation Certificate was issued to the seller, completes and files copy 2 of the certificate with the Internal Revenue Service, the exemption for prior American ownership and compliance shall be deemed to have been established.

3. If a U.S. person acquiring stock of a foreign issuer or a debt obligation of a foreign obligor establishes that there is reasonable cause for an inability to establish prior American ownership and compliance in accordance with one of the foregoing, prior American ownership and compliance may be established by other evidence which satisfies the Internal Revenue Service that the person from whom such acquisition was made was a complying U.S. person not ineligible to sell as a U.S. person.

Sales effected by Participating Firms. The Treasury further recommended that the amendments to H.R. 6098 provide that Participating Firms are required to sell stock of a foreign issuer or a debt obligation of a foreign obligor as stock or a debt obligation not exempt from the interest equalization tax by reason of the exemption for prior American ownership and compliance except in the following cases:

1. The Participating Firm (i) held in its custody at the close of business on July 14, 1967, for the account of the seller the stock or debt obligation being sold, (ii) has in its possession and relies in good faith on a certificate of American ownership with respect to the stock or debt obligation being sold, or a blanket certificate of American ownership with respect to such account, and (iii) included the stock or debt obligation in the Transition Inventory of the Participating Firm duly filed with the Internal Revenue Service as hereinafter provided.

2. The Participating Firm purchased on or after July 15, 1967, for, or sold to, the seller the stock or debt obligation being sold if the exemption for prior American ownership and compliance applied to the seller's acquisition and if the Participating Firm continuously held in its custody such stock or debt obligation or received from the seller the identical stock certificates or evidence of indebtedness which it had previously delivered to the seller in respect of the purchase.

3. The Participating Firm received the stock or debt obligation being sold from another Participating Firm or from a Participating Custodian with a Transfer of Custody Certificate meeting the requirements described below.

4. The Participating Firm has received from the seller copies 1 and 2 of a Validation Certificate issued by the Internal Revenue Service applicable to the stock or debt obligation being sold and on the date of the sale or the next business day completes and files copy 2 of the certificate with the Internal Revenue Service.

5. The Participating Firm withholds the amount of Interest Equalization Tax which would be imposed had the seller purchased in a taxable acquisition the stock or debt obligation being sold on the day of the sale. Information on withholding procedures will be published shortly.

IET clean confirmation. A Participating Firm is authorized to issue an "IET Clean Confirmation" to a customer with respect to stock or a debt obligation of a foreign issuer or obligor in the following circumstances:

Only an original document may constitute an IET Clean Confirmation and each copy or duplicate shall be marked as such. All other confirmations issued by Participating Firms with respect to stock or debt obligations of foreign issuers or obligors shall be clearly and indelibly marked so as to be distinguishable from IET Clean Confirmations.

Issuance of Validation Certificates. Validation Certificates will be issued by all District Directors of Internal Revenue commencing Monday, July 17, 1967, upon proof that the U.S. person on whose behalf the Validation Certificate is requested has complied with his interest equalization tax obligations with respect to the securities to be covered by the Validation Certificate. The Internal Revenue Service will shortly announce the procedures for obtaining Validation Certificates. Each District Director will reissue Validation Certificates in different denominations upon request.

Transition Inventory. The Transition Inventory shall be filed with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue no later than August 15, 1967. Each Participating Firm and each Participating Custodian filing a Transition Inventory (Participating Custodians are described below) shall list those stocks and debt obligations of foreign issuers and obligors held at the close of business July 14, 1967, and shall indicate those held for the accounts of United States persons and those held for the accounts of other persons.

Participating Custodians. During the period beginning July 15, 1967, and until a notice or notices to the contrary are published by the Internal Revenue Service, the Participating Custodians are the Federal Reserve Member Banks which are classified as reserve city banks.

A bank or trust company insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation may become a Participating Custodian if it files with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D.C. 20224 (Attention: CP), a letter signed by an officer (i) requesting designation as a Participating Custodian, (ii) agreeing to comply with the documentation, recordkeeping and reporting requirements established by the Internal Revenue Service (whether established prior or subsequent to the date of the letter), (iii) agreeing that its books and records no matter where located may be examined by any employee of the Internal Revenue Service, and (iv) if the letter is filed with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue on or after August 15, 1967, stating that such documentation, recordkeeping and reporting requirement procedures are operational. The Internal Revenue Service will from time to time publish the names of those members or member organizations which have become Participating Custodians subsequent to July 15, 1967.

Any bank or trust company which became a Participating Custodian prior to August 15, 1967, shall cease to be a Participating Custodian unless on or before August 15, 1967, it files with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue a letter signed by an officer setting forth each of the items (i) to (iv), inclusive, of the preceding paragraph. A Participating Custodian may terminate its status as such by filing a request with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. In addition, if the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has reasonable cause to believe that a Participating Custodian is not complying with the statutory provisions related to the interest equalization tax applicable to it, or with the documentation, recordkeeping and reporting requirements, or any part thereof, he may cause the removal of such firm from the list of Participating Custodians.

The effective date on which a bank or trust company shall become or cease to be a Participating Custodian shall be the date specified in a notice issued by the Internal Revenue Service, which date shall not be prior to the date following the date on which the notice was made available to financial publications and wire services.

Transfer of Custody Certificates. Transfer of Custody Certificates shall be issued only by Participating Firms and Participating Custodians and only in connection with a transfer from the account of a customer of a Participating Firm or Participating Custodian to the account of the same customer with a different Participating Firm or Participating Custodian in the following circumstances:

1. The Participating Firm or Participating Custodian held in its custody on July 14, 1967, for the account of the customer the stock or debt obligation referred to in the Transfer of Custody Certificate and acquired and holds in good faith a certificate of American ownership with respect to such stock or debt obligation or a blanket certificate of American ownership with respect to such account, if it included such stock or debt obligation in the Transition Inventory duly filed by it with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

2. The Participating Firm or Participating Custodian received the stock or debt obligation referred to in a Transfer of Custody Certificate from another Participating Firm or Participating Custodian accompanied by a Transfer of Custody Certificate.

3. The Participating Firm purchased for the customer the stock or debt obligation referred to in the Transfer of Custody Certificate and in connection with the purchase either received (i) a Validation Certificate issued by the Internal Revenue Service, or (ii) was authorized to issue an IET Clean Confirmation and in either case continuously held in its custody the stock or debt obligation so purchased or received back from the purchaser the identical securities or evidence of indebtedness previously delivered to the purchaser.

Recordkeeping requirements. The recordkeeping requirements for Participating Firms are, until further notice, identical to the recordkeeping requirements for broker-dealers issued pursuant to the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 with the following required modifications:

1. Records of original entry (in most cases the purchase and sale blotter) shall be prepared and maintained separately for all purchases and sales of stock and debt obligations of foreign issuers and obligors. All entries shall clearly designate those transactions which involved foreign-owned securities. All entries reflecting a purchase of securities, the acquisition of which is exempt from the tax under the exemption for prior American ownership and compliance, shall clearly designate the documentation received establishing such exemption. All entries reflecting a sale of securities regular way on a national securities exchange referred to in section 4918(c) of the Internal Revenue Code or under the clean comparsion procedure established by section 4918(d) of the Code shall clearly designate the documentation authorizing such sale.

2. The securities record or ledger reflecting separately for each stock or debt obligation of a foreign issuer or obligor all "long" or "short" positions (including such securities in safekeeping) carried by such firm or custodian for its account or for the account of customers (commonly known as stock record sheets) shall be prepared and maintained apart from those prepared and maintained for all other securities. All entries in such record or ledger, and in each customer's account, shall clearly designate those of such securities with respect to which the firm or custodian can issue a Transfer of Custody Certificate without obtaining further documentation.

3. The ledger account itemizing separately the accounts of such firm or custodian reflecting all purchases, sales, receipts, and deliveries of stock or debt obligations of a foreign issuer or obligor for the firm's own investment and trading accounts shall be prepared and maintained apart from those prepared and maintained for all other securities. All entries shall clearly designate those transactions which involve securities on which the firm or custodian can issue a Transfer of Custody Certificate. Appropriate files for each of said dealer-owned foreign securities shall be maintained, in readily accessible form, to hold all relevant information and evidence to substantiate tax free nature of the acquisitions pursuant to which such securities were acquired or, if acquired in a taxable transaction, the retained copies of the tax returns filed with respect to such acquisitions.

4. Separate files shall be maintained for all interest equalization tax reports filed with the Internal Revenue Service (both for information and tax paying purposes) including copies of all documents filed with the Internal Revenue Service and summaries and supporting schedules. In addition, such files shall contain substantiation of the Transition Inventory filed with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Certain debt obligations. The foregoing procedures would not apply to those debt obligations of foreign obligors which are neither convertible nor listed or traded in domestic or foreign markets. In such cases, the exemption for prior American ownership and compliance will, until other procedures are announced, be established if the U.S. person acquiring the obligation received in good faith a letter from the seller certifying to the exemption together with a copy thereof and files the copy with the Internal Revenue Service.

Assistant Secretary.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT

Transfer of Functions

The following is an excerpt from Headquarters Circular No. 67-30, signed by the Postmaster General on July 3, 1967:

I. Purpose. A. To establish an Equal Employment Opportunity Division in the Bureau of Personnel.

B. To establish a Contract Compliance Division in the Office of the General Counsel.

C. To establish a Parcel Post Branch in the Customer Relations Division, Bureau of Operations.

D. To abolish the Office of Special Projects, and to retain the Special Assistant for Policy and Projects as a staff function reporting to the Postmaster General/Deputy Postmaster General.

II. Background. A. The establishment of a division in the Bureau of Personnel to administer the provisions of Executive Order 11246 is essential to the strengthening of the Equal Employment Program in the postal field service. It permits centralization of all such activities in the Department; the administration of equal employment activities in regional offices and postal data centers, formerly a responsibility of the Office of Regional Administration, is transferred to the new division.

B. The establishment of a Contract Compliance Division in the Office of General Counsel to carry out the responsibilities of the Department under Executive Order 11246, recognizes the need to emphasize the legal aspects of this function. It also provides an opportunity for the program in the field to be supervised by the regional counsels.

C. The Department's efforts to make the parcel post program viable was sufficient justification to establish the function as an activity of the Special Assistant for Policy and Projects at the time that action was taken. Now that the effort is well underway, it is appropriate that the parcel post program become a permanent organization element of the Bureau of Operations.

D. The activities of the Office of Special Projects have been devoted principally to improvement of the parcel post service. Therefore, the Office will cease to function as a separate organizational entity as the parcel post function is permanently established. The function of Special Assistant for Policy and Projects will continue in order to provide high-level staff assistance to the Postmaster General/Deputy Postmaster General on matters concerning policy and program development.

IV. Effective date. These changes are effective with the issuance of this Headquarters Circular.

General Counsel.
